To The Reader

In this book, as in all historical and genealogical works, are to be found the usual number of errors in names, dates, places and historical facts, as well as deficiencies, etc. Wherever such are found the reader is asked kindly to make a note of them and then forward them to the subscriber for preservation—to be used in case of a revision of the book. It is very important this be done at once so it may not be neglected or forgotten.

If the author lives and the material warrants, some day a revision will follow. Then these corrections will be made, and all additions now not known to him can be added. It is only by your assistance, I desire to impress upon you, that a work of this character can in any way be made nearly complete and correct in all detail. We, all of us, owe this interest not only to ourselves, but as well to our whole family; for only in this way can we attain the completeness, recognition and prominence we deserve. Your interest will be deeply appreciated. All material will be filed in its order, and when used due credit will be given the author or contributor.

Offering the usual apology thus given for the feeble effort put forth in attempting a "History and Genealogy of the Reed Family," with its shortcomings, I again, am asking your indulgence—craving your assistance, in an effort for a complete work of our great, most wonderful, extensive and diversified family. All of which is humbly submitted. Again thanking those who have so far rendered aid, I remain most truly,

Foreword

Just two hundred years ago our American foreparents, Johann Phillipp Ried and his wife Veronica (Berckÿsin), and their infant daughter Catharine were sailing the high seas on their way to America.

They left their home in Mannheim, Baden, Germany (Palatinate), some time in the early spring of 1727, on a boat that conveyed them down the River Rhine to Amsterdam, Holland. From that city they sailed for Cowes, England, and from this port on June 20, 1727, they took ship for Pennsylvania.

The ship's name was "Friendship," John Davies was Master. On it were forty-six Palatines with their families numbering two hundred persons. They arrived at the Port of Philadelphia on October 16th, 1727—a few days less than four months buffeting the high seas in their slow and tedious voyage. In this city and Province the laws demanded all males above the age of 16 years, on inquiry to declare, "that they are come hither with the design to settle in this new Province"—(Pennsylvania). All that could were called in and immediately "did repeat and signed the Declaration," or oath of allegiance.

Of the total males at the time all did not sign the declaration, for some were too ill to leave the vessel, but they signed later. During the voyage it was reported a number of passengers "had died," and were thus accounted for on the ship's register.

On August 4th, 1927, I attended the annual Poyser-Reed Family Association reunion, held in the city of Canton, state of Ohio. The occasion was especially observed with appropriate exercises, it being the two-hundredth anniversary of our forebears' coming to America, for at this very time two centuries ago they were then sailing the vast ocean coming hither. Their coming has proven to us their descendants a most glorious heritage, for they have given to us the freest, finest, richest and most liberally governed country in the world.

For an extensive, truthful and vivid description of the trials, tribulations, sad, sorrowful and at times pathetic experiences these prolonged voyages were to the early immigrant on small boats—all huddled together in such numbers—in their anxious desire for settling and founding the new country, the reader is referred to the personal experience as told in the graphic story of "Gottlieb Mittelberger's Journey to Pennsylvania in the Year of 1750."

The route taken and the conditions existing and experienced by Mittelberger twenty-three years later, were just the same as those our ancestors travelled, took and experienced. The picture of the one was the picture of the other, for all conditions during this period were the same. From this most interesting book we can glean in the beginning their purpose, and how these early immigrants were made to suffer and the contentions confronting them in their eager desire to settle America—Pennsylvania.

Introduction

The author in publishing this book fully realizes its imperfections. He presents it to the reader with a sense of humiliation and a consciousness that it is far from correct and complete.

The way of the genealogist is not an easy one; the road leads him to all sorts of embarrassments, disappointments and discouragements. If the critic could have been with him, shared with him his trials and labors, then he or they could better appreciate the character and accomplishment of the undertaking. In advance I blame not only one, but many members of our large family for not realizing in the beginning the importance and necessity of such a work, in not being more free and active by contributing their mite of information for its completeness, accuracy and success.

To read such a book is of short duration, but to arrange and compile a work of this character, even in its present shape, means years of patient labor, many sacrifices and much expense.

The time devoted to the gathering of the material for this work covers a period of more than a quarter of a century. In this time I have travelled thousands of miles, written hundreds of letters (many never acknowledged or answered), and spent cash amounting to hundreds of dollars. I have personally interviewed hundreds of families, visited countless old graveyards, searched innumerable national, state, county, church, family and other records. In addition I have consulted many genealogies, purchased histories and other books, all to make the work fuller and the more complete. I have extended my researches into Europe—the home of our ancestors—for further knowledge of our family. The gist of these foreign investigations as here given, though far from complete, is interesting genealogically and historically to the family. This European correspondence and investigation alone would make a large and interesting volume.

It is wonderful how in seven or eight generations a family will ramify and multiply. If a complete list of all descendants of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckýsin) Ried (Reed), with name, date of birth, marriage, death and history, could be collected it would number many thousands, and fill many volumes.

Those who have rendered aid and assistance in the preparation of this work are many. For lack of space I cannot enumerate all of these and give them due credit and justice. Among the largest contributors within the family are Noah Reed, of Marion, Ohio; William Reed and Harriet (Reed) McCall and her daughter, May R. (McCall) Smart, of Canton; William I. Lindsay, of Cleveland, all of the state of Ohio; the Rev. Michael Reed Minnich, of Philadelphia; Sarah Reed, of Hoppenville; John Wink, of Kutztown; Dr. Henry B. Reed, of Milton; Abraham Arndt, of Coffeetown; Miriam Louisa Stirl, of Reading, all of the state of Pennsylvania; Charles Arndt, of Fort Plain, of the state of New York. Among other contributors outside the family to whom I am indebted are Warren S. Ely, of Doylestown; Charles R. Roberts, of Allentown; the Rev. Jacob Kehm, of Sellersville; John Souder, of Telford, and others, all of the state of Pennsylvania. Of those in Europe I am particularly indebted to my late kinsman, Dr. Philipp Johann Aug. Rüd't (Ried), of Munich Bavaria; Ludwig Nohe and Dr. Robert A. Wise, of Mannheim, Baden, all of the Reed clan and residing in Germany.

To Edward W. Hocker, writer and historian, of Germantown, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, I am under many obligations for his aid and assistance with the editing, proof reading and the indexing of this book, and for this aid I hereby express my sincere appreciation.

To my niece, Chassie Reed Chapman, of San Diego, California, I am grateful for the pretty and neat design appearing on the book cover, and hereby make due acknowledgment for this act of kindness and its appropriateness.

For some years—during the late European war—all correspondence with our cousins in Germany ceased. It was only after peace was declared that communication was reopened. In the meantime Dr. Philipp Johann Aug. Rüd't died. He became much distressed over the war, and burdened by advanced years, he succumbed, and I lost a good and faithful friend. Since the termination of the war the political and economical condition is such that up to the present but little genealogical work could be done, and our correspondence has drifted largely into affairs of the family and friendship. I am looking for a change in this; if my investigations glean further family knowledge of our European ancestry, the results can be given in a supplemental book or future revision of this work.

Most genealogists in their researches and compilations follow mainly the ancestral male line. I have transcended in this and included the female line. Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed, so far as I have been able to learn, had three sons and five daughters, who all grew to manhood and womanhood, married and had issue. I have traced these eight lines in their order, and have made no particular effort to include descendants farther than the fifth or sixth generation; but have used herein most of the so gathered material of the later generations, gleaned in the course of my labors. The later generations who desire to trace their ancestry or family lines can easily connect up the later material and make their lineal connection. These records will prove particularly valuable to those of the family who desire their lineage for entrance into societies, such as the "Sons" and "Daughters" of the (American) Revolution, etc.

Our family in America begins with the arrival on our shores of the family of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed, in October, 1727. Upon investigation we learn that this family, as did many other German and Swiss families in those early days, came to Pennsylvania for a specific purpose—to enjoy the freedom and privilege offered by its founder, William Penn—a refuge and place of safety, free from the prevailing political disruption and religious strife then rampant in their European homes. Here they could rear their families unmolested in their accepted religious faiths and beliefs. They had no aspiration for accumulation of great wealth and worldly honors or social distinctions; their greatest concern was to live the simple and humble life of man and womanhood, and to have and enjoy amply of this world's comforts essential for their needs and support. These secured and enjoyed, in their humble and accepted way, they were satisfied, contented and happy.

Here in the wilderness of Pennsylvania these good people built their homes for shelter and comfort, tilled the soil for a livelihood, and built their churches for spiritual worship. Close by their churches they built their modest school houses for the education of their children, the preacher often serving as instructor. Thus they dwelt peacefully together as neighbors, plied their trades in mutual support, and rendered to one another the assistance essential to the promotion of their betterment, welfare and happiness.

In all of this time has wrought changes. Precept and practice of our ancestors were quite different from those of the later generations. With our nation's prosperity, growth and development, and improved condition in life, habits, social proneness and practices have changed. The early exemplary precepts of our ancestors are ignored, or are either forgotten or relegated to the rear as useless. It seems today the desire is for the accumulation of great wealth and for the modern allurements; this fascination for secular affairs has a far greater attraction to the offspring than all the blessings of family worship and the inspiration of the church. Early religion has lost its charm; the modern condition seems to have disrupted the old time tranquility of mind and happiness of spirit.

In writing of the older members of our family the reader will perceive I have dwelt largely on their religion and its associations; more particularly upon the church and the part these good people played in its development. Strictly speaking, all of the older members of our family were Christians, were truly pious, and firmly believed in their church and in its doctrines; and in their doing of all things right before man and Master. They were honest and virtuous beyond suspicion, believing in right according to their Bible, in so doing were contented, and enjoyed happiness and peace of mind.

As previously stated, for those of our family seeking admission in the Society of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, this book will be of inestimable value, giving them with little effort the material for establishing their line for admission. All of our ancestors' children—sons and sons-in-laws—served in the Revolutionary army as soldiers or patriots, excepting Valentine Dickenschied, the first husband of Eve Reed, he dying several years before hostilities commenced. With this one exception our ancestors' lineal descendants all are eligible to these honored institutions.

My genealogical and patriotic researches have inspired other fruitful and divergent work. Of those worthy of mention are the memorial stones, with suitable inscription, that have been erected over the graves of our foreparents. One was placed over the grave of our great-great-grandparents, Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed, in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church burial ground, near Pennsburg, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Another of similar character is over the grave of our great-grandparent, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in Leidy cemetery, near Souderton, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Illustrations of these are here given, showing their character, inscriptions, etc. My brother, Franklin P. Reed, of San Diego, California, shared the cost of these with me; the spirit that caused their erection was the same in both of us. They were not erected with any desire for notoriety or publicity, but modestly and solely as a devotional duty. Johann Phillipp Reed and his family were martyrs of religious persecution in their European home, and their son Jacob, as well as the rest of the family, were martyrs and patriots in the American Revolution, and alike deserve to be honored with permanent and appropriate memorials.

The gathering of material for family histories is not always a path of fragrant roses to the genealogist. In the prosecution of the work I have made many visits to homes and have met all kinds of people; most of these received me kindly, were ready to assist, entertaining, pleasant and agreeable; but a few were not, and others odd and amusing. As an illustration of the latter I will cite an experience. In locating a family in a strange and distant neighborhood, whose help I desired, I thought it best to call in the evening, a time usually given to leisure. Darkness had set in when the home was reached. A knock at the door brought no response. A break in the front window shade disclosing a light in the house, I concluded some of the family must be at home. Then I made my way to the rear of the house and knocked at the door, which was opened; I stated my errand briefly to what subsequently proved to have been a sort of rattle-brained girl, and gained admittance. The male head of the family greeted me cordially; soon I was asking questions and talking over my object of visit, absorbed in my inquiries, and blind and indifferent to the surroundings. Suddenly I awakened to the realization of a commotion and a gathering of people on the outside of the door, who were more or less agitated, going through strange motions, peering queerly at me through the partly opened door, and assuming an odd and boisterous manner. I soon realized I was looked upon as a suspicious character and a subject for ejection and arrest. For a time there was excitement and a forecast of danger, when the parent, suddenly scenting trouble, after some effort, made an explanation and dispersed the excited and threatening crowd. In the early days of necromancy and superstition such conduct might be expected, but in this day and age of enlightenment and knowledge there is no excuse for such action, especially by those who should be known as intelligent and civilized people.

This case is an extreme one of its character. The great majority of our family in their treatment were just the reverse, and I could not have been received or treated better at their hands if I had been a king or some other potentate. I have found our people as a rule very ready to aid and assist me, particularly when I made personal calls or visitations. During my travels and investigations, homes have been thrown open to my reception, the best of everything was turned over to my aid and comfort, and even important work neglected by many to assist me in my task. Through the kindness of one of our western relatives, on a cold night, for my comfort I was assigned to bed in the spare room. I awoke during the night nearly smothered from being buried in the inflated or profuse bed of feathers which enveloped me on all sides. Upon taking my departure, in nearly every case I was importuned in a very kindly manner to prolong my stay or repeat my visit soon.

In spite of all the trials, tribulations and hard labor connected with my work, I have derived out of it a great deal of comfort and pleasure. At times obstacles would be met, my work seemed at an end and frustration and disappointment set in, when new and important discoveries would arise—like the Phoenix rising out of the desert, again I would be stimulated with renewed vigor, and on went the good work.

For many years while confined to a business of long hours, the quest for historical and genealogical information led me by excursions, out of doors, into new fields, creating a diversion of mind and thought that brought me relaxation of mind and body. This gave a clearness of mind and strength of body that better fitted me for my daily vocation. If it had not been for this mental and physical betterment and its inspiration, I would have surrendered all genealogical work to the inevitable a long time ago—dropped out of it and its petty labors, just as readily as I originally had peacefully entered it.

I feel that my labor in accomplishing this much in preparing the book has not been altogether in vain. If my compiled efforts are far from being complete in family detail and perfect rhetorical composition, I have succeeded in preserving much family historical and genealogical matter which otherwise would have been lost or destroyed. Among my discoveries was the finding of Veronica Reed's unrecorded will. From this important document we learn that her husband, Johann Phillipp Reed, also left a will, which I have never been able to locate or discover. I further learned it was a custom in many of the older German families not to have wills recorded, in order to save costs in the Register of Wills office and the difficulty of reaching this distant point in these early days. Instead the testator's wishes as expressed would be agreed upon by the heirs and carried out in detail by the family; that done to every one's satisfaction, they felt that was all that was necessary and essential, and consequently when this was done, the will would be mislaid, lost or destroyed.

To show the lack of interest in the preservation of family records: The family Bible and other books or papers containing records of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed's family are among the missing, at least so far as my researches go. I have advertised in the local newspapers for the Bible, offering a reward as a stimulus, importuned families and lineal descendents, and other probable sources for its discovery, all with negative results. The Bible and record book of Jacob Reed, my great-grandfather, met the same fate through family unconcern, and for seventy-five years these volumes found lodgment in homes outside the Reed family. By mere chance they were discovered, then only through persuasive efforts and recompense they were returned to the family to whom they rightfully belong.

The family record of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was kept by him in two books. His first recording was done on the fly leaf in a copy of "Johann Philipp Widder's Book of Sermons." As his family grew the record space became too small; a huge family Bible was then bought in which the entries were continued and ended. The two sets of entries in the two books make the complete record.*

After the decease of my great-grandfather, Jacob Reed, these books were sold at a public vendue, and found their way into other and uninterested families. The new owners could not read German script and consequently did not know their significance and to what family they rightfully belonged. The books were of no use to them except as antiques or relics of early German printing.

These books containing the record of Great-grandfather Jacob Reed have been of inestimable value to me in this work in clearing up some of the traditions and mysteries that beclouded my early genealogical and historical researches. Other old papers of importance meeting with similar fate found their way back into our family through accidental discovery by the writer, and they have played an important part in making this book more complete and interesting.

The reader will find herein errors in names, dates of birth, marriage, death, etc. I am not responsible for many of these. Others are due to my informants whose data I could not verify. The reader must be indulgent in his or her criticism. Possibly some day important additional family material will be discovered and compiled. I trust this will be done, and thereby the history and the work, appearing in a reprinted edition, will be the more complete, giving the family additional tribute it deserves.

I desire to call the reader's attention to what in the minds of some without an explanation will create confusion because of capital letters used for captions for the different families. In Chapter II, pages 15 and 16, the children of our ancestors, Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed, all are given the letter "B," as follows:—

- II—B—2—X—1—Catharine Reed, b. July 19, 1726.
- II—B—3—X—2—Michael Reed, b. Mar. 16, 1728.
- II—B—4—X—3—Jacob Reed, b. July 6, 1730.
- II—B—5—X—4—Anna Maria Reed, b. (about) 1733.
- II—B—6—X—5—Margretha (Cretha) Reed, b. (about) 1736.
- II—B—7—X—6—Catharine Elizabeth Reed, b. June 14, 1739.
- II—B—8—X—7—Eve Reed, b. (about) 1741; bapt. Aug. 30, 1741.
- II—B—9—X—8—Andrew Reed, b. Aug. 25, 1743.

*See Addenda:—(Paper E). "The Family Record of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed."

"A" is the family letter of the first generation, or that of our ancestor, Johann Phillipp Reed. His children forming the second generation are given the letter "B." So far, well. Now these eight children all marry and become heads of families, and as such are made into eight books, and to distinguish them, each must be given a different letter. In their order they are as follows: —

- *II—B—2—X—1—Catharine Reed, b. July 19, 1726; (see page 25).
- II—C—3—X—2—Michael Reed, b. Mar. 16, 1728; (see page 73).
- II—D—4—X—3—Jacob Reed, b. July 6, 1730; (see page 111).
- II—E—5—X—4—Anna Maria Reed, b. (about) 1733; (see page 263).
- II—F—6—X—5—Margretha (Cretha) Reed, b. (about) 1736; (see page 275).
- II—G—7—X—6—Catharine Elizabeth Reed, b. June 14, 1739; (see page 299).
- II—H—8—X—7—Eve Reed, b. (about) 1741; bapt. Aug. 30, 1741; (see page 335).
- II—I—9—X—8—Andrew Reed, b. Aug. 25, 1743; (see page 359).

This book is not published for financial profit, but solely to preserve the lineage and history of our family; this accomplished its purpose is fulfilled. If I had taken up the work twenty years earlier, much more valuable historical and genealogical material, now lost, would have been accessible, particularly the early generations of our European and American family.

The price and sale of this book are not commensurate with cost and labor involved. Only those similarly engaged and having had the experience fully realize this. The edition is limited to three hundred copies.

Explanatory Notes

I repeat: So far as my investigations go we learn that our first ancestors coming to America were Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Ried or Reed. They had eight children born to them in Europe and America. These children all grew to man and womanhood, married and had families. There may have been other children; if so, they must have died in infancy, or as young men and women; but I did not find any record of them.

I have never been able to locate the Bible and family record of my immigrant ancestors. The book evidently strayed from the "Reed" family, and if ever discovered, in it, I believe, will be found the full record of the family. I wish it could be found, if for no other purpose than only to complete and confirm without a doubt my labors. I sincerely believe there were other children born to them. I never could understand why there was not a son Philip, for it was the prevalent custom to have a son named for the father.

Each of our ancestors' known eight children married and had families. In numbers today their descendants would be many thousands. If all of the family were collated and arranged in their order, it would swell the size of this book into many volumes.

For simplicity and ease of comprehension for the reader I have grouped our ancestors' eight children into individual families and subdivisions, thereby making each of them into a separate section, part or chapter. For instance: Chapter III, Part 1, is devoted to the family of Catharine (Reed) Arndt. So far as known she is the oldest child of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Bercky) Reed. As hers is the first or oldest family of descendants, we place it here in its numerical order, and the whole is grouped under or known by the letter "B."

In Chapter IV, Part 2, follow Michael Reed and his family of descendants. These, too, are found in their numerical order, and the family known by the letter "C." The remaining families of our ancestor follow in their order, as to Chapter, Part, Number, Letter, etc. By this system, order and grouping, each of the families retains its individuality and confusion is avoided. This method of arrangement supplemented by the Index should be plain and intelligible to the family, the reader and the investigator. (See "Contents.")

The first two chapters of the book are the "Introductory" and "Explanatory Notes." Then follow in order a "History of the Reeds in Europe"; "Johann Phillipp Ried (Philip Reed)"; Parts 1 to 8, chapters pertaining to each of their eight children. Completing the book is a chapter given to "Reeds of Other Families;" an "Addenda," "General Index," "Individual Index," etc.

Changes in the state's counties, townships, districts, etc., since its original institution and settlement by our immigrant ancestors have been many. Originally (1682) Pennsylvania had but three counties with limits undefined—namely, Philadelphia, Chester and Bucks. These have since been divided and subdivided, in conformity with the state's settlement, growth and development, according to the new conditions, until they now have become numerous. To conform with these changes from time to time, I have tried to give location of families according to new and old arrangements.

Berks County in 1752 was created from Philadelphia County; some of our family after its creation lived in the new county of Berks who previously had been living in Philadelphia County. Montgomery County was created from Philadelphia County in 1784; Northampton County was created from Bucks County in 1752; Lehigh County previous to 1812 was a part of Northampton County. Lancaster County was created from Chester County in 1729; York County was made from Lancaster County in 1749, and Adams County was created from York County in 1800. From time to time other counties were established in conformity with the development, settlement and the new conditions arising in the state's progress. The reader may have some difficulty in following with a clear understanding these changes as noted in the book. Our older families were living here while these geographical changes were being made, and this is why you will find place of birth and place of death given in differently named counties, though there was no change of residence.

In the arrangement of families, "X" before a name means that this person was married once; "XX," twice married; "XXX," thrice married, etc. The absence of the "X" signifies that at the time the material was collected so far as known to the writer they were not married. Many of these individuals since have married, and consequently the presence or absence of an "X" for marriage cannot always be relied upon as being correct.

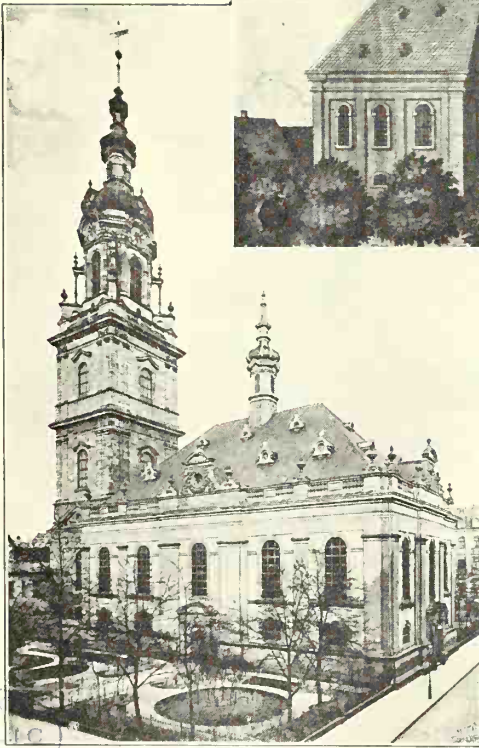

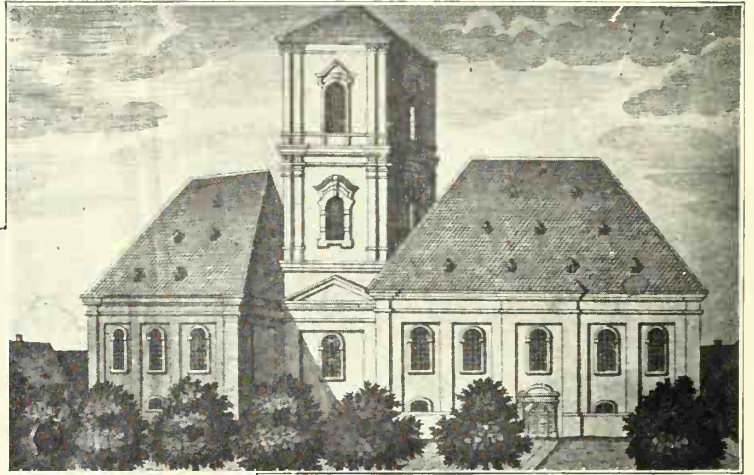

The Roman numerals I, II, III, IV, etc., appearing in the line of the name of the individual heading a family, designate generation. "I," or the first generation, is that of the family of Johann Phillipp Ried the immigrant. The numerals "II" mean the second generation or the children of our ancestors; "III" in turn the third generation or the grandchildren of our ancestors; "IV" is the fourth generation, or our ancestors' great-grandchildren, etc.

The figures 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., before each name are the individual numbers, and appear in their order before the name of each child of a family. By careful observance of these explanations, families in their succession can easily be placed and followed. Therefore with a little attention to the adopted plan its drift will be understood, and the tracing of a family will be found simple and easy.

The abbreviations, as "b" for birth; "bapt." for baptism; "d" for death; "m" for marriage, are easily understood, etc.

CHAPTER I.

OUR FAMILY OF REEDS IN EUROPE. (GERMANY)

My effort in locating and tracing the Reed, Ried, Rieth, Riedt, Rüdtt, etc., family in Europe, so far, has been anything but complete, satisfactory or gratifying.* The efforts of my kinsman, Dr. Phil. Johann Aug. Leopold Rüdtt,** of Munich, Bavaria (formerly of Mannheim) and of Ludwig Nohe and of Dr. Robert A. Wise*** of Mannheim, Baden, who have been gathering data on our early family in their country, have not been very satisfactory either to themselves or to the writer. The material bearing on our family in Germany which has been gathered and proven of the most interest and value is that which has been gleaned from the records of the old Konkordia Reformed Church, of Mannheim. This

*Mrs. Willoughby Walling, of Chicago, whose husband is a descendant of the Reeds of the Tulpehocken region, Berks County, Pennsylvania, recently wrote me:—

“The Rieths, Rieds, Rith family, translated Reed in America, it is said, were of an old baronial Alsatian family, that on account of war and religion, (early in the 17th century), went to the vicinity of Mannheim (then the Palatinate), Baden, Germany. Extracts from ‘The Rieth Family in Alsace,’ translated from the German by Prof. Alfred Schmidt, Library of Congress.”

**During the progress of the late European World War and up to the breaking out of hostilities between America and Germany, I received several letters from Dr. Rüdtt. The last was written under date of April 28, 1916, in which he writes with great emotion:—

“My heart yearns very much to send my greetings of the spring. I am 71 years on December 8, 1916, but fresh and lively that they take me to be but 60 years. I am thinking of these terrible times (war) very often, and of that always dear America. You must come with that dear wife and I will press you to my bosom. Let me know how you are doing. Peace on earth to men. More I am not permitted to say. Farewell, dear cousin.”

***In a letter from Dr. Robert A. Wise, whose home is in Mannheim, Baden, Germany, and who is a nephew of Dr. Phil. Johann A. L. Rüdtt, under date of July 29, 1919, he informs me that his uncle died December 31, 1918. In speaking of his uncle in his letter, he writes:—

“My uncle was a man of great knowledge and talents, spoke six languages, was versed in history and philosophy, and of political science he was master. On the whole he was worldly wise, not a least a consequence of his having much travelled; was in Russia, Italy, France, etc.”

ancient record of the old church has been gone over very carefully by the parish officers, the results of whose labors follow in the order as given by them:

Extracts from the "Christening Book" of the Reformed Community of Mannheim, "Konkordienkirche." The Reed entries* open in the year 1641, as follows:—

1—Ried, Veit, his [first] wife, Anna Barbara.

Children—1—Andreas Ried, bapt. Dec. 29, 1641.

2—Anna Ried, bapt. Oct. 11, 1643.

2—Ried, Veit, his [second] wife, Margretha, nee Warmwasser.

Children—1—Anna Katharine Ried, bapt. Oct. 12, 1647.

2—Phillippus Ried, bapt. May 1, 1649.

3—Susanna Ried, bapt. Sept. 17, 1652.

4—Anna Margretha Ried, bapt. Feb. 11, 1655.

5—Paulus Ried, bapt. Oct. 17, 1658.

6—Hans Wolf Ried, bapt. Apr. 13, 1661.

The above Veit Ried and family of Mannheim, Baden, Germany, is the first of our known ancestors in Europe, and from them we believe we are descended. The country or district in Germany in which they lived then was better known as the Palatinate. From which of Veit Ried's sons we are direct descendants is not at this time positively known, although information from the Stadtpfarramt of Mannheim would lead us to believe it to have been from the second son Phillippus, of the second marriage, baptized May 1, 1649.

The second family of the Rieds entered in the church book is that of Phillipp Ried, a cooper, and is recorded as follows:—

Ried, Phillipp, Cooper; wife Susanna:

Children—1—Phillipp Ried, bapt. June 16, 1678.

2—Dorothea Ried, bapt. Sept. 19, 1680.

Other children may have been born to this family of Rieds in Mannheim. This family, from fear and unrest, about this time was making its flight—fleeing from the invading French army which was now entering the city, destroying and plundering it, burning the Protestants' churches, ruining homes and destroying lives. The Rieds, as well as other Protestant families, suffered their share in this destruction, and to escape further punishment went to other parts of Germany, over the border into Switzerland, and to other places offering safety and refuge. Registration of baptisms in those church books of Mannheim now ceased entirely or almost. This was during the French occupancy, covering a period of nearly twenty years, from about 1680 to 1700.

*I have two translations of these entries of the church books, by different church officers, which were made twenty years apart. One copy has it they were "bapt." and the other copy has it they were "born." It is but little consequence which is correct, for the interval between bapt. and birth, among these people, meant only a period of a few days.

The third family of the Rieds appearing of record on the church book is that of Hans Phillipp Ried, who is entered as "assessor and fisher." His wife was one Magdaline Becker, and they were married on March 12, 1673. He is given as a son of Friederich Ried, also a "fisher." The children of this couple as recorded are:—

- 1—Gertrude Ried, bapt. July 19, 1674.
- 2—Hans Peter Ried, bapt. Oct. 15, 1676.
- 3—Anna Maria Ried, bapt. Sept. 28, 1679.
- 4—Anna Barbara Ried, bapt. Dec. 26, 1684.
- 5—Hans George Ried, bapt. Jan. 5, 1689.

The next Rieds recorded in the church book are the family of Johann Peter Ried. The entry is made in the beginning of the Eighteenth century. The city of Mannheim and its government were now largely restored to former pre-French-occupation conditions. Protestant refugees at this time were slowly and safely returning to their former home, and among them were Ried families. The Reformed church in its spiritual work was again being restored, its registry was functioning, and in it is now found the baptism of the children of one Johann Peter Ried, a "citizen and fisher," and his wife Elizabeth Elinore:—

- 1—Johann Michael Ried, bapt. Dec. 14, 1705.
- 2—Johann Erhard Ried, bapt. Feb. 7, 1707; sponsor Anna Barbara Ried, daughter of Johann Phillipp and Magdalena (Becker) Ried, "citizen and fisher" of this place.
- 3—Johann George Ried, bapt. April 15, 1709.
- 4—Johann Valentin Ried, bapt. Nov. 29, 1711.

A thorough search for Rieds in the Lutheran church books of Mannheim covering this period gleaned nothing. By this it would appear that all of our Rieds at this early period in this part of Germany were of the Reformed faith. Upon their arrival in America, these German Rieds seem to have continued the same religious doctrine wherever they located. The early German Reformed and Lutheran church books attest and show this.

The war against the Protestant church in Europe—the home of our ancestors—smouldered more or less throughout the early part of the Eighteenth century. These pious people in their religious beliefs and practices, it seems, still were never entirely safe or free from surprises and molestations by their religious enemies. The prevailing condition of unrest from fear forced them from one location to another, to such places only as offered them the greatest security, protection and shelter. For this reason the secrecy of these movements by these people at this day makes it so hard for the genealogist and historian to learn their history and consult the proper records for family information and other valuable and interesting data.

Years rolled on before another Ried entry found its way into the Konkordia (Reformed) church book at Mannheim. The baptism next fol-

ANNA CATHARINA RIED

Daughter of Johann Philipp and Veronica (Berckysin) Ried. Copy of baptism with official seal of office, made by the Stadtpfarramt, and taken from the old "Konkordienkirche" (Reformed Church) book, Mannheim, Baden, Germany.

DR. PHIL. JOH. AUG. LEOPOLD RÜDT (REED)

Of Munich, Bavaria, Germany. Philanthropist and scholar. He made a personal investigation of our ancestors in the "Vaterland." He faltered at the culminating point, from documentary evidence, to dovetail the connecting link of our Reed families; he always insisted we were cousins.

lowing was that of "Anna Catharine Ried," daughter of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Ried. It reads:—

"Birthday:—1726, 19th of July; Anna Catharine; parents Johann Phillipp Ried, citizen and fisher, of this place, and his wife Veronica; sponsors: Johann Christoph Michael, citizen and fishingmaster, and his wife Anna Catharine."*

In the above baptism the father's occupation is given as a "citizen and fisher," and his residence Mannheim. The date of the ceremony makes it but a short time before the family's departure for America. This family baptism establishes the fact of his marriage taking place in Europe and not upon the high seas as tradition would have us to believe.

My European correspondence in my endeavors to learn more of our foreparents in the "Vaterland" is voluminous. My fellow kinsman, Dr. Phil. Johann Aug. L. Rüd't, of Munich, Bavaria, who was born and spent his early life in Mannheim, Baden, Germany, and whose lineal ancestors for generations back lived in the territory known as the "Odenwald," north of Heidelberg, in Baden, assisted me greatly. I am under a debt of gratitude to him for this. In a letter from him in German under date of February 28, 1912, he gives me these interesting particulars:—

"July and August I was in Mannheim, where I have relatives, and in Heidelberg, where my sister lives; also in Karlsruhe, where my brother Ludwig lives for the past fifty years. He is eighty years of age, has three sons who are all army officers. He himself has been an army officer for the past sixty years. A daughter of his resides in Karlsruhe and is married.

"In Mannheim I have made searches, and have found out that my ancestors came from the Odenwald the beginning of 1600 to Mannheim. I also learned that one of my ancestors near the end of 1600 had emigrated to America. Our old home is in the Odenwald, near Mosbach (six hours from Heidelberg), and named Fahrenbach. There my grandfather worked from 1760 to 1790 as a blacksmith (Schmied). My father Frantz Michael was born in Sattlbach, near Mosbach, in 1802, and died in Mannheim in 1884."

Under date of September, 1912, Dr. Rüd't sent me a copy of a letter he had recently received from the Burgermeister Ludwig Bopp, of Fahrenbach, whom he had engaged, as town official, to assist him in this work. The part from it I extract is interesting, and I give it as received:—

"From the old church books of the year 1699, several Rüdts (Riedts) lived here. * * * One Thomas Rüd't (Ried), on the first of November, 1727, reported a child born named 'Sebastian Wolfgang'; on the 16th of October, 1728, reported a girl born named 'Anna Maria'; on Sept. 30, 1735, reported a son born named 'Johann Michael.' Beside the Thomas Rüd't, there is one Frantz Michael Rüd't entered in the town book. Also later, a blacksmith named Peter Rüd't who is your grandfather.

"There was also entered here in the town book up to 1847 kinsmen of Rüd't. There are still today kinsmen of Rüd't here whose grandmother was born a Rüd't. * * * If we could search the old church books of 1698, we would easily prove that Johann Phillipp Ried who emigrated to America in 1727 was a brother of Thomas and Frantz Michael Rüd't.

"The people had formerly written the name Ried, Rieth, Rüd, Rüd't, as they understood it. * * * I have examined many town books and found one Johann Phillipp Rüd't in the year 1750. That this name corresponds with Johann Phillipp Rüd (Ried) who emigrated is certain proof that this was a relative of the Rüd (Rüd't, Rieth, Ried), remaining here; otherwise the first name (Johann Phillipp) would not have been carried further."

*I have two copies of this record translated by different persons, one says "bapt." and the other says "born." Which is right is immaterial.

In a subsequent letter Dr. Rüd't writes me:—

"About the religion of our ancestors I could find much so far. It was the custom of the rulers of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries of this country that their subjects had to be of the same following, so as an example, in the neighborhood of the Odenwald, which today belongs to Baden, the inhabitants had to be Catholics, Reformed or Lutherans, just as the ruler belonged to the one or the other professions; such was the case also in the Pfalz." * * *

Under date of October 12, 1912, Dr. Rüd't, in his comments, further writes:

"If the church books of 1698 could be found it could be proven that Johann Phillipp Ried who emigrated to America in 1727 was a brother of Thomas and Frantz Michael Rüd't. * * * Frantz Michael Rüd't is entered in the town book of 1727. It is certain that this Frantz Michael was a brother of Johann Phillipp Riedt in 1727. Frantz Michael had a son Peter, a blacksmith, and who was my grandfather. My father's name was Frantz Michael, and he was born in 1802. Therefore Johann Phillipp who emigrated in 1727 must have been a brother of my great-grandfather Frantz Michael Rüd't. These are facts; therefore, my dear kinsman, you and I are relatives."

From Mannheim, Baden, Germany, under date of September 2, 1914, I received another letter, and this was written by one Ludwig Nohe. He subsequently proved himself a relative, and on his maternal side is a cousin of Dr. Phil. Johann Aug. L. Rüd't. Herr Nohe has done much in assisting me in my efforts gathering data on the early "Reed" family in Europe, particularly so that of the "Freundschaft" in and about Mannheim. He has proven himself an indefatigable worker and a voluminous writer. It was through Burgermeister Bopp, of Fahrenbach, that Herr Nohe learned of my genealogical efforts and voluntarily offered his assistance. The following is an extract from a letter of Herr Nohe under date of September 12, 1912:—

"The grandmother of the grandchildren now living was a Catharine Rüd't, born in Fahrenbach. Four of these children still live and one is dead; three live in Mannheim and the other lives in Fahrenbach. All are married and some have children."

Under date of October 9, 1912, he continues:—

"My mother's name—she is deceased—was Elizabeth Rüd't. She (mother) married Peter Nohe, of Fahrenbach, consequently my name Nohe."

It was from Ludwig Nohe in a letter dated January 13, 1913, that I received a copy of Anna Catharine Ried's baptism, which he had copied from the old record of the old "Konkordia" Reformed Church, at Mannheim. In the same letter he further informs me that after careful search of these church books nothing could be discovered bearing on the marriage of Johann Phillipp and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Ried.

Ludwig Nohe's investigations on the Ried family subsequently led him over into Switzerland, and so far with negative results. He made further searches through other preserved records of old Reformed churches of the neighborhood in and about Fahrenbach, all so far with negative results. His later investigations led him to the government archives in Vienna, Austria. The great European war was in progress at this writing and interfered with a continuance of these labors; still he is hopeful.

In a more recent letter from Herr Nohe, dated April 29, 1923, he writes this:—

“In my later researches I have discovered that a family by the name of Philip Ried, from the Odenwald (my home), moved to Mannheim in 1690, and here engaged in the fishery business for some time, but later on in 1714 emigrated to America.”

The years of 1690 and 1714 may have been approximated by Herr Nohe. If this period of emigration to America is conjecture it might be possible that this Philip Ried, as here given by Herr Nohe, was the father of our ancestor Johann Phillipp Ried, and the son emigrated to America in 1714 (1727). There is no disputing of the date of landing of our Johann Phillip Ried in America, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on October 16, 1727.*

Parish officials of Mannheim, who have carefully gone over the old Konkordia Reformed Church books in the search for Rieds, in a letter, make this interesting note:—

“In the year of 1689 until 1700 Mannheim was in ruins; it was destroyed by the French in 1689, and the inhabitants were forced to emigrate. Only a small portion found their way back in 1700. Proper regulations (church) only came back in the beginning of the 18th century. The keeping of the church books was very irregular during the French invasion.

“It may be possible that Philip Ried had other children previous to 1728, who were born outside of Mannheim. It is supposed that the parents of Anna Catharine Ried resided but a short time in Mannheim, as the parents of the father as well as his ancestors did not live in Mannheim during some generations. It may be possible that the family of the Rieds, as many other prominent families of Mannheim, immigrated from Switzerland in 1640.”

Upper:—MANNHEIM ON THE RIVER RHINE.

The home city in Germany of our ancestors, Johann Philb and Veronica (Berckysin) Ried (Reed). On this winding River our forbear followed the vocation of "fisher," and from here they came to America, in 1727.

Lower:—A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF FAHRENBACH

The town is situated near Mosbach, north of Heidelberg, in the Odenwald. To this town, it is believed, our ancestor Reed retreated after their flight from Mannheim, at the time of the French invasion and the destruction of the city, about 1680.

CHAPTER II.

I—A—1—JOHANN PHILLIPP RIED* (Philip Reed). He was b. Jan. 26, 1698, in Europe, possibly in or about Fahrenbach, in the Odenwald, Baden, Germany; d. Sept. 3, 1783, in Marlborough Twp., Phila.** Co., Pa.; m. (about) 1724, Veronica (Veronia, Fronia, Fronica, etc.), Berckÿsin (Bercky, Berkey, Berky, Bergey, Bergy, etc.); b. Feb. 12, 1702, in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland; d. Dec. 13, 1792, at the home of her youngest son, Andrew Reed, in Marlborough Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.

SIGNATURE OF JOHANN PHILB RIED

A tracing made from 1727 immigration list, on file at Harrisburg, Pa.

In Europe our ancestors, at least just before their coming to America, were members of the old Konkordia Reformed Church, of Mannheim, as the record of the baptism of their daughter Catharine shows. In America at first they were members of the Skippack German Reformed Church, located in Salford Township, which had an existence only for a period from 1727 to 1735.

They then became members and founders, with others, of the nearby New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, located in Upper Hanover Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, now near the borough of East Greenville, Montgomery County. They piously and steadfastly retained their membership in this church until their demise. In this church's burial ground their remains are interred, and by their side rest the bodies of other members of the family. They had, so far as known, eight children:—

Co., Pa., and a grandson of Philip Reed, b. — 1698; d.— 1783 (I—A—1), of Marlborough Twp.; same county, in "History of the Reed, Read, Reade, Reid Families in Europe and America," by Jacob Whittemore Reed, p. 493, furnishes the author with the following:—

"Philip Reed (or Riedt), from Germany, came to what is now Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Children:—Jacob, was a Colonel of militia in the Revolution and was in the battle of Brandywine, (etc.); Michael, who settled in Franklin County, and had a grandson, known as Esquire Reed of Schellsburg, in Bedford County; Andrew, who settled in (Marlborough Twp.), Montgomery County, and married Mary Leidy," etc., etc.

The reader will perceive that the writer mentions only the three sons; the five daughters for some reason are omitted by him.

**The next year (1784) this part of Philadelphia County became a part of the new County of Montgomery, thereby changing the location of his death from Philadelphia to Montgomery County.

A PHOTOGRAPHIC REPRODUCTION OF FAMILY RECORD TAKEN FROM THE FAMILY BIBLE OF LIEUTENANT COLONEL JACOB REED.

Translation:

1757, on the 31st of December, I, Jacob Reed purchased this Bible at a public vendue for 27 shillings and 6 pence. Jacob Reed.

On Sept. 3, 1783, my father Philip Reed died. Aged 85 years, 7 months and 9 days. His funeral text was St. John 11 chapt. Verses 25:26.

On Dec. 13, 1792, my mother Fronica Reed died. Aged 90 years and 10 months.
 She was born a Berckysin (Bercky), in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland. Her funeral text was Isaiah 28 Chapt. and verse 1.

Our immigrant ancestor, Johann Phillipp Ried (Philip Reed), arrived at the port of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, October 15, 1727. The vessel was the "Ship Friendship," sailing from Rotterdam, Holland,

NEW GOSHENHOPPEN REFORMED CHURCH (Second)

Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. A pen sketch of the edifice, made from memory by one of its older members. The building was erected in 1771, and replaced the original structure of logs. Philip Reed, our ancestor, contributed means for its erection. Here he and his family worshipped; his funeral was held here at the time of his burial, in 1783.

thence from Cowes, England, on June 20, 1727, and from that city direct to Philadelphia. The boat was four months on the seas before arriving at its destination on the western shores. Adverse winds and heavy seas in those days of sailing vessels made ocean voyages slow and uncertain. Preserved accounts of these voyages make interesting reading. The passengers' discomforts, trials and tribulations were extended, tedious, and at times almost unendurable. Not only were they prolonged in a trying and denying way, but at time of storm their experience was painful, pitiful and pathetic.

Our only authentic European designation of vocation of Philip Reed is that given on the baptismal book of the old Konkordia Reformed Church, that of a "citizen and fishingmaster." Just what a fishingmaster was at this time in the city of Mannheim is not clearly understood. But it is presumed to have been a position of some importance and responsibility.

So far as known, our immigrant family consisted of husband, wife and infant daughter. The worldly possessions brought over with them consisted only of such household goods and utensils of industry as their meagre means afforded and the ship's limited space allowed. These must have been but few.

After a short stay, and upon completion of business arrangements in the city of Philadelphia, the family took up their overland journey inland, to the frontier, finally settling in Salford Township,* in the northern section of Philadelphia County, now in Montgomery County. This region was better known as the Goshenhoppen country, and was distant from Philadelphia about forty miles.

The Rev. Michael Schlatter, who was sent to America, about this time, to organize German Reformed churches, gives a very good description of the settlements, and this region. In his report to the Christian Synods of North and South Holland, dated at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, December 15, 1746, he writes:—

"Regarding Pennsylvania, it is nothing less than a forest of large and heavy trees with some undergrowth. The people live apart from each other, and there are rarely more than ten or twelve families to be found in a district of one hour's in circumference." * * *

The incoming settlers of the new country immediately became busy, working harmoniously in the location of their farms. They also operated jointly with one another in clearing the land for cultivation, assisted each other in the building of homes, in fact joined in all neighborhood affairs for mutual comfort and betterment. To further community affairs they helped one another in the organization of churches, in the erection of houses of worship, in the formation of schools, etc.

*Hann Philb Ried's early or first home seems to have been located far in the wilderness—in Salford Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. To and from his home he had no way of ingress and egress to the settlements other than over trails or paths through private property. So early as 1727-1728, he joins in a petition with his neighbors for relief to the Court of Quarter Sessions, in Philadelphia. See Addenda:—(Paper First), "Hann Philb Ried Joins in a Petition for a Road, 1727-1728."

The primitive lands, as the Rev. Michael Schlatter writes, were heavily timbered, the country was wild and rough, and the native inhabitants were the Indian and wild beasts. It was a serious problem that confronted these early pioneers in the formation and development of the new country. In their efforts they faltered not, but, by the sweat of their brow and untiring exertion, these good people forged on and persevered. It was only by this labor and incessant persistence by them in the beginning that this beautiful country subsequently was developed and shaped as we find it today.

Through failure to record deeds of early land sales from the Penns to their purchasers, many land titles, even at this day, are lost, missing, imperfect or incomplete. This neglect and carelessness in these real estate transactions make it hard for the descendant or historian now to learn correctly of these land purchases and glean the name of owners, fix locations, etc. Records show that Philip Reed owned lands and paid quit-rent in Salford Township as early as 1734. The exact location of those lands at this time for this very reason we are unable to determine. As Marlborough Township was not created until 1741, being then taken from Salford Township, the presumption is that his first farm was a part of the detached portion or in the new township of Marlborough,* and near his later established home, in the present village of Hoppenville.

The New Goshenhoppen region, now better known as the Upper Perkiomen, at the period of Philip Reed's entrance, was rapidly undergoing settlement and development, and the influx of newcomers consisted mainly of foreigners—German and Swiss immigrants. These at the time were coming into the colony in great numbers, and were composed of all sorts of craftsmen. This variety of workers was essential to meet conditions of settlement of a new country like this, for it was far inland from a seaport or great city. Acting together, they prospered, mutually providing one another with tools of industry and all other essentials necessary for their existence and for securing the necessities of life. Food gave them strength of body, their schools gave their children learning, and the church supplied their spiritual wants.

The Rev. John Wilhelmius, a pastor at Rotterdam, Holland, and a good friend of these Palatine settlers, about this time travelled in America, to study the material and spiritual condition of the colonists. In his report to the Synodical Deputies, under date of October 31, 1735, he writes of these people:

“* * * The present Germans of Pennsylvania have immigrated thither from various parts of Germany, not in order to secure liberty of worship, which they enjoyed in their own land, but to better realize better means of subsistence.” * * *

*Salford Township at this early period (1727), had indefinite boundaries and included Marlborough and adjacent townships. This irregularity began to make all sorts of trouble in local affairs, and in 1741 the Court of Quarter Sessions at Philadelphia was appealed to to form definite boundaries. Out of the resulting effort there came new divisions, and therefrom the new township of Marlborough followed.

THE NEW GOSHENHOPPEN REFORMED CHURCH, GLEBE AND BURIAL GROUND
Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Within this Gods-acre he buried the remains of our ancestors Philip and Feronica (Bercky) Reed. In this congregation Philip Reed was one of the first (A. D. 1736) members. The church edifice here seen was erected in 1857, and William F. Reed, a great-grandson, was of the building committee.

The Goshenhoppen region possessed superior advantages for agricultural purpose. The soil of the valleys was fertile and of excellent quality. The creeks furnished an abundance of water for general utility and motive power, which was utilized to a large extent. All classes of industries in time followed in the wake of settlement and bordered on these streams. Grist, flour, saw, fulling, linseed oil, clover and powder mills and tanneries abounded. Several iron forges were erected and put in operation. As a result of this industrial and agricultural development the country improved and prospered. Philip Reed and his family, as residents of this community, enjoyed and shared this thrift, prosperity and development.

Philip Reed's whole life in America was spent here on his farm in a modest and frugal way. His children remained with him until they grew to maturity, and were married. Some of the children settled about him in their new homes; some removed to other localities in different parts of the county and state, as circumstances and the new conditions in life led them.

Philip Reed and family at first, as we have learned, worshipped at the Skippack Reformed Church.* Then he became one of the founders of the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, nearer his new home. His name appears in the first recorded list of its members extant, 1736. He served his church in all offices as layman, and as an elder was the first to represent the New Goshenhoppen congregation at the first German Reformed Church Coetus, upon its organization in Pennsylvania, in the city of Philadelphia, September 29, 1747. Most of his children were baptized at the New Goshenhoppen Church, and all were communicant members. Their children attended parochial school there, the pastor being their schoolmaster.

In pursuance of an Act of Parliament, naturalizing such foreign Protestants "as are settled or shall settle in any of his Majesty's Colonies in America," Philip Reed and a number of his neighbors together repaired to and appeared "at a Supreme Court held at Philadelphia for the Province

*The oldest Reformed church of this locality was at Skippack. It was located in the southwestern section of Salford Township, possibly not far distant from the first home of Philip Reed, in Salford, and upon the lands of Jacob Reiff, an elder. This congregation is supposed to have been organized previous to 1725. The Rev. John Philip Boehm mentions the church in his report to Classis of Amsterdam, Holland, in 1725, and he, at the same time, was acting as its pastor. In 1727, the Upper Consistory of the Palatinate sent to this country, the Rev. George Michael Weiss to organize the Reformed churches in Pennsylvania. At the time there were but three of these, and here at Skippack he found Boehm officiating and not sufficiently ordained; he objected to Boehm's offices. This led in the church to a division of its members and Boehm was ousted. Those members of the church friendly to Boehm, who objected to this action of Weiss, then petitioned the Classis of Amsterdam for relief. Among the deacons and elders joining in this petition was Johann Philb Ried and Jacel (Jacob) Leidy. The petition was "Signed at Schibach" (Skippack), May 10, 1730.

Michael and Jacob, children of Philip and Veronica (Bercky) Reed, I am led to believe, were baptized at the early Skippack Reformed Church, and by the Rev. John Philip Boehm. As early as 1728 and 1730 (the date of these children's birth), the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church was not organized, nor had the congregation so early a pastor, and at this time the family were members at Skippack. Jacob Reed's sponsor was one Elizabeth Arndt, and at her death, in 1756, she mentions this fact in her will and makes him as such a beneficiary. See Addenda:—(Paper I), "Will of Elizabeth Arndt."

record shows these good people were much sought for as sponsors, not only by their children and grandchildren, but for children of friends and neighbors. He was active and influential in local affairs, being of an enterprising and progressive turn, and lent support and encouragement to all public improvements advanced for the betterment of the community. By virtue of his knowledge and superior judgment on business matters, his friends and neighbors frequently sought his advice in the settlement of disputes and for the adjustment of wrongs. On several occasions in wills he was not only a witness but was made a beneficiary, etc.

When he grew to advanced years he made a disposition of the greater part of his estate among his children, at the time a prevalent custom among many of the older German families. His farm in 1775 he conveyed for a nominal consideration to his youngest son, Andrew Reed, who at the time owned an abutting or adjoining farm and tanyard. Thus the two farms were united. Philip Reed then retired from active business duties and resided, during the declining years of his life, at the homestead, a log dwelling, across the road from that of his son. Here he and his wife lived in simplicity, spent their declining years in devotion to their children and their families, and in the enjoyment of their accepted religious faith and in family devotion which gave them comfort of mind and body that only such good and true parents and Christians are blessed with and can enjoy.

His wife, Veronica Reed, lived a decade longer than her husband, Philip Reed. We are led to believe after the death of her husband she continued to reside mostly alone, in the old log cabin across the way from that of her son, Andrew Reed. He as a dutiful son looked after her and provided for her wants and comforts in her advanced years. In her will,* dated December 24, 1790, she expressed a desire that a greater consideration be given him in the distribution of her estate: "that it is further my will that a reasonable compensation be made my son Andrew Reed, for their [his family's] time and endeavors relating to my Maintenance."

A storebook showing Veronica Reed's purchases at the store of her son, Andrew Reed, in Marlborough Township, is still in existence. A page therefrom is reproduced herewith, and a translation of the German reads as follows:—

Philip Reed died in his Marlborough home at an advanced age. His funeral was held there, and the Rev. Frederick Dellicker, his pastor and friend, was the officiating clergyman, taking for his text: St. John, 11th Chapter, verses 25 and 26:—

"Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.

"And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this?"

Beside the family a great gathering of neighbors and friends were in attendance at the funeral. The service was in German and very impressive. The pastor as well as the people sadly and solemnly mourned the loss of the departed friend and parent, even though he had lived beyond the allotted time of life of three score and ten years. A quaint old moss-covered marble slab marks his grave in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church cemetery,* with this inscription:—

Hier

Some distance within the substantial fence enclosing this quaint and picturesque ancient church cemetery there stands in bold relief a more modern stone or monument. Upon a closer examination and reading of the inscription, it will be seen that the marker has a family significance, that of marking the grave of Philip and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed, our immigrant ancestors. By its side stands the early memorial—the first grave stone—to the memory of Philip Reed. In the same burial plot are the marked graves of Andrew and Anna Maria (Leidy) Reed, and those of other members of the family. Several plain field stones are seen here without inscriptions, marking graves of deceased members of our family. No one is left today who knows their significance or to whose memory they have been erected. How sad, but true!

The monument on the four sides bears inscriptions, which read as follows:—

II—B—2—CATHARINE REED, daughter of Philip and Veronica (Bercky) Reed. She was b. July 19, 1726, in Mannheim, Baden, Germany; d.——; * m. (about) 1747, Abraham Arndt; b. Aug. 5, 1722, in Baumholder, Lichtenberg, Germany; d. —, 1795, in Williams Twp., Northampton Co., Pa.; he is believed to have been buried in the old Raubsville Cem., Northampton Co.; his grave is one of the many found here marked only with a plain field stone without an inscription; their marriage is recorded in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church book as taking place between the years of 1745 and 1761, by the Rev. George Michael Weiss; children:

III—B—3—X—1—Catharine Arndt, b. (about) 1749.

III—B—4—X—2—Abraham Arndt, b. (about) 1751.

These two children were confirmed together in Indian Creek Reformed Church, on June 6, 1767; no age given.

III—B—5—X—3—Philip Arndt, b. (about) 1753; bapt. Jan. 29, 1754.

III—B—6—X—4—Anna Elizabeth Arndt, bapt. June 13, 1756.

III—B—7—X—5—Jacob Arndt, b. Feb. 11, 1758.

III—B—8— —6—John Arndt, bapt. Feb. 10, 1761; never married; d.——, at the time of the American Revolution. He was a drummer boy** in the army, in his uncle's Company of Northampton County, Pennsylvania Militia, and was reported among the missing, after the battle of Fort Washington, New York, on November 16, 1776; believed to have been taken prisoner and died while in captivity on board an English prison ship in New York Harbor.

SIGNATURE OF ABRAHAM ARNDT.

A tracing made from his will on file at Easton, Pa.

Abraham Arndt (Orndt, Ornt, Arand, Arnt, Arnet, etc.), was the oldest child of Bernhard and Anna Maria (Decker) Arndt. His parents were German Palatines, arriving, with their family, in America, in ship "Pennsylvania Merchant," the father qualifying at Philadelphia, Pa., on

*The time of death and place of burial of Catharine (Reed) Arndt is not known. We find that on Nov. 6, 1760, Catharine, wife of Abraham Arndt, joins in a deed of conveyance of a property in Franconia Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. On Dec. 24, 1770, Mary, wife of Abraham Arndt, joins in a deed of conveyance of a property in New Britain Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. After 1770 on both public and church records, Abraham Arndt's wife's name is given as "Mary" or "Anna Maria." By this, it looks as if Catharine (Reed), wife of Abraham Arndt, must have died between 1760 and 1770.

Sept. 11, 1731. By the ship's register the family were composed of the father, Johann Bernhard Arndt; mother, Maria Arndt, and children: Abraham, Catharine, Jacob and David.*

The "Arndt" family Bible gives interesting family history. The record was entered in this book in 1807 by John Arndt, Esq., of Easton, Pennsylvania, and covers a period of five generations (abstract from the original):—

- Generation I—John Arndt, farmer, of the village of Warpen, in the Bailiwick of Coswig, in the principality of Anhalt, Zerbts, Germany,—
- Generation II—Martin Arndt, his son; m. Maria, daughter of John Sager. They had only one son—
- Generation III—Martin Conrad Arndt, who in early life expressed an inclination for travel, for which leave was obtained from his parents, and before he departed from home, a writing of parchment was given him, dated at Zerbts, the 13th of March, 1678, which among other things certified that he was born of good German blood and not of the "Wendischen." It seems he eventually settled in the then, Dukedom of Zweibruken, and in lawful wedlock begat two children, one a son named—
- Generation IV—Bernhard, and a daughter who was married to a Mr. Conrad, grandfather of Frederick Conrad, a member of U. S. Congress. Bernhard married Anna Maria, daughter of Andreas Decker, and settled in Baumholder, Lichtenberg, Germany. The last of April or first of May, 1731, they started for America, with their four children, Abraham, Jacob, Catharine and David.* On the voyage another child, whom they named Henry, was born. They settled for some time in Germantown and thence removed to a farm in Frederick Twp., Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. Here they became members of the Old Goshenhoppen Reformed Church. The boys were all shoemakers. Their son—
- Generation V—Abraham Arndt, married the amiable daughter of Philip Reed, of New Goshenhoppen. **

Our first record we find of Abraham Arndt is that of his purchasing a farm in Franconia Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. The deed is dated Dec. 29, 1755, and was from George Cressman. Arndt's residence here given is Franconia Township, and his occupation that of a shoemaker. This farm was in the northern section of what is now the borough of Souderton. Here he apparently prospered both at farming and at his trade of shoemaking. He resided here until Nov. 27, 1760, disposing of his farm to his neighbor, Henry Schlichter.

*This son, David Arndt, evidently died young, as John Arndt, Esq., in his record of the Arndt family makes no mention of him. David Arnt (Arndt) is given among the list of passengers, under sixteen years of age as arriving with his parents in ship "Pennsylvania Merchant," Sept. 11, 1731. See Penna. Archives, 2nd Series, Vol. XVII, page 25-28.

**See "The Story of the Arndts," the "Life, Antecedents and Descendants of Bernhard Arndt, who Emigrated to Pennsylvania, in the Year 1731," by John Stover Arndt, published in Philadelphia in 1922. This book is most interesting and gives a complete and detailed story of Abraham Arndt and of the Arndt Family in Europe and America.

Most of the illustrations of the Abraham Arndt branch of the Reed family, in the present volume, appear here through the kindness of John Stover Arndt, the author of "The Story of the Arndts."

INDIAN CREEK REFORMED CHURCH

Fraconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Walled in the foundation of the present building, about eighteen inches above the ground, is seen a mural tablet of brown stone, and cut upon it is the name of "Abraham Arndt," one of the officers and builders of the (first) church, in 1754.

At this time Abraham Arndt was a member of the nearby Indian Creek Reformed Church; in it he was an active and influential member, and possibly one of its organizers. His name is engraved on the 1754 date stone as one of its builders.

Abraham Arndt, on Dec. 27, 1760, had deeded to him a farm of two hundred acres, in New Britain Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, by one Isaac Williams. Its location was near the present borough of Chalfont. He then removed with his family to this farm and continued to reside there until about 1768. After this date we find him removed to and living in Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. During his residence in Bucks County, the family retained membership in the Indian Creek Reformed Church, in Franconia.

Abraham Arndt, as early as 1762, owned lands in Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. Apparently, he possessed these lands for some time before the family removed to Northampton. On Dec. 24, 1770, Abraham Arndt, cordwainer, and his wife Anna Maria (Mary), of Williams Township, Northampton County, conveyed his farm in New Britain Township, Bucks County, to Peter Rephardt (Reppard), of that place. This late real estate transaction closed out his remaining landed interests in that locality.

Abraham Arndt, in his new home in Northampton County, continued to prosper, and in time he became thrifty and well to do. His family were reared in comfort, their station and affluence gave them social prestige and from this, in the early history of Northampton, the Arndt family were prominent, conspicuous, active and influential.

The home of Abraham Arndt in Northampton County was finely located, and in keeping with his position and circumstances. The land was of excellent quality and of great productiveness. Here, but a short time before his death, he erected upon it on its southern slope (to supersede the original home), a pretty colonial-styled dwelling, its walls of dark gray limestone, and its joints nicely pointed with white mortar. It had several comfortable porches, and the whole presented to the eye an attractive and commanding appearance. From time to time he added improvements and conveniences about the place in keeping with its needs. At this place he spent his declining years in ease, comfort and peace. Much of his late lifetime, outside of his family cares, was devoted to his religion and his church, a generally accepted custom which was ever so comforting and consoling to the waning life of these good pious people.

When the war of the Revolution was on, Abraham Arndt was active and influential for the American cause. He served in township affairs and in the militia when and wherever duty called him. For some time he was county committeeman,* etc. As an influential and patriotic citizen of his country he and his family were never safe from molestation by the lurking Tory enemy thereabouts, being made to suffer their share of the many trials and discomforts so prevalent during these trying times.

**Penna. Archives*, 2nd Series, Vol. XIV, p. 597.

Abraham Arndt's activities in public life were modest and reserved, and his political aspirations never very great. He served for five years as a member of the County Board of Assessors, from 1772 to 1777, until the assessment system was changed. He was made Tax Collector of Williams Township in 1782, etc.

Soon after Abraham Arndt's arrival in Northampton County he engaged somewhat in land speculations and these extended up into eastern New York State—into Montgomery County and then into Tryon County. In these real estate deals he was more or less associated with his brother, Jacob Arndt, and his son, Abraham Arndt.

III—B—3—CATHARINE ARNDT. Daughter of Abraham and Catharine (Reed) Arndt. She was b. (about) 1749, in Franconia Twp., Phila. Co., Pa.; d. (about) 1832 (possibly in Northampton Co., Pa.); m. — Heist; children:—

IV—10—B—1—Son—(name not known).

IV—11—B—2—Son—(name not known).

Catharine Reed's husband was a son of a Heist family—one of the several families by that name that lived neighbors to Philip Reed, her grandfather, in Marlborough Twp., Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. Heist lands at that time adjoined those of her grandfather, Philip Reed, in Marlborough.

The only authentic information of Catharine Heist and family we have been able to gather is given in the 1790 United States census, of Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and reads:—"Hyst Catrina" and "2 boys under 14 years of age." In all probabilities at this time she and her children were living in Northampton County with her father, Abraham Arndt, who was then a widower, and she was possibly caring for him in his advanced years. This record shows she was now a widow, for her husband was not enumerated.

In the will of her father, Abraham Arndt, probated in Northampton County, in 1795, a trust fund of £130 bequeathed to her is mentioned, and her brother, Abraham Arndt, Jr., was made trustee. The will further reads:—"I give unto my daughter Catharine my bedstead and all furniture thereto," showing an interest by her father in her welfare as a dependent widow.

In 1829, her brother, Abraham Arndt, as trustee of the trust fund, paid over to his sister the principal of the money, and she signed the release in a plain and legible hand, denoting she was well educated, and was still the widow of Heist. Nor does the census return or the estate transaction show any place of residence, nor give any other tangible information of interest pertaining to her whereabouts and children.

III—B—4—ABRAHAM ARNDT.* Son of Abraham and Catharine (Reed) Arndt. He was b. (about) 1751, in Franconia Twp., Philada. Co.,

IV—B—24—X—10—Peter Arndt, b. Jan. 23, 1810.

IV—B—25— —11—Henry Arndt, b. July 21, 1812; never married. When a young man became a boatman on the Mohawk River and Canal, and drifted to and settled in the city of Buffalo, N. Y. There he became a veterinarian and had the care of a large stable of horses. Later on while in Brockport, N. Y., he met with an accident which eventually caused his death. He died at the home of his brother-in-law, Henry A. Moyer, at Newark, N. Y.

Abraham Arndt as a young man possessed an adventuresome spirit and a desire for exploration and travel. It is believed, from his association with the Colonial troops, he made military excursions into the northward and westward territory. While on one of these journeys it is thought he made his first trip into the State of New York, became impressed with the beautiful Mohawk Valley country and its environments, purchased lands here and finally settled.

The District of Canajoharie, County of Tryon, shows that Abraham Arndt, Jr., as early as 1773 was buying lands in this part of New York State. Too, as early as 1774, lands in the Mohawk Valley were being deeded to Abraham Arndt, Sr. These land deals led both father and son to make occasional trips to this new country. At first the son did not permanently locate here; he divided his time of residence between the home of his parents, in Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and the Mohawk Valley country, and visited New York State only as their landed interests demanded. It was later on that here in the beautiful Mohawk Valley country Abraham Arndt, Jr., finally settled permanently. Late in life he married, and then built his modest homestead in the central part of his landed estate. The home is prettily located up on a knoll, somewhat off from the main thoroughfare, and but a short distance west of the town of Fort Plain.

When the war of the Revolution was on, its activities spread throughout the Mohawk Valley, and we find Abraham Arndt, Jr., then but a young man staying here. Its thrills and throes gathered him in its vortex, at first only as a volunteer.

In the war's early history here, General Herkimer was active in a campaign of defense against the oncoming enemy, and issued a proclamation on July 17, 1777, calling upon every male citizen of the Mohawk Valley between the ages of sixteen and sixty, capable of bearing arms, to be volunteers to march against the invaders. Abraham Arndt, Jr., was of the first of this locality to offer his services, and thereby was made Major of the early Canajoharie Regiment of Militia. Major Arndt at the head of his troops led them into battle, and they fought bravely; all in vain, for they were finally defeated by overwhelming numbers led by General St. Ledger and his Tory troops and Indians, in the battle of Oriskany Creek. Many of Major Arndt's men were killed or taken prisoners and he was among the captives. After his release he returned to his Minden home, and was made a Lieutenant in Captain John Bowman's Company, Tyron County, New York State Militia.

In the meantime the British army sought new fields of conquest, military matters subsided thereabout somewhat, and Abraham Arndt, Jr., returned to his parental home in Northampton County, Pennsylvania. While there he became restless with the war spirit, and identified himself with the local troops, for we find him associated with the Williams Township, Northampton County Militia.*

Later he returned to his Minden home and farm in New York State. He now became active in local and State affairs, was conspicuous and influential in business matters, as well as a leading politician, this activity finally landing him in the New York Legislative Halls as representative of his district, serving as a member for the years 1786, 1788, 1789, 1790 and 1791. He became a member of the Eleventh Assembly that met in the city of Poughkeepsie, New York, in 1788—the session that ratified the Federal Constitution. For many years he was Justice of the Peace of Minden Township, serving in the office until his death in 1826.

He was an active and influential member of the old nearby "Sand Hill" Lutheran Church.** As a pioneer of this locality he was one of the founders of the congregation. Germans at that early day composed the masses of the settlers thereabouts, this language being the mother tongue, and was preached from the pulpit. So long as German prevailed thereabouts this church thrived and prospered. The family were brought up in this church, and the children were educated in its parochial school. In the church he held all positions as layman, for in all of its work he was an able and active leader, and was a brilliant and devout man.

**The old Sand Hill Cemetery is just beyond the western limits of the town of Fort Plain, New York. It is situated upon a knoll overlooking the picturesque Mohawk River Valley. Here, in the early history of this section of New York State, the pioneers or early settlers founded what was known as the old "Fort Plain (Union) Reformed and Lutheran Church." It had an existence for more than a hundred years. The congregations unitedly erected buildings for church and school purposes, and the adjoining ground was used as a place for the burial of their dead. Hundreds of the early settlers and their families are buried here. In its beginning the prevailing language spoken was German. This changed with time into English, and brought about other changes, for a division of the congregation followed. From lack of interest and removals, the membership fell off, and the place went into bankruptcy and decay. Now nothing remains of these buildings but faint memories and traditions. In the cemetery there is great neglect. But few of the tombstones of the dead remain, and most of these are crooked or fallen flat on the ground, while numerous sunken mounds are seen. Such is the sad plight of this one-time prosperous and revered old "Sand Hill Church," its school, its congregation and its traditions.

Alfred Arndt lived on the old Arndt homestead of Minden Township, which has been in continuous possession of the Arndt family since 1774, he becoming its fourth owner upon the death of his father, Abraham Arndt, Jr., in 1864. In quest of family data, Historian Warren S. Ely, of Doylestown, Pennsylvania, and myself, some years back visited Alfred Arndt and family, at the old Arndt homestead, in Minden Township, just a short distance west of the town of Fort Plain, New York. We were warmly received and kindly entertained by the family during our short stay. Though Alfred Arndt was aged, his faculties and memory were good, and he was of invaluable service assisting us solving the multiple and intricate branches of this extensive and scattered family.

We found this good family to be like their foreparents, conservative, intelligent and prosperous, and closely wedded to their home, their family and their church. In their plain, quiet and modest way of living, they enjoy the admiration and respect of the whole community. Mr. Arndt farmed his many acres happily and peacefully, and seemed to enjoy life and its many blessings. Since our visit he is deceased.

Nov. 25, 1780, at Durham Cove, Bucks Co., Pa.; she bur. at Durham Cove; he bur. in Wilkes-Barre; children:—

IV—B—150—X—1—John Penn Arndt, b. Nov. 25, 1780.

Philip Arndt, when but a lad in 1768, accompanied his father from Bucks County to Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and together they became Northampton County pioneers. As a young man he was of great assistance to his father in Northampton in the building of their home and shaping the frontier lands for cultivation. Later on he drifted over into Easton Township, same county, to his Arndt relatives who had already settled here. While in Easton Township the Revolutionary War broke forth. The Arndt family all were great patriots, and imbued with the war fever, now a citizen in this township, Philip Arndt volunteered his services in the American army, becoming a sergeant in the company of his cousin, Captain John Arndt, Easton Township, Northampton County Associators, better known as the Flying Camp of the Revolution. At the same time and with him, his brother, John Arndt, enlisted in the army, he becoming a drummer boy in this military company.

Some time during the Revolution Philip Arndt married. He then took up his abode with his father-in-law, near Durham Cove, in Bucks County. The early death of his wife, on the birth of her only child, made his residence there of short duration. The sad misfortune in her demise now changed his plans, he then returning to his father's home, in Williams Township. Again he took up military life, and became a lieutenant in Capt. Peter Hay's Company, Williams Township, Northampton County Militia, and served in various capacities as a soldier until the close of the war.** Now he became afflicted with the frontier fever, put in a claim for Government land, and a tract of 400 acres in Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, was surveyed for him on March 15, 1794.

Philip Arndt then removed to these new lands, improving them with buildings and engaging in farming. Then he ventured into the lumbering, milling and mercantile business; at these he was quite successful, and he became prosperous. Finally he drifted into the neighboring town of Wilkes-Barre, and there pursued business with renewed vigor, for he not only knew how to make money but also how to keep it. While here his son became a partner with him in business.

*His death notice in the Pennsylvania Correspondent, a newspaper published in Doylestown, Pa., under date of Nov. 6, 1804, reads:—

"At Wilkes-Barre of the prevailing fever, Mr. Philip Arndt, late of Northampton County."

***Penna. Archives*, 5th Series, Vol. VIII, pp. 21, 190, 349, 361.

From time to time others became associated with him in his business enterprises, and in these endeavors now he remained mainly a director or leader. One of his unusual and successful ventures, looked upon by many as foolhardy, was the building of a boat for navigation and transportation of produce and merchandise upon the Delaware and Susquehanna Rivers. The vessel was built to run the rapids and navigate the shallows of these rivers at all seasons of the year, and at the same time carry heavy loads. The boat was dubbed with the name of the home of his late wife, "Durham," and it proved a great success. This novel boat venture gave Philip Arndt an enviable reputation, not only as a business man, but also as a man of great ability, ingenuity and foresightedness.

IV—B—150—JOHN PENN ARNDT. Son of Philip and Mary (Little) Arndt. He was b. Nov. 25, 1780, at Durham Cove, Bucks Co., Pa.; d. June 11, 1861, at Green Bay, Wis.; m. Mar. 7, 1803, Elizabeth, daugh. of Baltzer Carpenter, of Greenwich Twp., Warren Co., N. J. (opposite Easton, Penna.); b. Aug. 7, 1780, in Greenwich Twp.; d. V—B—163—X—4—Mary Budleman Arndt, b. Oct. 31, 1809.

V—B—164—X—5—Charles Cotesworth Pinckney Arndt, b. Oct. 31, 1811.

V—B—165—X—6—John Wallace Arndt, b. Sept. 15, 1815.

V—B—166—X—7—Elizabeth Margaret Arndt, b. Dec. 27, 1822.

John Penn Arndt—only child—was but a lad of 12 or 14 years of age when taken by his father to their new home in Luzerne County, Pennsylvania. He was reared and educated in the family of his grandfather, Abraham Arndt, in Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. At the age of 18 he returned to his father's home at Wilkes-Barre and assisted him until the parent died. After the father's death, he married, continued the business and became settled. Thus interestingly of him, his son, John Wallace Arndt, writes:—

"Grandfather Arndt was a shrewd and intelligent business man. His firm took the lead in Wilkes-Barre, Luzerne County, Penna. After Grandfather Arndt's death, in 1802, father, being the only son and heir, took full control of the business and was successful for many years. The crisis of 1815-16 came on with a crash and he suffered and became restless. He then sought other fields for exploit. In the summer of 1819 we moved from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to Buffalo, N. Y., by wagon, where we remained for two years. In the meantime father had purchased a vessel and entered into the fish and fur trade, and had established a store on the island of Mackinac, Lake Huron, Mich. In the spring of 1822 he decided to move his family to the island.

"In 1822 we took passage on the steamboat 'Superior' to Detroit, Mich., making the trip in two or three days—a slow boat—where we found our vessel waiting us. After a few days pleasant sailing we landed on the rugged and picturesque island of Mackinac. Here we lived for two years. In the winter the cold was intense and long continued. It appeared to me it snowed and blew all the time, and then blew and snowed again. During the year 1823, father visited Green Bay, Wisconsin, and was so pleased and impressed with the place and its beauty and its material advantages, he made up his mind to move there the following year. On the 10th of September, 1824, we embarked and started on our way to the promised land. The passengers were father, mother, a brother of my mother, S. D. Carpenter, and two sisters, Mary C. (now widow of Captain Cotton) and Elizabeth (wife of Colonel H. E. Eastman), my brother, the late Charles C. P. Arndt, who was killed in Wisconsin Senate by a man named Vineyard, and myself, comprising the members of the family. We passed up the bay and entered Fox River on the 24th day of September, 1824, just fourteen days out from Mackinac, and a gentle breeze, sufficient to fill our sails, carried us to our landing place at Fort Howard. This trip across the lakes was one of the most eventful ones ever experienced by our Captain with his boat. Barely avoiding shipwreck on several occasions and adverse and terrific winds and at one time running aground on the shoals, displacing the rudder, thereby making the boat helpless in the storm, were but a few of the difficulties of this almost fatal trip.

"For the first years after our arrival here, there was little change. The apathy of the old time lingered; it was the transition period. During the first year, mail was received only once or twice during the season that navigation was closed. We had to follow in parts, the habits of the animal kingdom—hibernate—live on what we had accumulated during the open season.

"The site upon which the city of Green Bay is built was then covered with a forest of many kinds of trees and underbrush, and here and there a swamp. This strip was a famous camping ground of the Indians. In 1824, when father first landed on these shores of Fox River, he was just about 42 years of age, in full health and strength of body and mind, and well equipped for the labor he wished to assume. He brought with him here, twenty years of frontier and business experience of success and failure, and thus he plunged into the business world and fought the good fight, finally to be rewarded with success and competency."

HON. C. C. PINCKNEY ARNDT
Son of John Penn and Elizabeth (Carpenter) Arndt

VI—B—182— —3—Imogene Cotton Arndt, b. Nov. 25, 1840, at Green Bay, Wis.; resides at New Brunswick, N. J.; unmarried.

The Hon. Charles C. P. Arndt was in intelligent, strong and well developed young man at the age of 13 years, and at this time went West with his parents, and thereby became a Wisconsin pioneer. He was a dutiful son and was of material assistance to his father in the building of his pioneer home and in many other ways in business ventures in and about Green Bay. He was educated a lawyer, was ambitious and popular, possessing more than ordinary intelligence and executive ability, and he became a leader in political affairs in the frontier settlement. His great ability and worthiness led him to represent his county (Brown) in the Territorial Legislature. These honors and his strong personality unfortunately proved the cause of his sad and untimely death. While in the legislative chambers, getting into an altercation with a brother member, on the spur of the moment his opponent drew a revolver and shot Mr. Arndt to death. Being but a young man, thus cut down in the prime of life with a brilliant future before him, his death was a terrible shock to his family, the neighborhood and the country.

This distressing tragedy occurred about the time when the great English writer and novelist, Charles Dickens, was touring the United States and penning his "American Notes." Dickens became very much perturbed and shocked over the sad and tragic affair, so much so, that he wrote thus of it in his book:—

"The affair [the killing of the Hon. Charles C. P. Arndt] grew out of a nomination for sheriff of Grant County. Mr. E. S. Baker was nominated and supported by Mr. Arndt. This nomination was opposed by James R. Vineyard, who wanted the appointment vested in his own brother. In the course of debate the deceased made some statements, which Vineyard pronounced false and made use of insulting language dealing largely in personalities, to which Mr. Arndt made no reply. After adjournment, Mr. Arndt stepped up to Vineyard, requested him to retract, which he refused to do, repeating the offensive words. Mr. Arndt then made a blow at Vineyard, who stepped back a pace, drew a pistol and shot him dead."

VI—B—200—X—11—Martha Ann Arndt, b. May 29, 1859; m. Aug. 2, 1882, John Franklin Beyers; b. May 15, 1853, in West Middlesex, Mercer Co., Pa.; one child:—(1)—Lawrence, b. Oct. 5, 1895; d. May 18, 1904; he was drowned by the upsetting of a canoe, on Lake Calhoun, Minneapolis, Wis.

John Wallace Arndt was but a lad of 9 years when his parents removed to Green Bay, Wisconsin. He assisted his father materially in his numerous enterprises in and about Green Bay. He entered as a student at Rutgers College and later at Yale College. In time he was very successful and prosperous in business, reared a much respected family, and became one of Green Bay's most leading citizens. In his later years he became an interesting and prolific writer, especially on local history. In these efforts he has done much to preserve and perpetuate early reminiscences and narratives of the city of Green Bay and its environments.

In his advanced years in his character and general demeanor he was much beloved by all, and was warmly greeted, much respected and honored wherever met. As a boy he was much imbued with the martial spirit, and he enlisted in a military company that was raised in Green Bay, and served as a soldier in the Black Hawk War. In 1842 he was commissioned by the government a Captain in the Second Wisconsin Territorial Infantry, etc.

VI—B—191—EDWARD WILCOX ARNDT. Son of John Wallace and Mary Catharine (Wilcox) Arndt. He was b. Feb. 8, 1845, in Green Bay, Brown Co., Wis.; m. June 9, 1869, Mary Ellen Delany, of Fond-du-lac, Wis.; b.—— in Waverly, Tioga Co., N. Y.; she was a talented artist; child:—

Edward Wilcox Arndt was educated in the public schools of Green Bay, Wisconsin. When but a young man he enlisted in the Civil War for the Union cause. After the war he took a course in a business college; then engaged in the milling business at DePere, Wisconsin; became active in politics and served as mayor of DePere, etc. In later years he retired with a competency from the milling business. As years advanced he built himself an attractive home and spent the winters in Florida. The warm climate of the South not agreeing with his wife, he returned to his old home in DePere, Wisconsin, where he still lives at an advanced age—a much honored and respected citizen.

VI—B—192—ELSIE MORGAN ARNDT. Daughter of John Wallace and Mary Catharine (Wilcox) Arndt. She was b. Nov. 27, 1846, in Green Bay, Brown Co., Wis.; m. *In 1916 Mrs. Reed and I were on a transcontinental trip to my brother's home, in San Diego, Calif. On our way hither we stopped some days in the city of Los Angeles. Alhambra is a suburb of Los Angeles, and I made it a point while there personally to visit Mr. P. S. Loy, at his pretty home in this most beautiful suburban town, and found him and his brother together so nicely located. They were then busily engaged at their accepted calling—contract work, grading and excavating on a large scale for the city, and builders. The day was one of those beautiful, cool, clear, bright, glaring and inspiring ones so often found and enjoyable there. The visit seemed to give them so much pleasure, to have an eastern relative to call, and happily together to reminisce on family ties, traditions and history, in which they were so much interested.

SIGNATURE OF JACOB ARNDT

A tracing from his will, recorded at Easton, Northampton Co., Pa.

Jacob Arndt was reared in Northampton County, Pennsylvania, and became a leading and prominent citizen there, succeeding his father as owner of the old Arndt homestead, in Williams Township. He was a well educated man, possessed considerable literary taste, and was much devoted to his books and home. Not only was he a prosperous farmer, but he was one of the most progressive men of the neighborhood; was of a religious trend and devoted much of his time to his church and its work. He was very kind to his family, a loving husband, of a congenial turn and liked by everybody; and all were welcome visitors to his home.

When the war of the Revolution was on he shouldered his gun, enlisted actively in military service for his country, and valiantly fought for its defence and its accepted principles. His first Revolutionary service was with the Associators of Williams Township, in 1775 and 1776. From

1778 to 1782 he was an active member of the Northampton Frontier Rangers, and in 1782 was made a Sergeant in Captain Peter Hay's Williams Township, Sixth Company, Fourth Battalion, Northampton County Militia.*

In the 1785 assessment of Williams Township he is returned for "231 acres of land, one dwelling (the old Arndt homestead), 4 horses, 3 cattle, etc."

His wife came from a distinguished Scotch-Irish family of Northampton, and was known for her simplicity of manners and pleasing address. She, like her husband, was noted for congeniality and hospitality, and to all alike the couple made their home inviting and attractive. As parents they were indulgent and kind to their children, and in return were respected and revered by them.

The Easton Democrat, in its issue of September 22, 1831, prints:—

"Died—very suddenly at his residence in Williams township, in the 73d year of his age, Mr. Jacob Arndt. He retired to his bed in good health on Sunday evening last, and about two o'clock the next morning he was a corpse. Through a long and useful life, he was beloved by all who knew him, and of him may be truly said, he did unto others as he would have them to do unto him."

IV—B—320—JOHN ARNDT. Son of Jacob and Mary (Morrison) Arndt. He was b. Nov. 24, 1785, at the Arndt homestead in Williams Twp., Northampton Co., Pa.; d. June 20, 1865, near Washington, Warren Co., N. J.; m. Dec. 26, 1816, Ann, daugh. of Ralph and Catharine (Funk) Stover; b. Mar. 27, 1796, in Bedminster Twp., Bucks Co., Pa.; d. June 24, 1859, near Washington, Warren Co., N. J.; members first of the Reformed and then of the Methodist Church; bur. at Asbury, N. J.; children:—

V—B—343— —4—Mary Arndt, b. Mar. 1, 1824; d. Mar. 8, 1825.

V—B—344—X—5—Ralph Stover Arndt, b. June 4, 1826.

V—B—345—X—6—John Arndt, b. Feb. 21, 1830.

John Arndt was born on his father's farm near Raubsville, Williams Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. He received a good common school education and was fond of reading works of solid and historical nature. He was a good farmer, a noted shot with the rifle, and took an active interest in military affairs of the neighborhood. He associated himself with the militia of the State, and when the War of 1812 came he enlisted and was given a captaincy. With his regiment he marched to Marcus Hook, where the local troops were assembled for national defense; made Major 1st Battalion, 97th Regiment, Penna. Militia, Aug. 1, 1814.

Peter Frutchey Arndt in early life was a school teacher. He then entered the University of Pennsylvania as a medical student, and graduated therefrom a Medical Doctor, in 1855. He practiced his profession in his native township, and from natural ability and great skill he soon had an extensive clientage. He enlisted in the Civil War in 1864 as an Army Surgeon, and at its close he resumed his practice at his home. In 1873 he removed to the city of Easton, there continuing his profession, ranking as a leading physician until his death.

CHAPTER IV—PART II

II—C—3—MICHAEL REED. Son of Philip and Veronica (Berckÿsin) Reed. He was b. March 16, 1728, in Salford Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. Sept. 7, 1807, in Franklin Co., Pa.; m. (about) ———, 1756*, Anna Maria, daugh. of Frederick Maurer (Mowery, Mowry, Mowerer, Maurerer, etc.), of Upper Hanover Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; b.——, 1731; (bapt. Aug. 31, 1731, at New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church); d.——** (don't know when or where); he bur. in cem. of Salem Reformed Church, Waynesboro, Franklin Co., Pa.; children:—

III—C—4—X—1—Anna Maria Reed, b. —; (bapt. Dec. 2, 1757, in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Ch.). Among the marriages given in the record of the Rev. John Casper Stoeber, published in pamphlet form, pg. 76, we find the following:—

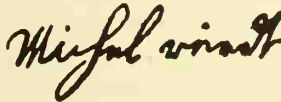

“1777, Sept. 11, Abraham Alles to Anna Maria Ried, of Hanover, York Co., Pa.”

This I am led to believe to be the daughter of Michael and Anna Maria (Maurer) Reed, who at this date were living nearby, at (now) Littlestown, Adams Co., Pa.

III—C—5— —2—Elizabeth Reed (first child by this name), bapt. Aug. 17, 1760, at New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church; possibly died young.

III—C—6—X—3—John Philip Reed, b. Sept. 17, 1764.

III—C—7— —4—Elizabeth Reed, b. Aug. 28, 1767; nothing further is known of her.

*A marriage by the Rev. George Michael Weiss, entered by him in the church book (Reformed), at New Goshenhoppen, as taking place between the years of 1747-1758.

**In all of my efforts at research, I so far, have not been able to locate the burial place of Anna Maria (Maurer) Reed. It may be possible she died shortly after the birth of her last child, about 1767-8, for at that time Michael Reed had sale of his personal effects, preparatory to his going West—to the frontier settlements. Her death may have been one of the reasons for his moving from the Perkiomen Region.

Pennsylvania. From time to time his landed possessions grew until these extended into Douglass Township. Apparently he was a man of affairs in Upper Hanover.*

His first landed possession we have record of was located in Upper Hanover Township, and was a farm of seventy-three acres, with improvements. It was deeded him on January 16, 1749, he then being scarcely 21 years of age. His landed possessions from then grew on until we find him owner at one time of not less than four farms, all in this neighborhood. In the 1769 assessment book he is given as owning "308 acres of land, dwellings, four horses, five cows," and his taxes amounted to £25:s12;d8.

David Schultz, Justice of the Peace and Scrivener, of Upper Hanover Township, in his Journal, under date of June 16, 1769, makes this entry: "Vendue at Michael Riedts." Michael Reed was then selling his real estate and having public sale of his personal property, all preparatory to his removal from the neighborhood.

At this period that neighborhood was having quite an exodus of its younger folks, westward, and many of them were going to and settling frontier lands in York, Franklin, Bedford and other counties of central and western Pennsylvania. Among the families to emigrate then to this new country was that of Michael Reed.

The migration of these people at that time was interesting. The New Goshenhoppen region was being over-populated. In consequence the younger element became restless, and went West—to grow up, prosper and develop with the then new country that was being settled. By doing this it gave them new opportunities. Heavy wagons were loaded with their possessions—household goods, farming implements and tools of husbandry—that they could conveniently take with them. The vehicles were drawn by oxen or horses, forming immigrant trains that wended their way slowly but surely onward and westward. Their road led them to the great Susquehanna River—to a ford near the town of Columbia—the wide water there in season forming shallows. They crossed the river to Wrightsville, into York County, and then went on to Yorktown, Hanover, and elsewhere, wherever their place and destination might lead. Michael Reed and family, it is believed, settled first in or about the new town of Hanover, but finally located at what is now Littlestown,** Germany Township, then in York, but now in Adams County.

*The Hon. John P. Reed, of Bedford, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, a lineal descendent of Michael Reed, under date of October 1, 1904, writes me:—

"I have just discovered a release given me by my father (Michael Reed), 40 years ago to hold as a relic. It indicates that Michael Reed (b. 1728; d. 1807), my great-grandfather, was a responsible man. The paper is dated June 4, 1770, signed Henry Ohl, Jacob Detwiler and Henry Borneman, guardians for the heirs of Henry Smith; the first named of Marlborough Twp., and the latter two of Upper Hanover Twp., all of the County of Philadelphia. 'Received of Michael Riet of Upper Hanover Twp., aforesaid, who until now was one of the administrators of the estate of Henry Smith, dec'd.' * * *" **"Littlestown was first laid out into a town in 1765, consisting of forty-eight building lots. The founder was one Peter Klein, who died in 1773, but a young

At that time, from natural advantages and the great influx of immigration to this locality, the owner of these lands now constituting the central portion of Littlestown, saw its opportunities, divided his lands into building lots, and sold them to the newcomers. Michael Reed was among the first to buy a building lot and settle there. He then erected a small log house in which the family lived and he followed his vocation of shoemaking. In the return of taxables of Germany Township, for the year of 1783, we find this entry:—"Michael Reed, cordwainer, three inhabitants," etc.

This new town of "Klein Stadtle" was located on the great highway that passes through the broad and fertile valley of York County westward, that taps the towns of Wrightsville, York, Hanover, Littlestown, goes on down into Frederick County, Maryland, and into the vast South. From this fact and its surrounding fertile lands, Littlestown at its beginning grew rapidly in extent and prosperity for a new town in those days. The numerous immigrant trains and other travel stopping here in passing to and fro over the great highway westward and southward, stimulated its growth, life and development, and made it grow into quite a large town.

The establishment of the nearby Conewago Reformed and Lutheran Church followed in the wake of growth and settlement, and gave the settlers a nearby and convenient home of worship, and a place of burial for their dead. So long as they resided here it is believed that Michael Reed and family were members of this church, and were active in its growth and spiritual work, although a search through the church's imperfect and incomplete records does not show this association.

The war of the Revolution now drew on, and this great thoroughfare, from the East through Littlestown to the West and South, became a road much used by the army, over which to move troops and army supplies during the whole struggle. The fertile soil throughout the great valley and the thrifty inhabitants furthered the inducement to this travel; for at all times the many inns supplied abundant food, provender and shelter, so essential in those days for accommodation and comfort for travel of man and the transportation of goods.

Among the great movements of the army troops over this highway that created more than ordinary bustle and excitement in Littlestown during the Revolution was when some five thousand Convention troops or British captives, of Burgoyne's army and their American guards passed through this valley, journeying from Cambridge, Massachusetts, to their prison quarters at Charlottesville, Virginia.

man. In its early days the place was known at 'Petersburg,' and before its present name was adopted the hamlet was called "Klein Stadtle," after its founder. Its two leading streets were called King and Queen.

"The original lot owners and builders were Peter Cushwa, Matthias Baker, Stephen Geiss, Henry Brothers, R. McIlhenny, Jacob Grey, John Alspach, Michael Reed, Peter Baker, D. Zackery, the Wills, Sells, Hosteters, Stalls, Krouses, Longs, Dysarts, Littles, and the Kruntz families, with others whose names appear in the original assessment of the township." See History of Adams County, Germany Township, pg. 266.

To our family this great army movement was of more than ordinary interest. For at the time one of these battalions of captured troops was under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, his son, Captain Philip Reed, and other officers of Pennsylvania militia. During the march Colonel Reed's division for several days camped and rested in and about Littlestown. Possibly this was the first and the last time that the two brothers, Michael and Jacob Reed, met since Michael Reed and his family departed from the Upper Perkiomen region to this locality in 1773—the period of the great neighborhood migration westward.

So far as we can learn, Michael Reed lived in Littlestown until about 1785. About this time he removed his family from there to Franklin County, and settled in the neighborhood of the home of his son, Philip Reed, near the town of Waynesboro. His son Philip Reed had already preceded the father some years to this place. While there Michael Reed became a member of the old Salem Reformed (Union) Church, in the town of Waynesboro, of which church Philip Reed and his family were already members. By this time of life it seems his family had disintegrated, the members establishing their own homes, and he came here in his loneliness to spend his declining years with his only son.

In the old graveyard of Salem Reformed Church, in Waynesboro, we find Michael Reed buried with Philip Reed and family in one burial plot. On a personal visit to this old cemetery in the spring of 1896, I discovered these graves, and found the place much neglected. The head and foot stones at these graves were moss-covered and crooked with time, and the mounds were densely overgrown with ivy. After some effort I succeeded in cutting out much of this heavy growth, and thereby was able to make a picture of these stones and inscriptions for preservation. The old headstone of Michael Reed bears this inscription:

In Memory of Michael Reed,

Late of Bucks County, who Departed this Life, Sept.
the 17th, 1807. Aged 79 years, six months, and one day.

You are old prepare to die,
For I am old and here I lie.
My resting place is in the dust,
And Jesus Christ in whom I trust.*

*The reader will note the tombstone reads, "Michael Reed, * * * departed this life, Sept. 17, 1807, aged 79 years, 6 mos. one day." This would make his date of birth about March 16, 1728. This date makes him the oldest known male child of Philip and Veronica (Berekyšin) Reed. This record is at variance with Veronica Reed's statement in her will, which recites: "A bond or note now in the hands of my oldest son Jacob Riet." Jacob Reed was born July 6, 1730. As to the eldest child the tombstone and the mother's statement differ.

When the will of the mother was written in 1790 by David Schultz, the "bush lawyer" and Justice of the Peace, of Upper Hanover Township, there must have Revolutionary military records of the York County militia are very inaccurate and incomplete. From those preserved we are unable to learn just in what capacity Michael Reed served the army. Tradition says that he was active and influential in military affairs, that he did not take up arms and march to the front as a soldier, but instead remained at home, full of patriotism and making shoes for the soldiers. It is said that for many of these shoes he supplied the army with he never was paid either by the soldiers or the government.

In those anxious days that tried all men's souls, with limited means at command, it is a question who were of the most importance to the new aspiring nation, those remaining at home providing the army with necessary supplies or those marching to the front and shooting down the enemy in self-defense. Each made sacrifices for their country, of equal importance. Neither could bring about success without the aid of the other, for both were a necessary factor in establishing independence.

III—C—6—JOHN PHILIP REED (Philip Reed). Son of Michael and Anna Maria (Maurer) Reed. He was b. Sept. 17, 1764,* in Upper Hanover Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. Dec. 17, 1836, near Waynesboro, Washington Twp., Franklin Co., Pa.; m. Aug. 5, 1787, Elizabeth, daugh. of John and Susanna Horner; b. Dec. 6, 1761; d. Jan. 22, 1834, in Washington Twp., Franklin Co., Pa.; members of the old Salem Reformed Ch., Waynesboro; bur. in the Cem. connected with this church; children:—

"Adieu thou blooming youth, tho'gh bred of hope, Endeared to parents, and in friendship knew no scope;
By sudden death thou left this dreary wilderness;
Thou died in hope, and rests in bliss,
Yet over thy grave a grateful tear we'll shed,
And mourn thy loss, 'till memory's self be dead."

been a misunderstanding between the scrivener and the aged lady, and thus inadvertently the error was made. Too, it must be remembered at the time of the will making the son Michael was living far distant from the mother. In those days of little means of communication between them, could it be possible that in her mind he was deceased and her nearby son Jacob was her oldest living son?

"Late of Bucks County," on the tombstone, no one living can explain; nor are there any records extant that will throw light as to just what is meant. Michael Reed some time before his death may have been living here temporarily with some one of the family, and it was on his return to Franklin County that he soon died and was there buried.

*In an old family Bible in the possession of the Cromer family, of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania (intermarried with the Reed family) we find this entry:—

"Father Philip Reed, b. Sept. 17, 1764, A. D., in Old Goshenhoppen, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, and departed this life the 17th of December 1836, A. D., about five o'clock in the morning of that day, aged 72 yrs.; 3 mos."

Geographically speaking, the "Old" and "New" Goshenhoppen region blend into one another and it is hard today to know just which is which and what is meant by old and new Goshenhoppen at this early period.

Philip Reed came into the Franklin County country some time before his father, Michael Reed. His first recorded land ownership was of a farm of one hundred and thirty-seven acres, with improvements, deeded him by his father-in-law, John Horner, on March 22, 1790.

The following is an interesting letter of the very early married life of this couple. It was written as related by one of the older members of the family, at a time when these family matters were told as fireside stories. To read of the early life of the young couple, with its trying and denying experiences, seems more like fiction than reality. From the letter it is realized why Philip Reed did not own lands here at an earlier period:—

“Great-grandfather was a poor man when he married. The Horners objected to their daughter marrying him, and would do nothing for them, and they shifted along the best they could in the earlier days of their married life. They struggled the best they could and the first house they had to live in, was without windows and doors, until they themselves put them in, and hung up quilts and comforts to keep out the cold and bad weather. One day when alone she saw a large bear snooping around outside and thought it would come in the house.

“Great-grandmother was 14 years old when she was married, and only 15 when grandfather (Michael Reed) was born. Great-grandfather was a cabinet maker by trade and when they went to housekeeping they had no furniture and used for such boxes and barrels; used a flour barrel for a table and made their bed on the floor. To get some means he went out and worked for other people making them furniture, etc., and during spare time made pieces for his own home. The first piece he made was a chest so they could put their clothes in and also used it for a table; the family still have the chest. He next made a stand and used it also for a table; this is also a heirloom of the family. Then he next made a bed in which they could sleep. Great-grandmother was a natural born artist, and she used to decorate chairs and other furniture that at that time needed such for their adornment, and we have some of her paintings yet. She was a most wonderful woman or baby wife as you might call her.

“Great-grandmother’s parents were well off, and they wanted her to marry a rich old neighboring miller by trade. They objected to her marrying great-grandfather because he was poor. It was love she was after, not dissatisfaction and wealth.

“Great-grandfather came home one evening from his daily toil at a neighbor’s, and told his wife there would be some men there for breakfast, for they were to fix over the house. She did not have enough bread for them so had to stay up most of the night busy making and baking bread. There was also a man coming to kill a lamb early in the morning, for meat with which to feed the workmen. So great-grandmother was up early and waiting until 7 o’clock, becoming alarmed he would not appear, so she started out, with knife in hand, to kill the lamb. The man was coming, saw her, wondering what was up, stepped behind a big tree and watched. She went into the pen, caught the lamb, and desperately tried to cut its throat with the butcher knife; its strength was too much for hers. She got so far as tying the lamb’s feet with a rope, the man seeing she meant business, came to her rescue, and relieved her of all further effort, by dressing it. In due time it was served and relished by the hungry men doing the work.”

The Philip Reed farm is situated in Washington Township, Franklin County, and on the Baltimore Pike, about two miles east of the town of Philip Reed was a patriot and soldier. For the years of 1789 and 1790 we find him a member of Captain Wallace's Company, Washington Township, Franklin County, Pennsylvania Militia. He was rather young to have served actively the American cause in the Revolution.

In 1809, the year Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, was surveyed and laid out into building lots by John Schell, Philip Reed came upon the scene, became one of the original lot owners, possibly with the intention ultimately of removing and locating here with his family. If this was his intention, he must have experienced a change of mind, for beyond being an investor this desire never materialized.

The Hon. John Philip Reed, of Bedford, a grandson of Philip Reed, as a boy delighted to be at the home of his grandparents, and he writes me entertainingly and affectionately of these grandparents and their old Washington Township, Franklin County, home:—

"I spent some months there when a little boy, when grandfather kept the Inn. I roamed with delight through his pleasant orchards and fields. Grandpa Reed was a stalwart man of great strength, and a most kindly man and respected by all. It was said of him that at one occasion at a public gathering two stalwart men were about to engage in battle; he caught one with one hand and the other with his other hand and held them until they made peace. I love his memory; and grandmother was a great helpmate and kind mother. I am proud to know our ancestors were church people from the beginning, and were instrumental in building churches; and down to myself and family.

"My father (Michael Reed) frequently drove his father's (Philip Reed) team to Baltimore, laden with bacon and other country produce, and brought back salted fish, etc., for the neighbors. I recollect one morning a six-horse team that had rested for the night at grandfather's, and whose driver started westward up the rather steep ascent from the house and stalled; the horses did not pull together, when Uncle John Reed took charge. He went around each horse, talked to them, felt their noses and bits in their mouths, then mounted the saddle horse, cracked the whip and with a sharp command, away went the horses tugging together and fairly flew up the hill. It was a great surprise to me, a wee boy of about 9 years.

and he was very kind in making our visit very interesting. The place impressed me so much for its most wonderful and attractive home with its most inspiring vista, and beautiful surroundings.

The old Salem Reformed Church was then among the very early landmarks in Waynesboro. This congregation was founded about 1773—at least a decade before the coming of the Reeds. It was first known as Boshaar's Reformed (Union) Church. Its records up to 1796 are lost, and from that period until 1823, the entries are all in German and but imperfectly kept.

In 1927, just thirty-one years later, I again visited this place. I found still here in Waynesboro my good friend, the Rev. F. B. Bahner. He had aged somewhat, but was in good health. We again visited some of the old landmarks. The old Salem Reformed Church is no more, but its burial ground still exists in which Philip Reed and family are buried. Its condition is deplorable, and at the time the ground was used as a sheep pasture. How sad! But such is time with its many changes.

In Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pa. In its day it was the prettiest and most substantial home in the town. For many years here they lived in competency, and Michael Reed was looked upon as the most active, leading and progressive citizen of Schellsburg.

Michael Reed early in life learned cabinet-making with his father in Franklin County. When of age he drifted from home and went West and finally settled in Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pennsylvania. At this time the town was but a small frontier village. Soon after his coming he married into the Schell family,** founders of Schellsburg.

At first he there engaged at his trade, that of cabinet-making; then gradually drifted into building operations. Later he built for himself one

“Bedford, Pa., April 30, 1901.

“Dear Nephew:—

“Yours relating to mother of yesterday came to me today. I do not know that my mother was sent to school at Philadelphia, nor do I know where she got her music lessons. She told me when she was quite a young girl, she and her brother Jacob rode two colts to Philadelphia, and they rode across the Susquehanna (river) at Harrisburg, and it tried her courage. * * *

“John Schell, her father, came to Bedford County in 1797 or 1800, bought lands and laid out Schellsburg. Then mother was only 6 years old. I have a large portrait painted for her, a little girl then. She had when married a piano. I do not think her father or any of his children had a liberal education. They were plain people, but spirited and respectable. Had taste for the beautiful, fond of music and paintings, etc.

“Truly, etc.,

“John Philip Reed.”

**The Hon. John P. Reed, Esq., thus writes of the family of his mother, Elizabeth Schell:—“Elizabeth Schell's grandmother was Fronica Von Schellin, and the mother of the late John Schell, Esq. She d. Feb. 8, 1815, aged 88 years, in Schellsburg, and was buried in St. John's cemetery. Her son, John Schell (father of Elizabeth), was b. Nov. 30, 1754; d. March 30, 1825. His wife was Elizabeth Hillegas, b. Oct. 17, 1763; d. July 10, 1842, in Schellsburg; both are buried in St. John's (Reformed) Ch. Cemetery, in Schellsburg.

“John Schell moved from Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, to Schellsburg in about 1800, was a man of means and purchased considerable property and laid out the borough of Schellsburg. The children of John and Elizabeth (Hillegas) Schell were:—(1)—John; (2)—Peter; (3)—Henry; (4)—Jacob; (5)—Joseph; (6)—Elizabeth; (7)—Mary; (8)—Eve. Peter became an associate judge of Bedford County, was a member of the State Legislature, and a leading man in Schellsburg and Bedford County. The Schells were members of the Reformed church.”

of the prettiest and most substantial homes in Schellsburg. His business ventures were successful from the beginning, and in time he became the leading and most successful and enterprising business man of the town. He prospered with the town's growth and development, and was one of its wealthiest citizens.*

From force of circumstances Michael Reed's early schooling was limited, but he possessed an unlimited amount of grit, talent and natural ability. Recognizing his shortcomings in school learning, he met the conditions by becoming a self-made man, and among his selected studies was surveying. In time he became an engineer and surveyor of more than ordinary ability. Having a practical turn of mind, he built for himself a set of surveying instruments with which to do his work. In 1815-16, when the turnpike westward from Bedford town was promoted, he was urged by the management to survey and lay out the road. The work he did was so satisfactory, particularly the most difficult part over the Alleghanies, that the route as originally laid out by him is still the accepted roadway.**

For many years he filled the office of postmaster at Schellsburg, was a Justice of the Peace, served some time as County Surveyor of Bedford County, and for several terms was the county's representative in the State Legislature. He served other public offices, always with such prudence and ability that he ever retained the trust, fidelity and confidence of the people.

In his church he took an active and leading interest, and creditably filled all of its offices as layman. He served in any way whereby its interests and welfare could be advanced, for the betterment of its cause, its pastor and its people. He always was a liberal contributor of his means in all worthy causes, and worked in harmony with co-workers for the promotion of good. When he died he still lived in the memory of his many friends, and this endeared feeling clung and existed with them as long as they outlived him.

**Thus his son, the Hon. John P. Reed, writes of his father and his skill as an engineer; of his ability, etc:—

"My father, Michael Reed, was a born mathematician. Without an education, he became quite an engineer and surveyor. He located the turnpike over the Allegheny Mountains—the Bedford and Hollidaysburg Turnpike—and surveyed over three counties. He was a Justice of the Peace, County Surveyor, a member of the State Legislature, and made himself generally useful as a builder, designer and scrivener."

VI—C—47— —1—Paul Reed, b. May 30, 1880, in Bedford town; active in affairs in and about Bedford; served in the World War; now engaged at the creamery business in Bedford; never married.

John Philip Reed was a man of affairs and a prominent attorney-at-law in Bedford. In his time he enjoyed a lucrative practice at his profession, was at the head of the bar, and belonged to the older class of attorneys of his town. Born in Schellsburg, in the earlier career of his life he was a Justice of the Peace. In 1848 he was elected Prothonotary, Recorder, Register of Wills and Clerk of Courts of Bedford County; the office necessitated the removal of his family to Bedford town, the county seat. At the expiration of his term of office he was defeated for re-election. He then took to the study of law and in due time was admitted to practice the legal profession in the Bedford County courts. In 1869 he again was elected Prothonotary, Register of Wills, Recorder and Clerk of the Courts. When his second term of office expired he resumed the practice of law and continued as such until his decease.

Besides being a leading attorney at the bar, he was one of the town's most active and leading citizens. He was held in great esteem by all, and for his great fidelity was selected to fill many positions of honor and trust. Notable among these were the office of secretary of the Bedford Mineral Springs Company, secretary of the Bedford Railroad Company, secretary of the Board of Managers of the Bedford Cemetery Company, secretary of the Job Mann Trust, whose proceeds for all time are to be used for the preparation of poor young men for the Christian ministry, etc.

For many years he was the trusted clerk and treasurer of his church. He organized the first Sunday School of the Reformed Church in Bedford, and served as its superintendent for over thirty-five years. In his church as layman he was ever influential and active, and contributed liberally of his means for its advancement and support. He was so endeared to the younger people that to them he was better and affectionately known as "Uncle John Reed" of Bedford.

VI—C—40—JOHN PHILIP REED, JR. Son of John Philip and Lucinda (Mengel) Reed. He was b. Aug. 21, 1841, in Schellsburg, Bedford Co., Pa.; d.—, in Los Angeles, Cal.; m. May 8, 1867, Fannie M. Owens, b.—, in Montgomery, Ala.; Presbyterians; he bur. in Los Angeles; the widow still lives in that city; children:—

VII—C—54— —5—John Philip Reed, b.—

John Philip Reed, Jr., was an attorney-at-law, and in the latter part of his life practiced his profession in the city of Los Angeles, California. When a young man he settled in Canada and there studied law. Later on he was admitted to the bar in New York City, and there practiced his profession for twenty years. Then he took Horace Greeley's advice, "Go West, young man," and he went with his family to Tacoma, a growing city, in what was then Washington Territory. There for a number of years he practiced his profession with great success. Believing the warmer climate of the southwestern country more suitable to his taste, he then moved to Los Angeles, and there spent his declining years in comfort.

In 1907, Mrs. Reed and I were on a trip to the Pacific Coast, and while in Los Angeles we called on John Reed, Esq., and his family. We found them congenially located in a most beautiful home, in the pretty residential section of the city, enjoying its delightful climate, amidst a great profusion of flowers, its balmy air, and the pleasures and comforts of this live, ideal city. They seemed very happy enjoying the life which the place and its agreeable climate offered. We spent several days in their company at a most delightful season, and the visit left with us pleasant and sweet remembrance.

Joseph A. Reed, Esq., after completing his course of study in the public schools of his home town of Bedford, graduated from Franklin and Marshall College, then went to New York City, N. Y., and entered as a student in the law office of his brother, John Philip Reed. He attended lectures at Columbia University, in due time took his degree and then was admitted to the practice of law in that city. In later years he removed to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and engaged there at his legal profession. He is comfortably located, enjoys a lucrative practice, and is regarded as an able, successful and a truly trustworthy practitioner.

Michael Reed Minnich graduated from Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg an A. B. and A. M., and S. T. B. from the Philadelphia Evangelical Lutheran Theological Seminary. For many years he was Secretary of the Lovell Clock Company of Philadelphia. He was an eminent clerygman in the Lutheran Church, but was compelled to discontinue active service on account of chronic throat affection. After 1905 he resumed church work actively, and up to 1924 was doing noble work on the staff of the Philadelphia Lutheran City Mission. He always was inspired with historical and genealogical research work and he wrote a number of papers on genealogy and local history. His outstanding work is the Life of Michael Hillegas, the first Treasurer of the United States, from whom he is a lineal descendant. He rendered me material service in the Reed History and Genealogy, particularly in gathering history of the very old families and especially that of the Michael Reed branch, who in early days settled in and about Philadelphia, York, Franklin and Bedford counties.

REV. MICHAEL REED MINNICH

Of Philadelphia, Pa. He was not only an eminent divine but assisted in many ways in my genealogical work, more particularly so regarding his Philip and Elizabeth (Horner) Reed branch of the Reed family.

Since the above was written, Michael Reed Minnich died on January 24, 1928, at his home, on Larchwood Avenue, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. I copy from the Philadelphia Public Ledger a deserving biographical sketch, which was printed in that paper only a few days before his decease, upon his resignation from the City Mission staff:—

"The Rev. Michael Reed Minnich, for many years an outstanding figure in missionary work in Philadelphia, has resigned from the staff of the Philadelphia City Mission of the Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania. He is 81 years old and has been connected with the City Mission since 1909.

"Mr. Minnich is especially known for his work among prisoners. He is a lineal descendant of Michael Hillegas, the first Treasurer of the United States, and is the author of a volume entitled 'A Memoir of the First Treasurer of the United States.'

"Born at Schellsburg, Pa., November 14, 1846, Mr. Minnich was graduated from Gettysburg College in 1870. Three years later he received his master of arts degree at Gettysburg College, was graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mount Airy and was ordained to the ministry.

"His first charge was at Staunton, Va., where he served as pastor of the Central Lutheran Church from 1873 to 1878. From 1905 to 1908 he was pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Overbrook, and from 1908 to 1909 was associate pastor of Incarnation Lutheran Church, this city.

"He has held many offices, both in church and secular organizations. He was secretary of the Lutheran Synod of Virginia, deputy prothonotary of Bedford County, Pa., and served as instructor of English literature at the Staunton Female Seminary in 1875-76.

"He is a member of the Franklin Institute, the Pennsylvania Historical Society, the Pennsylvania German Society, and the Sons of the Revolution, etc."

VI—C—75—HARRY SCHELL MINNICH. Son of John G. and Maria Catharine (Reed) Minnich. He was b. June 5, 1860, in Bedford, Bedford Co., Pa.; m. Sept. 27, 1893, Laura Catharine, daugh. of Neal and Eve Mary (Wertz) McArthur; b. Mar. 11, 1870, near Princeton, Bureau Co., Ill.; d. Apr. 26, 1914, at Collins, Covington Co., Miss.; she is bur. in Oakland Cem., Princeton, Ill.; Lutherans; family resided at Collins, Miss.; children:—

VII—C—102— —3—John George Minnich, b. Aug. 11, 1898, in Princeton; resides with his father at Collins, Miss.; never married.

Harry Schell Minnich was educated at his home in Bedford, Pennsylvania. He there learned the jewelry and watchmaking business. When still a young man, he took Horace Greeley's advice and went West, settling at his trade in Princeton, Illinois, the home of his wife's parents. After a number of years he removed with his family to the town of Collins, in Covington County, Mississippi, there to engage at his business, that of a jeweler.

Before his going West from his home town of Bedford he became a musician of note, and he saw service in the Second Brigade of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. In 1916, in Covington, he and his only son together enlisted for military duty in the First Regiment, Mississippi troops; then they were sworn in the Federal Army, and saw active military service on the Mexican border. There through a mishap both were disabled, and subsequently were honorably discharged. Some time thereafter they were employed by the government in the Old Hickory Powder Plant, near Nashville, Tennessee. Afterwards they were transferred for duty at Hog Island, near Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. After hostilities ceased they returned to their home at Collins, and there the father resumed the jewelry business.

Joseph S. Reed learned the trade of cabinet-making and builder with his father in Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pennsylvania. Most of his life has been devoted to the contracting and lumbering business. At one time he owned and operated all or the greater part of the large lumbering mills in the city of Altoona, Clearfield and Center Counties; he also had similar interests in West Virginia and in the city of Allegheny, Pennsylvania.

In his younger days he was inspired with romance and the military spirit. Back in the forties a military company of 104 soldiers was raised in Schellsburg and Bedford, and called the "Bedford Grays." He was made Sergeant. The company tendered its services to the United States government for the Mexican War campaign. On their way to Mexico, they first proceeded to Pittsburgh, and there embarked on the river boat "Colonel Yell," for New Orleans, Louisiana, and from there they sailed on a man-of-war to Vera Cruz, Mexico. In Vera Cruz they were attached to the Ninth Infantry corps of the United States army, and marched inland. Their first skirmish with the enemy was at National Bridge, in old Mexico. The next battle was at King's Bridge.

In the National Bridge battle,* Sergeant Reed met with a misfortune, in a charge of the enemy over rocky ground, that of having his knee punctured with spikes of the Spanish needle bush. The thorn penetrated through his pantaloons into his knee cap and caused a severe swelling of the leg, necessitating the cutting of his trouser leg to relieve the severe tension. Nevertheless he moved on with his company for a distance of over three hundred miles, to the City of Mexico, and assisted in the city's capture. His misfortune was followed by an attack of yellow fever. He was then returned by train, with other sick and wounded, to Vera Cruz, and then by boat to a hospital in New Orleans. In the hospital he suffered six weeks' torture and distress, from both the injured limb and the yellow fever scourge, before his return to his home in the North.

On May 10th, 1848, he was honorably discharged from further military service of the United States on a surgeon's certificate for disability.

On the outbreak of the Rebellion, Joseph S. Reed, felt it incumbent again to offer service for military duty to his country. Though still in rather delicate health from the Mexican campaign, he was accepted, and assigned at first to the recruiting of new military companies. He organized some eight or nine of these, and with one of them, known as the "Hopewell Riflemen," enlisted for active duty and went with them to the battle front.

When the Confederate army invaded Pennsylvania, he, as Captain, marched at the head of his troops from Broad Top, through Well's Valley, toward McConnellsburg, where the enemy were active at raiding for cattle and forage. During the engagement at Gettysburg, he led his troops from Mount Union to near Hancock, Maryland, there to battle with the Confederates who were then coming into McConnellsburg. Captain Reed, though second in command, really was commander of the Union military forces here.

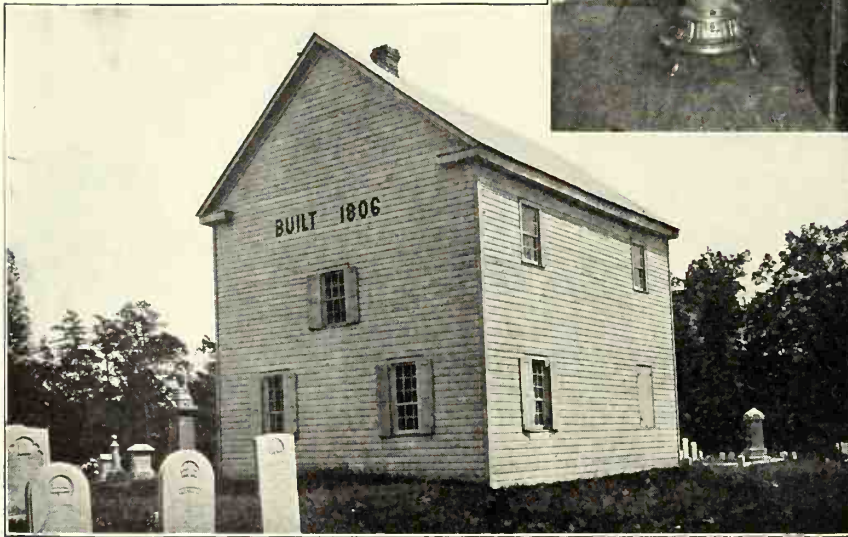

Captain Reed was generous to his troops, and largely fed his men from his private purse. This with the loss of time of his workmen serving as soldiers, while he was engaged in big building operations at the time at Coalmont and Broad Top City, meant great personal sacrifice of time and money. He at one time as Captain commanded the "Broad Top *Among Sergeant Reed's military exploits while in service in Mexico, was an incident that happened at the National Bridge skirmish. A Mexican officer stood on the heights about two hundred yards distant from the American troops and taunted the American men to fire. A number of shots had been made at him by American marksmen and all failed of the mark. Sergeant Reed was called upon by a superior officer to try his aim. Exchanging his musket for the officer's rifle, he stepped in front of the column about 150 yards from the brush piled across the bridge to prevent the artillery from crossing, calmly took aim, and as the rifle cracked the Mexican fell, and the whole army cheered. Upon capture of the place blood was found and the killed Mexican's sword was lying at the spot. The sword afterward was given Sergeant Reed and he has always retained and treasured it as a relic.

In 1899, in company with my kinsman, the Rev. M. Reed Minnich, I paid our relatives in and about Bedford and Schellsburg a visit. Among the places where we were kindly entertained at the time was the Colvin homestead and the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, then under the Colvin family management. Their farm home was but a short distance beyond the town of Bedford, located prettily in a broad and beautiful valley, and its lands were under a high state of cultivation, indicating thrift and prosperity.

At the time part of the Colvin family were located at and managing the hotel, some miles beyond, up in the mountains, and several miles from the railroad station, distant some eight or nine miles from the town of Bedford. The location of the hotel to me was charming and pretty, presenting a picturesque appearance, with a dense grove of large and spreading evergreen trees, and near a spring of odorous sulphur water of medicinal value, from which the place derives its name.

When I awoke from my slumbers in the morning I found the weather delightful and refreshing, and the air filled with the song of numerous birds; particularly above all others was the plaintive cry of the whip-poor-will. All this charmed me so that I have never been able to forget the impression made by the night's stay and the visit with the Colvins at the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, in Bedford County. What added interest and inspiration to our short stay at the hotel was the great gathering there of the "Reeds" from in and about Bedford. It was a sort of family reunion, and "Uncle" John P. Reed, Esq., was the honored guest. Gray-haired though he was, he seemed full of vivacity and was the center of all affection, interest and joviality.

A quarter of a century later while on a genealogical trip to the western part of the state, I again visited the White Sulphur Springs Hotel, and found it still the same delightful and all-inspiring place, and under the Colvin management. It seemed to me to possess the same charm and beauty as upon my first visit, though a quarter of a century's interval has marked its progress. The older Colvins have gone to the great beyond, but still the same interest and devotion is found among the children, as was found in the earlier days of its environment, ownership and management.

William Harmon Shuff is Supt. of the Pulaski Flour and Chopping Mills; was educated at Randolph-Macon College, Va.; resides in Pulaski, Va.

Philip Reed came to Salem, Virginia, from Pennsylvania in 1848, and five years later married there. At first he was engaged in selling wheat fans; then the Civil War broke out and he enlisted in the Southern cause.

First he served in the ranks of the army, but this was for a short time only, when he was honorably discharged. He then received a government appointment, that of Superintendent of the Southwest Virginia Turnpike Company, extending from Buchanan to a little the other side of Wytheville. After the war he engaged in the sale of agricultural implements, but in the last twelve years of his life he had retired from active business. He was quite a lodge man, a member of the Odd Fellows, Masonic fraternity, and others, and was an active member and officer in the Methodist church. He died much respected in the church and in the community at large.

The Shugart family were among the very early settlers in Mercersburg, Franklin County, Pennsylvania. John Shugart in 1840 left his Pennsylvania home with his family for the West, settling at first on a farm in Richland County, Ohio, nearly in the center of this state. They farmed there for eight years. His oldest son, Philip Reed Shugart, now left him, going to Illinois, to the home of his uncle, Zacharias Shugart, a farmer, who lived in South Dover Township, Bureau County. The father, with his family, soon followed the son to this place in Illinois. There John Shugart, the elder, purchased a fine farm, and then followed farming and stock raising. His thoroughbred stock was known far and wide, and he became quite prosperous.

In the early sixties he sold out his farming and stock interests, removed into the nearby town of Princeton, and there spent his declining years in quiet, peace and comfort. He was looked upon as one of the town's most prosperous and staid citizens, and was ever active in all civic work for its welfare, progress and advancement.

VI—C—226—X—7—John Judson Shugart, b. Jan. 30, 1864.

In 1840 Philip Reed Shugart, with his parents, removed from Pennsylvania to Richland County, Ohio. First assisting his father at farming, he then took up a position as clerk in a store in the nearby town of Ashland. While there he married. Then he learned the trade of bricklaying. In 1850 he sought a change, removed with his family to Bureau County, Illionis, near the home of his uncle, Zacharias Shugart, and there for four years followed his trade of bricklaying. Then he bought a farm nearby, just north of the town of Princeton, to which he removed and finally settled thereon.

Philip Reed Shugart, like many of the early pioneers of limited means in that section of the country, had his struggles. With time, grit and enterprise, thrift followed, and obstacles were gradually overcome. He finally became one of the most prosperous, leading and enterprising citizens thereabouts.

When the family first arrived in Bureau County hardships confronted them. The head of the family could find no work at his trade of bricklaying, and his unimproved farm was little better than a swamp. It produced poorly, and for a while the principal family diet was bread and blackberry jam. The cabin home was a dilapidated affair. In rainy weather the bed upon which his wife lay in sickness could not be kept dry. Fever and ague were prevalent, and the family experienced the distressing malady.

In time and through hard work all this changed, for property values loomed up and favored them. A fine home was established with its blessings. The first few hundred dollars earned then was to them of more value than thousands accumulated in after years.

Philip Reed Shugart's first farm here was of 160 acres. He tired of this, sold it and purchased another of 140 acres of better quality, situated in Dover Township, and going largely into debt for its payment. Both he and his wife became at times much discouraged, but stolid determination, perseverance and persistency finally mastered the situation. During the hard times of 1857-8, he had to pay as much as 25% interest on several loans to retain his farm. Those were times that tried the stoutest heart.

In 1863, Mr. Shugart rented his farm, and entered into partnership with his brother Eli, in the hardware business in Princeton. For five years the enterprise went on successfully in the name of Shugart & Company. Then his brother withdrew from the firm, and the business was sold to other interests.

Philip Reed Shugart now went back to farming. He built for himself a fine residence, and began the breeding of a superior stock of short-horn cattle, a high grade of hogs, and a breed of excellent quality of the Norman horse. At many county fairs he was the blue ribbon winner for quality and excellence of his superior and thoroughbred stock. He was made a life member of the Bureau County Fair Association, having joined that organization in 1860; similar honors were conferred on him by other societies and associations.

VI—C—220—MARY ELIZABETH SHUGART. Daughter of Philip Reed and Rebekahk (Cox) Shugart. She was b. Mar. 8, 1848, in Ashland Co., Ohio; d. Nov. 28, 1926, in Malvern, Mills Co., Iowa; m. Dec. 23, 1866, Allen Smith; b. June 7, 1844, in Princeton, Ill.; d. Nov. 3, 1919, in Malvern, Iowa; she Baptist; he Methodist; bur. at Hastings, Mills Co., Iowa.; children:—

- VII—C—230—X—1—Margaret Smith, b. Mar. 12, 1868; m. S. T. White; live in Delta, Delta Co., Colo.

- VII—C—233—X—4—Frances Smith, b. Mar. 1, 1882; m. Earl L. Stone; live in Andover, Day Co., S. Dakota.
- VII—C—234—X—5—Bessie Smith, b. Mar. 20, 1887; m. O. R. W. Hyde; reside in Hastings, Mills Co., Iowa.

Allen Smith after his marriage settled at farming in the country north of Princeton, in Bureau County, Illinois. The family lived there until the year 1872, when they moved to Cass County, Iowa. There they homesteaded 160 acres of land, and lived there until 1892, when they removed to Massena, the county town of Cass, and there became interested in the furniture and undertaking business. In 1905 they removed to Malvern, the county town of Mills, Iowa, where Allen Smith continued his business interests, retiring therefrom about two years before his decease.

VI—C—226—JOHN JUDSON SHUGART. Son of Philip Reed and Rebekahk (Cox) Shugart. He was b. Jan. 30, 1864, in Princeton, Bureau Co., Ill.; m. Sept. 1, 1887, Cora B. Matson; b. Mar. 27, 1867, in Princeton; Congregationalists; live in Princeton, Ill.; children:—

John Judson Shugart, after his father's removal to Princeton, lived on the homestead place and farmed it, and at his father's death he bought the farm from the heirs. The place is popularly known as "Maplewood Farm," and is improved with modern buildings and contains the latest conveniences and improvements. The son, like his father, raises thoroughbred stock, such as horses, cows, hogs, etc., of a quality that has given the place a wide reputation; many are the prizes for excellence of quality he has taken wherever he has exhibited.

V—C—258— —9—Richard Porter, b. Sept. 8, 1843; d. Feb. 9, 1844.

James Porter, it is believed was of Scotch-Irish descent. His father came from Europe about 1790, settled in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, not far from Chambersburg. He learned the trade of cabinet-making, and first settled at his trade in Waynesboro and later in Chambersburg. There he married and remained until about 1840, when he removed West with his family, settling at St. Clairsville, Belmont Co., Ohio, and there farmed and worked at his trade. From border life the wife soon became homesick, and they then returned to their former home in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania.

Four years later they again went West, returning to the State of Ohio. There James Porter engaged in innkeeping, on the old Ridge pike, about a mile west of Wheeling, West Virginia, and but a short distance beyond the Ohio River. Their second trip was made West in a heavy wagon, drawn by several horses, the wagon carrying the family and their possessions.

In 1853, James Porter sold out his tavern effects there, and resumed his overland journey westward, now going to Bureau County, Illinois. Thither some of the family had preceded him and already located. He bought a large farm of excellent quality of land, and farmed and worked at his trade there until his demise. The family prospered well in their new western home as the country grew and developed about them. They were a fine couple—very much attached to each other, so much so, that when one died the other grieved much and soon followed. In their death the family were very much distressed, and the community as well lost endeared ones and a most respected couple.

V—C—251—PHILIP REED PORTER. Son of James and Katharine (Reed) Porter. He was b. Oct. 18, 1825, in Waynesboro, Franklin Co., Pa.; d. Dec. 27, 1917, in Princeton, Bureau Co., Ill.; m. June 24, 1856, Sarah C. Seaton; b. June 12, 1830, in Oldham Co., Ky.; Methodists; he bur. at Wyanet; the widow lives at Wyanet; children:—

VI—C—265— —6—N. Estella Porter, b.—

VI—C—266— —7—Katharine B. Porter, b.—

Philip Reed Porter went West with his parents on their migration. He lived with them at St. Clairsville, and came back with them on their return to Pennsylvania, going again with them on their second trip to Ohio, and thence to Bureau County, State of Illinois. He assisted his parents at their farming, until his marriage, and then engaged at farming for himself in Concord Township. In time he became quite a real estate owner in Bureau County, owning over 400 acres of fine fertile land, and at his vocation was very successful. In his community he was a popular man and was widely known in community affairs, but never sought public office.

In 1903, feeling that he had a competency of this world's means, he retired from farming, removed into Princeton, the county seat town, and there for the remainder of his life lived retired. He was a congenial neighbor, dwelt very happily with his family, and lived to be nearly a hundred years of age.

V—C—255—MARTHA J. PORTER. Daughter of James and Katharine (Reed) Porter. She was b. Feb. 8, 1837, in Franklin Co., Pa.; d. Apr. 30, 1919, in Ogilvie, Kanabec Co., Minn.; m. Jan. 1, 1863, O. W. V—C—291—X—12—Simon Ely Wertz, b. June 17, 1846.

The Wertz family were from the Palatinate, Germany, having come to America in 1731. They first settled on lands in Coventry Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, removing later to York, but finally settled at farming in Franklin County. After his marriage, John Wertz located on a farm in Quincy Township, Franklin County. He did not remain there long, for he removed to a finer farm in Napier Township, Bedford County, Pennsylvania, and lived and farmed there for a number of years. In 1849 he sold out most of his personal effects, and in a large wagon drawn by a fine team of horses, with family and household goods he removed to the State of Illinois. First he settled there at the innkeeping business, on the main highway, just north of Springfield, and the hotel became known as "The Six Mile House," its location being just six miles north of Springfield. Tiring of the tavern business in a few years, he sold the place and fixtures, then going to Green River, Henry County, same state, where he operated and owned a fine farm. He lived there until his death, and became one of Green River's most prosperous and public-spirited citizens.*

*Here is a family letter from Michael Reed, of Bedford, Pennsylvania, to his sister, Rebecca (Reed) Wertz, in Illinois. The letter is of such a character and interest that I give it in full. In his declining years it speaks of his bodily afflictions and his interest in his family, and their welfare in life to him seems comforting, pleasing and gratifying. I give it as written:—

“Bedford, Bedford County, Penna.

“Jan. 26, 1866.

“Dear Sister:—

“Yours of the 25th ult. came regular to hand, and found me in good health. I have neglected to answer until to-day and I feel sorry that I did not write immediately. It gave me great pleasure to hear from you, and my fervent prayer is that this may reach you in the grace of God, and in good health.

“I now live with my son, John Philip Reed, in Bedford. I have here four of my children around me with about twenty grandchildren. My daughter, Elizabeth Yeager, lives in Charlesville, Bedford Co.; Maria, Jacob and Ellen live in Bedford; Joseph and Peter live in Tyrone City, in Huntingdon County. John, Jacob, Joseph and Peter are interested in two saw mills, situated on Sandy Ridge, on the line of Centre and Clearfield Counties; Powelton is their post office.

“My children all are getting along well in this world, and I thank God they take the kindest care of their poor old father. I am better than four months in my 78th year. My health is remarkably good. My hearing is not very good, but eyesight as good as ever. No rheumatic or other pains about my body. O God, receive my thanks for these blessings and hear my humble prayers. * * *

“John Mower [his and family's friend] is well and hearty as usual.

“Give my love to Maria Porter and family, and all enquiring friends. Let me hear from you again.

“I herewith send you father's record of our ages according to request. May the blessing of God rest upon you all.

“Michael Reed.

Neal McArthur was a Scotchman by birth who emigrated to America about 1836. He became a very successful farmer near Princeton, Bureau County, Illinois. His fine farm was about one and a half miles south of the town. The couple were married in Princeton. After his death the widow and daughter removed into Princeton. The mother was noted for her kindness to the poor and afflicted. She was very sympathetic to all and considerate to a fault of the feelings of others. When she passed to her long home, she was sadly missed and mourned by many, especially by the poor of her community who always received a helping hand from her.

Simon E. Wertz was but a small child when he came with his parents from Pennsylvania to Illinois. His father died when he was but a lad, leaving a widow with a number of children. The mother struggled hard, kept the family together and gave them all a limited education. When Simon was but 17 years of age the Civil War broke out, and he enlisted in the army, in the Illinois Volunteers. He was with General Sherman on his march through Georgia to the sea. He participated in a number of battles and won distinction for bravery, etc.

After the war he returned to Bureau County, settled down at farming and married. It was a struggle, and becoming discouraged, he took the advice of Horace Greeley, "Go West, young man." With his wife and three small children, he removed to Denison, Texas, and farmed. Again experiencing reverses, he then accepted a position with the railroad. This was his salvation. From various positions he rose rapidly in promotion until he became general bridge builder and contractor for the road. With the promotions his prosperity grew, this thrift gave him prominence, and with it came a competency in this world's means in his declining years. Now he lives retired and is one of Denison's foremost, substantial and exemplary citizens.

Jacob Reed was reared as a farmer at the home of his parents, in New Goshenhoppen (Salford and Marlborough Townships), Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. His schooling, other than that received at his home, was at the parochial school of the New Goshenhoppen German Reformed Church and it was limited in both German and English. He remained with his parents at their Salford and Marlborough home until he was of mature age. Then drifting over into Hatfield Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, he there settled on a farm and married. He acquired a tract of 228 acres of land from the Penns on the leasehold plan. This he improved with a log dwelling and other additional buildings essential for his needs. Most of his married years were lived here, he devoting his time and attention to his family, the farm and to his church.

At the time of the advent of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed in Hatfield, the land about him was owned by the Penns, and was either in its primitive state or in the hands of newcomers, and these at first were mostly land squatters. Immigration from Europe at this period of the county's history was pouring into the country in great numbers, consequently the vacant lands were being rapidly acquired and occupied, and as a result most of Colonel Reed's neighbors were either German or Swiss Palatines.

The Penn Manor or tract of land of which Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed's farm was a part or parcel at the time of his coming consisted of a trifle over 1000 acres, and for some reason of the Penns it was being held back or reserved from sale. It was not until 1770 that Jacob Reed and his neighbors were given title, though they for all these years resided thereon and were provisional owners, improving the land with buildings and paying a nominal rent. The site of the farm, then in Hatfield Township, is midway between the present boroughs of Hatfield and Souderton, near the old Leidy Cemetery, and bordering on Franconia Township.

In the year 1769, the assessor returned Jacob Reed, of Hatfield Township, as owning, "200 acres of land, 4 horses, 8 cattle, and one servant." Of the many inhabitants of the township at this period of the county's history there were but four having or owning servants.

In recent years this farm of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed has been divided into several smaller farms. On the main part of the farm we find the old original Reed home of logs. This building has been changed in later years by additions at both ends. All is blended into one home, thereby making it of considerable size. Even the original part, notwithstanding its great age, is well preserved and is still occupied as a dwelling. Here it was the Colonel and his family lived during the Revolutionary War. Because of his great activity and earnestness in advocating the American cause and fighting for it,* he and his family had to suffer innumerable trials and hardships at the hands of neighboring Tories and British marauding soldiers.

Local historians say, "Colonel Reed in his day was a man of great prominence." For he "was active and influential as a patriot* and citizen, and filled a number of positions of honor and trust in the vicinity." Being conversant with German and English, and possessing more than ordinary business tact and executive ability, he was much sought after by his neighbors for consultation and advice in business affairs, acting as a sort of scrivener, though not a public official or Justice of the Peace.

His greatest prominence centered in the American Revolution. He was a confirmed patriot and persistent leader in the American cause, thus incurring Tory and British hatred, so much so, that on several occasions he was made to suffer personal injury at their hands and escaped with his life by a miracle.

His earlier life in Colonial times as a soldier is somewhat obscure so far as extant records go. He must have had some experience and training as a military man before the outbreak of the Revolution. It must have been this experience and the training he received as a soldier in the British army in the Colonial wars, fighting predatory bands of Indians and the French, that brought about his election to the position of Battalion officer in the County Militia, for he served his country with distinction and honor throughout the whole Revolutionary War. The incomplete military records preserved at this day do not give us the desired information.

Agreeable to a new militia law of the State of Pennsylvania, enacted by the Legislature in 1777, Philadelphia County was divided into battalion districts, and the Lieutenants and Sub-Lieutenants of the county were directed to hold an election in the several battalions for field officers. These elections were held in due time and the returns were made to the Supreme Executive Council, in Philadelphia, on April 22, 1777. The officers elected to serve the First Battalion District, consisting of the #### EARLY LAND PURCHASE OF JACOB REED AND OTHERS IN HATFIELD.

These chosen officers immediately began fulfilling their responsibilities by disciplining and training the soldiers under their command for active and proficient service in the field, and for attending all such other duties assigned them by their superior officers, in compliance with the meaning and intent of the new militia law.

As the Revolutionary struggle progressed, the enemy made his first appearance in the neighborhood of Colonel Reed's home in the fall of 1777.* The county militia were now under arms for field duty. More particularly was this pertinent when the British army in great numbers sailed up the Chesapeake Bay, landed on the shores of Elk River, in Maryland, and threatened the capture of Philadelphia, the seat of the American government.

Soon the whole State Militia were ordered under arms, prepared for duty, and assembled under command of Major General Armstrong. The battalion of Colonels Heister and Reed was one of those under command of Brigadier General James Potter, who in conjunction with the Continental Army, under the Commander-in-Chief, General George Washington, made a determined stand against the enemy on the banks of the Brandywine Creek, offering battle and being defeated.

Some weeks later followed the battle of Germantown. The Pennsylvania Militia participated in the fight, and the American army again was defeated. It is a tradition in the family that in this fight Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was wounded slightly in the leg and his horse was killed beneath him. A gloomy time it was now, not only for the American army, but the whole neighborhood likewise became alarmed and suffered from the presence of the enemy.**

Because of the approaching cold weather, active hostilities ceased to a certain extent, and the British army now went into winter quarters in Philadelphia, while the American army wintered on the bleak hills at Valley Forge. With both armies in winter quarters here, the American officers and their home were insecure at all times. Constant fear from

*In the course of its business the Supreme Executive Council, at its regular session, in Philadelphia, under date of Nov. 1, 1786, granted the following order (nearly ten years late):—

“Ordered:—in favor of Colonel John Moore, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed and Major George Wright, of Philadelphia County, for twenty-three pounds, two shilling & six pence, in full for militia services performed in the year of 1777, according to the Comptroller General's report.” Colonial Records, Vol. XV, pg. 109.

**In Leidy's Cemetery, near Souderton, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, there is to be found a grave marked with a marble stone, upon which is carved an inscription, in German, which, translated, reads:—

died November 5, 1777;
aged 31 years, and 3 weeks.
I lie and sleep, but shall awake,
for the Lord shall keep me.*

Of him it is said he was from the southern states, served in the Revolutionary War under General Washington, and was wounded at the battle of Germantown. He with several other wounded soldiers were brought for care and treatment to the home of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in Hatfield Township, near his burial place. Here it was he died and was given a respectable burial in this God's acre. Who it was that placed the marble stone to the head of his grave is at this late date no more known, but it is believed to have been put there by the patriots of the neighborhood as a recognition for faithful services as a soldier rendered his country in thus giving his life for the noble cause.

neighboring Tories and raiding bands of British soldiery gave the patriots no rest. The nearby British army encouraged Tory activity, and in many instances American soldiers were captured and tortured and their homes plundered or destroyed by fire. Among those to suffer and bear their share of torture and destruction were Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed and his family.

The Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D., in his unpublished autobiography, thus writes of the trials and afflictions of his grandfather, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, at this time:—

“Grandfather (Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed) was surprised in his Hatfield home, made captive by his Tory enemies and made to pass through a trying ordeal. He was first waylaid by these foes, who shot him through the leg and then tied him to a tree and tarred and feathered him and commenced to dig his grave in which they purposed to bury him. Before the completion of this last act they were discovered in their fiendish purpose and fled, when he was released from his perilous situation. The parties engaged in this transaction escaped the country, and their property was subsequently confiscated.”

Another story of his narrow escape from death during this period of the Revolution was related me by father, Michael H. Reed, who had received it directly from his grandfather's lips:—“While riding on horseback on the roadway to his home, he was fired at from behind, the bullet grazing his head. Some Tories or British soldiers, lying secreted in a fence corner, watched their chance as he passed them, and fired. The suddenness and surprise was so great that he unconsciously spurred his horse, and before they could reload their gun he was out of danger.”

In the winter a raiding party of British soldiers from Philadelphia, led by some Tory neighbor, made their appearance after nightfall at Colonel Reed's home, to surprise and capture him. However, in this they were unsuccessful, but, instead, stole his best riding horse and made off with other valuable property. After the war this loss was appraised and compensated for by the State.*

In the spring of 1778 the British army vacated its winter quarters in Philadelphia and moved, by way of Trenton, New Jersey, to New York City. Following this British movement General Washington broke camp at Valley Forge and set his army in motion to give chase to the enemy. The American army on its march on the second day passed through Hatfield Township, not far distant from Colonel Reed's home. It is said at this time the General was entertained at a meal with the Colonel and his family in their Hatfield home.

The departure of the two great armies from the neighborhood at this time relieved the locality of the great strain and tension under which it had been suffering so severely during the long and dreary winter of 1777 and 1778. The local military or militia forces were now to a great extent relieved of the onerous duties they had experienced, and affairs of the community began to resume their former or natural status.

At this period of the war the American troops were more successful in the North, for the British army, under command of General Burgoyne, had capitulated and fallen prisoners. In the fall of the following year a busy time again was experienced by Pennsylvania's militia forces, and a detail of these troops was called for by General Washington to act as a guard or escort for these captives from Burgoyne's army, numbering about five thousand, who were now on their way southward to Taneytown, Maryland, their route of march being through Eastern Pennsylvania. Colonel Heister, commander of the First Battalion of the Philadelphia County Militia, was now serving as a member of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, and the command of the Battalion fell on the next in rank, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed. Hastily, with a detail of troops, Colonel Reed met a division of the Convention troops, as the prisoners were termed, at Sherrard's Ferry, on the Delaware River.

The prisoners for convenience were divided into eight divisions for marching, and one of these divisions Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was detailed to guard. The divisions marched on different days from the Ferry. This was done for convenience in provisioning and sheltering officers and men on the route, for at that day these means were meagre and limited, and thus congestion and exhaustion of supplies in any one locality would be avoided. Their slow progress, marching on foot, would cover only from five to twenty miles a day. Captain Philip Reed, Colonel Reed's eldest son, accompanied the father on this excursion as a subordinate officer of the battalion.

Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed and his son Philip, while on this trip, were away from their home for a period of more than two months. It was while on this journey that Colonel Reed and his son had the rare opportunity of visiting the father's eldest brother, Michael Reed, and family, who at the time were living at Littlestown, York County. The troops made a stay of several days in this town.

To the officers of the militia this was a long-drawn-out, tiresome and expensive tour of duty, for their pay was poor and each officer had to defray his own expenses. Currency was the money medium of the States, and in these funds their salaries were paid, but it had so depreciated in value that it had now become almost worthless.*

In the spring of the year of 1780, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania enacted a new militia law, thereby remedying as much as possible defects that had developed in the old law. The new law dispensed with Colonels of Battalions, thereby making a Lieutenant Colonel the highest officer. As all enlistments in Battalions of the State Militia now had expired, elections were being held by rank and file for new officers, in compliance with the new law. Daniel Heister, Jr., Esq., was made Lieutenant

MAP OF THE ROUTE OF THE CONVENTION TROOPS (Captives)

The line of march through Pennsylvania, from Sherrard's Ferry, on the Delaware River, via North Wales, Valley Forge, Downingtown, Lancaster, across the Susquehanna River, to Yorktown, Hanover, Littlestown, and on to Taneytown, Maryland. The march of the captives of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed and his son Captain Philip Reed occupied two months.

Colonel, and Jacob Reed, Esq., was made Major.* and their Battalion (as formerly) comprised the townships of Upper and Lower Salford, Towamencing, Hatfield, Franconia and Perkiomen and Skippack, but now numerically it was changed from the First to the Fifth Battalion.

In the year 1781 French troops began to arrive in America in great numbers to aid the American cause, and with these new troops General Washington planned a combined movement for the capture of the British army in New York City. The Pennsylvania Militia were ordered out to assist, and to convene or mass at Trenton, New Jersey. Major Jacob Reed, at the head of his Battalion, marched to Trenton, ready for action. His son Jacob Reed, Jr.,** accompanied the father on this trip as a private in the ranks and for a while acted as wagoner. Upon the arrival of the French army, the States of America made a more rapid progress toward independence. From this period on until the Treaty of Peace was signed by Great Britain, September 3, 1783, our county Militia engaged largely only in military training.

At the termination of the Revolutionary struggle Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed continued as an officer in the service of the State of Pennsylvania, but thereafter he gradually withdrew from all military activities at his own desire. He now was a man beyond the meridian of life; the hardships and exposures he suffered in the past decade began to lessen his vigor and strength, and he felt thus in his declining years he should devote more of his time to his own affairs, his farm, his home and his church. The new nation developed and prospered under its independence, and with this national prosperity he also benefited and thrived.

Upon the country's independence and also for the years of 1785 and 1786, Colonel Reed was made assessor of Hatfield Township. In 1784 by Act of Assembly the new County of Montgomery was created from Philadelphia County, and in 1785, in the first assessment return for Hatfield Township, he assessed himself for "214 acres of land and dwelling, 4 horses, 9 cows, and occupation at £25."

In the year 1785—at the close of the Revolution—Jacob Reed, Sr., purchased from John Garner, a Mennonite immigrant, his farm of more than one hundred acres of land and buildings, on the Neshaminy Creek, in New Britain Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. The farm bordered the county line, near the present village of Colmar, a station on the Doylestown Railroad. But a short time before this land purchase Colonel Reed's eldest son, Philip Reed, married, and the father now deeded one-half of these lands to the son,—that portion of the farm through which the Neshaminy Creek flowed. The son immediately improved his land purchase with buildings, dammed the waters of the creek, built a grist mill and saw mill thereon, and there farmed and milled. The remaining half of the lands, with the improvements, the father retained and for a decade he rented the property to tenants. In 1793 Jacob Reed moved to this tract from his Hatfield farm, which in the meantime he had sold. The New Britain farm he tilled, residing there until his death in 1820.

He was now advanced in years. His wife dying in 1804, the active duty of the farm was then gradually turned over to the care of his youngest son, Andrew Reed. This son in the meantime married, and became domiciled with his father. The son not only conducted the farm but cared for the aged parent.

One of the improvements of this farm at this early date was a log colonial-style dwelling, similar to the one Colonel Reed vacated at his Hatfield home. It was one and a half stories high, with a great fireplace in the first story that widened out below but narrowed somewhat into a huge chimney above. In the winter the fireplace was fed with logs to warm the building, and over the fire the family did their cooking.

My father, Michael H. Reed, was born in this building in 1809. At the time of his grandfather's death, in 1820, he was a lad in his twelfth year. Father's mind in his later years would often revert to this early home of his grandfather and its associations. He would speak of the home, its massive fireplace, and of his grandfather and his many characteristics.*

He spoke of his grandfather as a man of ordinary height, thick-set in body and powerfully built. An anomaly of his hands—in this thumbs—interested my father and excited his curiosity as a boy. The thumbs were double and Colonel Reed would display them to his grandson to amuse him. This made the boy curious and he would ask all sorts of questions, to which the answer was always interesting, evasive or amusing. Colonel Reed was of an extremely kind disposition, well informed, firmly set in his opinion and of a resolute and determined character. The grandfather, as well as his father, had strong religious convictions. They were devoted to their Bible, and took great interest in their church and its work. Family worship with them was a sincere and established daily custom, in which all, young as well as old, joined with the same devout spirit, manner and form.

In his advanced years Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was very much delighted with company. He was an entertaining talker and a close listener. Friends and neighbors would gather at his home, especially during the long winter evenings. Seated before the great old fireplace, with embers glowing in their brilliancy, the visitors would listen with much interest as Colonel Reed, with great emotion, would relate tales and experiences of frontier life in colonial time and of the hardships and experiences of the Revolution. Father as a boy delighted in these fireside stories and with intense attention listened to them, and some of these tales made a lasting impression on him, so much so, that in turn he told them to his children.*

*More than once father in his musings would revert to the old family fireplace at his grandfather's home in New Britain Township. In those days there were no matches with which to light a fire, and in their place the only means for making fire was with the "tinder and box." This means of making fire was not the most satisfactory or pleasing, and "many a time," as he went on, "during the cold, wet and wintry months I had to go with a hearth shovel to our nearest neighbor for 'sparks and coals' with which to renew the hearth fire before they could have warmth and do the cooking."

Nearest neighbors in those days meant fields to cross, battling the wintry winds and wading the deep snows. These were trials, contentions and discomforts that meant hardships which we today, with our comforts and conveniences, cannot fully understand or comprehend.

Great-grandfather Reed was an intensely patriotic man, and was one who never spared an effort in impressing the importance of patriotism upon his children. In his great sincerity he would insist that the hardships and the discomforts in sacrifice made and encountered in aiding and fighting for American Independence to him constituted a sacred heritage, to be honored and cherished by all who come after for all time. These parental persuasions had their influences, for as his children grew to manhood they in return showed their patriotic spirit by actively associating themselves with the soldiery and patriotic movements in the neighborhood wherever they lived.

Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was baptized in the Skippack Reformed Church.** This was in 1730. Later, about 1736, the family joined and aided in the organization of the more recently established New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, in Upper Hanover Township. When Jacob Reed removed from Marlborough to Hatfield Township he became identified with the Indian Creek Reformed Church, nearby, in Franconia

*During father's musings to us as children he would relate the following story of his grandfather in the Revolution. He heard it direct from his grandfather's lips, and as a mere boy to him it was of a thrilling character. It impressed him so much that he never forgot it. Father as he heard it, and in after years in relating it, associated it with the Revolutionary War. As the British did not shoot captives without a just cause, I think he had got the two periods, that of the Revolution and Colonial, confounded. The incident must have been Colonial and associated with the French and Indian wars. Thus the story runs:—

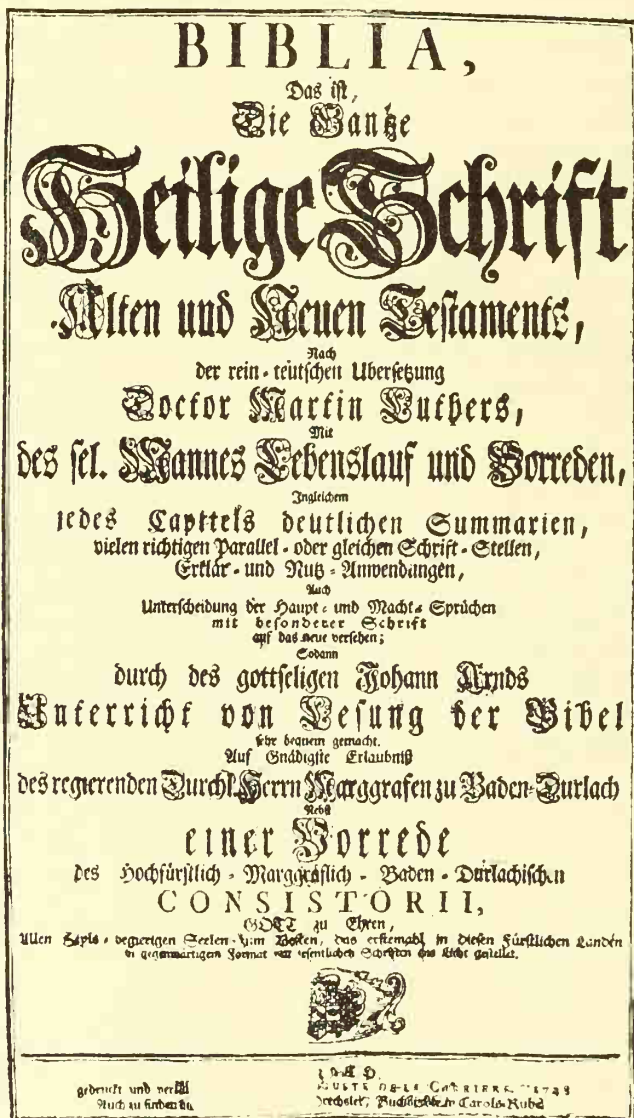

"Grandfather (Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed), was surprised and captured on one of his military expeditions, and was ordered to be shot before a firing squad. The guns were cocked and aimed at him, awaiting the command to fire. The officer's wife quickly sprang between the detail and the captive and defied them to shoot. The soldiers were then ordered back to quarters, grandfather was again placed under guard, and subsequently escaped or was released."

**The Skippack Reformed Church had an existence previous to 1727, the time of the coming to America of our ancestor, Johann Philb Ried (Reed), and ceased to exist in 1747. It was the earliest German Reformed Church of the region. It was early ministered to by John Philip Boehm, a schoolmaster, then not ordained. When the Rev. George Michael Weiss came in America in 1727 to organize the American Reformed Churches, he protested against Boehm's ministrations as being irregular. After considerable confusion subsequently Boehm was properly ordained, and he then founded Boehm's German Reformed Church, in Whitpain Township.

The Skippack Reformed Church building was of logs, situated in the southern part of Salford Township, on the property of one George Reiff. After abandonment from the confusion that arose in its early ministrations the edifice was torn down and the material used in the building of Allebach's mill. The members of this early church after its dissolution became absorbed by the New and Old Goshenhoppen, Indian Creek, Wentz's and other nearby surrounding Reformed churches.

In this church Jacob Reed was baptized. Elizabeth Arndt in her will, dated Jan. 23, 1758, at Franconia Township, Philadelphia County, says:—"I give and bequeath unto Jacob Reed, (the son of Philip Reed), whereunto, I, ye said testator, stood God-mother, ye sum of thirty pounds." * * * See Addenda, (Paper I)—"The Will of Elizabeth Arndt."

Township. Here he was a member from 1756 until 1800, when the new German Reformed Church was organized and built at Hilltown, Bucks County. This new church was much nearer and convenient to his New Britain home. Here in his last days he worshipped whenever able until his death in 1820. So long as he could do so he was one of the leading and most active members and contributors to its spiritual and material support. He served the church in all positions as layman, and was a true and sincere member. In the Hilltown Reformed Church he was one of the first members and was influential and active in its organization.

dierly services rendered the Nation in the establishment of its independence in the Revolutionary struggle, my brother, Franklin P. Reed, of San Diego, California, and myself felt it but an incumbent duty to perpetuate his memory in a memorial. This was done in a monument, suitably inscribed and placed over his grave in Leidy Cemetery. The cemetery is in Franconia Township, near Colonel Reed's Revolutionary home in Hatfield Township, and midway between the boroughs of Hatfield and Souderton. On October 8, 1901, the marker was dedicated at an appropriate all-day service, under the direction of the Historical Society of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

The stone is a handsome one, and most pertinent as a tribute. A great concourse of people gathered on the occasion to participate and lend interest. Visitors hailing from all sections of that part of the country were present. It was a balmy and delightful October day, and the ceremonies throughout were most fitting and very appropriate.*

On the four sides of the stone are inscriptions that read as follows:—

Philip Reed was reared as a farmer at his father's home in Hatfield Township. He possessed a fair education in English and German. Like his father, he became interested in his township and served ably in several offices. When the war of the Revolution broke out he became a soldier, first served in the ranks** and then became Captain of Hatfield Township Company, Fifth Battalion, Philadelphia County Militia. By persecution they were first driven from France into Switzerland; after a short stay there and for the same cause they were driven out of that country into Germany. They then sailed for America, where Frederick Solliday, the father, qualified at Philadelphia, on Oct. 4, 1751. Finally the family settled on a farm in Bedminster Township, Bucks County, Pa. By trade Frederick Solliday was an armorer in the old country; in America he became a farmer. When the Revolutionary War was on, his skill as a mechanic rendered his adopted country efficient service in the making and repairing of firearms. While in Switzerland, Frederick Solliday apprenticed several of his sons at clockmaking. These sons later followed their parents to America, became with the father builders of clocks, and the many old-fashioned high Solliday clocks now found throughout Bucks, Montgomery, Northampton and other counties are the product of this family and their descendants.

The Neshaminy Creek flowed through his part of the farm. Damming its water for power, he erected upon its banks a grist and saw mill, and then followed the milling business along with farming. This was the first enterprise of the kind to make its appearance in that locality.* He lived there for a number of years, until 1799, then disposing of the mill and farm to his neighbor, Abraham Krout. He then removed to a farm which he rented in Gwynedd Township, Montgomery County.

He farmed in Gwynedd for several years only, leaving there in 1802, and moving to a farm in Upper Dublin Township. He farmed there until

PHILIP REED, INNKEEPER

An old time advertisement appearing in the Norristown Register, commencing April 2, 1817, and remaining for several years.

Philip Reed, like his father, was an active church man. He was baptized at the Indian Creek Reformed Church, in Franconia. Here he was brought up under its sheltering hand, and retained his membership until his removal to Gwynedd. Then he became a member of the nearby Boehm's Reformed Church, in Whitpain Township. Its records show that while here he was active in the work of the church, serving the congregation as elder, trustee, etc. In Philadelphia he with his family became active in the old Race Street or First Reformed Church.* In 1818 a division arose in the congregation between the English and German speaking members over the language used in the sermons. The English-speaking faction won the fight, and the German element then withdrew. Among those to withdraw were Philip Reed and family. The dissenters formed themselves into a new congregation, and became known as the little "Salem," or "Second German Reformed Church," of Philadelphia.

Immediately after the division of the church the German element purchased a lot of ground, on St. John's Street, and commenced operations for the erection of an edifice. Philip Reed was of the building committee, and while assisting in the erecting of the new church building, he overexerted himself, contracted pneumonia and died.

*See Addenda:—(Paper J), "Ancient Landmarks."

Philip Reed was physically a powerfully built man, and weighed more than two hundred pounds. In his death the church lost a valuable and able church worker, at a time when he was of inestimable service in the struggling needs of the congregation. He was popularly known as a jolly good fellow and a most helpful and congenial friend and neighbor, as well in as out of the church. Everywhere he was beloved and respected by his many friends and co-workers.

John Reed was reared a farmer. When first married he was living in Upper Dublin Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Soon after he removed with his family to Germantown and engaged in farming. At the time of his death he was farming for Doctor Betton in Germantown.

He was a well informed man, well liked and known generally in the community. He was an exemplary citizen, a Christian, a friend, in fact, was a good fellow without an enemy. His death was unusual, sad and distressing. He was bitten by a rabid dog belonging to his employer, contracting the disease, and dying in great agony. Under the peculiar circumstances of his death the news spread abroad throughout the community, and his funeral was the largest attended up to this time in that section of the country.

In the war of 1812 he volunteered his services as a soldier for his country. He was made Captain of a military company and served throughout the war. Most of his military service was in the great mili-

- VII—D—142— —1—Thersia Woodley, b. Aug. 26, 1870; d. quite young.

Emily Elizabeth (Hansbury-Wilson) Woodley was a remarkable woman, and one of the few females who found recognition and was accepted as a nurse in the Civil War. Her previous training gave her fitness and adaptability for the work and won distinction for her that carried with it not only then but in after life a wide recognition and honor. These honors were to her always, especially in her more mature life, a great source of pleasure and gratification.

She was much engaged in honorary, beneficial and charitable organizations and associations, and for some years was the efficient president of the National Army Nurses' Association.

I quote from a biographical sketch:—

"Mrs. Woodley had been a nurse before the Civil War. During the cholera epidemic in Philadelphia she performed a heroic work nursing the sick. She went to the front as soon as the war was declared, and was as brave in wandering on fields where bullets rained as when she went into the plague-infested places in her home city." * * *

Since the above was written Mrs. Woodley has gone to the great beyond. In her going she has left behind in this world a record of noble and heroic work so thoroughly engraven in the hearts of mankind that time and eternity cannot efface it.

Charles Neff Reed, who, when the Civil War broke out, was but a young man, enlisted in the army as a drummer boy, was a spy, orderly, etc. After the war he drifted West and entered the printing business and newspaper work, and first became identified with Chico and Orville Press, Orville, Butte Co., Calif. He became a distinguished writer and editor, possessing a brilliant imagination, and was noted for his peculiar style and vigor with his pen. Afterwards he started the Gridley Herald, in Gridley, Calif. It teemed with life and inspiration, and its influence did much in shaping the destinies of this new town, which at the time consisted mainly of a postoffice, hotel, store, blacksmith shop and a few frontier houses. Failing health in course of time compelled him to relinquish all active work, and he lived but a short time thereafter. His widow is now residing with her son on their ranch, near the town of Gridley.

- V—D—379—X—10—Sarah Reed, b. Jan. 28, 1847.

Samuel Reed was born on his father's farm at Sandy Run, in Upper Dublin Twp., Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and was but a child when the family removed to the city of Philadelphia. As a growing lad he assisted his father at the innkeeping business first at the "Eagle Hotel," on North Third Street, and later at the "Tiger Hotel" on Vine Street. In the war of 1812 he was one of the very young citizens who as volunteers assisted in building entrenchments for the city's protection against the threatened surprise and capture by the invading British army.

When old enough he learned the gun stocker trade and worked at the business more or less for fifty years. In the course of his work in Philadelphia he assisted in the manufacture of the first lot of percussion cap guns ever used by the United States Army.

He settled in his earlier life, about 1826, in the upper part of Philadelphia known as Northern Liberties; but subsequently he resided in the vicinity locally known as Kensington. He had the honor of being a member of the cavalcade that went to Frankford to meet General Lafayette and escort the distinguished Frenchman on his visit to the city.

Some years previous to his death he opened a gun and fish tackle store on East Girard Avenue, near Fifth Street. The stand is still in the Reed name and is owned and conducted by descendants of the family. There in his line of goods he conducted a successful and thriving business with sportsmen. In his day Samuel Reed was one of the oldest, best known and respected men in the upper section of the city. His place of business for years was a retreat or rendezvous—a convenient center—not only for politicians, but where sportsmen gathered to obtain needs and supplies in their line, and for good fellowship, where such men greeted one another to discuss matters common to the sport, and relate stories of the “wonderful” experiences so common to the fraternity.

- VI—D—401— —2—Lucy Reed, b. May 5, 1875, in Harrisburg; d. Feb. 12, 1878, in Harrisburg; bur. in Central Laurel Hill Cem., Philada.; Pa.

George Engard Reed in his earlier life moved to Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and there married. He was active in public affairs in that city; this gave him popularity and prominence. He served a number of years as a member of City Council, likewise as a member of the School Board, and on the Board of City Control, etc. He was popularly known for his great uprightness in all of his public work, for he always stood for right and justice, so much so that he was generally dubbed "Honest George Reed." In the beginning of the Civil War he was one of the first to offer his services as a soldier and he served in the ranks of the Fifth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. In battle he was captured by the enemy and was confined for fifteen months in Andersonville prison.

For twenty years he was active as a soldier in the National Guard of Pennsylvania. His company was known as the "Harrisburg City Grays." For a number of years he was its Lieutenant. He possessed considerable talent as a writer, poet and teacher. Some of his verse pertained to the Civil War, and its merit gave him quite a reputation as a writer. Some years after the war he entered the lecture field, depicting the story of his soldier and prison life, and on this mission he traveled much through the Western States. Wherever he went in his work he was warmly received, kindly entertained and much appreciated.

V—D—376—PHILIP REED. Son of Samuel and Sarah (Kehr) Reed. He was b. Oct. 19, 1837, in Philada., Pa.; d. July 30, 1899, in Philada.; m. Apr. 15, 1875, Rebecca Murphy; b. Apr. 10, 1845, in Philada.; Methodists; he is bur. in Laurel Hill Cem.; the widow resides in Philada.; children:—

VI—D—405— —1—Walter Stanley Reed, b. Aug. 31, 1876.

VI—D—406— —2—Samuel Kehr Reed, b. Dec. 8, 1879.

Philip Reed, when a young man, learned the trade of stone-cutting. Subsequently he became successor to his father, Samuel Reed, at the gunsmith and sporting goods business, at the established stand, on Girard Avenue, near Fifth Street. It is said of him that he obtained the first shipment of live fresh-water black bass sent to Philadelphia for the stocking of the Delaware and Schuylkill Rivers.

During the Civil War he served in the Navy with distinction, in the engagements at Fort Fisher, the siege of Richmond and in other naval battles under Admiral Porter. He at first was a gunner on the gunboat "Kansas" and later was assigned to the gunboat "Massachusetts," patrolling the Atlantic Coast from Fortress Monroe to Key West. He was mustered out of service with honors at the close of the war.

His sons are his successors in the sporting goods business on Girard Avenue, they making the third generation of Reed successors since the business was established by their grandfather, Samuel Reed, nearly a century ago. The stand still enjoys the reputation as a retreat for sportsmen to gather not only for supplies in their needs but to relate those stories for which gunners and fishermen are noted. All told are not actualities, for some are imaginative creations of an active mind.

*"1784, June 29, Friederich Wilhelm Vandeschlett, widower, minister at New Goshenhoppen, to Anna Margrith Ridin (Reed), dau. of Jacob Rid of Hatfield T. S. [township], Philada. Co."—Record of the Falkner Swamp Reformed Church Book, in German and copied verbatim.

This marriage proved an unhappy affair for Anna Margretha Reed. Her husband was a Reformed minister and officiated at Goshenhoppen charge, comprising the Old and New Goshenhoppen and Great Swamp Churches. Soon thereafter it was learned he had a wife and children living in Germany, from whence he came. As soon as his dual life was learned his wife Anna Margretha (Reed) immediately left him, and returned to her parents' home in Hatfield Township. The members of his congregation became highly incensed and rose up in arms and locked the doors of the church against the minister—they ostracised him. Legal steps were then taken, and in due time the courts declared the marriage null and void. See Addenda:—(Paper K), "Anna Margretha Reed and the Rev. Frederick Von-Der-Sloot."

there for a period of some thirteen years, he again became restless and resumed his immigrant journey, now going to and settling upon new lands in Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio. That state at this time was the great El Dorado, and was rapidly being settled by pioneers. This last move proved Jacob Reed's making and this was his final settlement. The new lands were fertile, and as time passed the family prospered, and the country about them was rapidly settled by newcomers.

Jacob Reed's family was the second white family to locate and permanently settle in Sugar Creek Township.* Nearly all of the land thereabouts at the time of his coming was in a primitive state and heavily timbered, so that much labor, time and effort were required to shape it for cultivation. He erected his dwelling and all other necessary buildings of logs, at the time the most available and convenient building material at hand for such purpose, until time and conditions changed for their betterment. These buildings were all located on a rolling strip of ground, near a spring of good water, and not far distant from Sugar Creek, from which the township derived its name. Their first neighbors were the primitive Indian and the wild beast. Both were in considerable numbers. The many incidents connected with their early frontier life formed the subject of fireside stories, which, if they now could be related to the present generation, would be interesting, pathetic, thrilling and amusing.

I am told that Jacob Reed was a sturdy and frugal man, industrious and very kind to his family. He was a popular citizen, a sincere and much respected neighbor; was pious and a good Christian, and one who loved and was endeared to his church; his whole family were brought up in the same belief, religious spirit and intent.

In his Hatfield home he lived with his parents during the American Revolution. Then but a young man, he was imbued with the same martial and patriotic spirit that characterized his father, and they enlisted and fought for the same American cause side by side, in the township militia.** For some time Jacob Reed served the army as teamster, driving his father's team, in the transportation of ammunition, military supplies, etc. The existing muster rolls of the township militia name him as a member of the company of his brother, Captain Philip Reed, Hatfield Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania Militia. He saw active field service as a soldier, going with his troops to Trenton, New Jersey, in 1780. After the close of hostilities of the Revolution, and as late as 1786, we find Jacob Reed, Jr., a soldier, and now a member of Captain John Siegfried's company, Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania Militia.

After Jacob Reed's removal from Montgomery County we still find him a soldier and patriot. He now served in the ranks of the Washington Township, Franklin County, Pennsylvania Militia, for the years 1789 and 1790. He and his cousin, Philip Reed, were members of the same township military company of that locality, commanded by Captain Thomas Wallace.

After his going to the territory of Ohio we find the same martial spirit in Jacob Reed. He was interested in the militia and soldiery of Sugar Creek Township. For "The first training of a company of militia, of which John Byal was captain, of this locality, was held at the residence of Jacob Reed; it being its first field work and was greatly enjoyed by all."*

The first marriage among the white settlers of Sugar Creek Township, in its early history, was that of Jacob Reed's son, John Reed, to Mary Poyser, April 15, 1815. The families were abutting neighbors. The marriage rites had to be solemnized by a Justice of the Peace, there being at the time no minister of the gospel nearby to perform the ceremony.

down into Tuscarawas County, near Strassburg, and there permanently settled, carrying on his trade of shoemaking with farming. When his sons were old enough he turned the farming over to them, he acting, as it were, as superintendent. He followed his trade there until death overtook him. His staid habits and sincerity of purpose made him a much honored and respected man of the community.

Isaac Reed migrated to the State of Indiana and took up unseated lands when but a young man. In Allen County, where he settled, the country about him was heavily timbered and a wilderness. By thrift and hard work he made for himself a comfortable home and became a farmer. In 1864, at the time of the Civil War, he felt it his duty to serve as a soldier for the defense of his country. He enlisted in the Union army and went to the front. Not long after he was killed in a skirmish with the enemy at Chattanooga, Tenn. His wife remained a widow, kept her family together and gave them all a good schooling and a home, until they grew to man and womanhood, when the surviving ones married and scattered and they now have homes of their own.

Jacob Reed, Jr., remained in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, for some years after his parents' departure for the State of Ohio, in 1813, and there married. Later (about 1820), he followed West with his family to Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio, to the home of his parents, and purchased from his father a farm of sixty acres of land, it being a part of the old Reed homestead.

He remained there as a farmer until 1847, then sold his farm and removed further West—to Jennings County, Indiana, near the home of his cousin, George Convear, who had preceded him to this locality by several years. He remained a farmer there until his death. In his community he was well known as a good, kind and Christian parent, neighbor and friend. He was devout and interested in his church and its work and active in community welfare and betterment.

John Cantwell, Esq., received a common school education, learned the bricklaying trade, and followed this vocation for some time in Canton, Ohio. Then he married and removed to Scott County, Indiana. Here he engaged in the mercantile business and assisted in the laying out of the new town of Wooster. For a time he was prominently engaged in the real estate business in the new town. Subsequently he disposed of his store and engaged in farming on the outskirts of Wooster.

About six years after this he removed his family to Green Oak, Fulton County, Indiana, and again engaged in the mercantile business, until 1857. He then removed to a farm near Hartford City, Blackford County, Indiana, and there he resided until his death.

For many years while in the mercantile business, he devoted his spare moments to the study of law, and in 1852 he was admitted to the bar, first in Scott County, and in June, 1861, in Blackford County. In course of time his practice at law grew extensive, and in 1873 he associated with himself in the legal profession the Hon. William A. Bonham. In 1881 his son, Sidney, became a partner, and in 1894 Luther B. Simmon also was added to the firm.

John Cantwell was a man of rare ability and an able attorney. He builded for himself, through pluck, perseverance and application, a wide legal practice and an enviable reputation as an attorney. With it all he was a good man, of excellent principles, and was beloved by all.

Orlando Festers Cantwell died of infirmities of age while on a visit to friends in Montgomery, Alabama. He removed to Milan in 1875, was ticket agent for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and before that time was a train dispatcher at Bowling Green, Kentucky. As the business of the railroad increased he was given work in the office, and because of advancing years he finally was retired on the pension list. Though he retained his property in Milan during these years of retirement, he and his wife spent their time mostly visiting among their children.

He was a man of a quiet and unassuming disposition, attending to his own business, and no one was ever heard to say aught against him. He was a good citizen, a good neighbor, and a good friend, and had a host of friends in Milan.

In the Civil War he served in the Federal Army from 1863 to the close of the war, and was a member of the Thirteenth Indiana Battery of Light Artillery. He saw service in Tennessee at Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, etc. Some years after his removing to Milan he formed a military company and had the honor of being made its first Captain.

Martin Reed, m. (2nd), Oct. 14, 1878 (Mrs.) Adelia A. Hebron; widow resides at Rochester, Fulton Co., Ind.

When still a young man Martin Reed drifted to Indiana, to the neighborhood of his uncle, George Conver, in Jennings County, and there he married his first wife. In 1858 with his family he migrated over into Fulton County, Indiana, and there started a farm on new lands, in Richland Township. Soon after the death of his first wife he quit his farm and moved into the town of Rochester and there resided until his death.

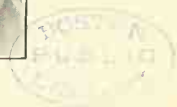

He was a model citizen, a courteous neighbor and devout Christian gentleman. His demise was accidental, sudden and pathetic, and brought sadness and gloom over the whole community. He was standing upright on some straw loaded on a wagon, and when the horse stopped suddenly he was thrust to the ground, striking the side of his head with such force as to dislocate his neck, and death was instantaneous.

SIGNATURE OF JOHN REED

(Canton, Ohio)

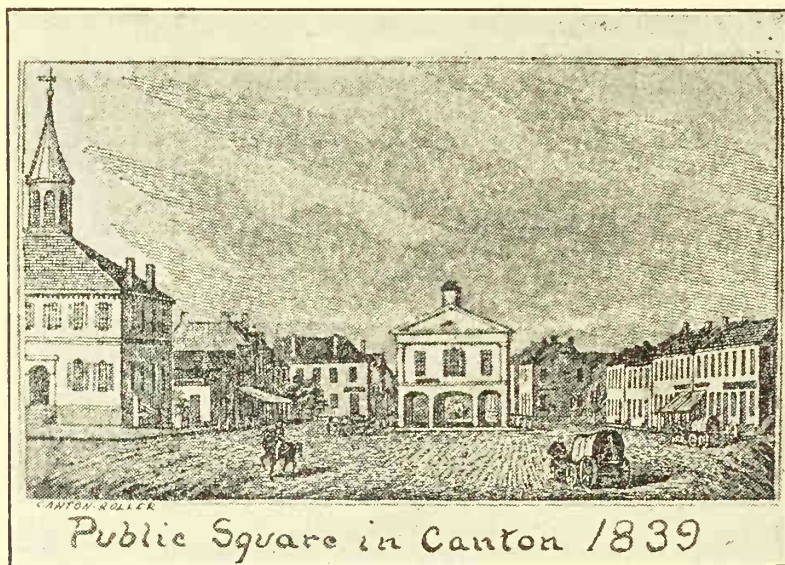

During his residence with his parents in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, John Reed was indentured with a Mr. Hartzell to learn the art and science of saddlery and harness making. In 1813 he accompanied and assisted his parents on their overland trip with teams westward—to the great new state of Ohio. He remained at home and assisted in the work on the farm until his marriage, and then removed to the city of Canton, the county seat of Stark County, and there opened the first saddlery and harness shop in that town.

Here he diligently and successfully followed this business for a number of years. Then, having a competency of this world's means, he withdrew from active business and transferred its interests to his sons, William and Joseph, they in the meantime having learned the trade with the father. He was now advanced in years, and from now on he devoted his declining days to rest and the care of his accumulated interests. He was much devoted to his family, and to the temporal and spiritual welfare of his church.

Like himself, his wife was of Pennsylvania-German stock, she going West with her immigrant parents when a young woman. Her family were the first white people permanently settling in Sugar Creek Township. The Reeds soon followed the Poyser as settlers there, becoming farmers and neighbors. In their pioneering days the families mutually shared each others' trials and tribulations concomitant with their primitive border life. Their resources at first were crude and meagre and at times isolation made their situation most inconvenient and distressing.

THE CITY AS IT APPEARED TWENTY YEARS AFTER JOHN REED'S ENTRY WITH HIS CHARMING BRIDE FROM SUGAR CREEK TOWNSHIP.

As we previously learned, John Reed and Mary Ann Poyser's marriage was of the earliest to take place in this locality among the white settlers. Having no minister of the Gospel to tie the matrimonial knot, they did the next best thing—repaired to a Justice of the Peace and had him perform the ceremony.

William W. Reed* in early manhood learned the trade of saddlery and harness-making with his father, John Reed, in Canton. After his marriage he engaged for some time at farming, in Plain Township, Stark County, Ohio, near the city of Canton. Tiring of this he disposed of his farming outfit and returned to the city of Canton, resuming his trade of saddlery and harness-making. He associated himself with his brother, Joseph, and together they bought out the interests of their father and continued the business in that city. In 1880 he sold out his interest in business and retired, and, in a way, resumed farming, now only as a di-

Noah H. Reed in early life learned the trade of harness-making. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the Union Army as a member of Company I, 49th Regiment, Ohio Volunteers. In 1862 he was detailed for signal service, and while serving in this capacity he met with an injury that led to his honorable discharge, September 5, 1864. He then went to farming in Indiana. Later he took a clerkship in his brother's grocery, at Ottawa, Ohio, but afterwards engaged in the furniture business in Ottawa, until his health failed him. Thereafter he was an invalid until his death.

Noah H. Reed rendered invaluable service in gathering data for this work. Being an invalid it was a comfort and pleasure to him during his protracted idle moments to be engaged at this service as it enabled him to forget his ills and have a change of mind. Thus he was of material assistance to me with his branch of the Reed family.

Joseph Poyser was born in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, and was but seven weeks old when his mother died. He was 15 years of age when his father emigrated to the Territory of Ohio, in 1813. The trip was made in a big wagon, and was an eventful experience for the lad. The parent settled on primitive lands in Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, and became neighbor of Jacob Reed and family. Joseph Poyser's marriage was one of the first in the township among the settlers. After some years residence there and elsewhere in the neighborhood, in his early married life, he settled finally with his family in the new town of Canton, where he followed different vocations, and there died, an aged and most respected man.

Jacob Conver was the oldest child of Christian and Barbara Conver. His parents arrived in America, in the ship "Patience"; the father qualified at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on September 9, 1751. They became early settlers in Hatfield Township, and owned and lived on a farm adjoining that of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed. The farm was part of 1000 acres of land that the Penns had reserved, which they conveyed first only under the leasehold plan, and for which a fee-simple deed of sale was not given by the Proprietaries until 1770.

The Convers, like the Reeds, were early German Palatines, were of the German Reformed faith, and worshipped at the Indian Creek Reformed Church, in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. The families, being neighbors and of the same church, were very friendly, and,

BIRTH AND BAPTISMAL CERTIFICATE (in German)

Translated reads:—"To this wedded couple, namely, Jacob Conner and his wedded wife Elisabeth, a daughter, is born to the world in the year of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, 1788, the 3d day of May, who was baptized by the Reverend Mr. Bum [Pomp ?], Reformed preacher, the 12th day of June, 1788. Sponsor, Catharine Riedin. The before mentioned Catharine is born in America, in the State of Pennsylvania, Montgomery County, Hatfield Township. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and evermore. Amen."

having children of like age, they inter-married. Jacob Conver and his family were devoted Christians, he serving his church in all capacities as layman.

Jacob Conver in his day was a rather prominent man of Hatfield. He was educated and reared in the township, and was conspicuous in its affairs. During the Revolution he was an officer in the Hatfield Militia, under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed. For a time he served as a soldier in the ranks under the command of his brother-in-law, Captain Philip Reed.

Upon the death of his father, Christian Conver,* in 1785, the son became owner of the old Conver homestead at Hatfield. Here he then lived and farmed until his death, in 1827. Upon the death of his father-in-law, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in 1820, Jacob Conver was the surviving executor of his estate, and its settlement involved no little trouble and time, for the heirs were numerous and widely scattered, some residing in distant states.

Jonathan Zane was a son of Jonathan and Rebecca Zane, of Wilmington, Delaware. When a man of mature age he drifted to the North and settled in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and there learned the trades of wheelwrighting and pump-making. The pump-making business at that time was an important trade, and some of the old heavy log pumpstocks of Jonathan Zane's make are still found in use. He owned a small farm in South Hatfield, near the home of his wife's parents, and there carried on his trades, along with farming.

Subsequently he bought a much larger farm, on the Doylestown road, near Montgomeryville, Montgomery County, and lived there for some years. Later on he sold all his property there, and removed, with his family, to North East, Cecil County, Maryland. Some years before his death he sold out his interests in Maryland, removed back to Pennsylvania, to the home of his son, Jacob Zane, and there soon after he died. He and his wife were a pair of those good parental, Christian people of the older days—a class to themselves—that everybody liked, admired, loved and affectionately respected.

V—D—1210—X—1—Elizabeth Conver, b. June 11, 1814.

Christian Conver was a blacksmith and followed his trade, along with farming, in Hatfield Township. He died a young man, at the home of his father-in-law, in Hatfield, under a most sad and distressing circumstance. We copy from the Norristown Register, under date of May 24, 1815:—

"Last Wednesday, Christian Comfort (Conver) of Hatfield Township, in this county, (in company with two persons), while in the act of cutting down a tree, received a violent blow on his head from a limb on which the tree fell, instantaneously depriving him of existence. He left a disconsolate widow and one child to mourn the irreparable loss."

The widow of Christian Conver subsequently married Samuel Wright. They then removed to Philadelphia, where he engaged in business. He died in 1852, when the widow returned to her former home in Hilltown, and later here died. She was buried beside the remains of her first husband, in Leidy's Burial Ground, Franconia Township.

- V—D—1234—X—5—Joseph Conver Lutz, b. Nov. 19, 1832.

The Lutz family were of German extraction and were early settlers in the lower end of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. The son, Abraham learned the trade of shoemaking, and always followed his vocation. In the War of 1812 he enlisted in the army, and was sent to camp at Marcus Hook, in Delaware County, Pennsylvania. Here he contracted the army fever and was confined to the hospital until after the close of the war.

Abraham Lutz and Elizabeth Conver had their wedding in an unusual place, for they were married in the Montgomery County Prison. They were not prisoners, but were guests of the bride's uncle and aunt, Wendle and Eve (Reed) Fisher, for at the time Wendle Fisher was prison warden and his family lived within the prison walls.

Abraham Lutz and family for the first nineteen years of their wedded life, resided near Franklinville, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania; then for some years they lived in Gwynedd Township, and lastly removed from there into Germantown. They were much beloved by young as well as old, strongly devoted to each other, and were staid and fervent Christians.

Elias Birchall came with his parents from England to Pennsylvania when a lad of 6 years. In early manhood he became identified with manufacturing interests in Germantown, and was a successful business man and acquired quite a fortune. He was a man of extremely mild disposition—his kindness overwhelmed his good judgment, leading him to endorse heavily for others, and the day of despair came and he became financially embarrassed. This affliction coming on in advancing years made it all the harder for him to recuperate. He was an active church man and sincere and enthusiastic in religious work. He contributed liberally of his time and means for the advancement and support of the church. He served the church faithfully as a deacon, trustee, choir leader, etc. He was a man of tender disposition, a kind husband and father, and was everybody's friend.

V—D—1231—ELIZA CONVER LUTZ. Daughter of Abraham and Elizabeth (Conver) Lutz. She was b. Dec. 14, 1821, in Whitpain Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; d. Feb. 21, 1850, in Philada., Pa.; m. Franklin Lutz, m. (2nd), Jan. 9, 1872, Harriet, daugh. of Joseph Miller;* b. —, at Jeffersonville, Montg. Co., Pa.; she Presbyterian; widow lives in Roxborough; no children.

Frank Lutz for many years was engaged at the toy business on Germantown Avenue, Germantown. Acquiring a competency of this world's goods in advancing years, he sold out his business. He then removed to Roxborough, Philada., Pa.; and there lived a quiet and retired life. Some years later he died there. He always lived an unassuming life, and was a good neighbor. He was true and honest to a fault, and in his *Possibly for half a century Joseph Miller was hostler at the Jeffersonville Hotel. He came there a boy from the Stone Hills of upper Montgomery County in the older days, before railroads, when transportation of supplies and products to and from the city and inland settlements was done by heavy teams that travelled the great Ridge Road. Many were the stories from his lips how the inn was used by man and beast for rest and lodging in the work, the exposure and hardships he endured while assisting travellers, and the meagre compensation received in return from them. These stories to us today seem almost unbelievable. I remember him well in my younger days. He then was in advanced years, and from an affection of his heart suffered at times great torture and distress, before death took from him his tenacious life.

church was held in great esteem by co-workers and worshippers. He was of great assistance to me in this work—that of gathering material on the Reed-Lutz family; and doing this work to him was an inspiration and comfort in his older days.

V—D—1309—XX—10—Elizabeth Conver Brunner, b. Apr. 24, 1839.

Henry Brunner's ancestors were German Palatines, pioneers, and on their coming to America, settled in Worcester Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. The family were among the very early worshippers in the nearby Wentz's German Reformed Church, not far distant from the village of Skippack, now Montgomery County. Here a number of the older Brunners are found buried in the burial ground.

Henry Brunner learned the blacksmithing trade, and for some years conducted a shop at his Worcester home, not far distant from the Worcester Schwenkfelder Meeting House. While here he married and resided here for several years. After the death of his wife's grandfather, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in New Britain Township, Bucks County, he attended the executor's sale, was the highest bidder, and bought the old homestead farm. This was in 1822. He then gave up blacksmithing, and removed with his family to the New Britain tract and engaged in farming.

At farming he was quite successful, and in time became well to do. He then erected for himself a fine large mansion of brick, to supersede the old log structure of Colonel Reed, and its size was a wonder of the neighborhood. Then in order followed other buildings essential and in keeping with his needs. Here he died at an advanced age.

His wife Sarah (Conver) Brunner was a woman of an amiable and sweet disposition, and of a happy and congenial turn. She was a most beautiful singer, and the burdens of her household duties were very much lightened by her unconscious sweet melodies. Both husband and wife were very good people, kind and indulgent parents, were sincere and consistent Christians, and regular attendants and devout worshippers at St. Peter's German Reformed Church, Hilltown.

VI—D—1349— -10—Eva Whitcomb Brunner, b. Jan. 15, 1873, in Jennings Co., Ind.; Unitarian; art teacher in Bardstown Institute, at Bardstown, Ky.; never married.

Henry C. Brunner when still a young man entered the employ of J. G. Reiff, merchant, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This was in 1846. In 1849, a young man arriving at his maturity, he made a trip West—to his uncle, George Conver, in Jennings County, Indiana. The West became so interesting and attractive to him that he concluded to remain. He then bought lands near the home of his uncle and was soon actively engaged at farming. Being a man of unusual ability, he became interested in the general affairs of the county, so much so that his energy carried him into politics. First he was elected a Justice of the Peace, then was made County Trustee, and later served several terms representing his district in the State Legislature, etc.

Now tiring of farming he entered the mercantile business in his neighborhood, and was so engaged from 1860 to 1869. Anticipating greater expectations at this business, he then sold out his store in Jennings County and moved with his family to Louisville, Kentucky. In that city he engaged in a similar pursuit, only on a much larger scale. The business proved quite a success. Then because of advancing years and having acquired a competency of this world's means, he transferred the business over to his sons, who continued the firm under the old name. From now on for the remainder of his time he lived a restful and retired life with his family in Louisville.

Since writing the foregoing Henry Brunner has passed on to the great beyond. In his death his family lost a dear father and the city of Louisville a most valued and staid citizen. When gathering the material for this book I received some very interesting and pleasing letters from my kinsman, Henry Conver Brunner, Esq., but from lack of space and their length I am compelled to deprive the reader of most of these. They are rich in reminiscence and local history bearing on his childhood and facts that impressed him as a boy at the home of his father, Henry Brunner, which was earlier the home of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, on Neshaminy Creek, in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.*

V—D—1385—X—6—Sarah Ann Conver, b. Oct. 6, 1839.

V—D—1386—X—7—Rebecca Conver, b. Mar. 1, 1841.

George Conver learned the trade of joinery and carpentry at his Hatfield home, and for some time he carried on his trade thereabouts. Then he kept country store for a while in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, on the Cowpath Road, not far distant from the present town of Souderton. Becoming imbued with the western spirit and its proffered advantages, he decided in the spring of 1837 to go West. Loading his heavy team with household and store goods, he started with his family on the great overland journey westward. Slowly but surely they moved onward, and on the way disposed of the store goods to the inland inhabitants and settlers. Their first stop of some duration was at the city of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. While resting there they furthered the plans for their continued journey.

Their next rest of importance was at the home of George Conver's cousin, John Reed, and family, in the town of Canton, Stark Co., Ohio. After their brief visit there they resumed their trip westward, and their next stop of greater importance was at the home of George Conver's uncle, Jacob Reed, and family, in Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio. While there George Conver became interested in this country and purchased a farm about four miles distant from his uncle's home, in Sugar Creek Township. There he farmed and worked at his trade until about 1840, when he sold the farm and his personal property, and with his family, resumed his way westward, finally settling upon government lands in Spencer Township, Jennings County, Indiana. This was his last move, and he lived in Spencer Township, worked at his trade and successfully farmed until his demise in 1870. He was a popular man in his neighborhood, a true Christian and a good father.*

V—D—1434—X—5—John C. Kober, b. Jan. 19, 1844.

John M. Kober came to America with his parents from Wurtemberg, Germany, when a lad of 11 years. He became a farmer in New Britain Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and located not far distant from the borough of Chalfont. He was successful in business life, owning a fine farm and accumulating quite an estate. He was one of those good farmers who applied himself diligently to his work, moved along smoothly in life's battles, and forged ahead in an unostentatious manner. He was a kind and good husband, an agreeable neighbor and a consistent Christian.

His wife, Mary (Conver) Kober, at this writing (1898) is living, and for one so aged and near the century mark, is enjoying good health. Her father, Jacob Conver, was a Revolutionary soldier, a member of the company of Hatfield Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania Militia. This makes her a real living Daughter of the American Revolution, an honored privilege to be proud of, and one which at this late period of the Nation's history but few can enjoy.

Samuel B. Conver early in life first became a shoemaker; then learned the trade of carpentry with his father in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. For the last eighteen years of his life he lived in Lansdale, devoting his entire time and attention to the embalming and undertaking business. He was very popular at his vocation, and was known far and wide as a reliable, able, sincere, pleasing and sympathetic man at the business.

Since the above was written Samuel B. Conver has been called to that long home of thousands whom he had helped to put away and who have gone the same road before him, and he leaves behind him a noble heritage and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss. He was a thrifty, conscientious and hard-working man, who had a great feeling and regard for the unfortunate, for he did not always seek personal gain in business, as so many do who follow this profession for a livelihood, but he was a friend to those in distress and need. The widow still lives and resides in Lansdale.

William Lindsay, Sr., was of English extraction and his wife was Scotch, they emigrating to America in their early married life, settling in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. This was before the American Revolution, for at its outbreak William Lindsay enlisted in the American cause and served throughout the war. For some time he was tax collector of his district in Lancaster County. During his term of office in the course of his duty he was waylaid and robbed of his money. He was shot by the thieves, mortally wounded, and a short time thereafter he died.

After his death his widow returned to Scotland, and her son William, then about 10 years of age, was left in America, and adopted by Richard Clees. The boy remained with his guardian until he became 21 years of age. Leaving then, he drifted over into Montgomery County, to the neighborhood of the home of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in New Britain Township, Bucks County. He remained there for several years, in the interim wooing and wedding the Colonel's daughter. By some it is said it was a runaway marriage. Going West the couple finally settled down to domestic life in Bedford County, Pennsylvania. They located in that county on a farm near the home of Mrs. Lindsay's brother, Jacob Reed, who, with his family, had come there but a short while before.

About 1807, becoming dissatisfied in Bedford County, William Lindsay gathered his worldly possessions, so far as he could, loading them and his family in a great wagon, and started westward again. The overland trip through the new and rough country was slow, tedious and troublesome. He at first located on a farm in Stark County, Ohio, not far distant from lands subsequently settled by his brother-in-law, Jacob Reed.

After several years' residence there, he disposed of this farm and improvement, and resumed his way onward and westward, further into the frontier, and finally became a permanent settler in Pike Township, Knox County, Ohio.

His farm there consisted of nearly two hundred acres of land, of excellent soil, most of it heavily timbered, and of a rolling character. It was near the Fairview Presbyterian Church. As he toiled here he prospered, and the country about him was rapidly settled and developed. The farm and the church were situated on the great highway leading from Stark County to the city of Columbus, Ohio.

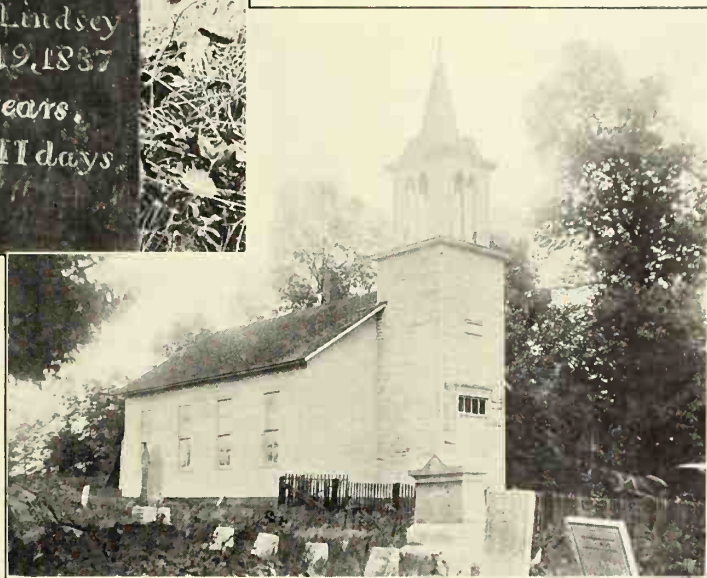

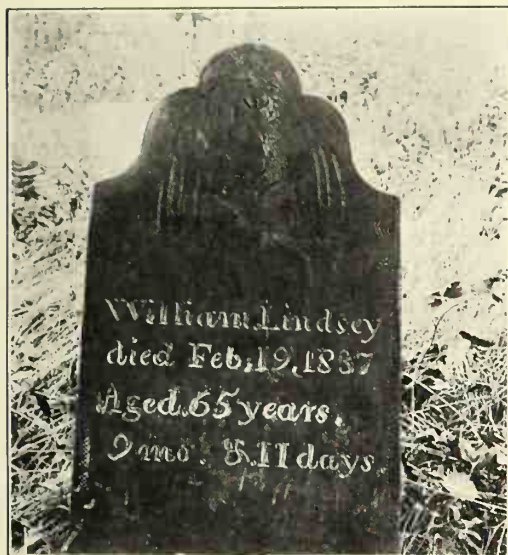

William Lindsay soon erected on this farm for himself and family a comfortable two-story log dwelling, such as only the better class of settlers could afford to have built at that early time. This attractive old log building stood and was utilized until but a few years ago, when, because of its age, decay and uselessness, it was torn down by its owner, he replacing it with a more modern building appropriate to his needs and in keeping with the times.

William Lindsay was a member in the nearby old Presbyterian Church and active in its affairs. In it he filled all positions as layman. In its adjoining burial ground his remains are interred, and the grave is marked with a picturesque brown sandstone marker, suitably inscribed. He, too, in his time, was an active and influential citizen of the township and interested in all local affairs; in fact, he was a leading factor in all general township and community interests; he was truly a public-spirited man.

During my trip to Ohio in the year 1898, I was fortunate in visiting the old plantation of William Lindsay, the Fairview Presbyterian Church, and other places of local and historical interest, with which William Lindsay and family were associated and interested. My congenial guide and companion was my kinsman, James McGinley, a grandson of William Lindsay. He was born and always lived in that community, and knew much about his early ancestors of Pike Township. The season of the year was grand, and the weather at the time was ideal—bright, cool and pleasant. Furthermore, my entertainment at his home was very agreeable and interesting, for the family spared neither trouble nor effort in making my visit pleasing, as well as profitable and instructive.

Many were the interesting stories I heard from the lips of this grandson as we sat by the fireside—traditions pertaining to the early home of his grandfather, his characteristics, his trials and endurances experienced in his early pioneering days in this western country, in the building of a home, shaping the land for cultivation and contact with the Indian and the wild beast. With it all, the outcome has been grateful, for today it is a most charming, pleasing, beautiful, picturesque and resourceful country.

Robert McGinley was a son of Michael and Mary (Strain) McGinley, and resided in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. About 1800 Robert's father, Michael McGinley, died, leaving a widow and a number of children. A short time after the death of the husband the mother gathered her family together and moved to the home of her father, Robert Strain, who was then living in Knox Co., Ohio. Her father was a pioneer settler in Knox County, and owned a fine farm of one hundred and sixty-five acres here. The farm was in the same township and near the lands of William Lindsay.

Robert McGinley, soon after his marriage to Eve Lindsay, took charge of the farm of his grandfather, Robert Strain, in Pike Township, and there he farmed and lived until his death, in 1871. He was a prosperous man, active and much interested in local affairs of his neighborhood.

James McGinley is a farmer and stock dealer, and owns the old McGinley homestead in Knox County, Ohio. He is a man of more than ordinary business ability and intelligence. He is a public-spirited citizen who takes an active interest in county, township and other local affairs, stands high in community estimation, and is a model citizen.

During my genealogical trip to the State of Ohio in 1899, I made a stay of several days with the family in their snug little home in Pike Township, near the town of Mount Vernon, in Knox County. They were extremely kind, did all they could to make my stay pleasant and interesting, and rendered me all genealogical and historical assistance possible, particularly about their branch of the Reed family. Their farm is pleasantly situated, is of rich, loose soil, sufficiently rolling for good drainage, and most of it is under a high state of cultivation, all indicating thrift, and prosperity. A small portion of the land is still covered with native heavy timber. The buildings lie some distance from the main road, but are easily reached by a well kept and somewhat crooked lane. In fact, the farm in its situation, is attractive, bordering on the picturesque, and has a most beautiful and commanding aspect.*

*James McGinley's natty little home was of the bungalow order. While on my visit to their home, in 1898, a cold snap of weather set in, and they warmed their home with a fire built in their artistic and trim fireplace. It was a most interesting evening I spent with them gathered around the glowing embers and talking

William Lindsay was born a pioneer boy on the frontier, in Pike Township, Knox County, Ohio. At the age of 18 years he left his home and walked from Pike Township, Knox County, Ohio, to the city of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He remained there for a period of four years, in the meantime learning the trade of carpentry. From there he then went to the town of New Castle, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, and resided in that place for two years. There he followed the building and contract-and reminiscing. When the time came for retiring I was lighted to the guest chamber, in the second story of their home. My bed was a family heirloom, and its mattress was made of fluffy feathers. The coverlet was of the same material. When I crawled into the bed, I kept sinking down, down, far into the mattress, and its sides kept rising and rising about me, pulling the cumbersome coverlet over me. Some time in the night I awakened and found myself almost smothered from the thick quilt and uprising mattress that enveloped me from all sides below. I could hear the cold wind soaring from without, but its icy pangs had no discomforting effect, so snugly was I enveloped in the bed. In the morning I had to crawl from the warmth within out into the cold to dress. It was an experience I had never anticipated, its novelty I enjoyed, and since then it has had its everlasting impression. With it all, they were so kind, and the novel experience I had added zest to my visit.

ing business. Then he went to Youngstown, Mahoning County, Ohio, and there, too, followed the building and contracting business. About 1858-9 in Youngstown he established a lumber yard and erected a planing mill. This business he followed closely until 1870. Feeling the ravages of approaching age, he disposed of all business interests, and thereafter lived a retired life, death following in 1876. In business he was rather easy disposed, and from this leniency lost much money in business affairs. But with it all he was a fine man, had an excellent reputation and possessed the good will of all.

V—D—1776a—WILLIAM I. LINDSAY. Son of William and Mary (McDonel) Lindsay. He was b. July 18, 1847, at Youngstown, Mahoning Co., Ohio; d. —, 1901, in Cleveland, Ohio; m. (1st), — —; two children—boys, who are married and reside in the Western United States.

William I. Lindsay, m. (2nd), May 2, 1882, Eliza Johnson; b. May 24, 1847, at Brooklyn, Cuyahoga Co., Ohio; she Presbyterian; widow resides in Cleveland, Ohio; no children.

William I. Lindsay was a self-made man. As a boy he disliked school, preferring to work in his father's planing mill. Here he acquired a knowledge of carpentry and the planing mill business. In 1862 as a lad he left his home in Youngstown, and with but 50 cents in his pockets, started for the city of Cleveland, Ohio, and there sought employment in various businesses. Through pluck and perseverance he in time started a lumber yard, and followed its interests for a period of twenty-five years. From this he drifted into the planing mill and Lindsay fencing business (a product of his own invention), and lastly operated these lines in conjunction with a large lumber yard, wood box factory, etc. He was very successful in business, for he was enterprising and forged ahead with great success.

In later years he owned a fine farm on Euclid avenue, distant about twelve miles from the city of Cleveland. This to him was a great source of pleasure and diversion, and there he would be found for relaxation during his spare moments, especially during the summer months. The farm not only was a diversion, but proved a profitable venture as well.

His death came suddenly, just in the prime of life, when he had reached that period of life when ease and comfort were his. In his death the city and its institutions lost a most liberal and cheerful contributor. He was well known by various charitable and beneficial interests and organizations for his great liberality, warm friendship and kindness of heart. Truly they could say of him, "A friend in need is a friend indeed."*

*During my genealogical and historical tour to Ohio in 1899, I spent several days most agreeably with William I. Lindsay and his wife at their home in the city of Cleveland. The family was very kind, and Mr. Lindsay rendered me all possible assistance with the record of his family, and as a side line and to add spice to the visit, we together had a most delightful time touring the city of Cleveland and its environments. So enjoyable and agreeable was my visit, it was but a short time thereafter that Mr. Lindsay made a visit to our home in Jeffersonville, Pennsylvania. He seemed to enjoy this visit greatly, for while here he was ever alert and on the go. Together we visited ancestral landmarks, homes and other places of historical and social interest.

Cornelius Phiefer for some years after his marriage farmed in Knox County, Ohio, but later removed with his family to Fayette County, Illinois, where he died. He had a large family of children. One daughter, whose name was Mary Elizabeth, died Sept. 5, 1842, in Knox County, and is buried at Fairview Presbyterian Church. The remainder of the children's names are unknown to the writer.

Jacob Phiefer, the father of Cornelius Phiefer, was an early neighbor of William Lindsay, Sr., and settled as a pioneer in Knox County, in Brown Township, in 1818. He at first was a farmer. Then he became a cross-road hotel keeper, at the present site of the village of Jelloway, in Knox County. The hotel was on the old stage route leading from Cleveland to Columbus, and it soon became a favorite stopping place for the weary traveller in making the long journey between the distant cities.

Jacob Phiefer was a native of Germany, and served in the German Army ten years before coming to America. He became a soldier of the 1812 War, serving in the American Army. The Lindsays and Phiefers were near neighbors, and as such became very friendly and shared one another's trials, anxieties, tribulations and pleasures in their early Ohio pioneer frontier life. This intimacy was so close that ultimately it led to family intermarriage, etc.

SILHOUETTES OF WENDLE AND EVE (REED) FISHER

Wendle Fisher's great-grandparents, Jacob and Sophia Elizabeth Fisher, came from Freinsheim, an ancient town in the Palatinate, Germany. The city is situated on a plain west of the River Rhine. The family arrived in America, in the "Ship Adventurer," Jacob Fisher qualifying in Philadelphia, on October 2, 1727. His father was Herman Fisher; the latter's father was George Fisher.

Jacob Fisher, the elder, was one of the earliest settlers of the Goshenhoppen region, upper Philadelphia County (now Montgomery County), Pennsylvania, he being of the first land purchasers in Upper Hanover Township. Jacob Fisher, with Philip Reed (our ancestor), was among the first or original enrolled members and organizers of the New Goshenhoppen German Reformed Church. Both families always took a leading interest in this church and its work. The two Palatine families arrived in the same year, 1727, at Philadelphia, and within a few days of one another but on different vessels.

Wendle Fisher's parents, George and Anna Barbara (Eberhard) Fisher, were married on May 12, 1761, and he was their seventh son. The father, George Fisher, was a soldier of the American Revolution, and served in the Upper Hanover Township, Philadelphia County Militia.

Their son Wendle was reared a farmer. He married as a very young man, and his wife was several years his senior. After his marriage he settled for several years at farming in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, not far distant from the home of his wife's parents. Some years after this they removed just across the county line to a farm in Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. There they remained for some years.

In 1810 Wendle Fisher moved with his family to Norristown, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and there engaged at the hotel business. He first kept what is now (1905) known as the "Farmers' Hotel," at Main and Barbadoes Streets, but at that time it was known as the "Fountain Inn" or "Wheel Pump House." While there Wendle Fisher enjoyed a large patronage, particularly so from the up-county farmers and produce men who stopped there for rest and entertainment on their long journey from their homes to the Philadelphia markets.

During Wendle Fisher's residence in Norristown he was active as a public man, becoming quite a politician. He first served during 1811 and 1812 as Constable; then for six years he was Under-Sheriff of the county; after this for a number of years he was Prison Warden of Montgomery County. While Prison Warden the family had to reside within the prison walls. In 1818 he again engaged at hotelkeeping in Norristown, now at WENDLE FISHER, having removed from his former residence, the Montgomery county Prison, of which he is no longer keeper, respectfully solicits the patronage of his friends at his new Tavern, formerly the BUCK, now the AMERICAN EAGLE, opposite his old stand, and immediately next to the Court-house and public Offices—where he will be ready to accommodate them with Boarding, Lodging and entertainment for their Horses.

He hopes from the improvement now making in the house, and the erection of entire new accommodations, to gratify those who will favour him with their custom.

the stand known as the "American Eagle," on Swede Street, opposite the jail and Court House. This inn in more recent years was better known as the "Rambo House," and now it is no more an inn, but is utilized by the Philadelphia & Western Railroad as a station.

The Norristown papers of his time had much to say of Wendle Fisher in his public life. They mention him as a prominent partisan of the Democratic faith. At a Democratic-Republican meeting held at the public house at Center Square, on the 18th of September, 1813, he was nominated for the office of Coroner of Montgomery County, and at the succeeding general election he had a good majority of the votes. At the Fourth of July celebration of the Democratic-Republican citizens, in 1814, held at the public house of Isaac Markley, Jeffersonville, he proposed as a volunteer toast: "Pennsylvania—the Rock of Democracy, sufficiently firm for all Monarchists, Tories and Apostate Whigs to knock their head against." It was received with much applause and struck the keynote of patriotic and political feeling prevalent at the time.

Wendle Fisher gave up innkeeping in Norristown in 1830, and then removed to the home of his eldest son, Jacob Fisher, near Lawrenceville, Chester County, Pennsylvania. Not long after his removal to his new home he died, and his death was untimely, he being but a young man. He had always lived a rather strenuous public life. This over-exertion in business had its effect, for it undermined his vigorous constitution. He naturally was possessed of a bright intellect, of strong will, and great masculine strength and activity. He was of pleasing address, of a very friendly and social manner, and thereby enjoyed a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and all of which contributed much to his great popularity and business success.

Eve (Reed) Fisher was her husband's senior by some years. Her wise administration largely contributed to his success as an innkeeper. She was a woman of exceptional congeniality, of a motherly disposition, and she was admired and loved by all. In her advanced years she became afflicted with total blindness. In her sore distress she was much devoted to her Bible and religion. While in one of her acts of devotion, she accidentally met with a sad and painful misfortune. While kneeling before her Maker in devout prayer, her robe covering her, in some unaccountable way, came in contact with a hot stove, which set it on fire. She not being able to see to put out the flame, the enveloping fire did its cruel work and a painful death ensued.

It was the family's custom while she was engaged in her daily devotions to leave her thus uninterrupted. During this temporary absence of the family from her the sad misfortune happened, and when her plight was learned it was too late, for the cruel fire had done its work and her suffering was dreadful.

Dec. 31, 1822, Mary, daugh. of Martin and Elizabeth Rinehart; b. Sept. 13, 1803, in East Coventry Twp., Chester Co., Pa.; d. V—D—1855— —6—Elizabeth Fisher, b. May 25, 1835; d. Aug. 17, 1838; bur. at Union Ch. Cem., at Lawrenceville.

Jacob Fisher received a good common school education, learned to become a fuller and dyer, and worked at his trade for some years. Then he engaged in farming in East Coventry Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, and he was quite prosperous. Soon after his wife died he sold his farm and personal property, and removed to the home of his son-in-law, Enos Reasor, in Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania. There he spent his declining years in rest, comfort and happiness.

The writer as a mere lad met Jacob Fisher. He came to our home in Jeffersonville at intervals, and always was a welcome visitor. He was of a kindly disposition and always took a friendly interest in us children, thereby winning our tender feelings and great respect. He was an interesting and entertaining talker, and at the fireside family talks always drew us close to him in his unassuming, attractive and rather affectionate way. In every way he was a model man and an exemplary citizen who was beloved by everyone with whom he came in contact.

Mary Fisher, his wife, was his equal in many ways, and was also of an entertaining and kindly disposition. One thing that forcibly attracted my attention to her was that she was given to smoking a pipe. As none of our family used the weed in any form, for a woman to smoke a long-stem pipe, as she did, was odd and interesting and beyond my understanding. However, in the olden time this was a custom of these good people, and they seemed to enjoy it greatly in their innocent way. She, as well as her husband, was a good Christian. She was a good and kind mother, and a most considerate and charming friend and neighbor. She was patient and reconciled to the last, for she died from a protracted and lingering illness.

V—D—1851—ANN R. FISHER. Daughter of Jacob and Mary (Rinehart) Fisher. She was b. June 22, 1826, in East Coventry Twp., Chester County; m. Feb. 24, 1848, Enos March Reasor; b. Mar. 24, 1821, in East Coventry Twp.; Universalists; children:—

Enos March Reasor was a self-made man, had a good common school education and learned the trade of boiler-making, blacksmithing and sheet-iron making. He located in the city of Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania, and there became interested in a large steam boiler works. The firm was noted for superior workmanship, gaining thereby an international reputation, and shipping their products the world over. He was not only much interested in his business, but was active in civic affairs, so much so, that he served as a member of Reading's City Council for some years, and in other community work and affairs. Since the foregoing was written both Enos Reasor and his wife are deceased, she reaching in age nearly the century mark.

- VI—D—1888— —4—Kate S. Fisher, b. Nov. 15, 1875, in Lock Haven, Pa.

Martin Rinehart Fisher was reared as a farm boy. His earlier education he received at the neighborhood public schools, but later he attended Freeland Seminary, at Freeland (now Collegeville), Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. He then became a school teacher, and for a number of years taught public school in his home neighborhood. Later he assumed a clerical position in a general store, in Spring City, Chester County, Pennsylvania; then accepted employment with the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad in Reading. Tiring of this, he learned the boilermaking trade, and in 1865 became a partner in the steam boiler works of his brother-in-law, Enos Reasor, in the city of Reading, under the name of Reasor & Fisher. After three years' service there, the firm dissolved, and he then took a position with a steam boiler firm in Williamsport, Lycoming County, Pennsylvania. But later he started a steam boiler works of his own, in Lock Haven, Clinton County, Pennsylvania. This was in 1870, and there he remained in business for a period of twenty-one years. Then disposing of his plant, he removed to Reading, Pennsylvania, where he still resides. He served as a soldier in the militia during the Civil War.

- V—D—1901— —2—Charles Yocum Fisher; b. —, in Norristown; d. —, in Philada., Pa.; soldier of the Civil War; never married.

Joseph Fisher was a man of amiable disposition and enjoyed an enviable reputation for pleasing manners and address. In the earlier stages of navigation on the Schuylkill River, he opened and conducted a general merchandising store at "Little Catfish Dam," on the east side of the river, near what is known today as Betzwood Station, on the Schuylkill Valley Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Here he furnished store supplies to boatmen traversing up and down the river on the Schuylkill Canal. After some years' successful business here he disposed of the store to engage in the hotel business in Norristown, at the stand known as the "American Eagle," the same place which at an earlier date was conducted by his father, Wendle Fisher. During a busy and strenuous life, while still a young man, he was taken seriously ill and died, leaving not only an endeared family but a host of friends to mourn his untimely death. The widow subsequently married Isaiah Davis, and by him had children:—Freeman, G. Dallas, Eugene and Anna Elizabeth.

Dec. 14, 1834, Susan Zollers; b. Nov. 8, 1808, in Skippack Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; d. Dec. 30, 1893, in Norristown; Reformed; bur. in Montgomery Cem., Norristown; child:—

V—D—1905—X—1—Mary Rebecca Fisher, b. Jan. 29, 1836, at Frick's Locks, Chester Co., Pa.; m. June 15, 1858, Harry G. Reiff; b. Oct. 13, 1835, near Pottstown Landing, Chester Co., Pa.; Reformed; one child:—(1)—Ada Laura, b. April 8, 1860, in Conshohocken, Montg. Co., Pa.; m. Oct. 6, 1881, Samuel Money, Esq.; b. April 6, 1855, in Norriton Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; she Reformed; he Methodist; lawyer; reside in Norristown; two children:—(a)—Edna Laura, b. Sept. 24, 1882; (b)—Harry Fisher, b. Nov. 28, 1883; since deceased; single.

Harry G. Reiff for many years was station agent for the Philada., Germantown & Norristown Railroad in Conshohocken, Pa.; subsequently he was transferred to a similar position on the Hatboro Branch of the North Penna. Railroad at its station, in Hatboro; failing health compelled him to relinquish all railroad work; later he became bookkeeper in the Reformed Church Messenger publication office, in Philadelphia; his later years were spent in a retired life at his home in Norristown.

Daniel Fisher in his earlier manhood life was engaged at the mercantile business in Montgomery and Chester counties, and for a number of years he was located at Pottstown Landing, in Chester County, Pennsylvania, across the Schuylkill River from Pottstown. There for some time he was in a business partnership, and the firm was known as Bamer & Fisher. The store was on the Schuylkill Canal. In addition to the neighborhood trade the firm did a thriving business with the boatmen, who at the time were numerous on the river.

After some years in business Daniel Fisher closed out his store interests at Pottstown Landing and removed with his family to Annandale, Fairfax County, Virginia, distant twelve miles from Washington, D. C., and there he superintended a store owned and operated by several railroad contractors. This was just before the outbreak of the Civil War. Then he returned with his family to Conshohocken, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, to engage at his trade of tailoring. In 1863 he was elected to the office of Clerk of Courts, for Montgomery County, and then removed to Norristown, the countyseat. After his term of office expired he moved to Philadelphia. There he lived retired for a while, and then became associated in the work of the Reformed Church Messenger Publication Board, and was made clerk in the periodical department. He retained this position until 1880. He now retired from all active business, and again removed to Norristown, and lived there until his decease. He always was active in church work, and for many years he served as an elder in Christ German Reformed Church, in Philadelphia, etc.

Some years back when the upper end of Montgomery County was feverish with the idea of clipping off portions of Montgomery, Chester and Berks Counties, and out of them forming a new county to be called Madison, Daniel Fisher was an enthusiast over the project, and labored hard for its success. In the end this effort was in vain, for the majority sentiment was against it, and to his regret it failed of accomplishment.

He was a man of exemplary character, and had a commanding appearance. I remember him well when I was a small boy, for we all liked him. True to his name, he was a "fisher," and a contemplative follower of the accepted principles of Izaak Walton. He frequently came to our home in Jeffersonville with a cane in his hand that he could draw out into a long fishing rod, and father, also an enthusiast in the sport, was ever ready to repair to the Schuylkill River, with proper bait, to tempt the wily fish. On these trips with this estimable man I received my first lessons as a disciple of the sport. If I did not catch the biting "sunny," I at least, in my eagerness, could hook the overhanging branches of the shading trees beneath which we fished, and tangle the hook and line to the annoyance of all.

REV. SAMUEL REED FISHER, D. D.

Of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. An eminent divine in the German Reformed Church of America. Editor and publisher of the Reformed Church Messenger, scholar, author, etc.

VI—D—1911— —2—Rebecca May Fisher, b. July 5, 1840, in Chambersburg; d. Dec. 28, 1879, in Philada., Pa.; Reformed; bur. in Zion's German Reformed Ch. Bur. Grd., at Chambersburg; never married.

Rebecca May Fisher, who for a number of years before her death was in delicate health, assisted her father in newspaper work, and for many years wrote the book notices of the lighter literature, in the Reformed Church Messenger, and in this line of work displayed more than ordinary ability. At the time of her death she was editor of Sunshine, a Sunday School paper for infant classes; superintended and did all of the work upon it; from her natural tact and ability, hundreds of little ones were pleased and profited by the way she brightened its pages.

Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D., m. (2nd), Dec. 5, 1843, Naomi (Ish) Kerns; daugh. of Jacob Ish, and widow of Abraham Kerns; of Loudoun County, Virginia; b. —, 1803; d. Nov. 26, 1875, in Philada., Pa.; bur. in Zion's German Reformed Ch. Cem., at Chambersburg, Pa.; no children; she was a woman of unusual energy and possessed many noble qualities as a wife, mother and friend.

Samuel Reed Fisher prepared for college under the direction of his cousin, the Rev. George Wack, residing at Center Square, who at the time was pastor of Boehm's Reformed Church, Blue Bell, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. In 1829, he entered the preparatory department of Jefferson College, at Canonsburg, Washington County, Pennsylvania, and graduated there with honors. In due time he was licensed and ordained a minister of the Gospel in the German Reformed Church, and subsequently accepted a call to the Emmitsburg, Maryland, charge, consisting of six congregations. He then became associated with the printing establishment of the German Reformed Church of America, publishing the Reformed Church Messenger, in Chambersburg. Afterwards the Messenger was removed to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Dr. Fisher continued at its head as superintendent and editor-in-chief, until his death, in 1881.

He was stated clerk of the Eastern Synod of his church until his demise. His death was sudden and unexpected. He was fatally stricken while in attendance at the General Synod of the Reformed Church of America, at its meeting, held in Tiffin, Ohio. His great prominence, wide popularity, and sudden death cast a sad gloom at the time over the entire Reformed Church of America.

As a writer Dr. Fisher attained considerable celebrity. He prepared and published the Rum Plague, a temperance story, translated from German Zschokke; Heidelberg Catechism Simplified, Exercises on the Heidelberg Catechism and the Family Assistant; the latter three works indicating much ability. He was author of the Burning of Chambersburg, and several other poems which were given to the public through the press in pamphlet form, etc.*

*See Addenda:—(Paper R)—“Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D.—An Extract from His Manuscript Autobiography.”

Dr. Samuel Reed Fisher, in his lifetime prepared a very valuable and interesting history or sketch of his life in manuscript form. This autobiographical book depicted in an able and entertaining way how a struggling and ambitious youth rose from adverse circumstances and humble parentage to become, in time, one of the most able and conspicuous figures in the German Reformed Church of America. The book contains invaluable records of the Fisher paternal ancestry and as well of the Reed maternal ancestry. However incomplete these may be, the material here found is invaluable to genealogists and students of history.

The book was never published and made accessible to the public as the author intended after his decease. The manuscript came into the possession of his son, the Rev. Charles G. Fisher, D. D., who in good faith intended carrying out his father's desire. Unfortunately, the son was stricken with sudden death in his prime of life, and thus the father's purpose was never realized. This book, I have learned with sorrow, has since met with a sad misfortune involving its partial destruction, and now it looks as though its publication cannot ever be effected.

CHURCH CERTIFICATE OF THE REV. SAMUEL REED FISHER, D. D.

Of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This is his certificate of membership in the German Reformed Church, when a lad of 17 years, and residing with his parents, in Norristown, Pennsylvania. The Rev. George Wack was the young man's preceptor in his ecclesiastical studies, and in consanguineous ties they were second cousins.

to 1874. His third charge was in Winchester, Virginia, and he remained there until 1880. Then he became assistant superintendent of the Publication Board of the German Reformed Church, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. In 1881 he was chosen superintendent, and in 1887 he became proprietor of the Reformed Publishing House and editor of its paper, the Reformed Church Messenger, remaining as such until his decease.

His death was sudden and unexpected, occurring as he sat at his breakfast table in his home. Remaining quiet and bent devoutly in prayer at his plate for some time, members of the family suspecting something wrong, touched him and found him dead. Like his father, he was widely and prominently known in the German Reformed Church in America. When the news spread of his sudden and untimely death, it came as a great shock to the church and his many friends in all parts of the country. For he "died while he prayed."

V—D—1934— —5—S. Rebecca Fisher, b. Nov. 6, 1849, at Pottstown, Montg. Co., Pa.; lived with her parents in Alexandria, Va.; never married.

Since writing the above S. Rebecca Fisher has passed out of this world, and is bur. in the family burial plot, in Bethel Cem., Alexandria. To her labors I am indebted largely for data bearing on her branch of the Fisher family. She was a noble girl, possessing excellent qualities, and had a wide circle of near and dear friends.

Jonas Fisher's earlier days were spent at home on the farm of his parents, in East Coventry Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania. When a young man he became an employee of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company, being stationed in Pottstown. About 1851 he accepted a position with the Virginia Midland Railroad (now a part of the Southern Railway System), with offices in Alexandria, Virginia. He then removed his family to Alexandria, and became a Virginian by adoption. For efficiency, ability and apt service rendered the railroad company he was advanced to various positions and finally became master of transportation of its system.

He was a man everybody liked and was in great favor with the management and employees of the company; was ever prompt and alert at his post of duty, and faithful to a fault to all work assigned him.

During the Civil War this railroad was on the contending line between the Union and Confederate forces, and many were his trials and difficulties as a railroad official at this crucial period of history. His services were with the railroad management, and Virginia, the state in which he lived, was a part of the Southern Confederacy. His duties as a railroad official placed him in a rather embarrassing position, and brought him and his family all sorts of vicissitudes, trials and discomforts. The management of the railroad would be driven north and south by the contending armies, and he, with the rest of the officials, had to move with the changes to keep in line, and subject to orders with the armies in control. At heart he was with the Union, but his duty as a citizen of the State of Virginia was with the Southern Confederacy.

Jonas Fisher was an extremely kind and whole-hearted man, and he lived for his family, his friends and employees. He was a consistent Christian, and he and his family worshipped at the First Baptist Church, in Alexandria. In the church he held all positions as layman, and for many years was its endeared Sunday School superintendent. When he died the family lost a most devoted husband and father, the church a true and conscientious servant, and the railroad a most faithful employee.

Andrew Reed was the youngest child of Jacob and Magdalena (Leidy) Reed. He remained with his parents in their New Britain home and cared for them in their advanced years. Shortly after the death of his mother he married and brought his wife to his parental home. Here they lived and farmed for his father until the latter's death, in 1820. After his father's decease the farm was sold, and he then removed to Hilltown Township, to a farm he had previously owned, and farmed there until about 1845. Then he sold the farm and moved into Hilltown village, where he had already acquired a home and small lot of ground. From now on he lived a retired life. A decade later his daughter, Abigail (Hackman), died there, and a few years later he lost his wife by death. He then broke up his home and went to live with his youngest daughter, Sarah (Hackman), on a small farm just across the county line in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County. There he died at an advanced age. The last eight years of his life was spent in total blindness. The affliction was brought upon him through a mishap in splitting wood, a piece flying with great force striking him between the eyes and destroying the sight in both of them. I was at the time but a mere boy but remember Grandfather Reed well in his sad distress—that of being led about the home and fed in his helplessness. But with it all and its sadness, he was ever most cheerful and happy in mind.

Andrew Reed, upon his birth, was baptized at the Indian Creek Reformed Church, and in due time became a member thereof. When the Hilltown Reformed Church was organized, in 1805, his father, Jacob Reed, being a leading factor in its creation, the son became a member there. It was much nearer to his home, making it more convenient for attending than the distant Indian Creek Reformed Church. After Andrew Reed and wife moved into Hilltown village, they associated themselves with the newly organized church there known as the Evangelical Association.* They retained their membership there in the new faith until their death, and in this church's burial ground their remains now lie interred.

Andrew and Mary (Hartman) Reed were strictly good people; were very pious and devout in their whole life. They were devoted to each other and to their family and were beloved and respected by all who knew them. They were a pair of those good old people that everybody respected, greeted kindly and loved, and in return they had the same kindly affection and consideration. In all the trials and afflictions that human flesh might be heir to, they saw only the sunny side of life; they were always happy and made others happy by actions and deeds, wearing that smile and having that devoted love and affection and sincerity of purpose that only such good people can have.

IV—D—1960—JACOB REED. Son of Andrew and Mary (Hartman) Reed. He was b. Mar. 8, 1808, at Grandfather Jacob Reed's old homestead, in New Britain Twp., Bucks Co., Pa.; d. V—D—1970—X—1—Leidy Reed, b. July 26, 1834.

Jacob Reed upon marriage began farming in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and improved his farm by building a pottery. He remained there until 1836, when he purchased a farm, with a saw mill, in Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and there farmed and conducted the saw mill for a period of twenty-eight years. Having a competency, he sold his farm and saw mill, and removed with his family to Norristown, Pennsylvania. There he lived a quiet, retired and unassuming life for the remainder of his days. He and his wife lived happily together, and were good Christians.

When Jacob Reed was a younger man he was quite a sportsman, and much given in a local way to hunting and fishing. He, too, like his foreparents, was imbued with the martial spirit, and we find him enrolled as a soldier in the Hilltown Township militia. One of his certificates of discharge reads:—

“September 20th, 1842.

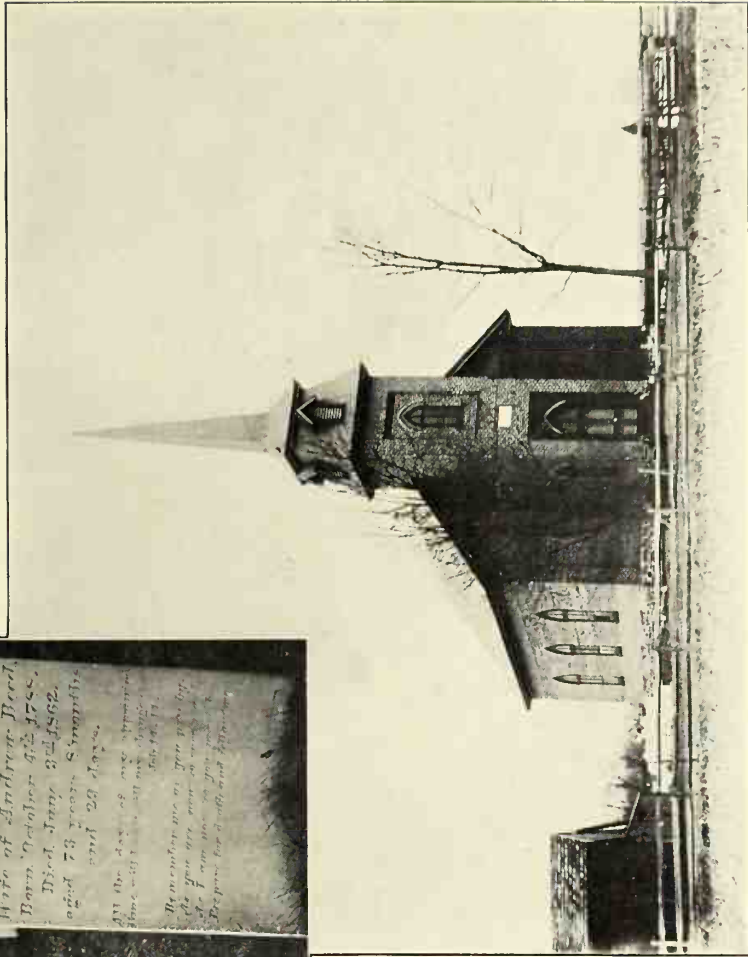

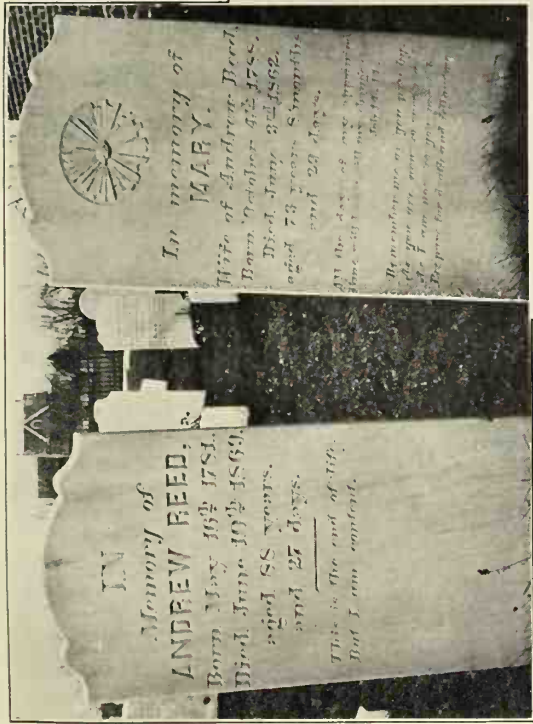

“This is to certify that Jacob Reed, being a member of the Volunteer Company, styled ‘Hilltown Fencibles,’ and performed duty and paid fines during the time I had command of the Company, which was for the full time of two years.

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE

Of Michael M. (H.) and Mary Ann (Rockafellow) Reed.

Line Lexington, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. When 16 years of age he was indentured with a neighbor, Henry Shellenberger, at Line Lexington, to learn the trade of hatting. After serving an apprenticeship until his majority, he accepted a position at his trade with a man by the name of Shaffer, who owned and operated a hat factory in Germantown, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. He worked there as a journeyman for a period of two years, and then resigned.

In 1832 he opened a hat and fur store in Skippackville, located on the main thoroughfare passing through the place. This is an inland village of some size in Upper Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. The venture proved quite successful. While there he was made village postmaster, being appointed to the office by United States Postmaster General William T. Barry. His certificate of appointment was dated at Washington, D. C., on November 23, 1832. He became successor in office to his cousin, Abraham Everhard, innkeeper of that place. He held the postmastership until his removal from Skippackville, covering a period of two years.

BUSINESS ADVERTISEMENT OF M. H. REED

Appearing in the Norristown Register for several years.

After two years of business at hatting and furring at Skippack, he disposed of the store and business, removed to the city of Philadelphia, and opened a hat and fur store on Fourth Street, below Vine. After several years of successful business at this stand he disposed of it, formed a partnership with a hatter named Jesse Shellenberger, and together they conducted a hat and fur store, on North Second Street, below Noble.

From failing health and too close application to his work, he was compelled to retire from active business in 1847. Shortly after this he was married, and settled at housekeeping, for several years only, in Doylestown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

In 1855, he removed with his family to Norristown, Pennsylvania. Being an invalid he lived there a quiet and reserved life for two years, then he purchased a property in Jeffersonville, a village two miles west of Norristown, and removed there, spending the remainder of his days in a restful and retired way.

Michael H. Reed always was an active and public spirited man, one who in a quiet and unassuming way accorded assistance and encouragement to all public matters advanced for the betterment of the community. He in his earlier church life was Reformed, but on his removal to Jeffersonville he connected himself with the nearby Presbyterian church. In the church he was always a liberal contributor and worked hard for its support and advancement. He served his church in all ways as layman—as elder and trustee, and for many years was secretary and treasurer, etc., of its many boards. In 1876, when the old Jeffersonville Presbyterian Church changed to its present location, he was one of the members active in the movement, and he served faithfully on the building committee and contributing largely of his means for its success. The location of this building has proved exceedingly well chosen, for the church has a most beautiful and commanding appearance, and is a valuable asset and credit to the neighborhood.*

VI—D—2002— —3—Hazel Kimball Reed, b. Dec. 2, 1888, in National City; teacher in High School; single.

Chassie F. and Hazel K. Reed went to the first kindergarten school in California. This kindergarten was started in National City by their great-uncle and aunt, Frank A. and Sarah C. Kimball. It also was supported by them until it became a part of the public school system. After completing the kindergarten course the two girls went to grammar school and partly through high school in National City. The family then moved to San Diego City, where the two girls completed the high school course, graduating from the Russ High School, now known as the San Diego Senior High School. Then they went to Pomona College for two years, but attended Leland Stanford Junior University for their last two years of undergraduate work. Chassie majored in graphic arts and Hazel in English. Both graduated in May, 1911, with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In order to obtain high school certificates they returned to Stanford for one-half year of post-graduate work, and then did practice teaching for one-half year at the San Diego State Normal School, from which they were graduated in June, 1912. Each has taught in California high schools for a number of years, and each has gained a life certificate for teaching high school in California. At this writing Chassie is teaching tooled leather work in the San Diego Evening High School. Hazel is teaching English in the San Diego Senior High School. During one summer vacation both went to Alaska. Hazel has since spent a summer vacation in Europe and part of another in Hawaii.

Franklin P. Reed was educated in the public schools at his home in Jeffersonville, Pennsylvania; learned the trade of tinsmithing and sheet iron working, at Line Lexington, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and completed the trade with John F. Stauffer & Son, in Norristown, Pennsylvania. Then he went West, as Horace Greeley advised in those days, first settling at farming, near Lawrenceburg, Indiana. Tiring after a few years of farm work, he sold out his outfit and located at his trade of tinsmithing in Santa Fe, New Mexico. Several years later he resumed his way westward, subsequently settling at the tin and sheet iron working business, in Portland, Oregon. Again he became restless, then travelled southward, and finally engaged in the tin and hardware business, in National City, California.

So delighted was he with the climate of this region that he determined to remain there permanently. He soon built up a most successful business, married and became a real Californian by adoption in this most ideal country. In later years he moved with his family to the city of San Diego—to a comfortable home, which he already owned, and there he engaged in the real estate and mining business. Dividing his time between this vocation and a semi-retired life, he lives in this pretty city, and still thinks the country is the finest in the United States.

As a diversion he has been much interested in historical and genealogical work, and wherever and whenever he could, he assisted me in my work. He is now engaged in a similar line of work on his maternal side, A History and Genealogy of the Rockafellow-Probasco and allied families.

He assisted and participated in the work and expense of erecting a monument to our American ancestor, John Philip Reed, of Marlborough Township, in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church burial ground, near East Greenville, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. He did likewise with a similar monument to the memory of our great-grandfather, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in Leidy's Burial Ground, near the borough of Hatfield, in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. This latter marker was dedicated by the Historical Society of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, on October 8, 1901, on the occasion of its annual fall outing. Also, he shared the cost of publication of the book, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, Proceedings at the Dedication of the Monument, Erected to His Memory, published in 1905.*

V—D—1991—WILLOUGHBY HENRY REED. Son of Michael Hartman and Mary Ann (Rockafellow) Reed. He was b. Jan. 20, 1856, in Norristown, Montg. Co., Pa.; m. Nov. 6, 1884, Anna Rebecca, daugh. of Samuel and Amanda (Crawford) Jarrett; b. March 19, 1853, in Lower Providence Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; Presbyterians; reside in Jeffersonville, Montg. Co., Pa.; no children.

Willoughby H. Reed received his "schooling" in the nearby village school. For some years he was a neighborhood general utility boy, and during his summer vacations worked on a neighboring farm. Then he clerked for a while in the village store. Later he became a printer's apprentice—to learn the art and science of printing—in the True Witness office, a weekly temperance paper, edited and published by Moses Auge, in Norristown. Then he worked at the printer's trade on the Conshohocken Recorder, in Conshohocken, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and later in a job printing office in Philadelphia, after which he accepted a position to learn the drug business in Phoenixville, Chester County, Pennsylvania, serving there a four years' apprenticeship, receiving his degree "Graduate of Pharmacy" from the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy in the spring of 1879. Then he clerked a year as a pharmacist in the store of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, conducted by Hippert P. John, in Philadelphia. He next entered as a student in Jefferson Medical College, graduating therefrom two years later a "Medical Doctor," in the spring of 1882. He practiced medicine for two summers at Cape May Point, New Jersey, then at Phoenixville, Chester County, Pennsylvania, and later at his home in Jeffersonville.

In the fall of 1884 he married, and opened a drug store in Norristown. Here he followed a successful business covering a period of over thirty years. Retiring from business, he removed to Jeffersonville, and now lives at the "Michael H. Reed" homestead.

In his younger days he became imbued with the martial spirit of his great-grandfather, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, and enlisted in the "Wheatley Cadets," Company D, Eleventh Regiment, Pennsylvania Militia (Infantry), in Phoenixville, and served in the ranks for a period of five years. His enlistment took place just before the outbreak of the Pittsburgh riots, in 1877. On the call to arms by the State he shouldered his gun and marched to the front. This active experience in military duty as a soldier boy was to him edifying, novel, eventful, amusing and at times somewhat pathetic, and if written in detail would form a most novel and interesting chapter in the events of his life. The troops got as far West as Pittsburgh—the seat of the main disturbance and destruction by the rioters—and camped for the time on railroad property for its protection. They were in the field of duty for a period of eighteen days, and upon their return to their home in Phoenixville, the citizens of the town welcomed them back in a most royal and sumptuous fashion.

He is a congregational member of the Jeffersonville Presbyterian Church, always alive to its interests, and has served for more than a quarter of a century as secretary of the Board of Trustees, etc.

Besides filling a number of positions of public trust in his community, he is a life member of the Pennsylvania Society of the Sons of the Revolution, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the National Genealogical Society, the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania German Society, and the Historical Society of Montgomery County, whose treasurer he has been for more than a quarter of a century. He is further a member of the Philadelphia Botanical Club, Alumni Association of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, Alumni of Jefferson Medical College, American Pharmaceutical Association, Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, serving as its president for the year 1894-5, at Hotel Eagles Mere, Sullivan County; National Association of Retail Druggists, Montgomery County Retail Drug Association, whose president he was for years; member of the Masonic fraternity, Blue Lodge, Chapter, Commandery, Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Tall Cedars, Council of Royal and Select Masters, etc.; an organizing member of the Montgomery County Forestry, Game and Fish Association, and for many years its first vice-president, a member of its executive committee, and chairman of the committee on stocking streams, and has done much to further the supply of game and food fishes in the waters of local streams, etc.

In 1909 Willoughby H. Reed published Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, Proceedings at the Dedication of the Monument, Erected to His Memory, etc., in Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, not only editing the book but contributing much of its material. He collected and prepared the material of the present book, Johann Phillipp Ried, etc., its compilation being a labor of love, and its preparation covering a period of more than thirty years. He has written a number of papers on medical, pharmaceutical, historical, genealogical and general subjects for books, magazines, newspapers, etc. His travels to Florida, California, Panama Canal and other places, inspired papers written with the ultimate object of putting them in permanent book form for preservation and accessibility to the reader. Many of these articles have made their appearance in local newspapers.

He was instrumental with his brother, Franklin P. Reed, in the erection of monuments or markers over the graves of his ancestor, Philip Reed, in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church Cemetery, near Pennsburg, and also over the grave of his great-grandfather, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, in Leidy's Cemetery, near Souderton, Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Illustrations of both these monuments appear in their order in this volume, with inscriptions, etc.

Upon him was thrust the honor of being unanimously chosen the first president of the Norristown Times Herald Fifty-Year Club,* spon-

Jacob Bender was reared a farmer and farmed for some years after marriage in Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Then he moved across the county line and farmed for several years in Hatfield Township, Montgomery County. Later on he came to Norristown, and there engaged at teaming and hauling, and at this occupation did an extensive and leading business. He was one of the town's most active citizens, and his teams of fine horses were the pride of the place; he was an adept in his line of work. After a prosperous business there for a number of years, he disposed of his teams and business, and removed with his family, first for a while to Germantown, and later to Philadelphia. There he resumed teaming and followed the business until his decease.

He and his wife were a pair of pious Christian people who were wedded to their church and its good work. At the time of his death, they were members of the Evangelical Church, in which they were regular attendants and labored for its success and welfare. "Aunt Julian," as this good wife of Jacob Bender was better known by her nieces and nephews, was one of those devout souls whom all children could not help but love and venerate, for they felt they could come to her with their childish trials and tribulations and would be received with motherly grace and compassion and be sympathetically and tenderly comforted and consoled. She was a most noble woman and was faultless to a marked degree.

George W. Hackman's parents died when he was but a youth. He was reared by his grandparents, Andrew and Mary (Hartman) Reed, at Hilltown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. When of more mature age he was taken into the family of his cousin and guardian, George Eckhart, storekeeper, at Trappe, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, who gave him a good education. When the Civil War broke forth, he was overcome with the martial spirit, ran away from his home, and enlisted in the 32nd Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, which was later changed to the 99th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was honorably discharged from military service May 16, 1865, from Rulison U. S. General Hospital, Annapolis Junction, Md., by virtue of a wound in his arm, received at the battle of Spottsylvania Court House, Virginia, May 12, 1864, while in advance of the line of battle and for this bravery special mention was made and he was advanced to a corporal grade.

For a number of years he was employed as a special agent for a large wholesale glass house in Philadelphia. He was always an active worker in his church, and frequently gave readings as an amateur elocutionist, etc. He was an active member for a number of years in the Historical Society of Montgomery County. He was a disciple of Izaak Walton, and delighted during his spare moments to angle for the wily fish in local streams. His enthusiasm in the sport never lagged even if his "catch" was poor.

CHAPTER VI—PART IV

II—E—5—ANNA MARIA REED. Daughter of Philip and Veronica (Bercky) Reed. She was b. —, 1733, in Salford Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. May 17, 1756, in Upper Hanover Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; m. (about) 1752, Michael, son of John George and Margretha (——) Welker; b. —, 173—, in Upper Hanover Twp.; d. —, 1799, in Hempfield Twp., Westmoreland Co., Pa.; she is believed to be bur. in an unmarked grave in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church Cem., in Upper Hanover Twp., near East Greenville, Montg. Co., Pa.; and he is supposed to be buried in Fightner's graveyard, in Westmoreland Co., Pa., several miles west of the town of Greensburg; Reformed; first members of New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, and later he was a member of Old Zion Lutheran (Harrold's), in Westmoreland Co., Pa.; child:—

III—E—6—X—1—Jacob Welker, b. May —, 1756.

John George and Margretha (——) Welker, parents of Michael, were German Palatines, arriving in this country, at the port of Philadelphia, on September 18, 1727. They were of the first shipload of colonists to arrive in Pennsylvania under the new law, compelling all males over 16 years of age to register and subscribe to an "oath of allegiance." The name of their ship was "William and Henry," and the leader of the shipload of colonists was the German Reformed minister of the gospel, the Rev. George Michael Weiss.

Upon their arrival in Philadelphia in the new country of America, Dominie Weiss almost immediately wended his way up into the Perkiomen region, and for a while officiated there as pastor of the German Reformed churches then being organized in that part of Philadelphia County. Many of this boatload of families followed the minister, with their families, into the new territory—then better known as the New Goshenhoppen Region—became settlers there, and identified themselves with the new churches that were then being organized there. Among these were the Welkers.

John George Welker alone first wended his way out of the city into the country—into the wilderness—into the Perkiomen region—finally locating lands there for settlement. These lands bordered the Perkiomen and Branch Creeks, in Upper Hanover Township, Philadelphia County, making the location now but a short distance northwest of the borough of Pennsburg, Montgomery County. Thither his family followed, with their few worldly possessions, and there together they began life in America as colonists.

Michael Welker's parents as newcomers found their life in the new country at first varied and interesting and at times most trying and pathetic. It is said their first shelter consisted merely of dense branches of spreading trees. This was their sole protection until an humble hut could be erected of hewed logs of the vast forests there abounding at the time. The white people thereabouts were few, living far apart, but their nearest neighbors were the red men, or Indians. These natives were friendly to the settlers, and as neighbors they got along together splendidly, for the Indians kept away from the whites, remaining along the streams of water, and up in the hills among the rocks.

The Welkers' condition bettered concomitant with the incoming settlers from Europe who were pouring into America at this time. They had, too, at first, through strenuous labor, to clear these lands of their dense growths for cultivation, and tilled the soil for their livelihood, and thus they lived their backwoods life in a modest and humble way. The family were thrifty and provident from the beginning, and in time Michael Welker's father, as he thrived, became well to do and quite a landowner, and was one of the most prosperous and public-spirited colonists there found.

As the children of the elder Welker grew to man and womanhood, their parents did as was the custom of many of those early and more thrifty settlers, that is they provided the children upon their maturity and marriage with a "start" by giving them a farm and other aid and assistance essential for their betterment, comfort and happiness. Like their parents, these children, too, became thrifty, prospered, and were exemplary, influential and public-spirited in their neighborhood.

In time, to their son Michael Welker the parents deeded a farm of one hundred and fifty acres of land with improvements "for love and affection." It was part of the old "Welgar" homestead. The title of conveyance was not given him until March 2, 1767, although the son for years previous was in possession and occupied the farm.

The conveyance of these lands from parents to son carried with it several perpetual rights, privileges and restrictions. We learn from the deed of conveyance that the homestead farm was divided into two tracts of land by Perkiomen Creek, and that a mill race, leading to the Welker grist and saw mill, ran through Michael Welker's part of the land, or farm. Among the rights reserved for this son were:—"Perpetual benefit of water from the mill race for house use; free access for obtaining the same; at the proper season of the year the privilege of running the water from the mill race for watering the meadows; at mowing time the right of opening the flood gates of the dam for draining the overflow, etc."

The restrictions included were that "Michael Welker forever be restrained from building a mill or mill dam on his premises; his brother George (miller) be allowed the privilege of fowling and fishing in about the waters if necessary; to obtain material and conveying it over his property for the repairing of the dam; the said mills and lands to have for all time an open road to and from the King's highway, etc."

Michael Welker owned the farm until December 21, 1789. He then conveyed it for a consideration to his brother, Jacob Welker, miller. In the same year Michael Welker bought another farm adjoining from William and Margaret (Welker) Rittenhouse, heirs of his older brother, Dieterick Welker, deceased. After a short ownership of this property, Michael Welker sold it for a consideration to Peter Heist, a neighboring wheelwright. Michael Welker's name then disappeared from the Upper Hanover Township assessment books; apparently he had removed from the township.

After the decease of his wife, Anna Maria Reed, Michael Welker seems to have lived an unsettled and wandering life. At times we find him living on his farm in Upper Hanover Township and at other times we find him living elsewhere. It is said that he in this interval followed the life of a frontiersman—was a hunter and trapper—and migrated into other parts of the province, to such places where his vocation would yield better results. This wandering life led him into the extreme western part of Pennsylvania, into Westmoreland County, where he seems temporarily to have settled. As a settler he took up unseated lands there in the neighborhood of the home of his son, in Hempfield Township. The assessment books of Upper Hanover Township during this period of his life enumerate him as a "farmer," then as a "saddler," then as a "hunter," and during his protracted absence from Montgomery County his farm is recorded therein as an "estate," etc.

At the time of the American Revolution Michael Welker was living in Upper Hanover Township. We find him there associated with this township's militia. His name appears first on the muster roll of this township as a private in Captain Siegfried's Company; then as a member of Captain Lower's, later serving in Captain Harry Boyer's Company; and lastly a member of Captain Maurer's Company, Upper Hanover Township, Philadelphia County Militia.*

About 1780, while in Upper Hanover Township, Michael Welker again married, his second wife being a widow named Elizabeth Wagoner. Soon after his second marriage we find him and his family living in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. There for some years he owned lands of considerable extent. These, too, were in Hempfield Township, near those of his son, Jacob Welker.

In this new country Michael Welker became quite a man of affairs, and was prosperous in this world's means. He died there in 1799, leaving a good-sized estate. A widow and seven children survived. The children by the second wife were Michael, Henry, Elizabeth, Catharine, Mary,** Susanna, and Christiana.

Elizabeth (Wagoner) Welker several years after her husband's death again married, and her third husband was one George Smith, a widower, with a family of children, who resided in Hempfield Township. Shortly after their marriage the Smith family, with the Welker children, moved over into Armstrong County, Pennsylvania. There this family lived and farmed until the Welker children arrived at their majority. These children then married; most of them removed to Stark County, Ohio, settling on farms near the countyseat town of Canton. The Welkers of these families are numerously found thereabouts today, and are active, influential and thrifty in all walks of life.

III—E—1—JACOB WELKER. Son of Michael and Anna Maria (Reed) Welker. He was b. May —, 1756, in Upper Hanover Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. —, 1836, in Hempfield Twp., Westmoreland Co., Pa.; m. Anna Maria (Reed) Welker, we are led to believe, died soon after the birth of her only child, Jacob Welker. The young son was reared by members of the Welker family, possibly by his grandparents, George and Margretha Welker. He was given a liberal education for those days, reared as a farmer, but learned the milling trade with his uncles, George and Jacob Welker. They at the time owned and operated a flouring, grist and saw mill, erected on the old Welker homestead farm, abutting that of their father, on Perkiomen Creek, in Upper Hanover Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. It seems when still a young man Jacob Welker drifted from his home, westward, far into the frontier country of the province, and finally settled in Hempfield Township, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. There he took up new lands and bought other property, and identified himself with this new country.

**I copy the following baptism from the records of the Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, near Harrold's, Hempfield Twp., Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania:—

"Born Sept. 17, 1801; bapt. Nov. 1, 1801, Jacob, son of Jacob and Rosana Welker; sponsors the parents."

Like his father, the son, too, became a traveller, hunter and trapper, and roamed the country in quest of game and pelts, and it was this desire that eventually led him to the western wild or frontier part of Pennsylvania. He seems to have been so pleased with this new country and its opportunities that he determined finally to locate there. As early as 1773 we find him taking up unseated lands, and settling there as the records show.*

It is said Jacob Welker at first built for himself a modest cabin of logs, and gradually cleared the land of its timber for cultivation. First he farmed in a meagre way, and hunted and trapped in season. The country thereabouts was wild and abounded in game. The Big Sewickley Creek flowed through his lands. As the new country was settled by incoming colonists, to meet their wants he built on the banks of this creek a flouring, grist and saw mill. For many years at this stand he supplied their needs in these lines, and conducted his enterprises with profit and success.

On a recent visit by the writer to this place, in the fall of 1926, he could learn nothing as to the exact whereabouts of these industries of Jacob Welker on Sewickley Creek, except that they were located on this stream, and not far distant from the present village of Armbrust. The old people have gone from the neighborhood, and at present a new generation of inhabitants are living there.

The coal mining and coke industries thereabouts have wrought changes and brought a transformation producing conditions that never existed in earlier days. A newer element of individuality of a different nationality has come to replace the old, and the newcomers know little or nothing of the past.

In his time Jacob Welker owned several fine farms thereabouts. He lived in this neighborhood as the other colonists lived until his death. As the new country was settled and improved, he reared a large family of children, and by thrift and industry progressed and prospered and became well to do for these earlier days. During his ownership his farm and mills were better known as "Jacob's Hall."

Jacob Welker seemed to have been imbued with the same martial spirit that characterized his father. Even before the Revolutionary War,

*In Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, Deed Book, No. 3, pg. 241, there is recorded a deed for land from "Jacob Wilker to Eli Coulter." It is dated "July 26, 1787," and recorded "Jan. 22, 1798." It is for a tract of 100 acres of land, in Hempfield Township, "situate on the Branch of Turtle Creek, adjoining General Forb's Road," and the receipt for the money is signed "Welker" not Wilker, as above given.

This land was bought by Jacob Welker on June 8, 1773. It is one of the very early land transactions in Westmoreland County, making it interesting because of Jacob Welker's purchase of land at so early a period in Western Pennsylvania's history.

during the colonial period, as early as 1774, the time of the formation of the new county of Westmoreland, we find him a soldier in the colonial service, to sustain Pennsylvania's rights to its lands, in what was then known as the "Dunmore war."* These troops also did service in the Indian wars during pre-Revolutionary times, and later in the Revolutionary War period.

Jacob Welker postponed marriage until somewhat late in life. Then he married a wife much his junior. This explains why the children were so young at the time of the father's death, in 1836.**

Theobold (or Dewald) Wink was the oldest son of Casper and Gertrude (Kemp) Wink. His parents were among the first settlers of the Maxatawny Township, Philadelphia (now Berks County), Pennsylvania, region. The Winks located there on the ancestor's coming to America in 1727. He (Casper Wink) was in the first shipload of Swiss and German Palatines whose male passengers came under the provisions of the new "Act of the Provincial Council," of Pennsylvania, compelling "all male passengers above the age of 16 years who come hither with the intention *Berks County was created from Philadelphia County in 1752. Previous to 1752 Maxatawny Township was part of Philadelphia County.

**This marriage by the Rev. George Michael Weiss is recorded in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church book as being solemnized between the years of 1747-1756.

of settling lands," to subscribe to the "Oath of Allegiance to the King of Great Britain." The name of their ship was "William and Henry," and the leader of the colonists was the Rev. George Michael Weiss, a Reformed minister of the gospel. "And all male passengers," that could and were not ill, "did march to the Court House, subscribe and repeat their name," in compliance with the new law. This was on September 27, 1727.

The Rev. George Michael Weiss soon after his arrival in America wended his way up into the upper Perkiomen region. Thither many of his followers either followed or preceded him to locate, and there he soon became a noted minister of the gospel and assisted in the early organization of the Reformed Church in America, particularly in that section of Pennsylvania.

The Wink, Winck, Vink, etc., family, it is said, are of Swiss extraction, first emigrating from their home country to Mannheim, Baden, Germany, and then, after a temporary stay in that city, taking the boat down the River Rhine to Rotterdam, Holland, and from that city following the usual route to America.

The first Casper Wink's home in Pennsylvania was in Maxatawny Township, Philadelphia County, but a short distance east of the present town of Kutztown, Berks County. There he took up lands from the Penns, and first under adverse circumstances he thrived at farming, but in time with the development of the country he became owner of several fine farms, as the records show, and under the leasehold plan was one of the first in the Maxatawny region to pay quit rent to the Penns.

The parents of Theobold Wink (Casper Wink and Gertrude Kemp) were married about 1727, the family record shows, but whether the ceremony took place in Europe or America, I know not. Anyway, the Winks and Kemps* were neighbors in Maxatawny, and it is possible they were married there. They were among the founders of St. John's (Hope) Reformed Church, in Maxatawny, now within the limits of Kutztown. But for some reason before he took his departure from this world, the elder Casper Wink recanted, and returned to his earlier faith, Catholicism, for just before his death he sought spiritual advice and comfort from the nearby officiating priest of the Catholic Church at Bally.**

The burial place of Casper Wink and Gertrude his wife, I am informed by his descendants, is on the hillside of his farm, several hundred yards from his home and farm buildings, making it on the farm that the parents deeded to their son, Theobold, under date of May 19, 1762. The exact location of these graves is not now known with certainty. It is said

*The Kemps are supposed to have emigrated from the Palatinate to America in 1720, and at this early date settled the Maxatawny region.

**I copy from the Bally Catholic Church record:—

"Wink, Casper—ninety-five years of age, the only one holding fast to the Roman Catholic religion, to whom after some visits I administered at once the Sacraments of Penance and of the Eucharist. When near his dying day, and in the presence of his son, he asked me at his funeral to give a discourse on the death of his non-Catholic children, and his other relatives present. And this was done. He died unexpectedly near Kutschen-Statel, Oct. 5, 1788, buried [place not named] on the 7th."

(REED) WINK

Right:—JOHN GRAEFF WINK

Grandson of Theobold and Margretha (Reed) Wink. The picture was made in 1900. He was then living in his home in Kutztown. He in his time was known far and wide as the local historian, and was a public-spirited and leading citizen of his town.

at one time the graves were marked with common field stones without inscription. The ploughman is probably responsible for their destruction or removal.*

I have in my possession several old, musty and deteriorated papers, representing deeds for lands that Casper Wink and his wife Gertrude conveyed to their son Theobold. One of these in its recital, made under date of "19th day of May, 1762," is for a farm of one hundred and fifty acres of land, "between Casper Wink of Maxatawny * * and Gertrude his wife," * * and their "son Theobold Wink." Casper Wink and his wife made only their marks, which were witnessed by "Validin Dickenschied" and "Jost Vollert." Valentine Dickenschied was a brother-in-law of Theobold Wink, they marrying sisters. Valentine Dickenschied and Eve Reed were married on April 22, 1762, only a month before this real estate transaction, and it now looks as though this bridal couple were visiting here on their honeymoon trip on horseback, with the bride's sister, Margretha Wink, in Maxatawny, and her husband thereby by virtue of circumstance became a witness to the real estate conveyance.

The second land transfer from the parents to their son Theobold Wink, was made in 1762, March 11, and comprised twenty acres adjoining the property just described. The deed recites that "Casper Wink" makes the transfer to his "son Dewalt Wink." This deed is signed only by the father. The mother at this time in all probabilities was deceased.

The first property conveyance to the son, Theobold Wink, in 1762, was the improved property or homestead of Casper Wink. There still stands on this property or homestead a comparatively modern stone house, which however, shows the marks of age, and which without a doubt replaced the old log cabin of the father, Casper Wink. This newer house, built on the colonial order, is two stories high, the walls are of dark brown stone and are pointed with white mortar; there is a double pitched roof, quaint in appearance, and at this late date for a house so old it is in an excellent state of preservation. Upon approaching the house one of its appealing features that strikes the eye is seen over the doorway before entering, a rather large rectangular-shaped walled-in stone, bearing this inscription:—

W I N C K
A. N. O. — 1 7 6 3

Theobold Wink's courtship with Margretha Ried must have been conducted under difficulties. Their homes were thirty or more miles apart—a wide expanse of wilderness between them—and no means of conveyance for travel other than by "taking it afoot," or "going on horseback," in making calls. Love in those days must have had its attractions and inspira-

*A great-great-grandson, John G. Wink, living in Kutztown, just before his death made a visit to this place in search of these graves. He was not able to locate them, but notes:—"Some thirty years ago rude stones marked these graves. The exact spot now cannot be ascertained, for the stones may have sunk into the ground."

tions just like today, however difficult the pathway, for like bodies attracted each other then as now, and the goal was reached, for in due time they mated and were married.

As an illustration of the hardships and difficulties experienced in those days by the early settlers of this region, it is recalled that when the Winks first came to Maxatawny, the nearest grist and flouring mill was on the Perkiomen Creek, more than thirty miles distant. The nearest market to sell their produce was Philadelphia, some seventy miles distant, and the only way of making the trip to these places was either on horseback or in a heavy wagon over trails leading through the woods. Wagons then in the frontier settlements were but few and far between, and to simplify and overcome the difficulty and lighten hardships the neighbors "doubled up" and took turns in making the journey. In this way they gained their ends, eked out an existence, and with it all raised large families and prospered in an humble way.

To make the trip to Perkiomen mill alone by this slow means of transportation meant a three days' journey by wagon. Wherever night overtook the teamster it meant camping for the night in the woods. In the morning after feeding the horses, the journey would be resumed and continued until completed.

When the first settlers came into the Maxatawny region the Indians were there in numbers, for this country was their favorite hunting ground. As the white people cleared the lands for cultivation, the Indian took to the timbered land or the wilder region of the hills. The Indians were shiftless, and if the winter was severe the whites had to come to their relief with food, and in this way they lived in harmony and peace. If the whites were likely to be disturbed by roaming or marauding Indians from a distance, the friendly tribes would apprise them beforehand, so they could get together as a body and be prepared to receive the visitors. On more than one occasion in this way through mutual friendship surprises and massacres were avoided.

Theobold Wink was born and reared in Maxatawny Township and he died there. His family were of the Reformed faith, and all were active members in St. John's (Hope) Reformed Church, of Maxatawny, now within the borough of Kutztown. Unfortunately the early record of this congregation is lost or destroyed. If this record could be found I feel sure it would give us much of interest about the Wink family of Maxatawny.

The colonies revolted in 1776, and under date of November 3, 1777, Dewald (Theobold) Wink takes the "Oath of Allegiance" to the new government of the United States. He early joined the American forces in the revolt, and became a member of Captain George Kemp's Fourth Company, Second Battalion (Maxatawny Township), Berks County, Pennsylvania Militia. In the period of 1777-1778 he paid a nominal fine for non-attendance at military duty as Dewalt Wink (Dewald Winck). Later he received depreciation pay from the state of Pennsylvania under the given name of Theodore (Theobold) Wink.*

V—F—52—X—1—Eliza Ann Lavan, b. —

David Lavan, when but a lad of 16 years, moved with his parents from Berks County to Somerset County, Pennsylvania. There he learned the blacksmith trade, and worked at it for nine years, in the locality known to this day as Lavansville. Then he engaged in farming, and later at the hotel business. He was a very successful business man, and as a result erected nearly all the buildings now seen in the little town bearing his name. His wife's parents were among the first families to settle in Somerset County.

The village of Lavansville is situated about four miles west of Somerset, the countyseat of the county, and it derived its name from the Lavan family. The first building there was a hotel, built in 1803. The second and third buildings were the blacksmith shop and the dwelling house of David Lavan. The first store was opened in the village in 1830, and the first church edifice to be built was that of the Lutherans, about 1848. Salem Reformed congregation at Lavansville was organized and the church erected in 1856, and among its original members were David Lavan and family.

William Tayman, Sr., was of English ancestry, but was born in Baltimore, Maryland. Some years previous to his death he took up his residence in Somerset County, and obtained a position with his brother on the railroad, as a freighter, from Baltimore to Pittsburgh. After the death of her husband the widow engaged in the hotel business. She built the "Somerset House," in Somerset, and her son George became the manager. The building was destroyed by fire three times. Undaunted she rebuilt it and continued as proprietress, and hers was the leading hotel of the town. Later on she tired of the hotel, withdrew from the business, and concluded to spend the remainder of her days with her son William on the old Lavan "homestead" farm.

*The grandfather of Daniel Kemp was one Theobold (Dewald) Kemp. He is said to have been the first white settler of the Maxatawny region. He was of German extraction, coming to America in 1720, from Strassburg, on the Rhine, and immediately settled in this locality. His son, George Kemp, was owner of a slave, a female named Hannah—she was the only negro ever known to have been held in bondage in this region.

that of Casper Wink. Daniel Kemp succeeded his father as owner of the old original Kemp homestead. The Kemps were thrifty farmers, and their farm was one of the best in Berks County. The old Kemp family were prominent in state and county affairs, members thereof holding a number of positions of honor and trust, particularly in colonial affairs. In the church they were equally active and influential, they being among the organizers and founders of St. John's Reformed (Kutztown) congregation, of Maxatawny.

The old Kemp cemetery, or burial ground, at the Kemp homestead, consisted originally of land set aside by the immigrant, Jacob Kemp, for the use of his family, as well as others for burying their dead. The burial plot is still owned by the Kemp family, is enclosed by a substantial stone wall, but is not kept in an orderly manner, as it should as a God's acre. While on a genealogical trip some thirty years ago, I visited the Kemp homestead, which at the time was still in the Kemp family, and occupied by a descendant. Twenty-five years later I again visited the place. The farm had passed into other hands, and the cemetery showed further neglect. All interest in its upkeep seems to have been lost by the lineal descendants, and the present owners of the Kemp farm have no further interest in it than as a home which they own and the return it brings for a livelihood. Neglect as here shown seems a disrespect by someone for the foreparents, and such disrespect is sad to contemplate.

George Wink Kemp was of the fourth successive generation of the Kemp family to own and live on the old Kemp homestead farm in Maxatawny Township. Like his foreparents, he kept the lands in a fine state of production, which made him well to do. The buildings are all large, modern in appearance and in an excellent state of preservation. He was one of Maxatawny's most staid and prosperous citizens. For some years he lived in Richmond Township, same county, where he engaged at the innkeeping business. Tiring of this, he later returned to his farm, and resided and farmed there the remainder of his days.

IV—F—138—X—9—Dewalt Augustus Wink, b. Oct. 23, 1824.

Theobold Wink was reared at the old Wink homestead in Maxatawny Township, and received a good common school education. As a young man he drifted into Kutztown and learned the hatter trade with George Fister, afterwards marrying his employer's daughters, Catharine and Mary.

He succeeded his father-in-law at the hat and fur business in Kutztown. He had a hat store and manufactured hats and caps, not only for home sale, but shipped quantities to Philadelphia for the wholesale market. The pelts and furs that he did not use in his own factory he shipped to Philadelphia, disposing of them in the regular channels of trade.

In the balmy days of hatters, who were to be found in all growing inland towns in the country's early history, hats and caps were manufactured by these tradesmen in large quantities, and it was a thriving industry or business. Theobold Wink thrived and prospered both from local trade and the jobbing demand. As his children grew old enough to assist, their services were utilized to meet the growing demand. Even after the death of the father the boys continued the business at the old stand until times and innovations made a change in the industry. The big factory that loomed up and its competition wrought havoc to these little enterprises and at last this competition with its machinery drove them out of business and closed their little establishments.

Upon the incorporation of the borough of Kutztown, in 1815, Theobold Wink became one of its first councilmanic members. In his day he was one of the town's leading citizens in its progress and development. In all respects he was truly a public-spirited man.

Zachary Taylor Wink when but a young man entered the printing office of the Reading Gazette and Democrat, in Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania, and learned the science and art of printing. Afterwards he worked some years as a journeyman printer on Philadelphia dailies. From that city he went to Boston, Massachusetts, and worked on the Boston Advertiser, and was made assistant foreman in this office. Some years later he returned to the city of Reading and was made Assistant City Treasurer. He was much given to the work of fraternal societies, and was a member of many such organizations. He resided in the city of Reading. Since this was written he is deceased and is much missed among his brethren of the fraternal organizations.

John Graeff Wink* was but 10 years of age when his mother died. His uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Graeff, took the boy to rear, gave him a good home and had him educated. When 18 years of age he was apprenticed with Peter Graeff, of Balliettsville, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, to learn the trade of cabinetmaking. On account of failing health he was compelled to abandon this in the fall of 1834, and then took up school teaching, he himself at the time attending school.

Subsequently he entered the village store in Balliettsville as a clerk. After a short stay he resigned the position to take up a similar one in the city of Allentown. Some time after this he returned to his native town of Kutztown and engaged at school teaching. After a short while he again took a clerkship in a store. Soon after he formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, Stephen Graeff, and they together purchased the Balliettsville general merchandising store and there continued in this business until 1876. He then withdrew from the firm, returned to Kutztown and lived retired. Here he was living a quiet and peaceful life when I paid him a visit on a genealogical trip in 1898.

I found a man with a remarkable memory and given much to the study of the past. He was Kutztown's remarkable local historian. Even in his advanced years his mind was clear on dates, facts and reminiscences of his earlier days. He had collected much material bearing on the town's early history, and much of this he had compiled and arranged into entertaining and fascinating papers for the press and gave it in an interesting way for the edification of the public.

He materially aided me in this work, particularly so relating to the genealogy and history of the Wink branch of the Reed family in Maxatawny. If it had not been for his foresight in the preservation of dates and family papers, my work on this family would have been far more laborious and incomplete. In his declining years he suffered from failing eyesight and gradually grew blind; in his distress he had to call other members of the family to his aid in his literary work.

He was much respected in the community. Everybody in Kutztown seemed to know John Wink and had the greatest respect and consideration for him. He was elected to fill many positions of honor and trust, for the citizens had the utmost confidence in his trustworthiness and ability. For many years he served faithfully as a trustee of the State Normal School in Kutztown, and for more than nine years he was secretary of the board. For a long time he was a punctual and faithful director in the Kutztown National Bank, etc. In his church he was an exemplary and consistent member and was honored with all positions as layman. He was commonly known by many as "Uncle" John Wink.

The following letter was written me by John G. Wink, and is of such interesting character that it deserves to be preserved:

Kutztown, Mar. 8, 1898.

Mr. W. H. Reed,
Norristown, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

Yours of the 4th came duly to hand, and much pleased to learn that some of my Reed relatives are still in the land of the living. I never heard from any of them for many years. I met a Michael Reed, who was a cousin to my father, at his store, in Philadelphia, in 1841, and has a son Willoughby. These were the only relatives (Reeds) I have ever seen, and I should like to learn more about the family.

My grandmother (Reed) Winck died when I was a boy of about 7 years old, aged 75 years. I remember her very well. My father died soon after, in 1824. He had twelve living children when he died and one dead; eleven were sons and two were daughters. Three of the sons still live. Dewalt Augustus (my youngest brother) was two weeks old when my father died, and is now 74 years old, and brother Samuel, aged 79, and myself, aged 83. My mother died in 1867, aged 82 years. My parents had fifty grandchildren.

I have the fly leaf of my great-grandfather Casper Winck's Bible framed. On one side of it is recorded the birth of his children, and the first born was in 1728.

My grandfather Winck was born March 12, 1733, and the birth of his children is recorded on the other side of the leaf.

I have written a small history of the Winck family from my great-grandfather down, noticing the principal things that came to my knowledge, and as I am unable to read or write on account of my sight, I must depend upon others to do my reading and writing. If you would pay me a visit no doubt I could give you such information as you would like to have, and it would afford me much pleasure to learn more of the history of the Reed family. I suppose you or your father must be a second cousin to me. Enough for the present, and please answer and accept my best wishes,

Most truly,
John G. Winck.

At the time of my genealogical visit to Kutztown, about 1900, Dewalt Augustus Wink and wife were engaged in the millinery and notion store business and enjoyed a prosperous trade. They were very pleasant people, and had the respect of the community. The family received me kindly and treated me with the greatest courtesy, and Mr. Wink drove me to the old Wink and Kemp homesteads and to other places of family and historical interest. He also gave me several aged and worn papers of especial interest bearing on the first settlement and doing of the early Winks in Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania.

**Lower Milford Township in 1740 was part of Bucks County. In 1752, in the making of the new county of Northampton, it became a part of that county; in the making of Lehigh County, in 1812, it then became a part of this county. This explains the confusion that might arise at various times of the township's being part and parcel of these different counties.

******History of the Eberharts of Germany and the United States*, by the Rev. Uriah Eberhart, published at Chicago Lawn, in 1881, on pg. 40, Chapt. XIV, reads:—"Joseph Eberhart and family were Palatines, coming to America in 1727." The same book, pg. 49, Chap. XV, reads:—"Joseph Eberhart's third son Jacob." This is wrong; instead it should read, John Eberhart's fourth son. It was this John Eberhart's youngest son, Abraham Eberhart, that married Abigail Weber, etc.

The will of Joseph Eberhart, the immigrant to America, was made Nov. 3, 1759, was proved in Philadelphia on June 16, 1760. In this he mentions his wife came in America in the ship "Friendship," together with our ancestor, Philip Reed, and family, in 1727.

On this ship there were three Eberhard brothers with their families, namely, Michael, Peter and Joseph. The brothers, Michael and Joseph, with Philip Reed, qualified in Philadelphia, on October 2, 1727. Peter Eberhard, being ill at the time, qualified later. These Eberhard brothers all settled upon lands in Milford Township, then in Bucks County. Now the location is in Lower Milford Township, Lehigh County, bordering upon the county line of Bucks.

All the Eberhard brothers were prosperous in their new homes; they became extensive landowners thereabouts. Joseph and Michael Eberhard donated the lands that now constitute the church ground and farm (glebe) of the Great Swamp Reformed Church, at Spinnerstown. While the lands at first were given by the Eberhards to the church, they were not deeded outright to the congregation until 1762.

Joseph Eberhard, the father of John, as his children grew to man and womanhood and became settled in life, deeded to each of them a farm. John was given a fine farm of one hundred and sixty-seven acres of land, near the home of the father, and situated in what was then Northampton County. The son possessed the place for but a short period, only until after his marriage to Catharine Reed. Then selling it, with the money he purchased a farm of one hundred and fifty acres from John Klepner, in Gwynedd Township, Philadelphia County, much nearer to the city markets where he sold his produce. He then removed his family to his new home. This was in 1763.

John Eberhard lived in Gwynedd Township during the American Revolution. He was a soldier and patriot, and became a member of the Gwynedd Township, Philadelphia County Militia. In the earlier part of the war his military company was commanded by Captain Dull; later his troops were better known as Captain John Shelmire's Company of Gwynedd Township Militia. He was ever faithful in his military duty, serving with the township's militia throughout the whole struggle.*

In 1793 John Eberhard sold his Gwynedd farm to David Lukens, a member of the Society of Friends, living in Horsham Township. In the meantime, John Eberhard had bought another farm, in Upper Dublin Township. He removed there and became a citizen of Upper Dublin. In 1817 he sold his Upper Dublin farm to Christian Hoover, and removed his family over into Whitpain Township, where he had in the meantime bought another farm. At this latter place his wife died in 1814; he following her in death five years later.

This history of the Eberhart family by the Rev. Uriah Eberhart, upon checking up some further material from official records, is found to have other inaccuracies. But even with these deficiencies it is a most valuable work and the author deserves much praise for its production.

Upper:—BOEHM'S REFORMED CHURCH EDIFICE

Of Whitpain Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. The photograph was made about 1898. In this church John and Elizabeth (Reed) Eberhart were active members, he serving it in all capacities as layman.

Lower:—GRAVES OF JOHN AND ELIZABETH (REED) EBERHART

The headstones in Boehm's Church burial ground are shown, and also the marker for their son, Philip Eberhart.

John Eberhard was a thrifty and honest farmer, and a conscientious and good Christian. He was reared in the Reformed faith—in the church of his parents—in the Great Swamp Reformed Church, at what is now Spinnerstown, Bucks County, near the home of his parents, who had so liberally helped to found the church. He died in this faith, and at the time of his death was an active member of Boehm's Reformed Church, not far distant from his home in Whitpain Township, where he last resided. In Boehm's Church we find him and his family ever active and faithful in its work, for there their children were baptized, and in time all became members. He served the church as elder, trustee, etc.

When a young man Abraham Eberhard learned the trade of masonry, and later carried on this business, together with farming, in Upper Dublin Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. In 1809 he removed to Whitpain Township and there engaged at innkeeping. He remained at this stand for a few years only, removing then to Philadelphia, to a hotel on Race Street, near Third, known as the "White Horse." There he remained for about ten years, then disposed of this stand and went to Norristown, Pennsylvania, engaging at the same business, as a tenant at what was later known as the "Hartranft House." After a stewardship of some years there, he purchased a hotel at Skippackville, Montgomery County, and removed to his newly acquired property, following there the innkeeping business until 1832.

While innkeeper at this stand Abraham Eberhard was appointed Skippackville's first postmaster, and retained the office as long as he remained in the village. In 1832 he sold his hotel stand in Skippackville, and removed to a recently acquired farm nearby, in Upper Salford Township, settling at farming. He soon tired of farm life, sold his farm and rented a hotel stand in Philadelphia, known as the "Black Horse Inn," at Second and Callowhill Streets. He was now growing old, and after a successful stay there of a few years, he tired of the business, sold out his effects, and removed to Evansburg, Lower Providence Township, Montgomery County, where he lived a retired and quiet life. There he died at an advanced age, in 1847.

Abraham Eberhard was eminently qualified for the innkeeping business in these early days. He possessed a large circle of friends and acquaintances, was jovial and open hearted, and at his public house community gatherings and the travelling public were always welcome. He was always known to keep a clean and respectable public house, to be a liberal and free entertainer and an abundant "provider."

In the neighborhood Reformed Church he was an active and pious member, and filled all positions as layman. To his family he was a kind husband and a good father; and by his many friends and neighbors was much loved and reverently respected.

In 1832 when my father, Michael H. Reed, went to Skippackville, he went there under the advice of his cousin, Abraham Eberhard. They were very intimate and friendly, and as long as his cousin kept inn in Skippackville, father boarded there with the family. Upon Abraham Eberhard's removal from the village he was compelled to relinquish the postmastership, and father was made his successor by the government. Abraham Eberhard was not a brilliant and careful man at figures and in the keeping of books, and from this shortcoming his postoffice accounts were muddled when returned to Washington in final settlement of affairs. This caused father no little trouble and concern as successor in the postmastership before the matter was satisfactorily adjusted with the Postoffice Department.

Abraham Eberhard assisted father much in his new adventure as "hatter and furrier" in Skippackville, for this was a new enterprise for that inland village. With this assistance it was not very long before father did an excellent business in his line of manufacture and trade and became well pleased with the new venture and its outcome. Father's books as tradesman, at Skippackville are extant, and disclose an extensive business and territory covered and a wide patronage. The books show he not only retailed but did jobbing in this line with outlying storekeepers. Among his neighboring customers and best patrons at the time were Abraham Eberhard and family.

Harry Miller and wife, in their early married life, settled at farming in East Coventry Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, at the old Simpson homestead. After the death of the wife's parents, they disposed of their farming effects and removed to Atlanta, Georgia, there to live with their son, Edward Simpson Miller.

V—G—876—IDA KATE MILLER. Daughter of Benjamin D. and Catharine H. (Eberhard) Miller. She was b. May 3, 1853, in Upper Providence Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; m. June 15, 1876, Reuben Hiestand; b. May 4, 1849, in Vincent, Chester Co., Pa.; Reformed; child:—

VI—G—900— —1—Mary Catharine Hiestand, b. July 26, 1885.

Reuben Hiestand for many years kept a general merchandise store, known as the Vincent or "Hiestand" store. About 1886, he bought the old "Hiestand" homestead place and erected a creamery thereon, following that business. "Hiestand's Gilt Edge Butter" soon gained for the maker an enviable reputation, so much so that he was unable to supply the great demand. In conjunction with the creamery he farmed the old Hiestand homestead place and stocked it with thoroughbred cattle; all of which added to his reputation as a producer of butter of superior quality. His farm, with its pretty buildings and the excellent upkeep of its lands, is today one of Chester County's ideal places for attractiveness, and as such has a wide notoriety.

resides in Spring City; never married.

Ameriah Sheleigh in early manhood became a farmer; later he went into the store business at Slonaker, Chester County, Pennsylvania. He was successful at the vocation, then disposed of the business and removed to Spring City, and there lived a retired life until his death. The widow and single daughter lived together in Spring City, but just before her death the widow removed to the State of Virginia to live with her married daughter, and after staying there with her daughter but a short while she died.

V—G—910—MARY ELIZABETH SHELEIGH. Daughter of Ameriah and Abigail (Eberhard) Sheleigh. She was b. Apr. 17, 1858, in East Coventry Twp., Chester Co., Pa.; m. Oct. 18, 1888, the Rev. Abraham D. Wolfinger; b. Mar. 14, 1864, in Nockamixon Twp., Bucks Co., Pa.; Reformed; he was a Reformed Church clergyman, and pastor of the Mt. Crawford Reformed Church in Rockingham Co., Va.; child:—

CHAPTER IX—PART VII

II—H—8—EVE REED. Youngest daughter of Philip and Veronica (Bercky) Reed. She was b. —, 1741 (bapt. Aug. 30, 1741), in Marlborough Twp., Philada. III—H—13— —4— ——— Dickenschied, b. —, (about 1770); possibly died quite young.

Eve Reed was reared in the Reformed faith but was married at her parental home in Marlborough Township by the pastor of the nearby St. Paul's Lutheran Church, of which her husband was a member. Their honeymoon was spent in a trip to the home of the bride's sister, Margretha Wink, in Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania. This must have been a most delightful horseback journey to and from that distant place at that period, for much of the country through which they passed was still a wilderness. Furthermore, the weather at that season of the year as a rule is delightful, thereby making the ride not only congenial but most inspiring as well.

On their return to Marlborough Township the young couple settled down to farming. Their farm was not far distant from St. Paul's Lutheran Church, where the young couple worshipped, and near the wife's home in Marlborough.

*The exact date of death of Eve (Reed-Dickenschied) Kooken is not known at this time. In the U. S. Census of 1800 of Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, we find enumerated "Eve Kooken, widow" and living with her a "daughter between the age of 16 and 26 years of age," unmarried. A decade later in the 1810 U. S. Census there is no mention of Eve Kooken. Possibly in this interval she died.

**See Addenda:—(Paper X); "The Dickenschied Family of Upper Salford Township."

***The Chestnut Hill Lutheran and Reformed Church of Upper Milford Township, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania, was founded about 1733, and located near the home of Valentine Dickenschied, where he died. Today are seen in this church's cemetery four marble posts, planted for corners, marking the site of this congregation's early burial ground. Among the great number buried in this plot is Valentine Dickenschied, and his grave, like many others, is without a marker. In many instances these graves do not have as much as a common field stone, let alone an inscribed marker, and now no one can identify the graves.

After some six years' residence in Marlborough, Valentine Dickenschied bought a farm of one hundred and twenty-five acres, with improvements, in Upper Milford Township, Northampton County. It previously belonged to one Christian Miller, and was not far from what is now Dillingersville, and near the Chestnut Hill Lutheran and Reformed Church. This was in 1768. There they then permanently settled, lived congenially and farmed.*

Their happy life was not of long duration. For in 1770—only two years after coming to their new home—the young husband and father met with a rather tragic death, slipping off the barn roof, falling headlong to the ground, and receiving injuries of a fatal nature. Thus in their early married life their bliss was blighted, the happiness of the family destroyed, and Mrs. Dickenschied left a young and dependent widow, with four small children.

In the Register of Wills office of Northampton County, Pennsylvania, letters of administration were granted to "Widow Eve Tickenshitt and Abraham Arndt," in the estate of "Valentine Tickenshitt, deceased." Abraham Arndt, the widow's joint administrator, was her brother-in-law, and he at the time resided not far distant, in Williams Township, in the same county. While the estate was in course of settlement the widow continued to live on the farm. In 1772 she was assessed in Upper Milford Township as "Widow Dickenssteet," for property tax amounting to "1 pound; ten shillings; eight pence."

In the year 1772 a notable change took place in the affairs of Eve (Reed) Dickenschied. Still a young widow, she again married, her husband being a young man of promise, hailing from the neighboring township of Upper Saucon. His name was Joseph Kookan, and he was recorded in the township's assessment book as a "respectable" gentleman, his occupation being given as "shoemaker." Settlement of the estate of the widow's first husband was now being effected.** The Dickenschied farm was sold,** and she received the widow's share in her late husband's estate, the balance of the funds remaining in the hands of the administrators, going for the care and support of the Dickenschied children.

"* * * Wrote articles of agreement for the purchase of the Christian Miller property by Valentine Dickenshitt." * * *

**The following is an abstract from the Orphans' Court record of Northampton County:—

"The account of Eve Kookan, late Tickenshitt, and Abraham Arndt, administrators of the estate of Valentine Tickenshitt, dec'd, who left the said widow Eve and four children and possessed a tract of land of 150 acres, in Upper Milford Twp., was sold on Dec. 23, 1772, for 501 pounds." Here is mentioned "four" children. All other sources of information give Eve Dickenschied as having three children.

Eve (Reed) Dickenschied, m. (2nd), Joseph, son of John and Gertrude Kooken;* b. —, at the old "Kooken" homestead, in Upper Saucon Twp., Northampton Co., Pa.; d. — (about) 1798. in (it is believed) Upper Milford Twp., Northampton Co., Pa.; both are supposed to have been buried in the Chestnut Hill Lutheran and Reformed Ch. Cem., in an unmarked grave; child:—

III—H—15—X—1—Rebecca Kooken,** b. May 10, 1781.

In 1770, the assessment books of Upper Saucon Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, show Joseph Kooken, as a "cordwainer," and his residence in Upper Saucon—the home of his parents. In Upper Milford Township, same county, in the assessment of 1785 he is returned as a farmer. In 1786 in the same township (Upper Milford) he is given as a "saddler." For the year 1788 in the same township he is returned as an "innkeeper." In a warrant of survey by the State of Pennsylvania, dated July 10, 1792, he was given 400 acres of land, in Northampton County, for services rendered as a militiaman in the war of the Revolution.

In Northampton County during the Revolution, Joseph Kooken was in evidence as a military man. During the struggle his family lived in Upper Milford Township, and throughout the entire war he was actively associated with the militia which the preserved military records of the locality show.*** In the early part of the war he was a private in Upper Milford Township militia. In 1776 he was elected the company's Captain, and his troops were part of the Second Battalion, Northampton County Militia. Under date of May 14, 1778, his company's roster gives the names of all officers and men.****

After hostilities ceased in the American Revolution, Joseph Kooken remained in the active military service of the State, in Northampton County, for under date of August 5, 1785, he subscribes under affirmation to the following:—

"A List of White Male Inhabitants residing in Captain Joseph Kooken's District of Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, May ye 4th, 1785."

The list includes all male inhabitants of this military district capable of bearing arms, and among the names given is that of his stepson, John "Dickinshist."*****

*See Addenda:—(Paper Z); "The Kooken Family of Northampton County, Pennsylvania."

**We find in the old Zionsville Reformed Church Book this entry:—

"1781, May 10, born; June 17, 1781, bapt. Anna Margretha, daughter of Joseph Kooken and wife Eva; sponsors John Adam Schuler and wife Anna Margretha."

In the old Ott Family Bible I find this entry:—

"Rebecca Kooken, daughter of Joseph Kooken and his wife Eva; was born the 10th day of May 1781."

The reader will notice the discrepancy in the girl's name in the two places. "Rebecca" is apparently correct, and the officiating clergyman must have become confused over the name in some way, giving it wrong while making the entry.

During his active career as a military man of Northampton County in the Revolution, on a number of occasions Captain Joseph Kookken acted as appraiser for the forfeited estates of those convicted of treason, most of whom resided in Upper Saucon Township.*

About 1790 Joseph Kookken and family disappear from Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. I have never with a certainty been able to learn where they removed. The Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D., in his unpublished autobiography, says they went to New York State to live. This statement of Dr. Fisher I have never been able to verify from available data. By some it is said they later returned to Northampton County, Pennsylvania.

I am led to believe this latter statement is correct. Recently I discovered in the old store book of Andrew Reed, storekeeper and tanner, of Marlborough Township, Montgomery County, and a brother-in-law of Joseph Kookken, an entry under date of April 25, 1795, that reads: "Settling in full [the account of] Joseph Gocken," [Kookken]. To have a store account there at this time the family must have lived thereabouts.

Other confirmatory evidence of the return of this family to Pennsylvania we find in the United States Census of 1800. The enumerator in his return in that year gives:—"Eve Koken," a "widow," living with a daughter, "between the years of 16 and 26 years of age," in "Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania." This statement tallies with our record of her daughter and her age, for at the time the census was taken she was still single, and it was not until a year later (in 1801) that she married Henry Ott, lime burner and farmer, in Upper Milford Township.**

III—H—10—SUSANNA DICKENSCHIED. Daughter of Valentine and Eve (Reed) Dickenschied. She was b. Dec. 30, 1763, in Marlborough Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. Feb. 26, 1832, in Upper Milford Twp., Lehigh Co., Pa.; m. (about) 1782, John Shuler; b. July 3, 1756, in Upper Milford Twp., Northampton Co., Pa.; d. Nov. 10, 1854, in Upper Milford Twp., Lehigh Co., Pa.; Reformed; bur. in the old Zionsville Reformed Ch. Bur. Grd., at Zionsville, Upper Milford Twp., Lehigh Co., Pa.; children:—

IV—H—20—X—1—Magdalena Shuler, b. Dec. 4, 1784.

IV—H—21—X—2—Susanna Shuler, b. Sept. 30, 1794.

The Schuler, Shuller, Shooler, Chuler, Shuler family, for the name would be variously spelled, were numerous in Northampton County, Pennsylvania, in early Colonial times. Most of the family were farmers, and as such John Shuler was reared. When the war of the Revolution broke forth, John Shuler was single and lived at home. He was among the first of the young men of the neighborhood to enlist in the American cause. He is returned under date of May 4, 1778, as a member of Captain Christian Fisher's Seventh Company, Upper Milford Township, Northampton County Militia. Later in the same year he is given as a wagon master in Pulaski's Legion, which was subsequently absorbed in another division and went with the army on its mission to the Carolinas. After his return to his home in Upper Milford Township we find him a member of Captain Good's Company, First Battalion, Northampton County Militia.

Soon after his return home from his southern mission in the war he married. Shortly after this the war came to a close. Then he took up unseated lands in Mahoning Township, Northumberland County, and removed his family there. These lands he improved with buildings, and for some years resided and farmed there. Later on he tired of farming in Northumberland County, sold out all interests there, and removed back with his family to his old neighborhood, in Upper Milford Township, Northampton County. There he remained and farmed until his death, living to the advanced age of nearly one hundred years.

Sept. 7, 1805, in Upper Milford Twp.; m. —, 1804, Lorentz Stahler; b. Apr. 18, 1779, in Upper Milford Twp.; d. Aug. 15, 1854, in Zionsville, Upper Milford Twp.; she Reformed; he Lutheran; she died in young womanhood, following the birth of a still-born child, and mother and child are bur. in one grave, at the Reformed Ch. Cem., Zionsville; child:—

V—H—25— —1—Susanna Stahler, b. June 27, 1804; d. Feb. 9, 1805; bur. in the Reformed Ch. Cem., Zionsville.

Lorentz Stahler was a prominent man in and about Zionsville, Lehigh County, Pennsylvania. By vocation he was a farmer, but for many years he was a Justice of the Peace in Upper Milford Township. Shortly after the death of his first wife, he again married and had issue. His descendants still live in and about Zionsville, but some have removed from the neighborhood.

John Dickenschied was a child of but 5 years on the death of his father. He was then adopted in the family of Dr. Christian Martin, a practicing physician, residing not far distant from the Dickenschied home, in Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. The boy was reared as one of the family, given a good education, and when old enough learned the saddle and harness-making trade. He then married his foster parents' daughter, carried on his trade near by in the township and was quite successful. He died a rather young man and in early married life, leaving a will in which he mentions his wife Mary and four children:—Charles, Elizabeth, Mary and Jacob. He was well liked by all, was a kind father and husband, and was active as layman in his church.

The public records of Easton give Peter Ripple's occupation first as tailor and then as farmer. He resided in Forks Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania. Upon the death of his father, Andrew Ripple, in 1819, by his will,** the son was given a farm of one hundred acres with improvements, in Forks Township. This farm on May 24, 1824, was sold by Peter Ripple to Daniel Wagner, and from that time on Peter Ripple's name does not appear on the Northampton County records. We find in 1827, a Peter Ripple owning lands in Springfield Township, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania. The possibilities are this is our Peter Ripple**** and

1—Catharine, m. John Krotz.

2—Elizabeth, m. Andrew Uhler.

3—Peter (gives 100 acres of land).

4—John (gives remainder of real estate).

5—Marerath (Margretha), m. Michael Butz.

****I find a will of Peter Ripple on file in the Register of Wills office, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania. It is dated Shirley Township, August 26, 1856. In it he mentions his wife "Mary" and seven children, namely:—Peter Ripple, Nancy Foust, Elizabeth Rupert, Susanna Buckley, Margaret Jamison, Mary Miller and Hannah Clemens. Beyond this I know nothing further of this family. I have tried to get in communication with some of the descendants for further information. So far I have been unsuccessful. Too, this may be some other Peter Ripple and his wife Mary than that of our family.

that after the sale of the Northampton County home and lands, he bought lands in Huntingdon County, removed there, and settled.

In the deed of sale of his real estate in Northampton County in 1824, "Magdalena," his wife, joins in the deed, and this looks as though "Mary," as we have it, were deceased. To confirm her (Mary's) death and the presumption of second marriage, I copy from the records of the First Reformed Church at Easton, Pennsylvania:—

"1806, Aug. 10, Peter, son of Peter and Margretha Ripple." (Possibly the first son Peter was deceased).

"1811, Feb. 15, Susan, daugh. of Peter and Margaret Ripple."

"— 1823, June 17, Samuel, son of Peter and Magdalena Ripple."

Note the different spelling of the wife's name by the officiating clergyman. This is often so found on these old records. All previous baptisms are given as children of Peter and Mary Ripple.

SIGNATURE OF ANDREW REED
(In English)

On a jury return, in 1790.

Andrew Reed, the youngest child of Philip and Veronica (Bercky) Reed, was born and reared and always lived in Marlborough Township, Philadelphia (Montgomery) County, Pennsylvania. He received a fair education in German and English, and learned the trade of saddlery and harness-making. Later in life he carried on this trade, together with farming, at his home, which was located in Marlborough Township, near *Anna Maria Leidy, wife of Andrew Reed, was a niece of Magdalena Leidy, the wife of his brother, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed. It was a case of brothers marrying aunt and niece of the Leidy family of Franconia Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. This shows there was a close relationship among these two old Palatine families coming to America in 1727.

the present village of Hoppenville. In time he became one of the most active, prominent and influential business men and real estate owners in that section of the county.

On January 1, 1776, when a young man of 33 years of age, he purchased from his father the old Reed homestead in Marlborough, including all rights, privileges and improvements. On May 23, same year, there was deeded him from John Penn, Esq., another tract of land, also in Marlborough Township, on the opposite side of the road from his father's farm, thereby making them contiguous farms. On the Penn tract the following year he erected a substantial and attractive two-story, colonial style dwelling, of brown stone, with walls pointed in white mortar. This old house still stands, and is well preserved considering its age and the neglect to which it has been subject. Built in one of the peaks of its gables is to be seen a stone marker, whose inscription reads:—

A. N. O.

ANDREAS RIED.

The first story of the house is a cellar kitchen, formed by excavating into the hillside or high sloping ground. The main doorway leads into the second story room from the higher ground on the upper side of the house. In the second story room is still seen the old huge and massive fireplace, which was used by the family in its time for utility and comfort, for heating the home in cold weather, cooking, and other purposes, and it bears the appearance of having had prolonged and hard usage. A large-size attic above, formed by the sloping roof, possibly was used as sleeping quarters for the boys, and a very steep, almost straight, stairway leads up thereto.

In the course of time Andrew Reed prospered in this world's goods, his family grew in numbers, and to meet the growing demand for more room and comfort, he erected a much larger, modern, complete and commodious mansion on these lands, much nearer the roadside than the older house. The new dwelling was also built of brown stone and the wall was pointed in white mortar. The house was on the colonial order. When it was completed the owner removed his family to this larger, better adapted and more convenient new home. The first and older dwelling was then abandoned as a home and was made into and utilized as a merchandizing store, and also served for a part of the tannery and saddlery shop of the owner.

About 1777—the time of building his first home on the Penn tract of land—Andrew Reed had erected several additional low buildings there for tannery use. These were located on a lower level strip of ground lying between the house and a nearby small creek, and beside the tanning vats. Some distance above in the gully on the higher ground of the stream he built an impounding dam, and from there by gravity he conducted the waters to his tannery for utilization. There it was he lived for many years, carrying on the tanning business, along with his saddlery and his merchandizing store. His sons, as they grew to manhood, assisted the father in his business, they also becoming tanners, saddlers and store-keepers.

When the Revolutionary War broke forth Andrew Reed was an ardent patriot and soldier, and in all ways assisted the worthy cause. As a soldier in the beginning he served in the ranks of the Township Militia, and from 1777 to 1779 he was Captain* of the Marlborough Township Company, Sixth Battalion, Philadelphia County Militia, and these records further show that he was ever alert to his military duty that independence might be secured. This strict attention to his patriotic and military duty worked a hardship because his personal affairs suffered from neglect.

By Andrew Reed. Brought before his son as Justice of the Peace. A page from Philip Reed, Esq., Docket, and receipted for by his son, Michael Reed.

When the State Militia was reorganized under a new militia law, in 1780, of his own desire he went back into the ranks as a private, thereby lessening his activity and responsibility that he might better serve his personal interests and still assist the government in its worthy cause.

*An interesting deed of land conveyance which I find on record in the Recorder of Deeds office, at Philadelphia, is that of Robert Thomas and wife to Andrew Reed. It recites:—

“ * * to Andrew Reed, of Marlborough Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, Captain, of the other part,” * * “Made April 6, 1779,” and “in the 3d year of the Independence of the 13 States of America,” * * Philadelphia County, Deed Book I, No. 17, pg. 314.

Andrew Reed, a private in Captain John Schooler's (Shuler's) Company, Fourth Battalion, Marlborough Twp., Philada. Co. Militia; Seventh class; 1780. Penna. Archives, 6th Series, Vol. I, pg. 794. (In 1780 the Sixth Battalion was changed to the Fourth Battalion).

Andrew Reed's captaincy of the Marlborough troops was during the period of the greatest activity of the Philadelphia County Militia in the Revolution, for it covered the time of Washington's defeat at the battles of Brandywine and Germantown and the occupation of the city of Philadelphia by the British troops. During this time the Philadelphia County Militia was constantly being called out to perform all sorts of military duty; for the enemy was at their very doors and was aided by Tories. This made the home troops' tranquility uncertain and insecure, for the militia had not only to be alert to guard against surprises to themselves, but as well to guard and protect the neighborhood's care and safety against these lurking enemies.

In the year 1784, when the new County of Montgomery was created from Philadelphia County, Andrew Reed's home became part and parcel of the new County of Montgomery. In the transition he was made Marlborough Township's first Assessor, and under the new regime he assessed himself as follows:

|                                      |       |

As time passed, Andrew Reed's possessions accumulated and he became the owner of a great assortment of personal property. All he possessed he now pledged for a debt in an instrument of writing, "given in Marlborough Township, County of Montgomery, State of Pennsylvania," under date of "May 13th, 1789, for Three Hundred pounds good Gold and Silver Money." The property pledged to his good "Friend and Neighbor Andrew Mowerer, of Upper Hanover Township," consisted of

"Cattle, Household Stuff and Impliments and Impliments of the Household and Other Goods:

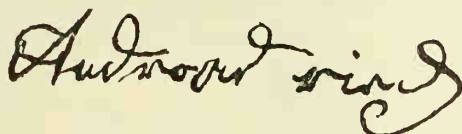

"Four Horses, two Mares, six Cows, ten Heifers, thirteen Sheep, fourteen Pigs, three Waggons and Waggon Implements, one Cart, two Ploughs, one Harrow, and Gears for four Horses, one Windmill, one Cutting Box, Eleven Beds and Bedsteads, two Desks, one Closet, one Dresser, five Tables, five Chests of Drawers, one Clock, twelve Chairs, six Spinning Wheels, two Wooden Wheels, two Trunks, five Kettles, one Gridiron, eight Pewter Dishes, five Pots, two Frying Pans, two Skillets, two dozen Plates, two doz. Pewter Spoons, six Buckets, three large Tubs, three Hogsheads, three Barrels, one Butter Churn, one set of Smith Tools, with what belongs to it, also and every of the Saddler, Tanner and Currier Tools, and other Goods."*

Andrew Reed was a busy and leading spirit in community affairs and an active and aggressive spirit in his church—the New Goshenhoppen

Reformed, about three miles distant from his home. He was not only reared in this church but lived and died in its fold. Actively in it he filled all positions as layman and contributed largely of his means for its support. In his home he was a good and kind husband and father, and in the neighboring community was a considerate and faithful friend. He provided his children with what was in those days a liberal education in German and English,* and as they attained man and womanhood he gave to each of them a competent "start" as they branched out into the affairs of life.

Andrew Reed was a most dutiful son, ever devoted to the welfare and comfort of his parents, Philip and Veronica Reed, especially in their advanced years. All the other children of these parents after their marriage removed far from the neighborhood to distant homes, and thereby to greater or less extent lost their contact with their parents. This dissolution of family ties was not due to loss of affection but was natural from condition and circumstances that led them apart to new homes, new neighborhoods and new environments, all for their own welfare and the care and interest of their children. In those days there were but few opportunities of returning to the parental homes on a visit or writing, except at a great inconvenience; consequently family ties became divergent or lost to one another. Andrew Reed was the only child that remained at home, looked after and cared for the aged parents until their earthly departure, all of which is tenderly expressed by his mother in her will.

The land office records show that Andrew Reed in his life was an extensive landowner in and about Marlborough Township. He bought and sold much property, mostly, I presume, for speculative purposes. One of these deeds of sale in Marlborough Township in its description is some-

*We extract from an old recorded land conveyance which recites:—"May 27, 1779, Michael Horlacker and wife Susan," for a consideration convey a "tract of eleven acres of land," to "Andrew Reed, saddler; Andrew Ohl, Innkeeper; Mathias Shefley, Innkeeper; Jacob Long, farmer, in trust nevertheless, to erect a school thereon, for the use of the Calvinists and Lutherans, jointly and in common now settled and from time to time to be settled in Marlborough Township, and for no other use and purpose whatsoever." * *

At the early date of this instrument of writing the people thereabouts were provided with a public school supplying their children educational opportunities in a mutual and public-spirited way, as here shown. The first schoolmaster to officiate in this capacity there was Nicolas Korndorfer. In this early schoolmaster's record book made at the time, among the pupils noted attending were children of Andrew Reed. This teacher lived in the neighborhood and apparently was a close friend of the Reed family, for, among other interesting facts associated with the family, he was a witness to the will of our ancestress, Veronica Ried, mother of Andrew Reed.

The first consisting of fifty acres was known as "Andrewsheim." The second consisting of eighty-three acres was known as "Reedania." The third consisting of thirty acres was known as Andrewsburg."*

Philip Reed was reared at the home of his parents in Marlborough Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. He was given a good schooling in German and English, in both of which languages he could read and write fluently. Brought up a farmer, he also learned the trade of saddlery and harness-making with his father. When still a young man he succeeded his father, in his home and in the harness and saddlery

*According to an old "Township Book," of Marlborough Township, still in existence, dating its beginning back to the creation of Marlborough Township, in 1742, and ending 1801, Andrew Ried, or Rieth, was active in township affairs, he serving as Overseer of the Poor, Road Master, Auditor, etc. In the year 1796 Andrew Rieth, as township official, spent of the township's funds amounting to $14,000 or more—a fabulous amount for that period of the township's history, and from its enormity he was subjected to a great share of public criticism and abuse at the hands of the taxpayers.

In those days, according to this township book, the Overseer of the Poor had a method of selling the services of unfortunates able to work to the highest bidder, and on March 22, 1794, such services of one Sebastian Gotz were sold to Andreas Ried for "16 pounds and Four Shillings."

It is said Sebastian Gotz was a Revolutionary soldier and one of distinction, "for he primed Powder for Washington's army at Valley Forge."

business. Later on his business location was changed to his own home, adjoining that of his father, in Marlborough Township.

He, like his father, in time became quite an extensive land owner in Marlborough and adjoining townships, and much of this land was possibly purchased for speculative purposes. In time his foresight and thrift made him quite wealthy for those days. He married when but 25 years of age. His wife was born and reared in the adjoining township of Upper Hanover. In advance of his marriage he owned a fine farm and on it he had built for the bride a very pretty colonial-style home, of brown stone walls, pointed in white mortar, which in appearance was one of the prettiest homes to be found in Marlborough Township at that period. The home still stands, and to a certain extent retains its commanding appearance, its walls indicating it is in an excellent state of preservation.

Due to the popularity of the couple, the marriage was quite an event in Marlborough. The news of the important affair was neighborhood talk for some time. The new home was mostly furnished in advance of the wedding. Then, as the story runs, Philip Reed geared up a pair of his out and cause it to be lost. In this home they lived congenially their entire wedded lives, with an abundance of this world's means, and reared a large and happy family of children.

In 1806 Philip Reed was commissioned* by Governor McKean a Justice of the Peace, for the townships of Marlborough, Upper Salford and Upper Hanover. His Justice dockets, consisting of four large volumes, still exist and are well preserved. They exhibit a voluminous amount of business done, and cover a continuous period of nearly forty years. His just, fair and conscientious administration of the office won for him an enviable reputation for probity. Because of his sincerity of purpose his clientage came to him from far and wide, and whatever the decision of the "old squire" was, it was accepted as justice, right, fair and consistent.

AN OLD TIME SUMMONS

Issued for execution. From the Docket of Philip Reed, Justice of the Peace.

His homestead place consisted of a fine, large farm, with land of excellent quality, substantial buildings, and all in keeping with his distinction and conspicuousness in his walk of life. To the rear of the main, colonial mansion was a two-story stone dwelling-like building, part of it used as a dwelling for some of his employees, while the main lower floors were used for his saddlery and harness-making shop. There, with his employees, he made saddles and harness for the community, and elsewhere he farmed and dealt out justice to his clients.

Philip Reed was an active citizen, not only locally but in general. In politics he was a strong Democrat, and as a leading citizen took an active part in political matters all over the county. He was a conspicuous figure and presided at many public meetings, served on many appointments and conferences, was a delegate to State and County conventions, etc. He was a member of the State Legislature for the years 1812-1813; was Director of the Poor for several terms, and for a number of years was County Commissioner, etc. He was one of the founders of the old Montgomery Bank, in Norristown, in 1818, and became a director.

When Philip Reed was still a young man, patriotic Fourth-of-July celebrations were much in vogue all over the county. Many leading citizens participated in these events, and he was often foremost on such occasions. The gatherings were usually held at the public inns that then were numerous spread all over the county, and he often served as president, vice-president or secretary. In a number of instances he made responses and addresses to the various toasts offered.

Like his father, Andrew Reed, Philip Reed was a military man and a great patriot, and was enlisted in this work not only in his local district but all over the county. As early as 1800 we find him a Major of the 86th Regiment, Montgomery County Militia. After a service of six years in this office, he was made Lieutenant Colonel of his Regiment, then comprising the townships of Pottsgrove, Douglass, New Hanover, Limerick, Frederick, Upper Hanover, Marlborough, Upper and Lower Salford and Franconia. The first five townships composed the First, and the last five composed the Second Battalion District. He remained Lieutenant Colonel until 1814, when a new State militia law was enacted. He then withdrew from active military duty.

In 1851, at the time of his death, his local weekly newspaper, of the nearby village of Sumneytown, thus characterized this worthy man in a few words:—

“* * * The deceased (Philip Reed) was one of the best known citizens of the upper end of this (Montgomery) County, and for years back was a very useful and serviceable man. * * * For several years back, he resigned the office (Justice of the Peace), and withdrew altogether from his extensive business in order to prepare himself, at the evening of life, for a better world. This time he proved true and faithful, hoping now he is enjoying the fruit of his work in another and better world.” * * *

In the early days of country schools, before the enactment of the Public School Law, this was a way to possess and support a neighborhood school. The above ticket is a sample of the method resorted to.

Philip Reed, Esq., for his day was a man of more than ordinary ability and intelligence. He was a man of sterling integrity, and of an extremely kind and peaceful disposition; his symmetrical demeanor won the confidence and affection of everyone who knew him; in every respect he was a model and exemplary man and citizen. He was successful in business life, and was a consistent Christian. He and his family worshipped at the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, founded by his grandfather, Philip Reed. He served his church in all capacities as layman. He always lived at the one place—in the New Goshenhoppen region—near the home of his foreparents—the land where they settled shortly after their coming to America in 1727.

Philip S. Reed learned the milling trade, and for some years followed this business. Then he bought a large farm in Upper Hanover Township, and lived there until his death. He was accidentally killed by his horse running away, throwing him headlong out of his carriage, thereby breaking his neck. At the time he was on his way to church with his family. He was a widely known man, a good neighbor and a much respected citizen. He served some years in the army as a soldier during the Rebellion. Some of the family reside at Hillegass, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

Calvin M. Reed has spent much of his lifetime in a struggle to develop the mineral resources of the Rich or Ridge Valley Creek region, in Upper Montg. Co.; he has expended much time, labor and money, sinking mines and drifts in the rocky hills of that rugged country, has discovered traces of gold, lead and zinc, but so far his efforts have not proved a profitable experiment.

The following is a clipping of an article from the Norristown, Pa., Times Herald, by a writer using the name "Norris," who for some time has been writing historical sketches for the paper:—

"The most famous gold mine in Montgomery county was that which Calvin M. Reed worked off and on for fifteen years, up in Marlborough Township.

"Reed's mine was in the hills along Ridge Valley Creek, in one of the wildest and stoniest parts of Montgomery County, three miles northeast of Sumneytown. Boulders of massive size abound, while here and there are peculiar stony areas, sometimes acres in extent, which are called 'the devil's potato patch.' 'The Seven Brothers' is the name of another strange collection of rocks.

"Reed was at one time a gold miner in the West, and when he returned to Marlborough Township, about 1890, his attention was attracted by the resemblance between the rocks there and those in which the gold is found in the far West. He began prospecting and soon found traces of what he believed to be gold.

"Then he started mining operations upon a small scale. He sank shafts and ran a drift into a hillside for 250 feet. At one time he employed several men to help him, but most of the time he worked alone. Usually he labored on nearby farms several months each year to earn enough to maintain him while he operated his mine the remainder of the year.

"It was a great achievement when, in 1904, he was able to buy an old fire engine and set it up at his mine to pump out the water.

"If perseverance ever deserved reward, then 'Cal' Reed should have won riches. But in spite of all his hard work the yellow metal remained elusive."

William Findlay Reed succeeded his father as farmer and owner of the old "Philip Reed, Esq.," homestead, in Marlborough Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. He not only farmed there but, like his father, served his district as Justice of the Peace. He at one time was a candidate for County Commissioner of Montgomery County but was defeated at the election. Several years later he became Prothonotary for the County of Montgomery and served very capably for his term of office.

Like his father, Philip Reed, in his day, the son also was a staunch, old-time Democrat. After the death of the father, the Civil War came on and a few citizens of the Marlborough region saw new light in their political life and changed politics. Among these was William Findlay Reed. For making this change his opponents thereafter denounced and defied him as a traitor to his district. His new political life as a Republican in a Democratic stronghold like Marlborough Township from now on became one of uncertainty, for his former political friends and his neighbors were embittered toward him. He stood aloof and defied them, openly avowing his new and accepted political creed or principles. Always being active and aggressive in politics in his district, this activity brought on resentment, so much so that he was openly attacked. Upon more than one occasion his political foes stoned him, endangering his life at the polls. He had grit and defiance, believed he was right and fought his enemies to a finish. Finally to a great extent he was successful. He always remained a Republican.

He was a most active business man in Marlborough, in fact, in his time he was a foremost citizen in public affairs. Having means at his command, he was associated in all enterprises advanced for the betterment, progress and development of the community. He filled a great number of positions of trust, as director in banks, turnpike companies, schools, etc. He was very active and influential in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church—the church of his ancestors—and filled therein all positions as layman. He served his congregation on its building committee, as a marker records, when the present most beautiful and conspicuous edifice was erected, and was one of its most liberal contributors for its success.

He was a hard working man on his fine farm in Marlborough Township. This heavy physical exercise gave him great endurance, strength of body and mind. It seems he could stand almost any active exercise with little effort. It is said of him, while in office as Prothonotary at the county-seat at Norristown, if his teams were busy he at times would walk to and from home and office, some twenty-five miles apart. He thought this only good exercise. A neighbor came to his home one evening and asked if he might not go with him to town in the morning. He replied in the affirmative saying he would be glad to have him. He appeared in the morning at William F. Reed's home. When all was ready Reed asked if he was ready and he replied he was. "Then we will start," said Reed. They started and when beyond the gate the neighbor asked Reed, "Where is the team?" Reed replied that they were busy, and it was a fine morning and he was walking. At this the man demurred and refused to go, and Reed was left to tramp the twenty-five miles alone. This was but one of the many characteristics of this worthy and noble man.

My father-in-law, Samuel F. Jarrett, who resided near the village of Jeffersonville, was the County Treasurer at the time William F. Reed was elected Prothonotary of Montgomery County. These two men as county officials became very friendly, and at times William F. Reed would visit Mr. Jarrett's home. Both by occupation were farmers, and delighted, when together, to reminisce on farming and political life and experiences, all of which was novel, interesting and timely. At the time of Mr. Jarrett's election to office, Montgomery County was solidly Democratic, and his election as a county official came as a surprise to the old party then in power; from now on the Democracy of the county gradually lost its grip, so much so that at this late day the county has become just the reverse—a stronghold of Republicanism. William F. Reed has the credit for sharing in his political life in the swing of power to Republicanism in Montgomery County.

William Findlay Reed in his time, through thrift and business ability, became a man of means, but just before the close of his life, through over-anxiousness and liberality, he met with financial losses that absorbed much of his holdings and possessions, and brought upon him distress of mind. He was a plain, good and honest man, one whom everybody respected and admired for his staid principles and great sense of right, outside of his political beliefs. He was a kind husband, an indulgent father, and very charitable to the less fortunate. Susan Urffer, his wife, was brought up in the Schwenkfelder faith, but as a dutiful wife, upon marriage, joined her husband in his belief, and associated herself in membership with him in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church.

Abraham Beidleman when a young man drifted from Great Swamp, Bucks County, over the county line, into Marlborough Township, and there taught school in the neighborhood of the Reeds. In this way he formed an acquaintance with Anna Margretha Reed, Andrew Reed's daughter, and wooed her. He was not altogether acceptable to the family and his visits were not welcome. Irrespective of this, the young couple developed a strong affection for each other, and concluded to marry anyway. The time was set. Young Beidleman appeared at her home late in the night with a pair of saddled horses. The bride was alert and, all being quiet, her parents being asleep, she lowered some baggage with a rope from a window of the second story, where she slept, then stole stealthily downstairs and out of the house, mounted her steed and galloped off in safety to a clergyman, who married them. Some time after, a reconciliation followed, the young couple returning to the Reed home. For several years they continued to reside with the parents in Marlborough Township, the husband following his vocation of teaching school.

About 1808 Abraham Beidleman with his family removed to the city of Philadelphia, and there engaged at the innkeeping business. He first located at the "Sign of the Red Lion," at 226 North Second Street, but later removed nearby to the "Sign of the Black Bear." Both of the hostelries were largely patronized by farmers coming to the city to sell their produce in the markets. Some years later Abraham Beidleman relinquished innkeeping to become a partner with his brother-in-law, Michael Reed, in the dry goods business, on Eighth Street, near Market Street.* After some years of successful partnership in the firm, Beidleman withdrew to accept a clerkship. But later he entered the retail coal business and conducted this with considerable success. Advancing in years, he sold out all interest in business, retired to a quiet life—to his family and church.

Andrew Reed had a good schooling for his day. He learned the saddlery and harness-making business with his father in Marlborough Township. About the time of his marriage he drifted over into Rockhill Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and became interested in the tannery of his father-in-law, Paul Hartzell. Upon the death of Mr. Hartzell, in 1806, Andrew Reed fell heir to the homestead, tannery and eighteen acres of land. He resided there and conducted the tannery and farm until 1813. Then Andrew Reed sold the old Hartzell tannery and farm to his brother, John Reed, tanner, formerly of Marlborough Township.

A SUIT FOR A DEBT

An entry in the Docket of Philip Reed, Esq. Andrew Reed is the squire's brother and resided in Rockhill Township, Bucks Co, Pa.

Andrew Reed, for business ability and intelligence, was above the ordinary in his time, and became one of the active, leading and progressive citizens of his section of Bucks County. In 1809, Governor Snyder appointed him a Justice of the Peace of District No. 10, comprising Rockhill and Milford Townships. Here he dispensed justice, conducted the tannery and farmed. He dealt in real estate and from time to time owned a number of farms in and about Rockhill Township.

He gained a wide reputation for righteous disposition of justice in all his legal work, and at one time did a thriving business in hearings, settling disputes, writing deeds, agreements, wills, etc.

A story is related showing his determined character and will, and the great confidence the community had in his opinions and his strong disposition for justice and right. While some neighbors were raking leaves in the woods for litter, they accidentally discovered hidden beneath a covering of leaves a fine saddle and bridle. Suspecting something was wrong, the squire was consulted. He advised them not to disturb the hidden articles but to watch at night for developments. This was done. Not long after darkness the thief was captured. After a hearing before "Squire" Reed, the guilty man was taken to Doylestown jail.

When the criminal, who was a neighbor of influence, was tried before the County court in Doylestown, his attorney berated the 'squire before the court, in unjustifiable language. 'Squire Reed sat by and retained himself, and when court was adjourned the attorney and the squire met just

Notice to Tanners.

AT a meeting of a number of tanners, convened at the house of Samuel Sellers, in Rockhill township, Bucks county, on Seventh day the 9th of June—ANDREW REID, esq. was called to the chair, and EVAN JONES appointed secretary. It was stated, that the object of the meeting is to regulate the price of hides: it is the sense of the meeting, that a more extensive and general concurrence of the neighboring tanners is desirable:—Therefore,

Resolved, That a meeting be held on Seventh day the 23d of June, precisely at one o'clock, at the house of Andrew Treiwig, at the intersection of the Old Bethlehem and county line roads.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the chairman and secretary, and published in the Pennsylvania Correspondent, and Norristown Register.

outside the Court House on the street. The attorney told 'Squire Reed he should not mind what was said for it was "their way" of doing business. The 'squire, a powerfully built man, first knocked the attorney down with his fist, then rolled him in the muddy water of the gutter, and finally told him that this might not be ethical or consistent, but it was "his way" of doing business.

He married a daughter of a respectable citizen of St. Louis; the widow and a child survive.
- IV—I—546—X—7—Catharine Reed, b. June 29, 1828.

John Reed received a liberal education at his home, and learned the tanning business with his father. He carried on this business in Marlborough Township, and then in 1809 he bought a flour and saw mill near Spinnerstown, in Upper Milford, Lehigh County, and removed to that place with his family. In 1813 he sold out his interests there, and bought the farm and tanyard of his brother, Andrew Reed, in Rockhill Township, Bucks County, and removed there, following these vocations. This property he sold in 1825, and then purchased two tracts of land, a dwelling and powder mills, near Green Lane, in Montgomery County. He removed thither and followed powder-making on a large scale.

At this vocation he had the usual misfortune of powder makers, that of an explosion, an account of which we copy from the Norristown Register, under date of April 17, 1827:—

"John Reed's powder mills exploded with all of its contents—over 1500 pounds of powder, same quantity of saltpetre; all of his buildings were totally wrecked—one person killed, and another dangerously wounded."

John Reed's marriage was one of romance. He first met his fiancée while she was driving a team on her way from Allentown to Sumneytown. She became stalled on muddy roads near the home of John Reed's father and was compelled to remain there for the night. It was love at first sight. The affections ripened mutually into a warm friendship. In due time they were engaged, and marriage followed.

The following death notice of John Reed appeared in the Bauern Freund, a German local weekly newspaper printed in Sumneytown, and I copy it verbatim:—

"* * On last Friday (Dec. 13, 1844), Mr. John Rieth (Reed), a worthy and respectable citizen of Marlborough Township, died, after about four days of sickness with mortification and his suffering ended. * * The deceased leaves a widow and seven surviving children and many relatives and friends to mourn his sudden departure. By all who knew him he will be long remembered. What made him generally beloved was the united virtues he possessed. He was religious and good hearted, friendly, liberal, honest and faithful.

"By his death the community lost a good citizen; his family its true head; the neighborhood a good neighbor, and the church an exemplary member—but himself nothing, while he passed from this to the world yonder, hoping and trusting in the merits of his Saviour.

"Peace to his ashes!"

Jacob Conrad Slemmer received a good education, and became a man of note in his day. At one time he was editor and publisher of the Pottstown Journal, of Pottstown, Pennsylvania, which he subsequently merged with the Montgomery Ledger, a weekly newspaper of that town. He then removed to Philadelphia and there engaged in the drug business, and later went to Norristown, where, with his brothers, he entered into the oil refining business, manufacturing lubricating oil and other products from crude petroleum. Subsequently he withdrew from the oil firm and went into the drug business in Norristown, and for many years there conducted a drug store, at Airy and Swede streets. In his time he was one of the leading, most active, progressive and public-spirited business men in Norristown. He was a dignified and cultured man, and in all respects a most exemplary citizen. Adam Slemmer, his father, was one of the most eminent men of Montgomery County a century ago, filling many positions of honor and trust. He was one of the early owners and publishers of the Norristown Register, a weekly Democratic paper, and it was in the office of the paper that his son, Jacob Conrad Slemmer, received his early training in newspaper work.

- V—I—636— —7—Charles Slemmer, b. Aug. 5, 1860; d. March 4, 1861.

Henry T. Slemmer graduated from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1844, and practiced medicine for a short time at Tylersport, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Then he removed to Norristown and purchased Bertolett's drug store, and practiced medicine and conducted the drug store. About 1866, he, with his brothers, started the oil refining business in Norristown; later he opened another refinery in Bridgeport, on the opposite side of the Schuylkill River from Norristown. The oil works were a success until driven out of business, the owners asserted, by the Standard Oil Company's business methods of smothering the smaller refineries out of existence. Dr. Slemmer was a very active man in his church and interested in community affairs at large. About the family was a social air of refinement and they were much respected.

Michael Reed was educated in the nearby church school and by a private tutor at his home. He learned the trade of saddlery and harness-making with his father. Some time thereafter he succeeded his father in this business at his home. For a while here, beside working at this trade, he conducted a general merchandizing store, and for several years he kept an inn in the nearby village of Sumneytown. Then he removed to Philadelphia and for two years was engaged at innkeeping at the "Sign of the Red Lion." About 1812, in Philadelphia, he went into the store business and became a noted merchant. In 1817, in the Philadelphia City Directory he is given as "engaged in the dry goods business," at "No. 78 North Second Street." Later on he associated his sons with him in this business and the firm became known as "Michael Reed & Sons," and for a time theirs was the largest wholesale dry goods house in the city.

He was very successful in the store business. In time he acquired quite a competency of this world's goods; and for his day was in the category of the city's wealthier class. In advancing years he withdrew from active business and devoted his remaining days to rest, to benevolences, and to his church. He and his wife were known far and wide as good and kind-hearted people, especially for relieving distress among the poor. To all worthy purposes they gave liberally of food, clothing and money. They were a devout and God-fearing couple, and were loved by all who knew them.

MICHAEL AND CATHARINE (HAHN) REED

He in his day was one of the largest and most successful merchants in Philadelphia, Pa. In their declining years this couple were much devoted to philanthropic work in Philadelphia.

Clemson's Academy, at Claymont, Delaware, from 1861 to 1865, and lastly at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, at which place he received his A. B. degree in 1870. He then entered as a medical student in the University of Pennsylvania, taking his M. D. degree in 1873. He took a post-graduate course at the University of Vienna, in Austria. While at the University of Pennsylvania he was a private office student of Prof. D. Hayes Agnew; and after his post-graduate course of study abroad and on his return to America he became resident physician and afterwards visiting assistant surgeon at the Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia. He served some years as Regimental Surgeon in the Pennsylvania Militia. Subsequently from failing health he was compelled to give up the practice of his profession and then became interested in a manufacturing industry, in Newburyport, Massachusetts. He there became much interested in city affairs, and served his constituents in a number of positions of honor and trust. His health now being restored, he later resumed his profession, locating in Brooklyn, N. Y., where the family now reside.

X—3—Catharine Reed, b. —, 1759, in Marlborough Twp.; m. Feb. 4, 1777, Joas Shotz, son of Philip Shotz, a near neighbor's son; shortly after marriage they removed to the state of Maryland, there farmed and had a family of children.

X—4—Philip Reed, b. March 3, 1761; d. Jan. 20, 1843, in Marlborough Twp.; m. Christiana Long; b. March 22, 1766; d. April 7, 1835; members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, near Hoppenville, and bur. in its Cem.; farmer and shoemaker; always lived in Marlborough Twp.; no children.

Philip Reed, m. (2nd), April 17, 1791, Christiana Schneider.* At the time he was living on a small farm that he owned, in Bedminster Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. No issue by the second marriage.

Philip Reed became an early settler in Marlborough Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. We find him owning lands there as early as 1772; he had children baptized at the Old Goshenhoppen Reformed Church as early as 1756, and he is given as a member of this congregation, by Pastor Weiss, in his record of members in the church book, in 1758. He was a farmer and his lands were in Marlborough Township, bordering on Swamp Creek. In 1774 he was assessed in Marlborough for "105 acres of land, dwelling, 2 horses and 4 cattle."

In his will, dated Nov. 30, 1782, he says he is financially embarrassed and had previously sold his farm with certain reservations to his oldest son, Baltzer Reed. About this time he purchased another farm, in Bedminster Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and removed there. For this farm in Bedminster Township the Penns granted him a patent on February 13, 1784. Some time thereafter he sold this farm to Adam Trough. His second wife, Christiana, joined in the deed of sale. In 1785 he was assessed in Bedminster Township as a resident and for "20 acres of land, dwelling, 1 horse, and 3 cows." He resided in Bucks County until about 1794, when he removed back to Marlborough Township, Montgomery County, and there he died in 1798.

This family of Reeds was known to our Reed family as the "Swamp Creek" Reeds; our family of Reeds was known to them as the "Macoby Creek" Reeds; both families residing in Marlborough Township. The Goshenhoppen hills divided the two families, and it was always said of one another that they were related; possibly of the same family of Reeds in Europe.**

Tradition says the Reeds were Bavarians—that there were three brothers originally emigrating to his country. Two of these brothers settled in northern Philadelphia County (now Montgomery County), and one brother settled in the state of Maryland. We presume by this that **Possibly some day historians or researchers will be able from facts to connect the two families of the Marlborough Reeds as to their relationship; so far we have not been able to succeed in this. Some years back a person came to this locality with this data, but from indifference of the family at the time the matter was brushed aside as irrelevant or immaterial.

this Philip Reed (b. Dec. 7, 1728), must have been a son of a brother of our ancestor, Johann Philip Reed.

Philip Reed, Sr., was a soldier of the Revolution, being for some time a member of Captain Shuler's Fifth Company, Fourth Battalion, Marlborough Township, Philadelphia County Militia.* He was an active patriot and served throughout the whole war.

Philip Reed and family were members of the Old Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, in Salford Township. He is buried in this church's cemetery, as well as other members of his family.

BALTZER REED (RIEDT). Son of Philip and Maria (Fretz?) Reed. He was b. Dec. 8, 1757, in Marlborough Twp., Philada. Co., Pa.; d. March 12, 1825, in Marlborough Twp.; m. (about) 1780, Elizabeth Drake; b. Jan. 13, 1756, in Marlborough Twp.; d. Jan. 2, 1844, in Marlborough; members of the Old Goshenhoppen Reformed Church, and bur. in its adjoining graveyard; a farmer, oil miller, etc.; he was assessed in 1787 for 105 acres of land and dwelling, three horses and three cows. He was an active and prosperous business man and a much respected citizen. He was a soldier of the Revolution, for a time a member of Captain Shuler's Company of Marlborough Township, Philadelphia County Militia, serving in the ranks of these troops with his father; children:—

HENRY REED*

(RIEDT, RIETH, RIEDT, ETC., OF OLD GOSHENHOPPEN.)

On February 11, 1743, Nicholas Bittel purchased from Isaac Freed, 150 acres of land in Frederick Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. At the time Nicholas Bittel sold but did not actually convey this land to Henry Reed, of Upper Salford Township. But a few years later, on April 26, 1751, Nicholas Bittel, yeoman, and his wife Mary, of Frederick Township, and Henry Reed, miller, sold this land to John Umstad, of Limerick Township, same county. The signatures to the deed of conveyance were those of Nicholas Bittel and Maria Bittel (in German) and Heinrich Ried (in German).

On August 1, 1753,** Henry Reed, miller, of Upper Salford Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, had two mortgages placed on his property in Upper Salford, consisting of a "dwelling, grist mill with two pair of stones, and plantation of one hundred and seventy acres of land." One mortgage was given to James Benezert (Bossert), and another to Michael Hillegas and Abraham Sahler (Saylor). Both mortgages were satisfied at the Recorder of Deeds office, Philadelphia, September 1, 1775. After this transaction Henry Reed* disappears from the community.

*On Sept. 30, 1740, we find a Henry Reets (Reed), a Palatine, age 34 yers, arriving in the Province of Pennsylvania, on the ship "Samuel and Elizabeth." See original list of names of passengers, Penna. Archives, 2nd Series, Vol. XVII, pg. 200.

**In the old Sauer German newspaper of Germantown, Pennsylvania, under date of June 1, 1755, appears this advertisement:—

"Henry Riedt in Old Goshenhoppen, Upper Salford township offers for sale a new flour mill and plantation of 176 acres of free land; one hundred acres clear and fifteen acres meadow."

The mill and plantation was on a branch of Perkiomen Creek, in Salford Township, and the property was bounded by the lands of Jacob Kellar, Michael Rhyers (Royer) and Rudolph Trough and by Perkiomen Creek.

Henry Reed was a Palatine, and his wife's name is given as Anna Sophia. It is possible that this Henry Reed was the father of the elder Swamp Creek Philip Reed, b. Dec. 7, 1728. For this Henry Reed's daughter Julian, with Philip Fisher and a son of their neighbor, John Fisher, stood sponsor, on August 8, 1756, for Philip, a son of Philip and Maria Elizabeth Reed, at the Old Goshenhoppen Reformed Church. This action looks as though Julian Reed might have been a sister or a niece of Philip Reed the elder (b. Dec. 7, 1728).

FRONICA RID (RIED or REED).

"Fronica Rid (Reed) confirmed by herself because of sickness, age 16 years." This is copied from the list of catechumens entered in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church Book, under date of April 17, 1767, by Pastor Joh. Th. Faber.

"1768, Jan. 22nd; b. April 4th, bapt.; Anna Fronica, parents, Johannes Voght and wife Magdalena; sponsors, Fronica Riedin and John Peter Pennypacker; both single." A baptism copied from the church record of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, of New Goshenhoppen.

The age at the confirmation indicates Fronica Ried must have been born in 1751, and by this I am unable to place her in her order in the Reed family of New Goshenhoppen. I believe she was named for Fronica (Veronica) Reed, the wife of Philip Reed, our ancestor. It is possible she was a daughter of Henry Reed, the miller, of Upper Salford. As we learn nothing further of her she possibly died a young woman.

CHRISTIAN RIETH (REED)

Copied from the records of St. Paul's Lutheran Church (New Goshenhoppen, or commonly known as the Six-Cornered Lutheran Church). I cannot place the family.

1768, Jan. 8, bapt. "Philip," parents Christian Ried and wife; sponsors:—Philip Gabel and wife.

1770, Nov. 20, bapt. "Elizabeth," parents Christian Ried and wife; sponsors:—John Nungesser and Elizabeth Garkes (Garges).

1773, April 3, bapt. "Catharine," parents Christian Ried and wife; sponsors:—Jacob Brown and wife.

*There is an ancient burial of a Henry Reed, at the old Tohickon Church, in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. The grave is marked with a moss-covered common field stone, worn with age, which (as best it could be deciphered), reads:—"Henry Reed, died Feb. —, 1818." I think this is not our Henry Reed of Salford Township, Philadelphia County. If the interpretation be correct, it would make him too old, if he was b. in 1706, as the Penna. Archives would lead us to believe, if "34 years of age" upon his arrival in America in 1740.

ELIZABETH RIETH (REED)

1781, May 3, (married), Henry Knauss and Elizabeth Riedin (Reed).
Falkner Swamp Reformed Church Book.

"Henrich Knauss, b. Jan. 8, 1746; d. Oct. 30, 1816; m. May 4, 1781, Elizabeth Van Rieth." Copied from the old Henry Knauss family Bible, by Wilbur L. King, secretary of the Knauss Family Association of Pennsylvania. He further writes:—"Gottfried Knauss settled about 1745, in Whitehall Township, Lehigh (then Northampton) County, and had a large family. The son, Henry Knauss, settled in Oley Township, Berks County, and Elizabeth Reed was his second wife." They were Reformed, and lived across the county line in Berks County, but were members of the Falkner Swamp Reformed Church, in New Hanover Township, Montgomery County, and were farmers. I copy further from the Falkner Swamp Reformed Church records:—

"Bapt. 1784, April 9, Elizabeth, daugh. of Henrich Knauss and wife Elizabeth; spon. the parents; born Oct. 1, 1783."

MARIA CHRISTINE RIET (REED).

1756, Aug. 8, "Marie Christine, daugh. of Andreas and Catharine Elizabeth Riet (Reed); sponsors:—Heinrich Rohder, Philip Odenwalder's wife Anna Maria, Hans Jurg McTen's wife Christine. Williams Township Reformed Church Records, Northampton County, Penna.

JOHN AND SUSANNA (KRAMER or KRONER) REED.

From the record of the Indian Creek Reformed Church, of Franconia Twp., Montg. Co., Pa., I copy this marriage:—

"1790, March 4, John Ried with Susanna Kramer," by Rev. William Ingold, pastor.

John Reed was a farmer and lived in New Britain Twp., Bucks Co., Penna.; they had children:—

1—Margaret Reed, b. July 13, 1790.

2—Magdalena Reed, b. Oct. 13, 1793.

3—Susanna Reed, b. July 6, 1795.

4—John Reed, b. Nov. 19, 1798; d. Jan. 20, 1857; m. Nov. 12, 1826, Mary Hendricks; b. Oct. 30, 1792; d. Nov. 29, 1878; first resided in New Britain Twp., Bucks Co.; then in Worcester Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; later in Philadelphia; was a shoemaker and followed his trade; children:—(1)—John, Jr., b. July 28, 1827; d. Feb. 10, 1886; m. Sept. 20, 1851, Harriet Matilda Mowerer; children:—(a)—Anna; (b)—Mary; (c)—a son; (2)—Abraham, b. Aug. 16, 1828; d. Mar. 7, 1848; (3)—Joseph, b. Oct. 4, 1830; m. and lived in Norristown, Pa.; no children; (4)—Lydia, b. July 30, 1833; d. —; m. Nov. 24, 1854, William Hannis; reside in Philada.; children:—(a)—Edward; (b)—William; (5)—Jesse H., b. Sept. 22, 1836; d. Oct. 13, 1884; m. Feb. 22, 1860, Mary Ann Adeed; children:—(a)—William; (b)—George; (c)—Mary; (d)——; (e)—Deceased.

5—Eliza Reed, b. —; m. William White; farmer, and resided in New Britain Twp.; children:—(1)—Isaac; (2)—Alvin; (3)—Eliza, m. — Hallman.

I—JOHN REED (REID, READ, etc), of Providence Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. He was b. June 14, 1756; d. Nov. 29, 1838; m. Hester, daugh. of Abraham and Barbara (Hiestand) Boyer, (Bayer, etc.), of Norriton Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; b. July 3, 1758; d. Feb. 7, 1838; children:—

II—XX—1—Abraham Reed, b. April 11, 1788.

II—XX—2—William Reed, b. —

II— —3—Barbara Reed, b. Feb. 15, 1791; d. Dec. 29, 1833; believed never married; bur. at St. James' Episcopal Ch., Evansburg, Pa.

II— —4—Ann Reed, b. March 4, 1796; d. June 13, 1853; never married; seamstress; lived in Norristown, Pa.; through economy accumulated quite an estate; bur. at St. James' Episcopal Ch., Evansburg.

II— X —5—John Reed, b. Feb. 4, 1804; d. Dec. 28, 1836.

We first find John Reed in this locality during the American Revolution. He was then a member of Captain John Wentz's Company, Norriton Township, Philadelphia County Militia; after the war he became a pensioner.* Possibly here he first was in the employ of Abraham Boyer, a German farmer, who resided near what is now Jeffersonville, marrying his daughter Hester about 1785. Later he removed to Evansburg, Lower Providence Township, Montgomery County, where he owned a small farm. Later on he sold the farm and rented a small place in the same neighborhood.

The family were members of St. James' Episcopal Church, of Lower Providence, and in its burying ground most of the family are buried. John Reed was recorded as a farmer and laborer. We believe him of Scotch-Irish descent.

II—ABRAHAM REED. Son of John and Hester (Boyer-Bayer) Reed. He was b. April 11, 1788, in Providence Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; d. March 16, 1862, in Upper Providence Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; m. about 1810, (1st), Ann, daugh. of Abraham and Catharine (Rickard) Boyer, or Beyer; b. June 1, 1786; d. June 4, 1857, in Upper Providence Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; children:—

III—X—1—Catharine Reed, b. May 23, 1811; m. Oct. 25, 1835, John Longacre; b. Feb. 2, 1815; d. March 28, 1894; lived in West Millgrove, Wood Co., Ohio; farmer and miller; children:—(1)—Henry R., b. Dec. 12, 1836; d. Jan. 5, 1910; m. Fannie Ziegler; (2)—Mary Ann, b. May 18, 1840; d. Oct. 28, 1881, single; (3)—William R., b. May 15, 1842; d. June 15, 1862; soldier of the Rebellion; d. in a hospital at Pittsburg Landing, Monterey, Tenn., and there buried; (4)—Sarah, b. June 8, 1845; m. Albert A. Florahe; b. Dec. 28, 1844; (5)—Abraham R., b. Dec. 27, 1847; m. Elizabeth Drake; (6)—John, b. March 11, 1850; d. Dec. 10, 1850; (7)—Unnamed, b. March 28, 1852.

III—X—2—Philibina (Phoebe) Reed, b. Aug. 11, 1812; d. March 19, 1837; m. Jacob Schlotterer; she is bur. at the Old Goshenhoppen Church, Upper Salford Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.

Abraham B. Reed the elder, m. (2nd), Nov. —, 1858, Maria Potts, of Upper Providence Township, Montgomery County, Penna. This second marriage was late in life; he lived but a few years afterwards; no issue.

Abraham Reed in his early married life is recorded as a laborer residing in Lower Providence Township. In his earlier life the family were members of Wentz's Reformed Church, Worcester Township, and their first three children were baptized there. Later Abraham Reed removed to a farm he owned in Lower Providence Township. About 1826 he sold this farm and removed to a larger farm in Upper Providence Township, and resided at that place up to the time of his death. The family later worshipped at the nearby Reformed Church, at Trappe, and there in its burial ground most of them are buried. Abraham Reed became a well-to-do farmer, was a much respected man of his community and a very kind neighbor.

ANDREW G. REED

The name is variously spelled Ried, Reid, Reed, etc. In his earlier life he was a farmer in Whitpain Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and was a member of the Barren Hill Lutheran Church. His earlier children were baptized there. His wife's name is given as Jane.

In the earlier part of the nineteenth century he purchased a farm in Limerick Township, Montgomery County, moved to that place and became a thrifty man in business life. He died June 13, 1874, leaving a will in which he directed that "my body be buried in the burial ground of the (Lutheran) church at Barren Hill, according to the rites and ceremonies of said church, and that my funeral be conducted in a manner corresponding with my estate and situation in life, * *." The will was proven July 10, 1874. In it he named five children:—

- X—1—Ellen Elizabeth Reed, b. Aug. 28, 1833; m. William Evans on Sept. 20, 1860; lived in Limerick Township.
 X—2—Susan Reed; m. William Amos.
 —3—Charles W. Reed.
 X—4—John W. Reed; m. Matilda, daugh. of David Groff, of Limerick Twp.
 —5—Mary Emelia Reed; never married; in the will of the father he recites: "In case she marries a worthless character, then she is to receive the income of her share only."

JACOB REED.

In the History of the "Reed, Reade, Read, Reid, Ried, etc., Families, in Europe and America," by Jacob Whittemore Reed, pg. 506, he gives:—

1—John Reed, of Snow Hill, Worcester Co., Md., m.— Oliver; children:—

1—John, d. in Iowa.

2—Jacob (of Jacob Reed's Sons, Philadelphia, Penna.).

3—Mary.

4—Vashti.

5—Sarah.

6—Eliza.

2—Jacob Reed (clothier of Philadelphia), m. Martha Lackey; reside at 301 S. Second St. (year 1860); children:—

1—William A. Reed.

2—Mary Reed.

3—Anna T. Reed.

4—Joseph R. Reed.

5—Jacob O. Reed.

6—Lucy C. Reed.

7—Edward H. Reed.

8—George K. Reed.

9—Alvin H. Reed.

In answer to an inquiry pertaining to the family of Jacob Reed (of the clothing firm of Jacob Reed's Sons), I received the following letter from his son, George K. Reed, who was at the time a member of the firm:—

"Founded in 1824 by Jacob Reed,

Men's and Boys' Wear

Clothing, Furnishings,

Hats and Shoes,

"Merchant and Military Tailors,

916-8-20 and 922 Chestnut St.

"Philadelphia, April 13, 1897.

"Mr. W. H. Reed,

"Dear Sir:—

"I owe you an apology for long delaying in answering your letter of inquiry. The same was overlaid by other matter and lost sight of. Hoping it is not too late to tell the little I can, let me say:—

"My father came from Maryland near Berlin (Worcester Co.), and was presumably of English origin. He was not related to Michael Reed (of the dry goods firm). We have no genealogical data. But there was a book published some years back in relation to the "Reed, Read, Reid, etc., family," which I saw then but have not seen since.

"Very truly yours,

"G. K. Reed."

WILLIAM R. REED.

At one time he and his family lived in and owned the "Audubon Mansion," at "Millgrove Mills," on Perkiomen Creek, in Lower Providence Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, about a half mile west of Shannonville (Audubon). He was a noted horseman and farmer. Leonora, his wife, was a daughter of John R. and Mary Ann Umstad, of Upper Providence Township, Montgomery County. They lived there for some years. About 1870 the family removed to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and William R. Reed there engaged in business. Some years later he died in that city. Members of the family survive him in Pittsburgh.

JOHN REED

John Reed is interred in the burial lot of John Kitler, Sr., in Barren Hill Lutheran Church Cemetery, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. The gravestone inscription reads: "John Reed, who departed this life, July 10, 1786, aged 51 years; 2 mos." It is said he was of the family of John Reed, an early surveyor of the Penns in Colonial times, and resided in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

MARRIAGES

The following marriages are copied from the church books of the old German Reformed Church, in Germantown, Pennsylvania, and I am unable to place them:—

"1755, April 17, John George Rieth to Dorothea Magdalena Bernholin."

"1772, Nov. 29, Ludwick Rieth to Margaretha Henrichin."

These Reed marriages copied from the Bucks County Intelligencer:—

Dec. 26, 1824, William Reed, Hilltown Twp., to Catharine, daugh. of Henry Kuhser, Hilltown Twp.

Mar. 15, 1818, Benjamin Reed, New Britain Twp., to Mary Server, New Britain Twp., by Rev. Joseph Mathews.

JOHN RIETH, REED, RIED, Etc.

John Reed was a Pennsylvania German and owned lands and resided in Perkiomen and Skippack Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, as early as 1769. In that year and in that township he was recorded as a "farmer," and was assessed for "72 acres of land, a dwelling, 2 horses and one cow." In 1773, in the same township, he was given as an innkeeper. His wife's name was Dorothy Reed,* and they were members of the nearby Wentz's Reformed Church,** situated several miles to the south of their home, in Worcester Township.

About 1774 John Reed removed with his family to the village of Trappe, New Providence Township, same county, and there he was assessed as "innkeeper and farmer." At these vocations he seems to have been prosperous, for in time he became one of the leading and most prosperous citizens of the community. In 1776 he was assessed as an "innkeeper," owning "230 acres of land, servant, 5 horses, 4 cows." At one

"1759, Feb. 5, Johannes Ried to Dorothy Roehrer, Atolhoe, Berks County, Pennsylvania."

In the Marriage Register of Reformed Church, of Germantown, Pennsylvania, I find this entry:

"1755, April 17, John George Rieth (widower) to Dorothea Magdalena Bernholden (widow)."

I cannot place them.

**While Johann and Dorothy Ried were living in Skippack and Perkiomen Township, three of their children were baptized at Wentz's Reformed Church:—

1—Rachel, b. Oct. 21, 1769.

2—John, b. May 25, 1774.

3—Abraham, b. May 25, 1774. These last two apparently were twins.

time, in addition to his innkeeping and farming, he is recorded as owning a nearby flouring and grist mill on Perkiomen Creek.

He seems to have been an active patriot and soldier of the Revolution, for he is given as a member of Captain Peterman's Company, Sixth Battalion, Providence Township, Philadelphia County Militia, serving the American cause throughout the war.

Shortly after the close of the Revolution he removed with his family to Frederick County, Maryland, where he owned land, farmed and died at the age of 67 years. Mrs. Willoughby Walling, of Chicago, Ill., whose husband is a lineal descendant, gives this list of his children:—

- 1—Maria Reed, b. —; m. — Kiefer; resided in Pennsylvania.
- 2—Catharine Reed, b. —; m. Abraham Schrack, b. Oct. 26, 1759, son of Christian and Margretta Schrack, of Trappe; resided in Philada., Pa.
- 3—Rachel Reed, b. Oct. 21, 1769; presumed to have died while quite young.
- 4—Susan Reed, b. —, 1771; d. May 26, 1847; m. May 24, 1787, John Walling; their son, Capt. Henry Missell Walling, b. March 23, 1788; m. —, 1815, Sarah Cake; their son George Henry Walling, b. —, 1820; m. —, 1847, Ellen M. Diller; their son Willoughby Walling, b. 1848, etc.
- 5—Jacob Reed, b. Jan. 4, 1772; d. March 12, 1829, in Frederick Co., Md.; m. May 15, 1820, Susan Jacobs; resided in Frederick Co., Md.
- 6—John Reed, b. May 25, 1774; d. —, 1816, in Frederick Co., Md.; never married.
- 7—Abraham Reed, b. May 25, 1774; m. Oct. 28, 1798, Elizabeth Brubaker; lived in Sparta, Buckingham Co., Va.
- 8—Isaac Reed, b. Nov. 5, 1775; d. July 26, 1847; m. Rebecca Prall; lived for a while in Kentucky; about 1812 went West with the Pralls.
- 9—Henry Reed, b. Nov. 25, 1780; d. Mar. 30, 1815; m. Elizabeth —; lived in Kentucky, Tennessee, and lastly in Ohio.
- 10—Benjamin Reed, b. Mar. 13, 1782; m. Polly Prall; lived in Illinois, then went West with the Pralls in 1812.

REEDS, RIETHS, RIEDS, RIEDT, RIT, RITT, Etc., OF BERKS COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

The Reeds from the Palatinate living at Livingston's Manor, New York, for the winter and summer of 1710-1711, were Peter Rieth, George Rieth and Johannes Leonhard Rieth.

The Reeds of the Tulpehocken Region, Berks and Lebanon Counties, for the year of 1723, were Peter Rieth, George Rieth and Johann Rieth.

These three Reeds, Peter, George and John Leonhard were believed to have been brothers, and were the ancestors of the numerous families of this name that have lived in the Tulpehocken region, in Berks and Lebanon Counties, from early colonial times.

Of these three brothers it is said that they left Europe (the Palatinate) early in the eighteenth century, and on their coming to America settled at Livingston Manor, in the Mohawk Valley, New York. After several years residence at this place, the annoyances and persecution of "land sharks" from whom the settlers had purchased lands, became unbearable, so that in despair and distress, the Reed brothers gathered together their earthly possessions and, jointly with friends and neighbors suffering the same discomforts, started southward on a most trying and hazardous trip, by land and water, and finally settled upon new lands in Penn's Colony, ("God's Country"), in what is now known as the Tulpehocken region, in Berks and Lebanon Counties. Thenceforward these families lived in peace and contentment and grew prosperous. Their descendants have become numerous, and the many places of that region bearing the Reed name pertain to these Reeds and their families.

In their new home in the province of Pennsylvania, the Reeds and their neighbors lived in peace, thrived and were conspicuous in all civic, colonial, religious, Revolutionary, general and local affairs. They were prosperous, owning the finest farms, and having large families of children. Their descendants multiplied and ramified throughout the length and breadth of our vast country, and engaged in all vocations of life. In fact, everything in the region bearing the Reed name shows this ambition, devotion, influence, liberality and all else tending to popularity, advancement and progress. Reed's Fort, Reed's Church, Reed's burial ground,* Reed's Mill, Reed's Inn, etc., are some of the reminders of this early enterprise, spirit, activity and influence.

The old Leonard Reed dwelling still stands. It is of colonial style, built of stone in 1723, and is largely now as it was when first erected by Leonard Reed. Mr. John Reed owns the ancient homestead, he being the eighth lineal descendant owning the farm and dwelling. Close to his old home stands the old Tulpehocken (Reed) Lutheran Church. Leonard Reed donated eight acres of land for the church in 1727. It stands on a small knoll and is alluded to in the following poetic lines, from the pen of Mr. L. A. Wollenweber:—

"Do droben uf dem runde Berg,
Do steht die alte Riethe-Kerch;
Drin hot der Parre Stoever schon
Vor hunnert Jahr manch Predigt thun;
Gepredigt zu de arme, deutsche Leit
In seller, ach! so harten Zeit.

Auch wor die Kerch'n gute Fort
Gegen der Indianer wilde Hort—
Un schliefen drin gar manche Nacht
Die arme Settlers wo hen bewacht."

English translation:

"Here in the Heavens on that round hill,
Here stands the old Reed Church.
Within has Pastor Stoever true,
A century ago many sermons preached.
He preached to the poor German people,
In that, oh! distressed time.

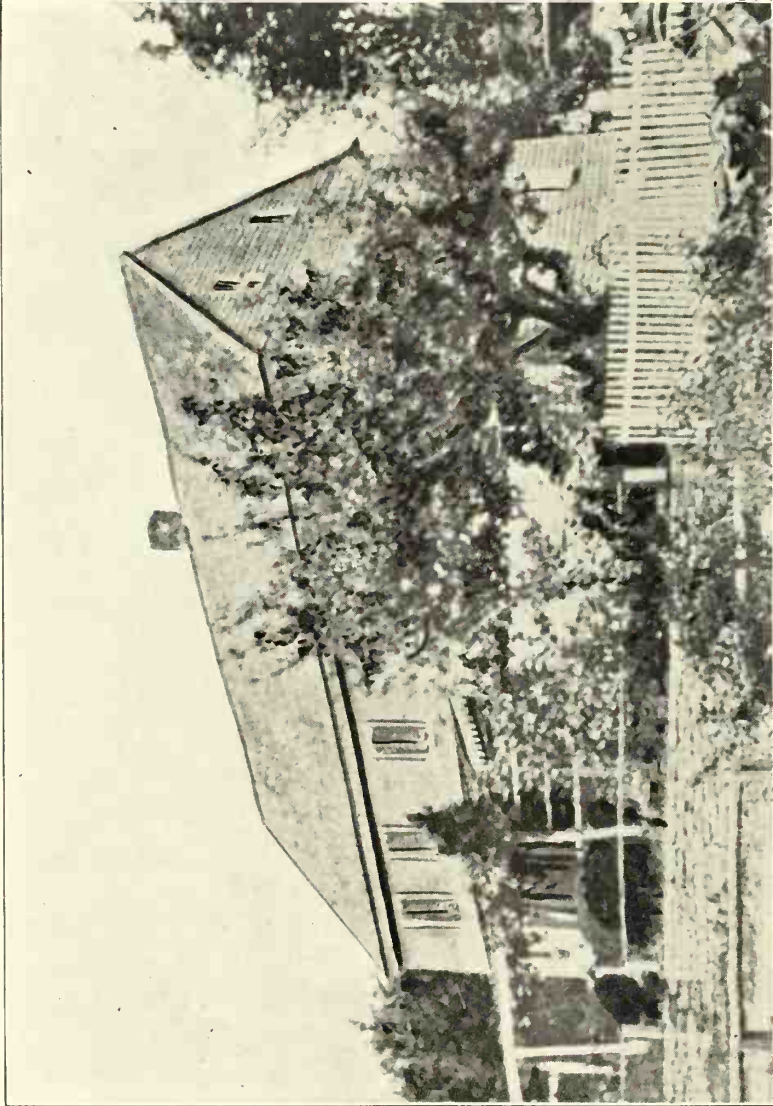

"Likewise was the church a good fort,
A refuge against the warring Indian;
And slept within the entire night,
The poor settlers on the watch."

THE JOHANN LEONARD RITH (REED) HOME IN TULPEHOCKEN

Built by him upon his coming to the Tulpehocken country in 1723. It still stands and is in a good state of preservation. It has been occupied continuously by no less than seven generations of the Reed family. It is believed that Johann Leonard Ried and our ancestor, Johann Philb Ried, were cousins.

JOHN LEONARD RITH* (RIED, RIEDT, RIETH, RIT, REED, Etc.)

Emigrated from the Palatinate, Germany, to America in 1710, and settled at Schoharie, New York State. Soon after many of these Livingston Manor colonists became dissatisfied from developed land troubles and migrated to the Tulpehocken region, in Berks County, Pennsylvania. John Leonard Reed was a leader in this German migration to Penn's colony, in 1722-1723. He was b. —, 1691, in Europe; d. —, 1747, in Marion Twp., Berks Co., Pa.; m. Lisa Catrina — (tradition says she was of Indian blood); eight children:—

X—1—John George Rith, b. —, 1714, in Schoharie, N. Y.; d. —, 1791, in Tulpehocken; m. Catrina Elizabeth —; farmed in Tulpehocken, and owned lands in Pine Twp., Schuylkill Co., Pa.; among his children were:—

1—Leonhardt, b. April 10, 1739, in Tulpehocken; d. Aug. 26, 1805, in Plain Twp., Schuylkill Co., Pa.; m. Dec. 20, 1768, Anna Maria, daugh. of George Peter and Christiana (Loucks) Zerby; b. April 25, 1748; d. Apr. 24, 1827, in Plains Twp.; farmers, who first farmed in Tulpehocken; then removed to lands that his father owned in Plains Twp., Schuylkill Co.; children:—

3—Christiana Barbara Rith, b. Oct. 6, 1751.

4—John Jacob Rith, b. Oct. 8, 1754.

5—Johannes Rith, b. Oct. 15, 1755; d. Dec. 26, 1827.

(Believed to have been other children born to them and now not known); farmers; it is said John George Rith removed from Tulpehocken to Pine Grove Twp., in 1748. From them descended many of the Reeds in and about Stouchsburg, Minnichs of Virginia, and other families.

X—2—John Nicholas Rith, b. June 4, 1716, in Schoharie, N. Y.; d. Jan. 7, 1788, in Marion Twp., Berks Co., Pa.; m. Maria Barbara, daugh. of Christopher Seibert; b. May 18, 1722; d. Oct. 14, 1807; farmers in the Tulpehocken region; bur. at the old Reed Church, near Stouchsburg; three children:—Jacob; and two daughters, one mar. Jacob Schaeffer, and the other mar. Jacob Auspach; from these descended the Brunners, Klines, etc.

X—3—John Frederic Rith, b. Mar. 15, 1718; d. Dec. 28, 1821; m. Maria Engle —; lived in the Tulpehocken region; bur. at the old Reed Church; farmers; said to have had a number of children; some of the descendants live in Royersford, Pa.

*"Johann Phillipp Rieth, b. 1698; d. 1783; m. Veronica Bercky; b. 1702; d. 1792.

"Johann Phillipp Rieth was a brother of Johann Leonard Rieth, b. 1691; d. 1747."—Blue Book of Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania, pg. 256, by Mrs. Ella Zerby Elliott (1916).

This statement of Mrs. Elliott that John Phillip Reed and John Leonard Reed were brothers, is, I believe, incorrect and misleading. It might be they were cousins—children of brothers—living in the Palatinate. I believe in Europe they were related, in what way, so far in my researches I have been unable to learn.

Mrs. Elliott's book gives much interesting information on the Reeds of Berks and adjacent counties.

For the story of "Leonhardt Rieth, a noted Penna.-German Pioneer," see Penna.-German Magazine, Vol. IV, pg. 253.

- X—4—Maria Margaret Rith, b. —; m. Heinrich Zeller; farmer; an early settler of the Tulpehocken region, going there in 1723; owned a farm of more than two hundred acres; his first home was of logs, near Mill Creek, and the early settlers used it as a place of worship before any church was built. Historically otherwise it became a noted place, for there it was that Heinrich Zeller and wife, in 1745, erected a house of heavy stone walls over a spring of water and used it as a "fort"—a place of security of refuge against the marauding Indian. Popularly the place became known as "Zeller's Fort," and in colonial times, during the Indian and French Wars, it gained for itself an enviable reputation as a place of safety and protection. Many are the preserved traditions or stories incident to this home during this period of our country's history, in the turbulent times in and about this neighborhood. The building still stands, well preserved for a house so aged, but it is no more used as a dwelling place by the owner, but is retained and preserved for other purposes, and its association and traditions.
- X—5—Leonhart Rith, b. Sept. 10, 1723, in Schoharie, N. Y.; d. April 28, 1801; m. Elizabeth Knoll; b. June 10, 1729; d. Aug. 11, 1797; farmer; resided in Tulpehocken; bur. at the old Reed's Ch. Burial Grd.; nine children; from these descended the Browns, Scholls, Lechners, Burkholders, Snyders, Royers, etc., of Berks and Lebanon Counties.
- X—6—Peter Rith, b. —; m. Catharine Ziegler, Apr. 28, 1751; he lived at the old Reed homestead of Tulpehocken; said to have had children.
- X—7—Jacob Rieth, b. June 10, 1746; d. March 28, 1821; m. Margaret —; said to have had a family of children.
- 8—Wilhelmina Rith; possibly d. young.

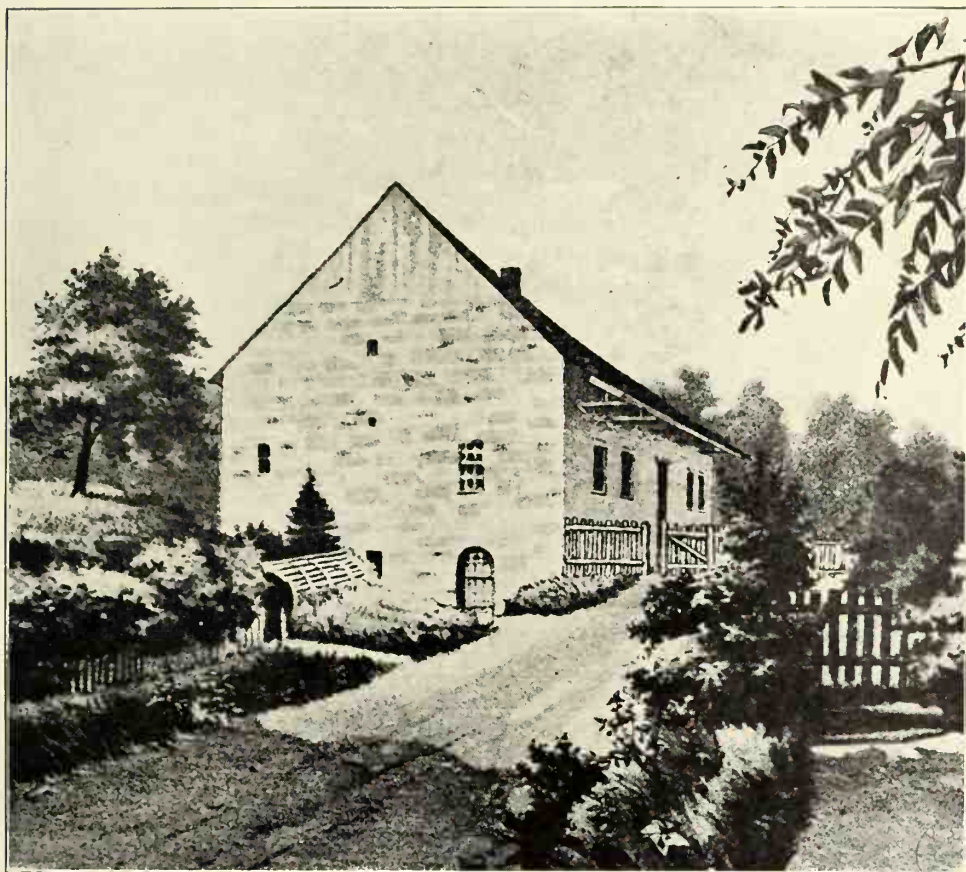

John Leonard Rith was a farmer and miller in Tulpehocken, and there owned one thousand acres of land on Tulpehocken and Mill Creeks, near the present village of Stouchsburg. His farm land was of excellent quality, and the creeks divided the plantation. There on Mill Creek he erected a flour and grist mill. He died a comparatively young man. His death was sudden and rather tragic in character, for his lifeless body was found in the tail race of his mill.

He donated eight acres of his farm for the first church and burial ground west of the Schuylkill River in the Lebanon Valley. The first church building was of logs, and it and its succeeding buildings were known as "The Old Reed (Lutheran) Church, of the Tulpehocken Valley." The fourth Reed church edifice no longer stands on the original site donated by the elder Reed for this purpose, but the place still remains the old "Reed" Cemetery, and is kept in order. Here are found buried many Reeds, especially the older members of the family. The cemetery is nicely situated on sloping ground, and near the Tulpehocken Creek, about a mile distant from the village of Stouchsburg.

The original tract of 1000 acres, consisting of the old Reed plantation, no more exists intact, for in time it was divided into many farms and homesteads. The original John Leonard Rith home still stands, well preserved, with its numerous acres. It is owned by a lineal descendant, one John Reed, of Stouchsburg.

Hereabouts were favorite haunts of the Indian. On the banks of Tulpehocken and Mill Creeks, beautiful streams of water, were their choice camping grounds. The elevated grounds forming the banks of the streams have been fairly littered with Indian trophies, for they have been garnered there in great numbers. The collection of such relics gathered by John Reed, of Stouchsburg, is much admired by the visitor, for they were all found on the old Reed homestead, which makes them doubly interesting and causes them to be treasured by their owner.

The Reed family of the Tulpehocken region in the colonial and Revolutionary days were notable figures. They always stood foremost in the formation and development of this most beautiful country of ours. They took an active part in the Indian and French Wars and the records show they were foremost for the cause of the colonies in the American Revolution.

Walker Lewis Stephen, a druggist of the city of Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania, is a lineal descendant of the early Reeds of the Tulpehocken region, and gives me his line of ancestry, as follows:—

- |            |  |
|------------|--|
| Generation | I—Johannes Hamalas Ritt, with two brothers, came from Schoharie (Livingston Manor), in 1720. |
| "          | II—Johann Leonard Rieth.   |
| "          | III—Michael Rieth.   |

- Generation IV—Casper Rieth.
 “ V—John Casper Rieth.
 “ VI—Michael Rieth (Reed).
 “ VII—Amanda Elizabeth Reed; m. John Stephen.
 “ VIII—Walker Reed Stephen.
 “ X—Sarah Jane Stephen.

“To write a history and genealogy alone of the Reeds of Berks County, Pennsylvania, means a great task, and to have the lineage and history anywhere complete would run into many volumes,” writes Walker Lewis Stephen. In Mr. Stephen’s line alone, his daughter is of the tenth generation. As most of the families were large, the present-day ramifications, would run into many thousands.

---

Much of the following collated material, bearing on the Berks County Reeds, Ritts, Rieths, Rieds, etc., is gleaned from manuscript, garnered by Mrs. Elizabeth Walling, of Chicago, Illinois. She gathered this material while seeking information of the family of her ancestor, John Reed, Ried, Rieth, etc., who during the American Revolution, was an innkeeper at Trappe, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. I give this as given to me by her, with a few additions and corrections. Possibly much of this information she garnered from the paper on the “Rieth (Reed) Family,” printed in The Penna.-German, Vols. 5 and 6, pg. 90, by M. A. Gruber.

MICHAEL REED (RITH).

Died in Tulpehocken Twp., Berks Co., Pa., left a will dated March 15, 1754, and proved Oct. 11, 1754. He mentions his wife “Maria Barbara,” and the following children:—

- 1—John Casper Rith, to his eldest son he gives a tract of 150 acres of land in Swatara Twp., Berks Co., Pa.
- 2—John Michael Rith } gives equal shares in the homestead with
- 3—Daniel Rith } 202 acres of land.
- X—4—Anna Catharine Rith, m. Jacob Katerman.
- X—5—Margaret Rith (deceased); m. ——— Emrich; children:—(1)—Andrew;
 (2)—Katherine; (3)—Elizabeth.
- X—6—Anna Maria Rith, m. ——— Rosin.
- X—7—Anna Magdalena Rith, m. ——— Heffner.
- X—8—Elizabeth Rith, m. ——— Deis.
- X—9—Maria Rith, m. ——— Nicholas Schwingle (Schengel).
- X—10—Christiana Rith.

DANIEL REED (RITH)

Son of Michael Reed. He was b. Feb. 25, 1735; d. June 14, 1797; will dated March 20, 1797; leaves a wife and the following children:—

- |                    |                   |
|--------------------|-------------------|
| 1—Christian Reed.  | 5—Elizabeth Reed. |
| 2—Daniel Reed, Jr. | 6—Barbara Reed.   |
| 3—John Reed.       | 7—Maria Reed.     |
| 4—Catharine Reed.  | 8—Lydia Reed.     |

ADAM RITH (REED).

Lived in Amity Twp., Berks County, Penna. He made a will dated April 7, 1759, was proved Aug. 18, 1759, in which he mentions his wife "Barbara," and five children:—

- X—1—Anna Elizabeth Rith, wife of ——— Souder.
  - X—2—Catharine Rith, wife of ——— Engers.
  - X—3—Elizabeth Rith, wife of ——— Metz.
  - 4—Barbara Ann Rith.
  - X—5—Mary Rith, wife of ——— Bocher.

MICHAEL REED (RIETH).

Died in Bethel Twp., Berks Co., Penna. He made a will dated Nov. 23, 1806, which was proved Nov. 16, 1810. In it he says "he was sick and soon expecting to die." As his wife is not named, it is presumed she had previously died; five children are mentioned:—

- X—1—Michael Rith, now deceased, leaving the following issue:—(1)—Catharine, wife of Christian Michael; (2)—John; (3)—William; (4)—Michael; (5)—Magdalena; (6)—Ludwick; (7)—Mary.
  - 2—Henry Rith.
  - 3—William Rith.
  - X—4—Catharine Rith, wife of John Emrich.

CASPER REED (RIETH)

He lived and died in Tulpehocken Twp., Berks Co., Pa. He died Sept. —, 1788, leaving a will; wife's name not given, but names the following children:—

- 1—John George Reed.*
- 2—Michael Reed.
- X—3—Elizabeth Catharine Reed, m. (1st), Herman Bagdorf; issue:—(1) Michael; (2)—David; (3)—Philip; (4)—Casper.
- Elizabeth Catharine (Reed) Bagdorf, m. (2nd), John George Gall.
- 4—Philip Frederick Reed; removed to Virginia.
- X—5—Mary Margaret Reed, m. George Gebbard.
- 6—John Casper Reed.
- X—7—A daughter; m. Adam Emrich.
- 8—Mary Barbara Reed.
- 9—Christian Reed.

A Casper Riedt and Anna Schaeffer were married, Aug. 12, 1754, at Atolhoe (Rehrersberg), Berks Co., Pa., by the Rev. John Casper Stoecker. Possibly he was the above Casper Reed.

CAPTAIN JOHN REED, RIED, RIEDT, Etc.

I copy from a letter of Mrs. Willoughby Walling, dated Chicago, Ill., May 21, 1927. It pertains to her husband's family of Reeds, and is of such interest that I give it in toto:—

*"It was this John George Ried that married Dorothea Roehrer, at Atolhoe, Feb. 5, 1759, who was my husband's great-great-grandfather," writes Mrs. Willoughby Walling, of Chicago, Ill.

"The Rieths, Rieds, etc., translated Reed, in America, were of an old Alsatian baronial family that, on account of war and religion, went to the vicinity of Mannheim (Palatinate). Three brothers:—John Leonard, b. 1691; d. 1747; Michael, d. 1754; and Adam—came to New York in the spring of 1710, with other Palatines, and lived for a time in Livingston Manor and Schoharie. They were unkindly treated by Governor Hunter, and in the winter of 1723, John Leonard led a colony to Pennsylvania, where they settled on Tulpehocken and Millbach Creeks, and built the Reed Church, Reed Mill, etc.

"Michael, m. Barbara ———, and had John Casper, who d. 1788, leaving wife Barbara and son George, b. 1729, in Berks Co.; d. 1790, in Frederick Co., Md. This John George, m. Feb. 5, 1759, at Atolhoe (now Rehrrersberg), Dorothy, daugh. of John and Barbara Roehrer, of Lebanon, Penna.; she was b. 1739; d. 1794. John Reed was a farmer in Perkiomen and Skippack Twp., Philada. Co. (now Montgomery) Co., and removed to Trappe about 1774. He owned 250 acres in Providence Township, in 1776. Three of his children were baptized at Wentz's Reformed Church.

"John Reed was Naval Commissary, Barrack Master and clerk of the check at Fort Island (Fort Mifflin), during the Revolution. After the war he removed to Frederick County, Md., where he owned land, farmed and died, aged 67. He had ten children. His daughter Susan, m. May 29, 1787, Capt. John Walling, etc. * * * My husband, Dr. Willoughby Walling, b. 1848, is a great-great-grandson. * * *

PHILIP REED

Under the caption of "Our Revolutionary Sires," I copy from The Perkiomen Region, Vol. I, pg. 64:—

"General Philip Reed died at his residence in Kent County, Maryland, December 12, 1829—Norristown (Pennsylvania) Free Press.

"General Reed was Colonel of the 86th Regiment, Pennsylvania Militia, in 1808. The 86th Regiment at the time was composed of the enrolled militia within the bounds of Pottsgrove, Douglass, New Hanover, Limerick, Frederick, Upper Hanover, Marlborough, Upper Salford, Franconia [Townships]. The first five formed the First Battalion, and their usual place for drill was at the [public] house of Henry Krebs, New Hanover; the latter formed the Second Battalion, and frequently met for parade in Sumneytown [Pennsylvania]."

*The above news item was contributed to The Perkiomen Region, by State Senator Jones Detwiler, he being at the time one of Montgomery County's foremost local historians. He is in error in the statement that General Philip Reed, of Kent County, Maryland, was the Colonel of the 86th Regiment of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania Militia. He has confused a United States Senator of Kent County, Md., with a Colonel Philip Reed, an Assemblyman of Montgomery County, Penn.—Vol. I, pg. 64.

Colonel Philip Reed, United States Senator, was born (about) 1760, in Kent County, Maryland; d. Nov. 2, 1829, in Kent County. He received an academical education and served as a Captain in the Revolutionary Army. Afterwards he was elected a U. S. Senator and held his seat from December 29, 1806, to March 3, 1813. Upon his return home he commanded as Colonel of Militia the Regiment of Home Guards that met and defeated a surprise British force, at Moorefields, Md., August 30, 1814. Colonel Reed was, after the war, elected to serve in the Fifteenth and Seventeenth Congress.

Colonel Philip Reed's ancestor, John Reed, came from London to America in 1725, and settled in Alexandria, District of Columbia. He married Nancy Sebastian, Spanish lady and a sister of the Hon. Benjamin Sebastian, formerly Governor of Louisiana. John A. and Nancy (Sebastian) Reed had issue, six children:—

- 1—John Reed, m. Miss Foster; was a distinguished lawyer in Tennessee.
- 2—Benjamin Reed, m.; settled in Ohio, and finally moved to Philadelphia, Pa.; they had a family of children.
- 3—Philip Reed, m. Anna Adgeloth, daugh. of Capt. Adgeloth, of French extraction; settled in Kent County, Md. (subject of this sketch); children:—(1)—Edward, a distinguished lawyer of Kent County, Md.; (2)—Henry; (3)—William; (4)—George; (5)—John; (6)—Burgan; (7)—Joseph; (8)—Philip.
- 4—Heusby Reed, m. Charlotte Kirk; lived in Kentucky; children:—(1)—Lewis; (2)—John; (3)—Heusby; (4)—Philip; (5)—William; (6)—Lucretia; (7)—Nancy; (8)—Charlotte; 9—Sally; (10)—Rachel; (11)—Mary.
- 5—Nancy Reed, m. a Southerner; live in Virginia.
- 6—Rachel Reed, m. — Levins; he moved to Louisville, Ky., in 1791; was a merchant tailor.

Jacob Van Reed, son of Henry Van Reed, b. Mar. 15, 1758; d. Jan. —, 1839.

These two Van Reeds are bur. at St. Paul's Ch., Amityville, Berks Co., Pa.

HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA,

February 25, 1876.

To all whom it may Concern:

The bearer Willoughby Reed is well and personally known to me as a young man of good habits, industry, and integrity, and with more than ordinary intelligence and energy.

I believe him worthy of Confidence, and would trust him in any capacity.

PAPER FIRST

Johann Philib Ried Joins in a Petition for a Road in 1727-1728.

As a pioneer Philip Reed first located lands for settlement in Salford Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, and the road as asked for must have reached the part of this township near his new home. The road in the recital of the petition to the court, extended from the upper part of Gwynedd Township, by the Baptist Meeting House (near Mainland), Garrett Clement's Mill, and to a branch of the Perkiomen Creek, "some six or seven miles in length." This road as then laid out must have been what is now the Springhouse and Sumneytown turnpike, terminating somewhere beyond Branch Creek, north of Harleysville, in Lower Salford Township. By date of the instrument of writing Philip Reed signed the petition immediately or very soon after his arrival in America.

At this early period of settlement this section of Montgomery (then Philadelphia) County was all woods or wild lands. As the coming settlers had no way of reaching the settlements except over paths of wild animals or Indian trails, an open road to them was of a great necessity, and the courts were petitioned for relief.

In 1727 Salford Township had almost unlimited boundaries, and in its domain included Upper and Lower Salford, Marlborough and other townships.

Will of Feronica (Veronica) Reed.

“In the name of God, Amen!

“As I Feronica Riet, as relict widow of Philip Riet, late of Marlborough Township, in the County of Montgomery, in the State of Pennsylvania, yeoman, deceased, find myself in an advanced age, and in a very weak condition of health, but of sound mind, Understanding and Memory, Thanks be to God, and having considered my circumstances and the care and Attendance, So necessary for my Maintenance, which has already been done, and is yet doing for me, by my Youngest son Andrew Riet, and by all his family, in the best Manner possible, to my full Satisfaction, So do I, on this Twenty-fourth Day of December, in the Year of our Lord, One Thousand and Seven Hundred and Ninety, Make, publish and ordain, This my Last Will and Testament; and first of all I recommend my Soul into the Hands of Almighty God That gave it, and what relates the few Articles of Temporal Estate yet under my hands. I desire to be observed, That my above named husband, Philip Riet, in and by his last Will and Testament, dated on the Eighteenth Day of August, Anno, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty Three, had ordained, That our above Son Andrew Riet, to whom he had before that, Sold and Conveyed his Plantation and Lands, Should Keep, of that Consideration the Sum of Two Hundred Pounds, of Good Lawful Money of Pennsylvania, in his hands during my Life Time, in Order and with Intent, That he should have the same in his Use, For his providing me with all the necessary Articles for my Yearly Support and Subsistance during all my Life Time. But whereas, without my Knowledge and Consent, and quite contrary to the True Sense and Meaning of my Said Husband's last Will or Testament. Our other Children insisted on and persuaded our Said Son Andrew, to pay to each of them his Share of the Said Two Hundred Pounds several years ago. So that the same accordingly with the other Estate was all divided by and amongst all our Children, Though with a Promise, That they would assist and contribute always toward my Support and Subsistance, as would be reasonable, which however till now they have entirely neglected to do. In consideration whereof, I do hereby give and bequeath to the Children of my Said Son Andrew Riet, The following Articles and Books of my Estate. As to my Grandson Philip Riet, my Pendulum Clock and Widder's Sermon Book; and to my Grand Daughter Margrath my Book called Arndt's true Christianity, and also Three Pewter Dishes and Three Plates, and Two Bed Sheets, and one Table Cloth; and also to my Younger Three grand Sons, as to Andrew Riet, My folio Bible, and to John Riet my two Song Books with two smaller Books, and to Michael Riet, my Prayer Book, called Zollikoffer's with Three Smaller Books, To hold the same to them, their heirs and assigns forever. And further I give and bequeath to my above named Son Andrew Riet, his heirs and assigns, a certain Debt due to me by Ludwig Hirsh, by a Bond or Note, (Now in the Hands of my eldest Son Jacob Riet), amounting to Fourteen Pounds in Cash, Principal as also with the Interest yet due thereon; to be demanded, got, and received by my said Son Andrew Riet or by his Heirs or Assigns, according to the true Intent and Meaning hereof. The will of Feronica Riet (Reed) is in the handwriting of David Schultz, who was a near neighbor, farmer, Justice of the Peace, surveyor, conveyancer and scrivener. He lived in Upper Hanover Township, and in his day was the leading confidential medium in all such business matters of the community. His field of work covered not only north-western Philadelphia (Montgomery) County, but extended far into the interior of Bucks and Northampton Counties, as well as elsewhere. He had a wide reputation among all for ability, honesty and sincerity, and his line of work was enormous.

Nicholas Korndorfer, the first witness to the will, was by occupation a schoolmaster. He was a great friend of the Reed family, lived nearby and assisted them in many useful ways. To Andrew Reed and his family he gave invaluable service, in instructing the children in their schooling, and rendering clerical aid and assistance in Andrew Reed's many vocations.

Michael Reiter, the other witness, was a friend and near neighbor of the family. By occupation he was a farmer, and both families were active church people.

Records show that Andrew Maurer, the executor, was a great friend of the family, a near neighbor and a member of the same church. He, too, was a farmer, and owned a fine farm just across the township border, from the Reeds, in Upper Hanover Township. His daughter Margaret, but a short time subsequently, married Esquire Philip Reed, a son of Andrew Reed and a grandson of Veronica Reed.

PAPER C

Letters from Philip Reed, Waynesboro, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, to his Son, Michael Reed, Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pennsylvania. (Original in German):—

These letters are interesting and are from parent to son, when the latter, in early life, was meeting life's struggles for supremacy. Just coming to Schellsburg and having money due him from his former home, he writes his father for its collection. Because of the distressed times the country was then experiencing, the parent's efforts at collection were difficult. The letter speaks for itself:—

"Franklin County, Feb. 3, 1815.

"A friendly greeting to you all. I let you know by these few lines that we are all well, and trust these few lines will find you the same. The reason I did not send you the money by the last post was that I had a chance to send it through an acquaintance, but since the snow fell, he did not go. The snow is two feet deep.

"I have twenty-four dollars from ———, and one dollar what is coming to you yet I will have to make up myself, because he cannot collect it from them. Further I have nothing to write at this time; so much from your father and mother.

"Philip Rieth.

"To Michael Rieth."

The folded sheet of paper, sealed with wax (no envelopes being used in those days), is addressed thus:—

"Mr. Michael Reed,

"Schellsburg, Bedford County, Penna."

It is stamped, "Waynesburg, 3d Febr. '15."

Upper:—EARLY LEIDY HOME IN FRANCONIA

The middle portion of the house is built of logs, now plastered, and was erected by them about the middle of the eighteenth century.

Lower:—LEIDY TANNERY

Built by Jacob Leidy in 1788; enlarged by Samuel Leidy in 1818; rebuilt by Jonas Leidy in 1877; the building no more remains.

The second letter is written four years later. Stringent times still were prevalent all over the country, and this letter is in reply to an appeal made by the son to the father for the loan of money to be used in his business ventures in Schellsburg. It reads:—

“April 15, 1819.

“A friendly greeting to you all. I received your letter of the 30th, and we are all well and I hope these few lines may find you the same. You wrote about the money. I am very sorry I cannot help you at present. I cannot collect my money, do what I please. I have not paid all my installment yet, and this must be paid next week. I wish you would ask your friends to help you for the present, for I will help you as soon as I can.

“We have had the hardest times I have ever seen. If times do not improve half our country will be bankrupt. I count myself as able as any but I cannot help or I would have helped you. You must not be discouraged, times will improve again. There is many dollars worth of flour in the mills, but people cannot send for it as the prices are. So much from your faithful father and mother.

“Philipp Reed.

“To Michael Rieth.”

The address on the folded sheet of paper, sealed with wax, reads:—

“Schellsburg, “Bedford County, Penna.

“Waynesburg,

PAPER D

Note on the Leidy Family of Franconia.

SIGNATURE OF JACOB LEIDY

Copied from the immigration records, dated Oct. 2, 1727.

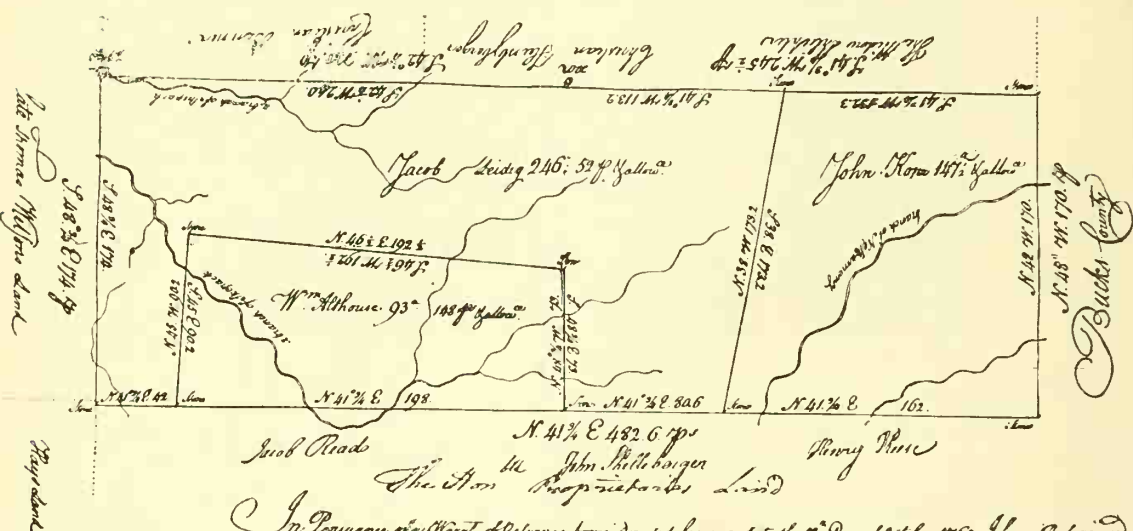

In “A Brief History of Indian Creek Reformed Church,” written by its late pastor, the Rev. Jacob Keim, D. D., and printed some years back in The Reformed Church Messenger, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, edited and published by the late Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D., appears this footnote:—

“Jacob Lydie (now written Leidy), was the maternal grandfather of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Reed Fisher, his name appearing on the Colonial Records, under date of Oct. 2, 1727.”*

Eve Reed Fisher, Dr. Fisher’s mother, was the youngest daughter of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob and Magdalena (Leidy) Reed, and Magdalena (Leidy) Reed—Dr. Fisher’s grandmother—was a daughter of the immigrant, Jacob Leidy, probably his youngest child. From this written statement of Dr. Fisher, I accept it as a fact that this Jacob Leidy, arriving with his family, and qualifying at Philadelphia on October 2, 1727, was none other than the parent of Magdalena (Leidy) Reed and the progenitor of the Leidy family of America, who became a resident of Franconia Township.

A Jacob (misspelled Jacel) Leidy, joins in a petition of members of the Skippack Reformed Church, addressed to the Classis of Amsterdam, Holland, under place and date of "Schibach, May 10, 1730."* This I believe to be our Jacob Leidy, father of Magdalena Leidy, who was the wife of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed. A close relationship appears to have existed between the two families, they attending the same church, and, I believe, if the facts were known, hailed from the same locality in Germany.

In Pursuance of a Warrant of Survey to me directed bearing date the 12th Day of October 1769 I have Re-surveyed the 10th and 11th Days of Novem<sup>r</sup>. 1770 the land of Jacob Leidy, William Althouse, & John Hope & find them to be situate in the Township of Franconia in the County of Philadelphia & limited & bounded as above directed and on Partition & Division thereof I find the part belonging to Jacob Leidy to contain Two hundred & forty six acres & fifty two perches & allow<sup>d</sup> of his acres of The part of W<sup>m</sup>. Althouse to contain Ninety three acres 148 fathoms Yellow of 6th & the part of John Hope to contain One hundred & forty seven acres & a half Yellow of 6th —

DRAUGHT OF LANDS OF JACOB LEIDY

In Franconia Twp., Philadelphia Co., Pa., adjoining lands of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed and others.

The searches of the numerous church, state, county, township and other records for information bearing on this early family of Franconia Township, lead me to the belief that this paternal ancestor died when but a middle-aged man. From these sources nothing of this could be gleaned. Some old graves in the Leidy Cemetery are marked with aged fieldstones, but nothing definite can be got from these. One has the inscription, "J. H. L., 1781," another has "Hana Lidi, 1778." And still another is marked "Elizabeth Leidisin, Oct. 15, 1765." (Next page their reproduction).**

**For a more detailed history of the Leidy Family, see Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, Dedication of Monument, Erected to His Memory, in Franconia Township, Pennsylvania, by Dr. W. H. Reed, pg. 87.

Jacob Leidy, Sr., as Early as 1739, Joins in a Petition for a Road.

A petition for a new road in Franconia Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, from the inhabitants of, in and about said township, was presented to the Court of Quarter Sessions, at Philadelphia, in 1739. Among those who joined in the petition was Jacob Leidy, Sr., and his son Paul Leidy, the latter then buying a plantation in Hatfield Township which abuts Franconia Township. The petition recites:—

“That ye s'd Peter Myer is owner of a Mill, situate on the North Branch of Perkyomink Creek in this County, which has been built several years since, and is very well accustomed & useful to the Country several miles around.

“Ye s'd Pet'rs further shew that there is great Occasion for a Road to be laid out from the said Mill to the King's Highway called the Montgomery (Township) Road, near the Plantation of one Griffith Hugh, being about eight Miles from ye s'd Mill, which Road (if laid out), will be of great advantage, not only to the Inhabitants near the s'd Road for the convenience going to the s'd Mill & many other Occasions but to travellers as well as themselves to go to & come up to Philad'a.” * * *

ANCIENT LEIDY BURIALS

(Pen drawing)

From the old Leidy Burial Ground, in Franconia Twp., Montg. Co., Pa. Possibly these are of the first Leidys in America, arriving here in the ship “Adventurer,” Oct. 2, 1727, and probably the parents of Magdalena (Leidy) Reed.

The inhabitants along the route of the new road as laid out by the road jury, became dissatisfied, and at the March term of Court, in 1744-1745, joined in a petition for relief, and asked for a change of location of route. The petition reads:—

“Whereas, the Honorable Court of Quarter Sessions held for the County in September last, Did Grant and Order, to Lay out a Road from the line Dividing ye Counties of Philada. & Bucks, (beginning at a Corner of Richard Thomas's Land), to ye Road Leading from George Myer's Mill to ye Great Road (Allentown) Leading to Philada, which was accordingly Laid out, which Road is very Detrimental to many of ye Inhabitants, Chiefly to Joost (Yost) Cope, John Shelenberger & Jacob Leydy, whose Plantations it breaks very incommodiously too, ye Ground also being very mirie & bad, your Petitioners therefore pray that ye said Road, (which is not Confirm at yet), May be Dropt.” * * *

Among the reasons advanced in this petition why not to lay out the road as recommended by the jury, was:—“that a Road on the County Line will be on better Ground. * * * and better for Travellers & not be charged to our Little poor Township.” * * * “it would not answer ye occasion of many of the Inhabitants of Hilltown and Hatfield” (townships), * * * “because a Road by ye County Line will be Serviceable in Leading to the Place of Worship by ye Philada. Road in Montgomery (Township) unto which many of ye Inhabitants Belong & Constantly frequent." * * *

Later on, at the December, 1744, Court of Quarter Sessions, in Philadelphia, another petition was presented to the Court, opposing the first road as recommended by the road jury and advising the location of a new road. Among the signers to this petition was Jacob Luydi (Jacob Leidy, Sr.) and Jacob leidi (Jacob Leidy, Jr.), and their neighbors and abutting land owners, John Cope, George Althouse and others. The petition as presented is quite interesting and I copy it in full with name of petitioners, and all spelled as written:—

No. 153—D—308

"Court of Quarter Sessions in Philadelphia, Pa.

Petition of Jost Cope asking court to appoint persons to review road, in Franconia Township, as laid out by a previous jury. December Sessions, 1744.
Franconia—1744

"To the Worshipful the Justices of the Court of General Sessions of the Peace of Philadelphia County.

"The humble Petition of Jost Cope of Franconia Township in the s'd County Farmer. Sheweth:

"That Certain Viewers appointed by this Court for that purpose have since last September Court Viewed and laid out s'd Road. Beginning in Franconia Township at the line which divides this County from the County of Bucks, and running thence into the Road called North Wales Road.

"That the new Road as it is laid out will be greatly detrimental to Yo'r Pet'r as it runs thro' the middle of his cleared land in his Plantation & thro' his meadow.

"That there is no real Occasion for the s'd Road; but if there be a necessity of a Road to serve the purpose for which the s'd New Road is intended, it may be laid out as commodiously or more so without so much injuring yo's Pet'rs or any body else—and your Petitioner humbly apprehends that as there is a Road along the County Line, that if that Road was laid out by Order of this Court not oblige the Inhabitants to keep it in Repair it would be more convenient than the s'd New Road for the same purposes.

"Yo'r Pet'rs therefore Prays that a review may be appointed for the laying of a Road more conveniently if s'd Pet'rs for the same shall insist on having a New Road.

"And yo'r Pet'rs will Pray, etc.

"We the subscribers Certify to y'rs Hon'rs that the contents of the above Petition are true:—

BAPTISMAL CERTIFICATE OF MICHAEL H. REED

Dated January 10, 1810. The Rev. George Wack, the officiating clergyman, was the lad's cousin, and at the time he was pastor of the Reformed Church at Hilltown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

PAPER E

The Family Record of Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed.

Jacob Reed originally started the record of his family on the fly leaf of a copy of Johann Philipp Widder's Book of Sermons, which was printed in Germany in 1747. The entries are in German, and are written by himself. Not many years passed before he learned that space in this book was too small for his growing family. He then obtained a huge Bible and continued the record in that book. Both of the books are in my possession. The record as entered here, reads:—

"On May 20, 1755, is Jacob Riedt and Magdalena Leidisin [Leidy] married.

"To Jesus my Master I owe this debt.

"1756, October 2, is my first son born, was given in holy baptism, named 'Filip' [Philip]; baptized by M. [Mister] Reiss; godparents, Phillipp and Fronica [Veronica] Riedt [grandparents].

"1756, April 29, is my second son born, was given in holy baptism, named 'Johann Jacob,' baptized by [name not legible]; godparents, Jacob Leidi ([Leidy] and wife Barbara [child's uncle and aunt].

"He, Johann Jacob [the child] lived with us four weeks only."

On the opposite page we find this entry:—

"Philip Riedt died on the 19th day of June, 1819, his age was 62 years, 8 mos. 2 weeks and 3 days."

The record now continues in a huge family Bible. The book is printed in German, by August de La Carriëie, and was bound in leather over board, artistically decorated, by ——— Drechler, Carlos-Rhue, Germany, in 1748. Written on the inside of the first page cover, we read:—

"On December 31, 1757, have I Jacob Riedt, bought this Bible at a public vendue, paying for it 27 shillings and six pence." (Signed) Jacob Reed.

Then follow these interesting entries:—

"1783, Sept. 3, Phillipp Riedt, my father, died. His funeral text, Johannes II Chapt., verses 25:26. Aged 85 years, 7 mos., 9 days.

"1792, December 13, my mother Fronica Riedtin, died, aged 90 years, 10 months; born a Berckýsin, in Switzerland, in the Canton of Berne. Her funeral text, Isaiah, 28 chapt., ver. 1."

The first page or fly leaf, is missing, evidently having been torn out, for what reason I do not know. On the inside of the cover, the back of the book, is written:—

"This book belongs to Jacob Riedt."

In the back of the book on the fly leaf, in the handwriting of Jacob Reed, continues the record of the remainder of his children:—

"1759, August 4, 'Anna Margaret,' [Anna Margretha], my first daughter was born; baptized by [Rev.] Mister Reiss; sponsors, Margreta Leidisin, [Margretha Leidy], [an aunt of the child].

"1762, March 28th, 'Johann Jacob' [John Jacob], my third son was born; baptized by [Rev.] M. [Mister] Reiss; sponsors, Andreas Rieth and wife Anna Maria. [uncle and aunt of the child].

"1764, December 8, 'Anna Elisabet,' [Anna Elizabeth], my second daughter was born, baptized by [Rev.] M. [Mister] Reiss; sponsor, Elizabet Shellenbergin, [Elizabeth Shellenberger].

"1767, June 17, 'Johannis' [John], my fourth son was born, baptized by [not legible]; sponsors, Johannes Eberhard and wife Elizabeth [Reed], [uncle and aunt].

"1770, January 10, 'Cadarina' [Catharina], my third daughter is born; baptized by [not legible]; sponsors, Michael Hartzell and wife Cadarina.

"1775, August 6, 'Magdalena' [Magdalene], my fourth daughter is born; baptized by [Rev. Casper] M. [Mister] Wack; sponsors, Carl Lidi and wife Urshel [Charles Leidy and Ursula, uncle and aunt of the child].

"1778, June 6, 'Anna Eva' [Anna Eve], my fifth daughter was born; baptized by [Rev. Casper] M. [Mister] Wack; [not legible] Shellenberger and wife [Anna Eva].

"1781, May 15, 'Andreas' [Andrew], my sixth son is born; baptized by [Rev. Casper] M. [Mister] Wack; sponsors, Andreas Riedt and wife Anna Maria. [Andrew Reed and wife Anna Mary, uncle and aunt of the child]."

The family entries in both books as numbered by the parents make eleven children, but only ten names are given by him.* I am led to believe if there was a sixth son, he died young and unnamed. Andrew, the last son entered, is numbered "sixth." All words in brackets were added by the writer, that the meaning of the entries might be better understood.

I do not know whether Pastor Reiss should be titled Reverend. It appears he was a schoolmaster only who at the time was acting in the capacity of an officiating clergyman. This was often done at that period of our early history in church work due to a scarcity of ordained ministers at all times when needed. The Rev. Casper Wack was a regularly ordained minister of the gospel, and at the time of the baptisms was the regular pastor at the Indian Creek Reformed Church.

Depreciation of Pennsylvania Currency of the American Revolution, a Hardship to the State's soldiers. Lieutenant Colonel Reed and other Militia Officers join in a Petition for Relief.

The pay and perquisites of a militia officer of the State of Pennsylvania were much less than those of an officer of the same rank in the Continental army. At this time of the war (1778-1779), this discrimination was so unjust and worked such a hardship to these militia officers that upon their arrival home from Convention troop duty a number of them joined in a petition for relief to the State authorities.

So just was this complaint that General Washington became interested and interceded in their behalf. His appeal had its effect, for after some delay and discussion, the desired relief was forthcoming. The petition reads thus:—

"To the Honorable the Supreme Executive Council of the State of Pennsylvania.

"The petition of the Officers of the Second Battalion of Philadelphia County Militia, that marched to Maryland as a guard to the Convention Troops,

Humbly Sheweth.

"That your petitioners by reason of very extraordinary high prices of every necessary of life, have been under the necessity of expending large sums of money over and above their pay.

"That your petitioners have been informed that the Continental Officers on the same command have been allowed something handsome for their expenses

A letter of Jacob Reed, of Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio, to his brother, Andrew Reed, of Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

"Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio,
"May 27, 1834.

"God Greet you: To you much Beloved

Brother and Sister-in-Law. To all your Children. To all of our sisters, and the Children of Philip and Elizabeth:—

"I take this opportunity to write a few lines to you. As regards to ourselves, we are all well, as yet, (as God be Praised), reasonably well, and alive as long as God will, and will afford us pleasure if these few lines shall find you in good health. With respect to myself, I am pretty well from my heart, so I dare not complain. But I am much afflicted with pain in my limbs and weakness so that I am not able to pursue my business as I ought; but yet I will submit all to the Lord, who doeth all things for the best. With reference to the weather; on the 6th of August we had a tremendous hail storm, by which everything was struck into the earth, and which has destroyed all of our buckwheat and corn; our timber and orchards too have thereby been greatly injured. In this month we had snow and cold weather until Whit-Sunday, so that our grain is all frozen and we apprehend getting a poor harvest. We had about 20 acres of the most thriving wheat, and I do not believe we will have enough for our bread therefrom. The cold here was very intense, and so far as we have yet heard from, we have reason to fear very dear times, in case our summer crops should fail.

"As you desire to know of father in reference to his Revolutionary service, I proceed to inform you that he was present in the battle of Brandywine, at the battle of White Horse, and the battle of Germantown. This was his first tour; his Major General was Irwine; his Brigadier General was Potter or Patter; Moore was Colonel; father was Lieutenant Colonel, and one Reed? (Markly) Major. His second tour was at Burgoyne's surrender, thence to Taneytown, Maryland. But how long a time the marching of our army and that of the surrendered army occupied in going, (from Sherrard's Ferry), to Taneytown, I know not. In going to Taneytown, Philip, [brother] accompanied father, which is all that Philip was in the army. I, myself, was out with the militia, going to Trenton, (New Jersey), in 1780.

"When you write again to me let me know how the weather is with you, and also how stand relative the President; whether there will soon be war or peace, for our markets through him, (the President), is nearly prostrated. Our merchants are breaking up for some purpose, and the market with us is very poor. Wheat 56 to 60 cents, corn and rye, 37½ to 40 cents, oats 45 to 50 cents, flaxseed $1.00 per bushel. Butter from 10 to 12½ cents per pound, and for the rest I believe there is hard times before our doors. I do not know what further to write you, but conclude by sending you my greetings. Commending ourselves and you into the care and keeping of Almighty God. Thus much from me your faithful brother, who will remain faithful to thee unto death.

"Jacob Reed.

"P. S.—You desire to know from Catharine, [his sister, married to William Lindsay, and residing not far distant]. She lives in Pike District, Ohio. Her address is Pike Township, Knox County, her postoffice, Mount Vernon, Ohio. Remember me to Jacob Redline and his daughter; to Abrm. Sheib and his family, and to my friend Jacob Leidy.

"From Jacob Riedt of Ohio to Andrew Reed, Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania."

*Penna. Archives, 6th Series, Vol. I, pg. 706.

The above letter was written in German in his mother tongue, and translated into English by Martin T. Hunsberger, the village schoolmaster. Part of the missive was printed in my book, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, Proceedings at the Dedication of the Monument, Erected to His Memory, etc., in 1905. The portion then printed pertained only to the Colonel's military service in the Revolutionary War. The letter gives other interesting family matter, and for this reason I here give it in full.

In further explanation I might add concerning the allusion to Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed as an officer in the Pennsylvania Militia, who, with his son, Captain Philip Reed, was assigned to marshal one of the eight divisions of Burgoyne's army from Sherrard's Ferry, on the Delaware River, to Taneytown, in the State of Maryland, that the detail of the American army selected for this purpose consisted only of officers and men taken from various Philadelphia County Militia battalions assembled for this purpose. These men were then constituted into a new or temporary Second Battalion, and Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed was one of its assigned commanding officers.

At Sherrard's Ferry Lieutenant Colonel Reed, with the rest of its battalion officers, took over a division of the captives assigned, and then proceeded in their order with them, and delivered them safely at Taneytown to a new detail, assigned to relieve them and escort them to their point of destination in Virginia. The route taken through Pennsylvania by the militia and their captives was by way of North Wales, Norrington and Valley Forge, in Philadelphia County; Downingtown, Chester County; Lancaster and Columbia, in Lancaster County; Wrightsville, York, Hanover and Littlestown, in York County; and thence to Taneytown, Maryland, covering a duration of about two months.*

Jacob Arndt and his wife Elizabeth were undoubtedly near friends of Philip Reed and family, and possibly in some way related. I give her will in full here on account of its association with the Reed family. Both families were members of the Reformed Church in America, and possibly in Europe. The Arndts had no children, and their worldly estate all went to their near friends. She recited in her will that Yost Pancake and Philip Reed were "My trusty and loving friends." Philip Reed's son Jacob she remembered with a sum of money for the reason, "I ye said testator stood God-mother." This son Jacob Reed was born 1730, and the Arndt and Reed families at that time were members of the same congregation, the "Skippack" Reformed Church. They lived nearby in the same neighborhood but in different townships.

"The Ancient Landmark."*

Abstracts from a historical address, in the old Race Street German Reformed Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, by its pastor, at its centennial anniversary in 1839:—

"From the oldest record of this church, it appears the first building in which our forefathers worshipped in this city was completed, A. D. 1739. There is some reason to believe that, although the Reformed congregation in Philadelphia had no place to worship of their own, prior to that year, that this is the oldest church in our connection.

"It is true we have some accounts of the church in New Goshenhoppen, in Montgomery County, which led us to conjecture that a German Reformed Society was organized in that place about the year 1730. Henry Goetschy was the pastor of that church, and, in addition to his labors there, he preached statedly to congregations at Skippack, Old Goshenhoppen, Swamp, Saucon, Egypt, Macungie, Moselem, Oley, Bern and Tulpehocken; so that his circuit included the district covered by Montgomery, Chester, Berks and Lebanon Counties. the fact that there are dates preserved, earlier than those which refer to the Reformed church in this city, we still think it highly probable that the congregations in Philadelphia and Germantown are oldest in this connection." * * *

"The first constitutional Synod (Coetus)* of the Reformed Church (of Pennsylvania) assembled in Philadelphia, on the 29th of September, 1747—exactly 92 years ago, this day * * *

"As early as 1806 dissensions arose in this church, and a very large proportion of her members, preferring the administrations of the ordinances of the Lord's house in the English language, gave occasion for division. A large number of the most prominent and valuable men in her organization formed themselves into a church, erected the spacious edifice on Crown street, and were solicited to attach themselves to the Dutch Reformed Synod, and have since stood in that ecclesiastical connection.

"The period from A. D. 1806 to 1818 was a season of quiet. The German language was used in the administration of all of the ordinances. But in 1818, the predominance of the English language again gave rise to a collision of interests, and again resulted in a secession. On this occasion the German party withdrew, erected an edifice on St. John street, retaining their ecclesiastical relation, and constituting the Second Reformed Church of this city, now under the pastoral care of Father Bibighaus. The English language was then introduced into this church, and has since this time been in use.

"Such is a brief sketch of the history of the Reformed Church** in this city, during the 100 years that have elapsed since its first organization." * * *

Upon Captain Philip Reed's removal to Philadelphia in 1810, he and his family became actively identified with the old Race Street German Reformed Church. At the time of the church's great dissension among its English and German-speaking members, Philip Reed and his family went out with the German element. He had been very influential and active in the church's affairs, and when they withdrew, it gave him great distress of mind. The worriment told heavily on his great physical strength, lessening his vitality, and he fell victim to sickness that led to his early, sad and untimely death.

Anna Margretha Reed married first the Rev. Frederick Von-der-sloot, a minister of the gospel of the Reformed Church, officiating at the time in the Goshenhoppen charge, comprising the New and Old Goshenhoppen and the Great Swamp Churches. On account of this unfortunate marriage his pastoral work there waned and to a large extent terminated abruptly. The minutes of Coetus of 1784 have this entry:—

"As was stated in Article VI of last year's minutes, Frederick Wm. Von-der-sloot preached at the Old and New Goshenhoppen and Great Swamp. The former two congregations locked the churches against him on account of a very disgraceful and unlawful act; but the latter congregation, namely the Great Swamp, still allows him to preach. This was the deed: He had left a wife and child in Germany, but married here a single woman. A short time after his marriage it became known through his own statements that he had another wife, whereupon his father-in-law took his daughter back to his home. Then Von-der-sloot was locked out of the two Goshenhoppen churches."

*Coetus' first sessions were held in this church. Among the delegates in attendance, representing the Old and New Goshenhoppen, and Great Swamp Reformed Churches, was Elder John Philip Reed, our ancestor. See Minutes and Letters of the Coetus of the German Reformed Congregations, in Pennsylvania, 1747, to 1792, pg. 33.

**"First Reformed Church, Philadelphia, was founded in 1727." See Life and Letters of Boehm, by Rev. W. J. Hinke, Ph. D., D. D., pg. 483.

Pastor Von-der-sloot, notwithstanding his unprincipled action in violation of his official vows, blatantly makes this entry in his own handwriting in the New Goshenhoppen Reformed Church book:—

“June 29, 1784, Rev. Daliker married me, Friederich Von-der-sloot, only son of Friederich Heinrich Von-der-sloot, late minister in Anhalt-Zerbst, Germany, to Anna Margretha Riedt, eldest daughter of Jacob Riedt of Hatfield Township, Philadelphia County.”

In the record of early divorces of Pennsylvania, granted by the Supreme Court, at Easton, Northampton County, we find this decree issued:—

“Friederick Wilhelm Vonderstoot, of Northampton County, from Anna Margaret (Riedt) Vonderstoot; married 10, July 1791; divorced 18, August 1791.”

PAPER L

A Pilgrimage to the Old Jacob Reed Homestead, in Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio.

In my genealogical work in the fall of 1899, I paid a visit to the home and family of my kinsman, William W. Reed, in the city of Canton, Stark County, Ohio. He was a grandson of Jacob and Anna Maria (Maurer) Reed, the pioneer Reed settler in Sugar Creek Township, Stark County. At the time of my interesting stay with them, and in company with my cousins, Mrs. William W. Reed and Mrs. Harriet McCall, I visited the old Jacob Reed homestead, in the country, about fourteen miles distant west of the city of Canton.

One Israel Stuck then owned the place and lived on it. The family, being plain folks, in their simple way gave us a most hearty greeting, making our visit agreeable and pleasant, and they did everything possible to give information and render assistance. Many changes in the old farm had taken place since its ownership by the settler, Jacob Reed. The original Reed home of logs no more remained. It was accidentally destroyed by fire some years before, and had been replaced by a more modern dwelling erected by its owner, more in style and keeping with the present-day living and modern innovations.

In approaching the home, after leaving the nearby railroad station, we had to pass down a long, narrow road to a lane leading to the dwelling. The building is centrally located on elevated ground, sloping creekward, giving it a most pleasing aspect. The land of the farm is of good quality, rolling sufficiently for excellent drainage and farming, with Sugar Creek, a pretty stream of water, bordering it to the West. The whole place is divided into large fields by fences, and a fine orchard of apple trees still remains. Many of these trees were grown from seed brought thither from Pennsylvania by Jacob Reed more than a century ago. A small rippling stream of water flows through the place, along which for some distance a lane skirts. From the main creek the district takes the name of "Sugar Creek." Large sugar maple trees abounded here at one time, furnishing sweets for the early settlers.

A feature remaining on the farm that has appealed to me more than anything else is the old Reed family burial plot, a parcel of ground set aside for this purpose by Jacob Reed. The burial ground is reserved by conveyance and is still owned by the Reed heirs. This Godsacre is beautifully located on a knoll, in the center of a large field, but a few hundred yards south of the farm buildings. At the time of our visit the burial place suffered from neglect, and was densely overgrown with brush. The groundhog was here in great numbers, burrowing into the ground, so that several of the gravestones were undermined and had toppled over, one of them being completely buried beneath debris. The burial place had lost its contour; the fence that at one time enclosed and defined its lines and boundaries had rotted away and disappeared. The ploughman's encroachments has aided in this effacement of the lines.

With a spade, after some search and effort, I succeeded in unearthing the lost stone that had marked one of the elder Reed graves. Placing in in an upright position I then succeeded in making a picture of it for preservation.

This visit to the old home of my relatives was to me of more than ordinary interest. It could easily be seen there how the early pioneer forged his way onward and upward, and prospered as the new country grew and developed. The day of our visit was most beautiful. Clear, bright sunshine added its enchantment and brightened the scene. The early family and historical associations made the visit the more inspiring to us and doubly pleasing and interesting.

Since this visit to the old homestead some years back, great changes have resulted, all for the betterment of the old Reed burial ground. Through the efforts of the family, an organization has been formed and means were raised with which the place has been cleared of its wildness. The markers at the graves have been arranged into a huge boulder-like everlasting monument. The work thus done is commendable, and all of those who contributed means and labor for this beautification and preservation deserve from all sources the kindest consideration and most heartfelt thanks and praises.

PAPER M

In my early Genealogical Work this letter was received from W. W. Reed; it is so pertinent and interesting, that I give it in toto:—

"Canton, Ohio, Nov. 20, 1894.

"Mr. W. H. Reed, Norristown, Pa.

"Dear Sir:—

" * * * In answer to yours I scarcely know where to begin. I have been consulting an older sister of mine who lives in this city, and have gathered from her enough to corroborate your statement in regard to the Lindsay and Fisher (family) connection.

"She remembers well when Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher paid a visit to my father in the fall of 1833. Among other things she remembers of him while on that visit, was his attending court which was in session at that time. Then was being heard the first murder case ever tried in this county, and he seemed to be much interested in it. He was present when the death sentence was read.

"After the court's conclusion of the case, she says, on his return to my father's he seemed very much distressed, and would walk the floor most of the night. I often heard my mother mention this, but had forgotten the name. She remembers his sending his paper (The Reformed Church Messenger) to my father.

"Some of the Lindsays are still living in Columbiana County. It is the first county east of this (Stark).

"Now I will got back to grandfather. When I wrote you in my former letter, I said he moved from Frederick County, Maryland, to this county (Stark). This is not correct. My father, with some of the older ones, was born in Frederick County, Maryland, but grandfather moved from there to Bedford County, Pennsylvania, when my father was but 9 years of age. My father learned his trade (saddlery and harness-making), in Bedford. This trade he worked at until the year of 1858, and made quite a success at it. My younger brother Joseph and I bought him out and continued the business until 1880.

"My great-grandfather's name was Jacob, and he married a Mowery (Anna Maria), but don't remember my grandmother's first name. They had ten children, namely, Philip, Frederick, Jacob, John, Andrew and Martin. The girls were Elizabeth, Mary, Martha and Catharine. These have all passed away, and all lived to be quite old, with the exception of Martin, he dying at the age of 20.

"Great-grandfather, with his family, located in Sugar Creek Township in the fall of 1813, which is about fourteen miles from this place, he being the second settler in the township. My father remained with them until the following spring when he came to Canton and opened a shop here. At that time it was a town of about fifty inhabitants; now we have a city of 35,000.

"My sister thinks our great-grandfather's name was George (Jacob). He was an officer in the (American) army (of the Revolution). George may not be correct. My grandfather (Jacob, Jr.), drove team in the (Revolutionary) army when but a boy.

"My grandfather died Oct. 16, 1846, and my grandmother on April 2, 1847. Grandfather died on the farm on which he located (in 1813). After his death father brought grandmother to this place (Canton), and died here. They, with most of the family, are buried on the old farm in Sugar Creek Township.

"My father, after the death of his parents, bought the farm (homestead), and kept it a few years. When he sold it he reserved the burying ground, which we still own and keep in repair.

"* * * Since writing the above I find grandfather moved from Maryland to Bedford County, Pennsylvania, in or about 1798.

"My father was married here in 1815—the first marriage in the county (township). The result of this marriage was nine children, three boys and six girls, namely, Eliza, Catharine, John, Mary Ann, Harriet, Susan, William, Joseph and Margaret. I am the only son living. Eliza, John, Mary Ann, Susan and Joseph are dead.

"My family consists of five children—four boys and one girl. My oldest son, Joseph A., is Recorder of Deeds of this county. My youngest son is in Baltimore, * * * a civil engineer and in the employ of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. * * * The balance of my family live here in this city." * * *

"W. W. Reed."

From a subsequent letter I quote:—

"The photograph of the old [Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed, of Hatfield Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania], homestead you sent me is interesting, for I have often heard an old aunt of mine speak of this, and heard her tell of there being prepared here by the family of a hasty meal for General Washington and some of his men."

Letters of Henry Convear Brunner to Dr. W. H. Reed. (1st)

No. 517 Park Avenue, Louisville, Ky., July 24, 1906.

Mr. W. H. Reed, Norristown, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

The book, Lieutenant Colonel Jacob Reed came by mail yesterday, and today the letter acknowledging the receipt of P. O. money order. I read the whole book through the same day, and I have never read anything in my life that gave me as many pleasant recollections as did this—the names and places all so familiar. The Neshaminy (Creek) you refer to ran right through John Krout's farm. The old mill dam was in a tolerable good condition still in my childhood days, except that its center had been torn out by the high waters to which the Neshaminy had been subjected. The old mill race in my younger days used to hold considerable water and in it grew numerous pond lilies; I came away from there in my 19th year, and before I left John Krout had drained it so that the lilies all died out.

The old mill as it was when I lived there I remember very distinctly, and played in and through it hundreds of times in company with the Krout boys, of whom there were three—Sam, Jo and Henry. In its day it must have been a very respectable building, two stories high. The John Krout I knew and who owned it then I now presume was the son of the John Krout who first bought the mill of Philip Reed; and as I remember John Krout buried his father about the time I was born, so his name must have also been John, or else the John referred to in your work was the one I knew. Oh, what a many a sportive bathing, fishing and skating I had on the wonderful Neshaminy. Other places you name—Cowpath, Trewigville, &c., I remember distinctly. Names Wack, Nyce, Solliday, Leidy, etc.;—so I might run on.

But I never heard my father or mother talk of these things or property owned by Jacob Reed; seems very curious to me. To this day I do not know who father bought the farm of on which I was born and raised. It adjoined the Krout farm, and from your description and location of the Jacob Reed land in New Britain [Township, Bucks County, Pa.] I am almost led to believe I was born in the very log house, one and a half stories high, with the peculiar fireplace as you state, in which Colonel Reed spent his last days, as there were no such fireplaces there anywhere except ours and Krout's, and ours was much larger than that of Krout's house.

Were my health better I would be tempted to make a trip east and investigate further. I never saw or heard before that the Krout farm was ever owned by the Reed, and I know that this Krout place I knew is the same you refer to, as the Neshaminy nowhere again crosses the county line except at this point, east of Colmar, and the railroad going between father's and Krout's land.

Letters from Henry Convear Brunner to Dr. W. H. Reed. (2nd)

No. 517 Park Avenue,
Louisville, Ky.

August 6, 1906

Mr. W. H. Reed, Norristown, Pa.

My dear Sir:—

Yours of 2nd instant was duly rec'd with explicit information of the Jacob Convear family, for which accept my sincere thanks; and while I know you must be terribly taxed with correspondence I still take the liberty to again address you—to express my gratitude to you for getting up such a history as you have of the Reed and Leidy families. The study of the book has indeed brought to my mind a wonderful number of very pleasant recollections. In fact, I am satisfied that I can more forcibly see all the surrounding scenes of my childhood days than I could have obtained in a three months' visit to the places. As I remember, in my former visits back things were so changed that it hardly seemed that I could be in the neighborhood of my boyhood days; but reading the book transported me right into the midst of the vivid scenery of those days.

Your book tells of a school established by John Jenkins. I many winters went to school in Hatfield Township—to a John Jenkins, who no doubt was a descendant of the founder of that school. He was then living a neighbor to a family of the name of Evans, whose son Peter was also going to school, a boy about my age and we used to be great chums. Indeed the book so greatly interested me that my other studies and reading of papers had to stop. My wife having died about one year ago, my widowed daughter is keeping house for me, and brought with her a son, whom we put in school here, and in classing him the teachers here placed him in a class according to his size and not according to qualification, and made algebra a branch of his study. I took hold and helped him, and looking over my daughter's last year books in high school found a work on trigonometry by logarithms, and I took such a notion to it that I was soon engaged with all my might with plane and spherical triangles, frustums, etc., and have kept it up. But when your book came all had to stop, and I indeed enjoyed a moving panorama of the Neshaminy, Krout's Mill, Trewigsville, Cowpath, etc. Your account of private burial grounds (with a picture of a large wagon with four horses) brought vividly to my mind the time of the burial of my sister Elizabeth, (Feb., 1837), a very rainy day, causing high water, so much so, the Reformed preacher could not get there, and father had a neighbor Mennonite preacher, John Krupp, act in his stead, and that father took the family (to the burial ground); but took only two horses, and oh what a scare we all got coming home! The Neshaminy was so high and ice floating, etc. For fear of wearying you, I must close.

Again thanking you for the wonderful awakening of so many pleasant recollections by your book, is "really a new life."

H. C. Brunner,

Letters of George Convear to Andrew Reed.

A series of three family letters from George Convear to his uncle Andrew Reed follows. These old letters of the family, preserved until today, are interesting in many ways to descendants of these families of the older times. The first of the series advises the writer's uncle and aunt of the arrival of himself and family in the new State of Ohio, after a long and tedious overland trip, and of their visit to the home of the writer's great uncle, Jacob Reed, in Stark County, Ohio. This trip to the great West was made in the spring of the year of 1837—the most delightful season for such travelling, when the weather conditions are at their best:—

"Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio,

"Dear Uncle and Aunt:—

"I take the opportunity to inform you that we are at our journey's end for a while. Perhaps we may go further next spring if we keep our health. This is a fine country and all able and industrious people, but land very high; but work plenty and wages high; provisions plenty but at a fair price. We laid by two days on the road. We arrived at Canton (Ohio) at John Reed's, the 31st, and stayed there nearly two days again; and on the 2nd of June we arrived at Sugar Creek, to Uncle Jacob's, which was not just a little satisfaction to them all. On the 8th we moved about two miles north of him, about three miles from Bethlehem, on the Wooster Road. Believe me, sir, if you were here and owned a farm you would soon feel at home. Here wheat crops look fair and corn is fine.

"I have neither space or time to write very much respecting the country where we travelled through, and where we now live, which I would like to do. We are all well at present, so are all of your brother's family. We were all very hardy on our journey. * * * There was not one of us that missed a meal all the way. We thank our blessed Father for his mercy which he bestowed upon us by conducting us so kind through a long and pleasant journey, and providing so bountifully for us.

"May these few lines find you in good health, and hope you can read my poor writing done in a hurry with little satisfaction. May the blessings of Heaven rest upon you all now and ever; Amen.

"Respectfully,

"George Convear."

The second letter is just as interesting as the previous one, although written twenty-nine years later. A great number of changes in life's events had taken place in the meantime, and a number of these he mentions. He seems pleased and astonished over the progress and advancement the great West was making. The letter reads:—

"Spencer Township, Jennings County, Indiana.

"August 20, 1866.

"Dear Uncle and Aunt:—

"* * * We are all well as could be expected, children and grandchildren, except Philip and his family who live 150 miles north from here, and they are nearly all down with the ague we understand. * * *

"Some few years ago I learned my sister Elizabeth [Lutz] was dead, and of late brother-in-law [Jonathan] Zane been called to his Home from whence no traveller returns. We buried two of our children since out here, our youngest son (George) in his 21st year, and our oldest daughter (Mary Ann) in her 18th year. Now we have two sons and two daughters living. We have twenty-one grandchildren, and all living but three. Our children all are in a fair way of living so far. Philip [Convear] has a farm of 100 aeres of excellent land in Fulton County. John [Convear] has 80 aeres in sight of my farm. One son-in-law has 100 acres almost in sight, and the other [son-in-law] has 40 acres adjoining mine. * * *

"Now for a sketch of our season, etc. Crops, the winter was very hard and killed nearly all of the wheat in the ground, so there was not a tenth of a crop. The fore part of the summer was very dry, so that the oats was very short but good in grain. Grass very light, but since harvest, very well growing. Corn and cane (sorghum) will yield abundantly, so will late potatoes and buckwheat and melons there is no end, etc.

"Now a little about market: We have most at the door. Seymour, a new town, eight miles from here, on the crossing of the Ohio & Cincinnati & St. Louis & Mississippi Railroad and Louisville & Indianapolis Railroad, which sprung up in fourteen years, affords a market nearly equal to any in the West; you can sell anything that will sell in other cities, at a fair price.

"Dear uncle you would be astonished to see the work and bustle going on along our railroads; great factories of all description spring up; if I could tell you all you would not believe me. Twenty-six years ago (when I first came here) this part [of the country] was all a wilderness, but now it looks like an old country. * *

"Our best respects from your humble nephew and niece,

and

"Sarah Convear.

"To Mr. Andrew Reed
and

"To Mary Reed."

The third letter of George Convear is largely in reply to a letter he had received from his uncle, Andrew Reed, asking about the family of his brother, Jacob Reed, of Sugar Creek Township, Stark County, Ohio. He in turn asks particulars about the family of his uncle, Philip Reed, his aunts and other members of the family. This letter, written as late as 1866, shows that to him the State of Ohio was still far West, and that communication with the family through the mails was irregular and slow. From this inconvenience and indifference as to writing by his relatives, he lost close touch with them, and thereby was made to suffer from lack of family information. The letter reads:—

"Spencer, December 20, 1866.

"Dear Uncle:

"* * * Now as well as I know when in 1837 we came to Ohio they were all living, except the two youngest [children], a son and daughter, (Margaret and Martin) and who died a few years before on our way to your brother's. We stayed in Canton [Stark County, Ohio] two days and nights with (Cousin) John, your brother's son; he is very well off and owns one of the best brick houses in the town and another good frame house. He, [John Reed] has also a good farm within a few miles of this town of either eighty or one hundred acres; and then bought his father's farm, (in Sugar Creek Township). His oldest son, Frederick Reed, is living in Tuscarawas County [Ohio], also his oldest daughter, Elizabeth Catharine lives in Holmes County. Magdalena lives in Stark County; and so does Mary, his fourth daughter, and has her third husband. Andrew, his fourth son, is in the Maumee Country, and all are doing tolerably well. Then Jacob, Jr., moved to where I live (in Jennings County) where he and his wife died a few years afterwards, and his children moved out north in this State, except the youngest daughter, who is still in this county. This is near as I can tell you [of this family of Uncle Jacob Reed]. I have a request to make of you. I want you to give me information of your brother Philip's family. I always had a great respect for them. I also want to know if any of my aunts are alive yet? * * *

"So much from your dear nephew,

"George Convear

"To my dear Uncle Andrew Reed.

"My address is

"Mr. George Convear

"Six Mile Post Office

"Jennings County, Indiana."

PAPER Q

"Birth and Boyhood."

In his unpublished autobiography, the Rev. Samuel Reed Fisher, D. D., under the caption "Reed Ancestry," gives considerable interesting information pertaining to the maternal line of his (Reed) family, which I copy verbatim with its inaccuracies. All words in brackets are either corrections or additions made by me. I am led to believe that he gathered much of his material from family tradition. His statements and the official records do not always agree. At the time of his researches—possibly nearly a century ago—many of the older members of the family still lived, whose statements as given to him were not in all cases correct. In spite of these errors his book has assisted me materially, in many cases leading the way in my genealogical research work.

Through a sad misfortune a goodly portion of his manuscript book has been irreparably ruined, thereby making parts unintelligible, and interpreting these parts has been a trying effort to me, in the endeavor to make the story understood and readable. As rearranged it reads:—

"MATERNAL ANCESTORS"

"My great-grandfather, Michael* Reed, [Philip Ried], emigrated from Mannheim, Palatinate, in the year 1728 [1727]. He settled in Hatfield [Salford] Township, Philadelphia County [now Montgomery], Pennsylvania. His wife's family fled from Switzerland from religious persecution, and he for the same cause emigrated from Germany to this country.

"He had three sons and five daughters. His sons were as follows:—

"The eldest [second] Jacob, my grandfather, was born in Pennsylvania, July 6, 1730. He lived the greater part of his life near Hatfield station, North Pennsylvania Railroad, but some time before he died purchased a small farm in New Britain Township, Bucks County, east of Neshaminy [Creek] on the line between Bucks and Montgomery Counties. Here he lived until his death, which occurred in 1820. * * * He was married to Magdalena Leidy, who died August 5, 1804. * * * Both are buried in Leidy's burying ground, a few miles distant from the farm on which Grandfather Reed spent the greater portion of his life.

*In Bean's History of Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, published in 1884, pg. 1010, under the caption of "Norriton Township," in the biographical sketch of Michael Hartman Reed, we find this misleading statement:—

"Michael Reed, the great-grandfather of Michael Hartman Reed, emigrated from Mannheim," etc. It should read "Johann Philb Ried [Philip Reed], the great-grandfather of Michael Hartman Reed, emigrated from Mannheim," etc.

This error of statement was made by father through the misleading statement of Dr. Fisher, and at the time father wrote this he believed it correct for he then had no other way to learn differently. After the publication of the book our investigations and researches from official records showed to our sorrow that Dr. Fisher was wrong, and then it was too late to rectify the error, for the book was already off the press.

"Grandfather Reed was a man of considerable prominence in his day. He was active and influential as a citizen, filling several positions of public trust in the vicinity in which he lived. He was prominent and active as a friend of his country during the Revolutionary War. He was Lieutenant Colonel of the Pennsylvania militia and took part in the battles of Trenton, Germantown, Brandywine, etc. He escaped unhurt on the field during the war, but on one occasion when at home visiting his family he was waylaid by some Tories, his near neighbors, who first shot him through the leg, then tied him to a tree, tarred and feathered him, and then commenced digging his grave, in this they proposed burying him. Before completing this last act, they were discovered, when they fled, and he was released from his perilous situation. The parties engaged in this transaction fled the country and their property was subsequently confiscated.

"I saw my Grandfather Reed shortly before he died. I remember the circumstance well, being especially impressed with the fact, he had two thumbs on his right hand, the second starting from the first joint.

"In the church he took a deep interest and was active and influential. He worshipped at the Indianfield Reformed Church, some five or six miles from his residence, in which he served as an elder for many years. The records of that church, as well as the testimony of some of the older living members, have given me ground for making this statement.

"Michael [Andrew], the second [third] son of my great-grandfather, resided in the Goshenhoppen region. He had a son Michael, whom I have met. * * * Afterwards he resided in Philadelphia, and owned a house on Franklin Square, now forming a part of the church property occupied by the Theological School of the Lutheran Church. He [Andrew] had [other] sons, John and Philip, who both lived near Sumneytown, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. John, the former, engaged at saddlery and tanning, but for many years manufactured powder. Philip was a farmer, saddler and justice of the peace, etc.

"Andrew [Michael] the third [first] son, was the father of Philip Reed, who lived and died on a farm, east of Waynesboro, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, on the turnpike road leading to Baltimore. He [Philip] had a large family of children. I have met with some of them: Michael Reed, of Schellsburg, Bedford County, Pennsylvania; Captain John Reed of Mercersburg, Pennsylvania; Mr. Samuel Cromer [son-in-law] of the vicinity, and Mrs. John Shugart, who lived some time in Fayetteville, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, but subsequently moved West. Whether Andrew [Michael] Reed had other children or not, I have not been able so far to ascertain; nor do I know of his place of residence.

"The names of Grandfather Reed's sisters were as follows: Catharine was married to Abraham Arndt; Frances [Margretha] married to Theobald Wink; * * * [Anna Maria] was married to Michael Welker; Elizabeth was married to John Eberhard; Eve married (1st), Theobald [Valentine] Dickenschied, and (2nd), to [Joseph Kooken].

"My grandfather had twelve children. The names of them I have not been able to learn, * * * ever gathered the following. The eldest [third] son, Jacob Reed, removed to Sugar Creek [Township], Stark County, Ohio, where he and his wife lived to an advanced age. Jacob Reed was the ancestor of the Reeds of that vicinity.

"The second [first] son, Philip Reed, resided in Whitmarsh, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and then for many years lived in Philadelphia, where he died. He left quite a large family of children of whom I give you the names of the following:—Daniel and Samuel, the latter of whom still survives and resides in the northeastern portion of Philadelphia. Another son [John] lived in Montgomery County [Germantown] and died from hydrophobia. The daughters were Magdalena, who married Jacob Engard, and subsequently to a Seible; Elizabeth, married to Abraham Snyder; Catharine, married to Henry [Andrew] Long; Sarah married William Roberts. Most of them lived and died in Philadelphia and vicinity.

"The third [fourth] son of my grandfather when a young man was killed by lightning during a violent thunder storm. He was in the house at the time lying on the floor near the stove.

"Andrew, the youngest of my grandfather's children, resided in Hilltown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, raised a number of children, among whom was Jacob, residing above Hilltown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and Michael, living at Jeffersonville, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

"As to all of my mother's sisters I have been unable to ascertain. One [Margaret] was married to a man by the name of [Jacob] Redline, who lived on the county line road between Bucks and Montgomery Counties, about eight or ten miles above Line Lexington. She was at first married to Rev. F. W. Vandersloot, the grandfather of the present Vandersloot, a clergyman who is engaged in the active duties of the ministry: * * * Catharine [Elizabeth] was married to Jacob Convear, whose farm is in sight of Hatfield station, on the North Pennsylvania Railroad. Some descendants are still living in the same neighborhood. Magdalena married Joseph [Jesse] Wilson, who outlived her a short time. They had one daughter, Maria, who married George Nutz; they did live in Philadelphia. Both are dead and no children survive them.

"My mother Eve was the youngest of my grandfather's daughters. She was several years the senior of my father, Wendle Fisher, and he was only eighteen years of age at the time of their marriage. She was born March 23, 1778, in Hatfield Township, Philadelphia [now Montgomery] County, Pennsylvania. * * * She became totally blind. * * *

"On the morning of the 19th day of January, 1852, * * * she arose as usual and went about her work, made in the stove a fire [of wood] to warm her room, then left alone, and as usual, she engaged in her morning devotion. Kneeling close by the stove whilst engaged in prayer, the shawl she had thrown loosely over herself took fire. She, unable to see to put out the blaze, screamed, but before any assistance could reach her to smother the flame, she was so severely burned about her head and face, mouth and body, her life was put in great jeopardy. She lingered in great pain for several days, then dying in great agony. * * * Her remains were interred in Brower's graveyard, beside those of my father. * * *

An extract from his manuscript autobiography:

"I was born in Norristown, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, on the 2nd of June, 1810, at the hotel which then stood at the northeast corner of Barbadoes and Main Streets. The building stood inwards, back from the street. It was a large brick building, with a two-story frame piazza on each of its two sides, with an old fashioned wheeled double pump that stood in the yard. It had been the property and residence of Colonel Bull, during the Revolutionary War, and it is this residence that had been saved through the instrumentality of his wife, from being at this time destroyed by British soldiers, who, on the same occasion destroyed his building located on the opposite side of the street. It became a house of public entertainment and known as the Fountain Inn. At that time the farmers would bring their produce of their farms to the city in market wagons, and this would be one of the principal stopping places, by the way, for those who travelled what is called the Ridge Road.

"My father kept this hotel at the time of my birth. But little if any traces remain of the original place at the present day.

"Norristown was then a village of some six or eight hundred inhabitants, and the houses were located mostly on the main street, with a few on the cross street known as Swede Street. I can remember when there was no house for a worshipping place. What religious societies there were, their services were usually held in the old Academy, which stood on DeKalb Street, where now crosses Airy Street, near by the present Presbyterian Church. The Academy was a brick building with a large cellar beneath part of it. The Episcopal Church edifice was the first house of worship in the place. The first Presbyterian Church building was erected a short time after this one, and to the erection of which the Fishers, Hahns, and some other members of the Reformed Church contributed largely. It was the impression that the Reformed element was to have some interest in the building. All they were allowed so far as its use, was the privilege of having one of their ministers preach in it occasionally when not occupied by a Presbyterian minister.

"On the 2nd of June, 1810, I was dedicated to God in baptism by the Rev. George Wack administering the ordinance and standing as my sponsor. The record of baptism is found in its place on the church records of Wentz's Reformed Church. From my inference my parents, it seems designed me for the ministry. I know not what led them to the purpose. It was said that I was, in my way, of a somewhat sober and religious turn of mind from my infancy. My mother has repeatedly told me I had caused her less trouble than any other of her children. Never was I more contented than to be permitted to be in the presence of older persons, and I can remember well how these preferences were a pleasure to me, as I passed through my younger years.

"In due time I was old enough to attend church. I was regularly there on the Sabbath day, and never did I feel more content than enjoying the privilege of the sanctuary, as I was always taught to hold the church in special reverence. During my childhood, Reformed services were held on alternate Sundays in the Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches, at which I attended.

"The nearest Reformed Church to Norristown at that time was Boehm's Church, five miles distant. I also attended regularly Sunday School in the Academy, Mary Markley, of the Episcopal Church, who subsequently married John Boyer, Esq., for many years president of the Old Montgomery Bank, being my Sabbath School teacher.

"The opportunities for a good education at that time were limited, and in the strictly classical branches did not reach beyond the privilege of a rudimentary education. Reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic formed the extent of the prescribed curriculum. Even geography, grammar and history were considered beyond our reach, belonging to the higher schools of the day. I commenced going to school at the old Academy. * * *

Notes on the Hartman and Harner Families.

The Hartman family was of German extraction, and became early settlers in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. The first authentic record I have of this family there is that of Henry Hartman,* who, on March 15, 1759, petitioned the Bucks County Court of Quarter Sessions, in Newtown (then its countyseat), as follows:—

"Whereas, your petitioner has bought of Nicholas Wigle, a tract of land, situate in ye said Township of Rockhill, in s'd County, whereon is erected a public house of entertainment.

"Therefore your petitioner humbly Prayeth That your Worship's would recommend your petitioner to the Governor that he may obtain License on ye said premises, and your petitioner in duty bound shall ever Pray, etc."

The license for the public house as sought for in due time was granted, and there Henry Hartman conducted a public house or inn continuously until his death, in 1768. He died when but a young man, leaving a widow and a large family of children. There was no will, and letters of administration were granted to Elizabeth Hartman, widow, and Conrad Seiple, a friend, in Philadelphia. By these records Henry Hartman had children, John, Henry, Michael, Jacob, Hannah, Elizabeth and Frederick.

The following year, Conrad Seiple, the administrator, petitioned the Court in Newtown, Bucks County, for the appointment of guardians for these children, "for they are nearly all under the age of 14 years." John Hartman, the oldest son, selected Henry Hartzell for his guardian, John being over 14 years of age; for the remainder of the children the Court appointed John Cressman guardian, for they were all under the age of 14 years.

These Hartman children grew to man and womanhood, scattered over the country, and all married. John, in 1829, was married and owned lands in Penn Township, Union County, Pennsylvania, where he resided. Michael married Elizabeth Nyce. He was a well-to-do miller and farmer, and resided in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Jacob, a carpenter

*Since the above was written I have gleaned from the Indianfield (Lutheran) Church book, that on "Oct. 15, 1752, Heinrich Hartman and Elizabeth Grossman, both single, were sponsors at the baptism of 'Elizabeth,' daughter of Antonio Grossman and wife Magdalena." I am led to believe, though I have no further documentary evidence to prove it, that this "Elizabeth" Grossman and Heinrich Hartman subsequently married, and are my great-great-grandparents.

and joiner by trade, married, had a large family of children, and resided in Pottsgrove Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, where he died. Two of his sons settled in Williamsport, Lycoming County, Pennsylvania, where descendants still live, and another son settled in the borough of Northampton, Pennsylvania. Elizabeth married Jacob Black, a farmer. They had children, and lived in Nockamixon Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Frederick farmed for a number of years in Nockamixon Township, then removed to Franklin County, Indiana, there farmed, married* and had a family of children. Henry, our ancestor, drifted into Upper Dublin Township, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, engaged at farming, and there married Sarah, daughter of Christian and Barbara (Krebs) Harner, of Upper Dublin Township.

Christian Harner (Herner, Hörner), the father of Sarah, was a German Palatine, who arrived in this country in the ship "Frances & Elizabeth" and qualified at Philadelphia September 21, 1742. He was married to Barbara Krebs, March 8, 1750, by the Rev. Henry M. Muhlenberg, of the Lutheran Church, at Trappe, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. From the first they became farmers in Upper Dublin Township. He was a soldier of the Revolution, and a member of Upper Dublin Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania Militia.** They had eleven children, as follows:—

- 1—John Harner, b. April 28, 1751; d. Dec. 4, 1827; m. Rosanna Ridenbach; b. Sept. 12, 1754; d. March 3, 1847; farmer and active in public affairs; resided in Whitemarsh Twp., Montg. Co., Pa.; children:—(1)—Anna Barbara; (2)—John; (3)—Jacob; (4)—Joseph; (5)—Elizabeth; (6)—Henry; (7)—Samuel; (8)—Sarah; (9)—Daniel; (10)—Susanna.

The parents, Christian and Barbara (Krebs) Harner, on the marriage of their daughter Sarah to Henry Hartman, deeded to these children a portion of their Upper Dublin farm. There the children settled and engaged in farming, living happily for some years. About 1798, Henry Hartman and wife Sarah sold their Upper Dublin home, having removed previously to a farm they had already bought, in Vincent Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania. There they lived and farmed for a few years only. In 1800 they sold their Chester County place, and removed to Williams Valley, Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, lived here but a few years only, then sold out, and removed south, over the mountains, into Lykens Valley, taking up lands near the present borough of Gratz, in the same county.

When the Hartmans came to Williams and Lykens Valleys the country about them was but a wilderness, and the wild beast and the Indian were their neighbors. Henry Hartman was a skilled man with the rifle, and it is said that one of his pastimes was to engage in competition with the Indians in "barking squirrels" with the rifle.

In time Henry Hartman became an extensive landowner in Dauphin County. He not only farmed, but built one of the early flouring, grist and saw mills there, on a stream of water flowing through his lands, and carried on this vocation along with the tilling of the soil. When he died, in 1836, most of the lands about him were still in their primitive state, but the country was then being rapidly settled and improved. Tradition says he was a Revolutionary soldier, serving either in the Continental line, or in the Bucks or Philadelphia County militia, possibly at times in the ranks of all, whichever suited best and the locality in which he chanced to live at the time.*

*Henry Hartman, a grandson, who was born on Aug. 2, 1821, in Lykens Valley, Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, in a biographical sketch of his life, says his grandfather, Henry Hartman, "Participated in the Revolutionary War a soldier." This information he received from the lips of his grandmother, Sarah (Harner) Hartman, who died in 1858, aged nearly a hundred years, and he was then a man of 37 years of age. Biographical Encyclopaedia of Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, pg. 1119.

We find a Henry Hartman on a muster roll of Captain Farmer's Company of the Regiment of Rifle Men, in the service of the Province of Pennsylvania, commanded by Colonel Samuel Miles, quartered at Marcus Hook, June 1, 1776, being the date of his enlistment. Pennsylvania Archives, Vol. II, Fifth Series, pg. 416, 420, 424; "on duty and parade" on June 2, 1776, (do) pg. 426. This I believe to be our Henry Hartman.

Henry and Sarah (Harner) Hartman had twelve children, as follows:—

Franklin Pierce Reed.

(Frank P. Reed)

A Story of His Life and Experiences.

Franklin P. Reed spent his early days at home, attending public school in Jeffersonville, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. When old enough, during the summer vacation, he earned spending money doing odd jobs among his neighbors. During the winter of 1866 and 1867 he took a course of schooling at Treemount Seminary, Norristown. The following summer he attended the private school of "Mammy" (Mrs.) Craig, in Norristown. The next two winters he resumed his studies at the Jeffersonville public school.

On September 6, 1870, he went to work as an apprentice for Martin Eckhart, at Line Lexington, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, to learn tin-smithing. He boarded with the family and roomed over the workshop. In the year following, Mr. Eckhart disposed of the store and its interest, which made some changes in the business. One of these caused the apprentice to lose his position. At breakfast on the morning before he left, Mr. Eckhart very generously laid a five dollar bill beside his plate. This was the first and only money he ever received for his eight months' apprenticeship work, although he worked six days in the week from early in the morning until 9 and 10 o'clock at night, excepting only the actual time required to eat his meals.

On May 19, 1871, one George Young, who was in the same line of business in the same village, offered Franklin eight dollars a month and board at Apple's Hotel near by. He accepted the proposition, but would never mention to his inquiring friends the terms Mr. Young had so generously made him for fear they might think that he was getting too large a price for his labor. On January 1, 1872, from some unknown cause, Mr. Young's tinshop and store were burned to the ground. Mr. Young did not rebuild or resume business. Franklin now returned to his home in Jeffersonville and again entered the public school.

On May 1, 1872, he again went under instruction to complete his knowledge of the tinner's trade with John F. Stauffer & Son, at Swede and Main Streets, Norristown, Pa. He boarded with the Stauffer family, and remained with this firm until he completed his apprenticeship.

On December 14, 1873, he accepted his first job as a journeyman tinner with James Martin, in Coatesville, Chester County, Pennsylvania. He finished there in January, 1874, and returned to the home of his parents in Jeffersonville, where he remained until April 14, 1874. He then went to Reading, Berks County, Pennsylvania, to work at his trade for William Bridgeman, on Penn Street, and boarded at the Mishler Hotel, nearby, on the same street. On November 5, 1874, he resigned to accept a position with the Philadelphia City Passenger Railway Company as conductor on the horse cars, known as the Chestnut and Walnut Street line. August 24, 1875, he resigned and went back to his trade.

He returned to street railway work June 16, 1876—during the Centennial—on the Union Passenger Line, in Philadelphia. He finally came to the conclusion that a street car conductor could never be anything more than a street car conductor, tendered his resignation, and some time later accepted a position with the Social Art Club, at 1525 Chestnut Street, in the same city. The Club later moved to 1811 Walnut Street, where he remained in its employment until he resigned on March 7, 1879, to go West to seek his fortune at farming.

He settled with his uncle, William P. Rockafellow on a farm known as "Jug Ridge," near Sparta, Dearborn County, Indiana, and not far distant from the city of Lawrenceburg. After two years' experience on the job he discovered that he had missed his calling. Disposing of his belongings, he left the farm for Cincinnati, Ohio. He took passage on the old stern-wheel steamer, John L. Rhoads, enjoyed a very interesting trip of 750 miles down the Ohio and up the Mississippi with its numerous delays landing passengers, unloading freight, stopping for repairs, etc., and arrived safely in St. Louis, on Saturday, April 9, following. Answering an Excelsior Stove Company's advertisement the following Monday morning for a journeyman tinsmith to go to the country, he almost lost his breath when told the "country" was out in the territory of New Mexico, in the city of Santa Fe. He had time until 12 o'clock noon to think the matter over, when he returned and accepted the position. The job was with a Mr. Erwin, in the pioneer tin and hardware store in the Territory.

Not being flush with cash he bought a ticket on the emigrant train, leaving at midnight. Going with strangers to a strange land in the "wild and woolly West," he must go prepared for contingencies, so he invested in a 22-caliber revolver and ammunition. This helped to break the monotony of the trip, for emigrant trains in those days had to sidetrack often, when he could go to the rear platform not only to view the country but to exercise his skill at shooting with the "gun." One day while on the rear platform, he became excited by seeing a big buffalo bull sunning himself on the banks of the Arkansas River. He quickly drew his 22-caliber life protector and emptied it at the old fellow. The result was most disappointing for he could not see that the shots made the old fellow even wink or switch his tail.

He arrived in Santa Fe, Thursday, April 19—just eight days after he started. When the people of the town saw the new arrival with his 22-caliber protector, he became a joke, for the native carried a larger caliber—44 and 45. All of the houses in the city at that time were built of adobe, excepting the two new frame ones just completed. He saw Lew Wallace, the author of "Ben Hur," who at the time was Governor of the Territory.

The western fever soon overcame him; he became militant, and was one of the charter members of the Governor's Rifles, Company E, Second Regiment, N. M. V. G., of Santa Fe, Territory of New Mexico, and was an active member until he left Santa Fe, August 29, 1882. He liked Santa Fe, but saw no opportunity for advancement there, so he planned to go to Oregon, settle there and grow up with a new town. However, his cousin persuaded him to go to Texas and take up the sheep business. He arrived at Uvalde, Texas, on September 4.

One of the first to shake hands with him in the new country was the then noted gun man "King Fisher," who later was shot in the back of the head and killed by one of his rivals and enemies in a theatre in San Antonio. The new country did not appeal very favorably to him for the sheep business, so, on October 2, he left Uvalde for San Antonio, where he remained but a few days, when he resumed his way westward.

Arriving in San Francisco ten days later, he engaged passage on the steamship Columbia for Portland, Oregon, arriving there on October 17. He accepted a position at his trade and worked there until January 9, 1883, when he left for New Tacoma, Washington Territory. There he engaged at his trade with the Northern Pacific Railroad, placing heavy sheet-iron lining in coal bunkers which the company was building on the water front in that city. After completing the job he took a trip to Seattle, remaining there but a short time and then returning to New Tacoma.

He received a letter from Mr. D. C. Kinsell, whom he had known in Santa Fe, asking him to go to National City, California, to take charge of a hardware and tin shop, during his absence on a business trip east. He made effort in vain to secure passage for San Francisco on the new iron steamship Tacoma, which was making her maiden voyage. The disappointment proved a blessing, for the vessel ran on the reefs, on the Oregon coast, was sunk and a number of lives were lost. On the following day he took the train for Portland, arriving in time to secure passage on the steamship Oregon, which landed him safely at San Francisco five days later.

It so happened while there he saw the first ostriches uncaged at Woodward's Garden after they were imported direct from Africa to California, for breeding purposes.

Remaining in San Francisco but a few days, he engaged passage on the old side-wheel steamer Ancon, which safely rounded Point Loma, into

San Diego Bay, on the morning of February 8. Taking quarters at the old "Commercial Hotel," he here met his employer, D. C. Kinsell.

He was given the full management in National City of D. C. Kinsell & Son's hardware, stove and tin store, which he conducted in connection with the tin and plumbing shop for one year. He then bought a half interest in the business and later acquired the entire business, which he conducted with success under his own name until 1907.

In July, 1904, he, with E. F. Wyman, purchased the stock of goods of the Mathes Hardware Company, at 751 Fifth Street, in San Diego City. In August they incorporated it under the name of Reed & Wyman Company. He then moved his family from National City to San Diego, leaving a manager to take care of his store in National City.

In December, 1905, he sold out his interest in the San Diego store, and returned to his business in National City, which he conducted until its disposal in February, 1907. Then he settled down with his family in San Diego, and ever since he has led a partly retired life, though interested in investments in real estate, mines, etc.

Will of Jacob Welker.

"In the Name of God, Amen, I Jacob Welker, Sr., of Hempfield Township, in the County of Westmoreland, Being sick, but sound in Mind, Memory and Understanding, (thanks to the Almighty God for the same), being mindful of my mortality do make and constitute this my last Will and Testament.

"First and principally I recommend my mortal spirit to God who gave it in hopes of joyful recreation, and my body to be with, when it shall please God to separate my my soul and body, to be buried decently at the discretion of my Executors, according to the rites of the church I belong to, &c., and as to such world-estate wherewith it has pleased God to bless me with, I give and dispose them as follows:

"First—I devise my dwelling and plantation unto my son Michael Welker on the following conditions:—By him paying to his sisters and brothers out of the same the following named sums, to-wit: In four months after my decease, he pays the sum of $14.25 to my son John Welker, and in four months after that payment the like sum to my son Samuel; and in four months after that the like sum to my daughter Polly intermarried to Levy Hissom; and in four months after that payment the like sum to my daughter Bessie intermarried with John Hissom; and the like sum to my daughter Nancy; in four months after that payment a like sum to my daughter Sophia; in four months after that payment a like sum to my daughter Catharine; and in three years after my decease Fifty dollars to my son Jacob Welker.

"Second—It is my will that my beloved wife Rosana live with my son Michael Welker, during her natural life-time, or, so long as she remains my widow in my dwelling house, and my said son Michael in addition to the above named sums (of money) he is to pay to the rest of my sons and daughters, he is to provide for my beloved wife Rosana all necessaries for life, both in health and sickness, and all necessary wearing apparel if required, and keep one cow and three sheep along with his own on the place and find sufficient feed for the same; and find sufficient fuel ready chopped for her during her lifetime, so long as she remains my widow. If my son Michael Welker comply with my wishes in paying the aforesaid sum (of money) as directed to each and keep my beloved wife as directed, He is to have and hold my said Dwelling and Plantation, situated in Hempfield Township, in the County of Westmoreland, to him and his heirs and assigns forever.

"Third: I devise and bequeath to my beloved wife Rosana her best bedsteads, and necessary bedding, one cow, 3 sheep, one hog, to have her choice out of the stock, one spinning wheel, one reel, her own clothing, the chest with three drawers, the cupboard with glass doors, one table, and two chairs, and one prayer book, and one catechism, and as much kitchen furniture as she needs for her use, and to all as above named at her own disposal at her death: And further I will one bed and bedding to my daughter Sophia for her use, and as to the residue of my personal estate of whatsoever kind the same may be. I direct my Executors to collect all of my outstanding debts, dues and demands and from the presents arising from my personal estate, pay all my just debts as aforesaid. I direct my executors to divide the same into eight equal shares and give and devise two shares thereof to my son John, and one share thereof to my son Samuel, one share to my daughter Polly, and one share to my daughter Betsy, and one share to my daughter Nancy, and one share thereof to my daughter Sophia, and one share thereof to my daughter Catharine, to be paid to them by my executors, after the estate is settled, &c. And further it is my will and desire that my executors hereinafter named as soon as David Ruff has complied with the covenants of an article of agreement I made with him that they make and execute a Deed of Conveyance for the land I have sold him described in said agreement, which agreement is in the hands of G. Mechling, esquire.

"Lastly; I nominate, constitute and appoint George Mechling, esq., and my son Jacob Welker, both of Hempfield Township, Westmoreland County, to be my Executors of this my last will and testament, and revoke all former wills heretofore made.

"In Testimony Whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this Eleventh of January, 1833.

Jacob Welker [L. S.]

"Signed and sealed in the presence of us:—

John Shellenberger

The Winck or Wink Family.

This family record of Casper and Gertrude (Kemp) Winck, and of their son Theobold and Margretha (Reed) Winck, is copied from a leaf that was torn from the old Casper Winck or Wink Family Bible, and was framed for exhibition and preservation. The document is faded and discolored with its great age, and only after much difficulty and study can it be deciphered. The families resided in Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania. Theobold and Margretha (Reed) Wink's record is not complete as recorded, and I give it as it is. It reads:—

Family Record of Casper and Gertrude (Kemp) Winck.

1745, Dec. 27, Johann Peter [John] is born; his father Casper Winck and his mother Gertrauth [Gertrude] born Kemp.

Family Record of Theobold and Margretha (Reed) Winck.

(This entry is made on the reverse side of the same sheet or leaf.)

Ano—1757, on the 10th of Christ monat, [December month] my daugh. "Katrina" is born.

Ano—1758, on the 30th wein monat, [Wine or October month], my son "Jacob Winck" is born; sponsors, Jacob Rhein and Elizeth [Elizabeth] Reed; both single.

Dato—9th of September, 1762, my son "Philip Winck" is born; baptized Oct. 19, 1762.

A son was born on the 15th of November (1764), baptized December 27, 1764; sponsors, Johann Peter Dreckssler and Cattharina [Catharine] Levannin; name "Johann Peter."

A daughter was born to us in this world on December 26, (1765); bapt. Feb. 6, 1766; sponsors, Peter Hasper and Anna Maria Lavinnin; both single; name given "Anna Maria Fronica."

On the 7th of Sbr. [September], 1767, my daughter was born; baptized on the 6th of May, 1768; sponsors, George Kempf and Susan Lavannin; both single. [The name for the child was "Susan" but it was not given in the record.]

On Octobr, [October], 2nd, 1769, my daughter was born; baptized on Dec. 7th, 1769; sponsors, Peter Trechlessler and his lawful wife. [No name of child is given.]

The records are in miserable German script. They are copied into English, as near as possible as written by the maker, in his words, phrases and sentences. All words in brackets are added by the writer so as to make all intelligible.

Theobold and Margretha (Reed) Wink had four other children. For some reason these do not appear in the record.

Autobiography of John Wink.

The following autobiography was written by him when in advanced years, and dated May 8, 1893. It is penned in a small diary-like book, and with it he gives a brief genealogy of the Wink Family of America.

"Being old and feeble and feeling that my life is drawing to a close I will state a few things of my life, so that my children can know how I began life. My father, Dewalt Wink, died when I was in my tenth year. I was brought up by my kind uncle and aunt Graeff. In January, 1833, I was apprenticed to Peter M. Gift to learn the trade of cabinetmaking, but in the fall of 1834, I was compelled to quit on account of ill health. I then engaged in teaching school at Hottenstein's, in the fall of 1834. The first day I had three scholars and earned nine cents. The following day I had five pupils, and earned thirty-nine cents in three days. I taught five months ('till April 1835) and earned seventy dollars (clear). I went to Easton—to Rev. John Vandivier's school for twelve weeks, and came home and taught (school) again, at the same (Hottenstein's) place for seven months, earning one hundred and twenty dollars.

"In April, 1836, I went to Stouchsburg to Marcus Kauffman, a Jew, to attend store. I remained with him for six months, when I left and came to Ballietsville to Stephen Balliet. I stayed with Mr. Balliet until March 24, 1837, and went to hire with Messrs. Saeger, Keck & Co. at Allentown, with whom I stayed 'till 1838. Then I returned to Kutztown and taught school, in the old school house, in the very room in which I spent my first school days. In 1839 I hired with my cousin, Heidenreich & Kurtz, and stayed with them six years, and left in 1845. I next took charge of the Kutztown Free School, teaching from October, 1845, to April, 1846. In May I went to attend a new store, for Levi Guth, near Blandon.

"On the fifteenth of October, 1846, I again took charge of the Kutztown Free School, until the spring of 1847, when I went to live with my uncle, David Fister, and worked in his store. I lived with Uncle Fister about six years. During this time I taught three months of school in town, (Free School). * * * On June 17th, 1856. * * * During the following winter I attended store for Kermmerer & ———, at Guthsville, Lehigh County. In March, 1857, my wife's brother, Stephen Graeff, and myself bought the store stock of Stephen Balliet. I continued in the store business until 1876. I had bought the dwelling house and twenty-three acres of land that was owned by Stephen Balliet after his decease for five thousand, two hundred and fifty dollars. After the death of my wife I sold it (the property) to Hiram Balliet for seven thousand dollars. I then moved to Kutztown on April 1st, 1876, and built the house I now occupy.

The Dickenschied Family of Upper Salford.

The parents of Valentine Dickenschied were Christopher and Margaret (——) Dickenschied. They were Palantines, arriving in this country in the ship "Phoenix," he qualifying at Philadelphia, on October 20, 1734. Their oldest son, Dillman Dickenschied, also qualified at the time, he being over 16 years of age; their youngest son, Valentine, being under 16 years, was not required to qualify.

The Dickenschied family first settled at farming in Towamencing Township, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania. After a residence of some years there, on January 5, 1749, the elder Dickenschied purchased a farm in Lower Salford Township, and removed there with his family. The farm was near Harleysville, and bordered on the grounds of the nearby Mennonite Meeting House. The soil was of excellent quality, and the tract comprised more than one hundred acres. It had been improved, settled and lived on for some time.

The Dickenschied family were members of the Old Goshenhoppen German Reformed Church of Salford Township, and Christopher Dickenschied's name appears on its records as "Stoffle Dickenshitt." Apparently he at this early date was one of the enterprising citizens of the neighborhood, for he served his district in several ways as a public official. He died in 1778, leaving a will in which he mentions five children, namely:—

- 1—Dillman Dickenschied, "who was disobedient." The son was married and had children.
- 2—William Dickenschied, "who removed from the community," and apparently nothing further was known of him.
- 3—Susan Dickenschied, who "married John Wentz." Wentz, with his "trusted friend John Shuler," were executors. This son-in-law, John Wentz at the time owned lands and was an innkeeper and a prominent man in Norrington Township. For some time during the Revolution he was Captain of the Norrington Township, Philadelphia County Militia.
- 4—Frederick Dickenschied, who became an early farmer and innkeeper in Harleysville. His inn was on the main highway, not far distant from his father's home. This son died in 1777 and is buried in the Mennonite Meeting burial ground close by. A plain field stone marks the grave with this inscription, "F. D., 1777." He married Feronica Wentz, a sister of John Wentz, executor. They had children, John; Susan, m. Henry Hartzell; David, Jacob, Elizabeth.
- 5—Valentine Dickenschied, m. Eve Reed. The will recites:—"to my three grandchildren of my son Valentine, dec'd, namely, Susan, John, Mary, and they are nearly all of lawful age," etc. The fourth grandchild is not mentioned, possibly being deceased at the time.

Condition of Sale of the Real Estate of Valentine Dickenschied, Late of Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, Pennsylvania, on October 25, 1772. Original in German. Translated reads:—

"The conditions of this sale held this day, October 25, 1772, on the place in Upper Milford Township, Northampton County, are:—Whoever buys this farm gets 146 acres of good land, eighteen acres more or less sown with grain, and all the buildings, timber, etc., not including the parlor stove where Joseph Kookken now dwells nor the loose boards in the house. Possession of the property will be given to the purchaser on April 15, 1773. Whoever buys the place must pay 150 pounds in good Pennsylvania currency down money, to the administrators named below, on or before November 27, 1772, and on or before March 27, 1773, an additional 50 pounds; another 50 pounds on and before March 27, 1774; and so continue to pay on or before March 27th of each year until the whole is paid.

"Whoever buys the place must give good security for the payment of the money. It is reserved whoever buys the place when knocked down by the crier, and will not take it at the price bid, he must pay 20 shillings, 5 pence to the administrators. The highest bidder shall be the buyer. Whoever buys the place gets the deed upon the payment of the down money.

"Abraham Arndt

"Eva Kookken

"Administrators."

"Conrad Worman of Upper Salford Township, in the County of Philadelphia, yeoman, hath bought the above mentioned plantation for the sum of 501 pounds, to be paid for according to the above condition of the vendue.

(Signed)

"Conrad Worman."

The "Kookken Family" of Northampton County.

The Kookkens were of the older German settlers of Northampton County, Pennsylvania. The name is variously spelled Kookken, Kuken, Kochen, Cooken, Cochen, Cuken, Gookken, Guken, etc. John Kookken, the father of Captain Joseph Kookken, was a prosperous farmer and an influential and leading man of Upper Saucon Township. The family were of the Reformed faith, and all the children were fairly well educated. The county records of Northampton give the names of his eight children, as follows:—

- 1—Henry Kookken; m. Mary ———; for some years they resided in the town of Easton; he was an influential citizen, and for many years a Justice of the Peace.
- 2—John Kookken; m. Mary ———; he was an active and prominent citizen in Upper Saucon Township.
- 3—Nicholas Kookken; m. Catharine ———.
- 4—Joseph Kookken; m. Eve (Reed) Dichenschied. He is given as a cordwainer, saddler, innkeeper, etc. Was a Captain in Northampton County militia during the Revolution, etc.
- 5—Peter Kookken. He resided in Upper Saucon Township in 1770.
- 6—Elizabeth Kookken; m. John Smith.
- 7—Catharine Kookken; m. Peter Lynn, April 4, 1763, and resided in Upper Saucon.
- 8—Gertrude Kookken; she resided in Upper Saucon in 1770; never married.

"BOOK NOTICE"

From the "Pennsylvania German," for the month of October, 1905:—

"This book is a grateful tribute to the memory of a worthy Revolutionary sire by two historically inclined and patriotically and filially devout and loyal descendants, Franklin P. and Dr. W. H. Reed, great-grandsons of the hero, who also placed a fitting monument over his remains in Franconia Township, once Philadelphia, now Montgomery County, Pa. As indicated, the volume gives an account of the placing of the monument and the elaborate proceedings of its dedication in October, 1901, under the auspices of the Montgomery County Historical Society. Its table of contents shows ten historical addresses and poems, and the volume is a most handsome one, containing many fine illustrations."
